Hundreds of Homes Burn as Fires Sweep East

HORDES FLEE FLAMES IN MAINE, N.Y., VIRGINIA

By Associated Press

Fires in a windswept, rain-shy belt from Maine to Virginia left hundreds of persons homeless Saturday and caused damage running into the millions of dollars.

Thousands fled the fire areas.

Only one person was reported killed—in New Jersey—and state officials had not confirmed that report.

Known injuries generally were minor and confined mostly to the men fighting the hundreds of blazes fanned by high winds which began to ease off in the evening.

Early assessments of the fiery toll showed over 100 houses destroyed in New Jersey, 100 buildings burned on Staten Island, N.Y., and one-half square mile of the Maine textile city of Biddeford in ashes.

The winds, acting as bellows, turned a series of grass fires into uncontrollable conflagrations on Staten Island, taxing the abilities of the New York City fire department.

After 12 hours of multiple-alarm blazes—as the wind tossed embers from one fire to start another—city officials declared the situation "pretty much under control."

About 75 Staten Island families lost their homes.

The Biddeford fire threatened to destroy the entire northern section of that Maine city before the combined efforts of 13 fire departments fought the flames to a standstill. Behind, in ashes, were nine of the ten buildings of a lumber and building-materials plant where the fire broke out, 18 tenement houses and one business building.

Mrs. Marjorie Ganong described the rapid spread of the flames: "I was getting ready to eat lunch when a man yelled, 'Get out.' I just grabbed my coat and out I went." She and her four sons managed to save only a pet cat and two freshly baked pies.

Biddeford Asst. Fire Chief Paul Garieppy estimated the damage would "well exceed" $1 million.

New Jersey's fires, concentrated mostly in shore counties, burned thousands of acres of woods and grass lands, as well as the over 100 homes and industrial sites.

Soldiers from Ft. Dix and sailors from Lakehurst Naval Air Station, with bulldozers, fought a blaze along a 10-mile front in Ocean County.

One woman, among a dozen persons trapped in the main street of a South Jersey town for five minutes, said they wet hand-

Aussie Returning Shirt 7,500 Miles

SEATTLE (AP)—An Australian farmer neared the end of a 7500-mile voyage Saturday to return a freshly-laundered shirt that kept him warm 21 years ago.

Norman Hanlin, 48, Renmark, South Australia, pledged he would return the shirt that Mark Gibson of Vancouver, B.C., had taken from his own back in a lifeboat wallowing in the Atlantic Ocean.

Hanlin's ship was torpedoed Oct. 8, 1942 en route from Buenos Aires to Liverpool. Gibson was commanding a lifeboat which picked Hanlin up as he clung to a plank.

"I was shivering from the cold and Gibson pulled off his own shirt, which was dry because he had escaped in the lifeboat. He told me to put it on."

The lifeboat survivors were picked up later in the day by a ship which was torpedoed less than 24 hours later. Another ship took them to West Africa.

"I made a vow to return that shirt someday," said Hanlin during a brief stop in Seattle. "This just seemed like a good time."

A Study in Contrasts

Their faces tell the difference. John F. Kennedy, carrying the weight of the presidency on his shoulders, appears grim as he speaks Saturday at Boston College Centennial Convocation at Newton, Mass. In sharp contrast is the smiling face of Richard Nixon as he addresses the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington. Nixon, who bowed out of politics last year with a blast at the nation's reporters, had kind words for them Saturday, paying them several tributes. See stories, Page A-4.

Jordan Mobs Force Fall of Government

Nasser's Backers in Revolt

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI)—The government of Premier Samir Rifai fell Saturday night after a day in which Jordanian troops opened fire on pro-Nasser rioters in Jerusalem and Israel moved troops up on the frontier.

(In Cairo the Middle East News Agency (MENA) quoted a Lebanese newspaper as saying King Hussein was preparing to flee Jordan in the wake of the demonstrations calling for unity with the new United Arab Republic. There was no confirmation of the report).

(The MENA report said Hussein had told his advisers he wanted "to avoid the fate" of King Faisal of Iraq who was killed in the 1958 Baghdad coup. It said he already was sending some of his family abroad, including his brother, Prince Mohammed, before fleeing himself.)

* * * *

RIFAI announced he would hand his resignation to King Hussein after he lost a vote of confidence in parliament on Jordan's approach to the newly formed United Arab Republic of Egypt, Iraq and Syria.

The army was sent into the Jordanian sector of Jerusalem after violent demonstrations there in favor of the new U.A.R. The army imposed a curfew. Rifai said the government did so only after agitators appeared carrying arms

CITES LENIN PAPER

Nikita Backs Up Concession Policy

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union Saturday published a new Lenin document to support Premier Khrushchev's tactic of mutual concessions with the West.

The document, published by the party theoretical organ Kommunist, was clearly aimed at refuting Chinese charges of Soviet appeasement.

The new issue of Kommunist published a shorthand record of Lenin's concluding remarks at a stormy debate Dec. 21, 1920, concerning his grant of concessions to foreign firms to attract foreign capital. The father of the Bolshevik revolution justified the concessions by arguing that the infant Soviet industrial economy needed foreign capital to develop.

The Communist Party organ Pravda said Lenin's move, which met stiff opposition from leftists in the party at that time, was another aspect of his peaceful coexistence policy. The Chinese and Albanians have repeatedly assailed peaceful coexistence as a heretical revision of Marxist-Leninist dogma.

Khrushchev has tried to legitimize his concept of this policy by seeking to prove that Lenin was its originator. He also has argued with the Chinese that Lenin, too, agreed to mutual concessions with capitalists.

This theme has been repeated here since Khrushchev began depicting his withdrawal of Russian rockets from Cuba last year as a mutually advantageous deal to save world peace. The Chinese have blasted Russian behavior during the Cuban crisis as appeasement. The Albanians called Khrushchev a coward and a traitor.

Pravda, in the second of two articles devoted to Khrushchev's major policies, referred to Lenin's emphasis on following the "zig-zag path of historical development" and tailoring Communist tactics to it.

"Our party has brilliantly mastered this art," it said.

7th Damp Weekend in a Row

A movement was reported under way Saturday to petition somebody to change the days of the week we use for weekends after rain fell for the seventh time on a weekend since the first of the year.

Swimmers, surfers, home gardeners and sight-seers found their plans thwarted when .09 inches of rain fell by 10 p.m. in Long Beach, with other communities reporting precipitation all over south Los Angeles County and into Orange County.

Rafferty Blasts Unruh's 'Politics in Education'

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Dr. Max Rafferty, superintendent of public instruction, Saturday accused Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh of seeking "partisan political advantage" at the expense of a major educational bill before the legislature.

Educational issues, Rafferty said, should be decided for the best interests of the schools, not the best interests of a party, whether it be Democratic or Republican.

Rafferty said that Unruh, known as California's "Big Daddy" Democrat, was behind a partisan dispute in the Assembly earlier this month involving a new state program: aid for "culturally disadvantaged children."

The program was contained in a bill that originally gave Rafferty power to appoint the consultant who would direct the project, which is aimed at giving children from poor backgrounds the desire to learn. But the Assembly Ways and Means Committee amended the measure to give Gov. Edmond G. Brown the appointive power.

At the time, it was said that the consultant, whoever might appoint him, would be either a Mexican-American or a Negro, since many of the "culturally deprived" youngsters would be from those groups. Making the appointment, therefore, carried some chance of winning favor with minority-group voters.

Unruh has said that Rafferty, a Republican, is the GOP's likliest candidate for governor in 1966. In an interview at his home, Rafferty denied the assertion, noting first that it came from a Democrat and second that he is concerned only "with doing a job in the Department of Education."

Meanwhile, Unruh him-

Burglar's Victim, 77, Falls Dead

A 77-year-old ailing proprietor Mrs. Mabel Davis died, apparently of a heart attack, Saturday night, within hours after a thief entered her store three times and stole $245 on the final visit.

Mrs. Davis, owner of Davis' Market, 709 Cherry Ave., was visibly shaken by the unkempt thief, who was about 45 years old and weighed 180 pounds, police said. On the first two visits, he made small purchases and on the third lifted a money bag from below the counter when she was at the rear of the store.

Previously under treatment for a heart ailment, she collapsed at the nearby home of a friend, Philip Halvas, of 1917½ E. Seventh St., when she went there about two hours later and began to describe the incident. Halvas called an ambulance but she was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital at 7:45 p.m.

I, P-T Man Top Picture Editor

A national award for outstanding editing of pictures has been won by Bryan Hodgson, picture editor of The Independent, Press-Telegram.

His work was chosen over that appearing in scores of newspapers entered in a competition sponsored by the University of Missouri School of Journalism, National Press-Photographers' Association and the World Book Encyclopedia.

Hodgson's winning of the citation for a series of picture layouts was announced at the current meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington, D.C.

He will receive the award on May 1, during the university's 54th annual Journalism Week observance.

Hodgson, 34, joined The Independent, Press-Telegram in September 1953 and worked as a reporter and photographer before his promotion to picture editor a year ago.

He and his wife, Mary, whom he met while both were U.S. Army photographers, reside in Huntington Beach with their four children.

4 Killed as Car Hits Power Pole

Four persons were killed Saturday when an auto slammed into a power pole on Rosemead Boulevard at Gallatin Road in Pico-Rivera.

County firemen said high power lines were knocked down onto the car and into the street, and the occupants of the auto appeared to have been electrocuted. Early Sunday the victims had not been identified.

LONDON (UPI)—A sentence written in Arabic on a wall at Victoria Station was translated Saturday into: "Abdul Razzaq Bin Mulhammad Al Bustanchi does not like stewed prunes."

Enlisted Men Tell Uniform Preferences

THE NAVY 'JUMPER' IS JUMPED UPON

Fully 50 percent of the Navy men responding to an Independent, Press-Telegram questionnaire about how they like their uniforms said, in effect:

"Uncle Sam, you made the jacket all wrong."

An official Navy survey on reaction to uniforms is being taken among sailors at San Diego and Norfolk. Results are not expected for some time.

The I, P-T's survey was taken last week at the Naval Station here. Five hundred question forms were distributed. Since there was no requirement for filling them out and returning them only 147 came back. The Navy will probably get a better return on theirs.

Now for the results. It seems that of those filling out and returning the forms about one-third stated they did not want any change at all in the present uniforms. Most of the rest wanted only minor changes.

By far the big winner in the request for change category was the desire for a different jumper. Fully 50 percent of the change-requesters wanted either an Eisenhower jacket similar to those worn by the Army and the Air Force or a uniform patterned after the present Chief Petty Officers' uniforms.

The next most popular request, made by almost half the answers, was for a light weight blue uniform made of something besides wool. It seems the main complaints were that the present wool uniform is too warm in temperate climates and catches too much lint.

Other major complaints involved a short-sleeved shirt for summer wear and a change in the hat to make it a billed affair.

Other changes that drew a small number of requests pertained to matters of style and appearance such white uniform, white socks and shoes to go with white uniforms, a dress shirt for the jumper and elemination of neckerchiefs and in some cases the entire white uniform. A few requested a third uniform in addition to the present whites and blues.

Choicest among the comments (allowed to remain after Navy screening of the answers) were: "How about 'continental' type pants to go with the jumpers?"; "We live in a nuclear age—why dress like our ancestors?"; and from the obviously practical sailor, "Leave it as it is—they cost money."

L.A.C. Says:

And Yet He Says No Tax Increase

A State Senate Committee has voted against the Governor's income tax withholding program. But the Governor says he will not stop fighting for it. This means the plan is not necessarily dead. Since his plan would mean a 50 per cent greater payment for next year's income taxpayers, those who are interested should carefully consider what is proposed for them.

Under his proposed income tax withholding, the Governor would have taxpayers pay 50 per cent more income tax next year and 25 per cent more the following year. And yet, he insists he is not breaking his promise that there would be no new taxes assessed. Actually, he is not proposing a change in tax rates. But he is asking for a change that would cause taxpayers to pay these increases for the next two years.

Here is the way it would work. On April 15, 1964, taxpayers would pay all their taxes on 1963 incomes—but on July 1, 1964, they would start having their state income taxes withheld. Thus, at end of the year each taxpayer will have paid his normal 100 per cent tax on the preceding year, plus 50 per cent of that amount for the current year—making the total 150 per cent of his normal tax.

Then, in 1965 the taxpayer would have his tax withheld for the year. But in addition, he would have to pay for three months of 1964—a 25 per cent increase of his normal tax. Thus, in 1964 he would pay 150 per cent and in 1965 he would pay 125 per cent of normal tax. Starting with 1966 he would have all his tax withheld. But for these two years, taxpayers will pay these increased amounts.

An idea of what this means to the Governor and his budget is shown by this comparison. The personal income tax produces $300 million a year. On the above basis, the Governor proposes that taxpayers pay an additional $150 million in 1964 and an additional $75 million for 1965. Additional amounts would come from stepping up the due dates for banks and corporations. And yet, he says this is not a tax increase—just collecting taxes in advance.

State Controller Alan Cranston is opposed to the withholding tax. In particular, he points out that in New York where withholding was started in 1958, the preceding year tax was wiped out and the state got its normal amount for the year on a monthly basis. He also points out that in 1942 the federal withholding tax was started—but 75 per cent of the preceding year tax was forgiven. Other states adopted the system with 65 to 75 per cent of preceding year taxes forgiven. But, in California, the Governor suggests only 25 per cent of 1964 taxes would be saved.

The report by Cranston gives these figures very clearly. But the Governor's presentation avoids reference to the fact that taxpayers will be paying 50 per cent more state income taxes in 1964 than they would normally pay. There may be sound reasons for withholding state taxes—as are federal income taxes. That is questionable. But there is no question about the fact that the Governor's program will collect 50 per cent more taxes next year from income taxpayers—if his program is adopted.

It should be of interest to all who pay state income taxes. Their interest should be shown by writing their state assemblyman and senator. The program must be approved by them. It is an issue where the folk back home should make their views known. That is the only way they can effectively express their views on this increased tax—which the Governor says is not an increased tax.—L.A.C.

Antarctic Mountain Explorations Set

MUNICH, Germany (UPI)—Twenty German scientists and mountaineers will launch the world's first expedition to Antarctic mountain ranges, the expedition leader said here.

Dr. Karl Herligkoffer of the Munich Foreign Research Institute said he and his men will attempt to climb several 12,000-foot mountains in unexplored territory.

He said the group will leave Munich in November and charter a boat in Cape Town, South Africa, for the 3,000-mile voyage to the Antarctic.

$1-MILLION BLAZE

kerchiefs to place over their faces. "We lay in the street for about five minutes until there was enough air so we could stand up," she said.

One of the most destructive of the fires roaring through the tinderbox forests in Virginia burned over 2,500 acres in King George County. Military personnel and civilian volunteers helped in the fight.

At least nine separate brush fires, some destroying and threatening homes, plagued Long Island firemen throughout the day and night.

Staten Island called upon New Jersey for assistance, but the state was unable to respond because of its own fires. And New York City sent two fireboats to Bayonne, N.J., to battle flames in a waterfront plastics factory.

Meantime, firemen in Brooklyn fought a plant fire in which exploding oxygen tanks and wind gusts rocketed the flames to every structure in a two-block area. The plant and 10 other buildings burned down.

On Long Island, to the east of Manhattan, at least nine fires burned in several communities and rural areas, destroying several homes and causing two radio stations to break off broadcasting. Six houses and three cars were lost in the Farmingville area.

In the South Jersey community of Newtonville, a dozen persons were trapped on the main street for five terrifying minutes by flames and smoke of a forest fire.

"We couldn't breathe in my car. Our lungs felt as though they were seared," said Mrs. Corinne Olson, a free-lance reporter and photographer.

"Also we couldn't see. Ashes were so thick that we couldn't even see with the lights on."

Among those trapped were the crewmen of a fire truck, coming to town to refill its water tanks.

$8,766 Indemnity to Innocent Convict

NAGOYA, Japan (AP)—Ishimatsu Yoshida, 83, finally cleared of a half-century-old murder charge two months ago, was granted an indemnity of 3,155,600 yen ($8,766) Saturday by Nagoya's higher court.

Yoshida spent 7,889 days in prison after being convicted in 1913 of the robbery-slaying of a merchant.

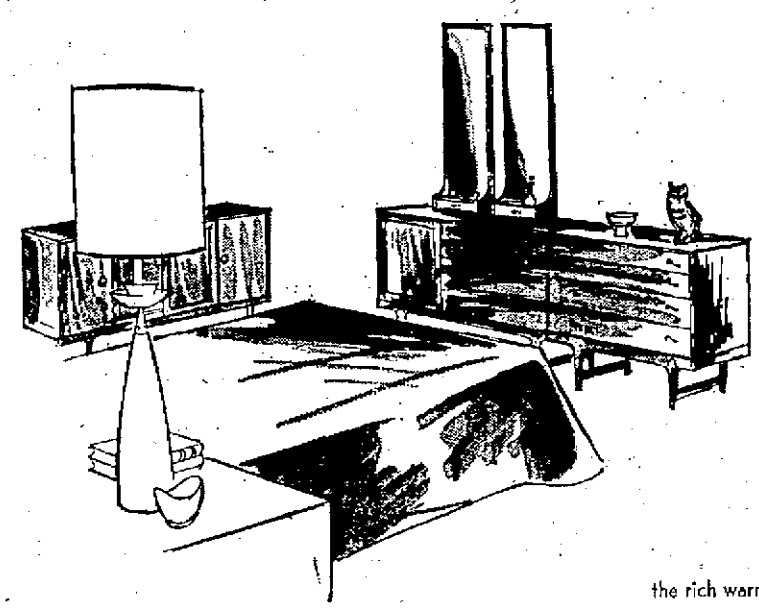

He was paroled in 1935 and began the long campaign to clear his name.

FIREMEN-DIVERS emerge from a cabin cruiser that sank after a gasoline-vapor explosion. The divers turned off a gasoline vent that was threatening further fire damage.

MAN, SONS DODGE BLAST, FIRE

A Lakewood man and his two sons escaped uninjured Saturday afternoon when an explosion shattered and sank their 32-foot cabin cruiser at a Terminal Island landing.

Gordon Gibson, 35, of 4333 Snowden Ave., said he was trying the start the gasoline engine of the Wanda B. when what apparently was an accumulation of fumes in the bilge exploded. Fire followed.

Gibson said he had put his youngest son, Gordon, 4, on the wharf a moment before the blast occurred. He and his other son, Mike, 18, jumped for the wooden finger.

The boat sank so quickly that fire had little chance to damage the $2,500 craft extensively. Gibson had bought the boat in December and had used it just once.

An engine company and a truck company, plus two fireboats from Los Angeles, responded to the alarm turned in from Fellows and Stewart boat landing at Berth 208, Los Angeles Harbor. Firemen-divers went under the craft to close a vent that was permitting gasoline to escape into the water.

President Will Visit Irish Kin

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will go to Ireland in June — and what a contrast this will be to his only other visit to the home of his Irish forebears.

The White House announced Saturday that a stop in Ireland will be worked into the President's official journey to Italy and West Germany. Details as to when, where and how long are yet to be worked out but it's safe to assume he'll turn up in County Wexford.

It was there he went in 1947 as a fledgling congressman from Massachusetts. Then his coming was unheralded and he was a surprise visitor at the farm home of James Kennedy of Dungenstown in Southeast Ireland.

Kennedy had determined that the 32-acre farm not far from the village of New Ross was the home of Patrick Kennedy, his great-great- grandfather who emigrated to Boston in 1848.

It is regarded by the American Kennedys as the seat of the Kennedy clan.

* * * *

OVER TEA, farmer Kennedy was able to verify this and to show the young congressman the stone outbuilding which was part of the original farmhouse in which Patrick was born. They agreed they are second cousins, once removed.

The American Kennedy left the Irish Kennedy and cousin James heard nothing much about cousin John until 13 years later when the American was elected President of the United States.

But the forthcoming visit of cousin John will be no such quiet matter for the many Kennedy and the other Irish folk in County Wexford.

Kennedy went to Dungenstown while he was on a visit to an Irish castle of the Duke of Devonshire, whose son was married to Kennedy's sister Kathleen.

Kathleen died in a 1947 plane crash. Her husband was killed in World War II.

Mosk Raps Ultraright's Idea All Else Is Treason

By SHERM WILLIAMS

Attorney General Stanley Mosk Saturday said the view of right-wing extremists that those who disagree with them are traitors "is the single most dangerous notion to find expressed in contemporary life."

Mosk as addressing the conferenco on extremists' groups sponsored by the Los Angeles County Federation of Labor in the Ambassador Hotel.

"The right wing, or the ultraright, whichever term you choose, is traditionally regarded as monolithic," Mosk said.

* * * *

"BUT MORE careful study reveals the movement to be made up of diverse elements with diverse goals. The only major points of agreement among these elements are that they are 'patriots,' '100-percent American' and 'dedicated anti-Communists'.

"They charge those who oppose them with being 'commies,' 'pinkos,' 'comsymps' and 'dupes.'

"This presumption — that they are virtuous and that those who disagree are traitors," Mosk characterized as the most dangerous notion in American life.

"If there is to be any meaningful discussion of public policy, there must be an assumption that all particifpants have the public welfare in mind.

"Otherwise," Mosk said, "there can be no dialogue—only the ranting of extremists."

Mosk's address at a luncheon wrapped up the two-day conference sponsored by the labor federation. The meeting dwelled on communism Friday and switched to the ultraright extremist groups Saturday.

* * * *

EARLIER Saturday, a variety of speakers spoke on methods and motiviations of right-wing extremists.

Mosk said the right-wing extremist movement presents a true challenge.

"Although logically inconsistent, it possesses a dynamism of evangelistic fervor. Although confounded by misunderstood, misplaced and misemphasized information, it has the appeal of a simple 'answer,'" Mosk said.

King Plans Strategy in Court

BIRMINGHAM (UPI)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. — sporting an eight day growth of beard — was freed from the Birmingham jail on bond Saturday and promptly vowed to continue the desegregation drive he kicked off here 18 days ago.

King said he decided to post the $300 bond so he would be free this weekend to discuss strategy for a court appearance Monday, when he is to answer charges of contempt.

The charges were brought when King ignored a court order banning further racial demonstrations in this steel city. Although served with a copy of the order, King led a Good Friday segregation protest march that attracted nearly 1,000 shouting and singing Negroes into the downtown area.

He has been in jail ever since, and said he expects to be jailed again Monday on the contempt charges.

* * * *

KING SAID, however, that this will not affect the desegregation drive since persons "from all over the country" have agreed to come here to direct the segregation protests in his absence.

While in jail, King issued a call for nationwide picketing Saturday against five-and-dime store chains that permit segregation in their Southern stores.

The appeal won scattered acceptance.

In Los Angeles, Local 770 of the Retail Clerks Union picketed 16 variety stores with signs reading: "Please do not patronize. This company maintains integration in the North — segregation in the South."

Rafferty Assails Unruh Pressure

self is considered a possible Democratic nominee.

When the altered education bill hit the Assembly floor April 2, Republicans voted in a bloc and killed it. Only one Republican said the he was opposed to the program; the others indicated that they were against it because the change in appointive power was a Democratic slap at Rafferty.

Two days later, the measure moved through the Assembly after Democrats offered a compromise: the consultant would be appointed by the head of an advisory committee, who in turn would be appointed by the governor.

"There's not much question," Rafferty said, "the change (of appointive powers) was dictated by Mr. Unruh." He said he believed Unruh wanted the change "so his party could get the advantage of making this key appointment."

governor had nothing to do with the Democratic action. He said he was assured that Brown was "most reluctant" to accept the appointive power and had even gone so far as to ask the legislative leaders not to change the original bill.

"The two persons most embarrased by this matter," Rafferty said, "were the governor and myself."

Rafferty said that the consultant should be appointed by the superintendent of public instruction not only to keep educational matters in the hands of the education department but to prevent administrative problems.

Rafferty said that the outside appointment could result in a situation finding the consultant working in the department, accepting its help, and yet not reporting to department heads.

Furthermore, Rafferty noted, all other consultants in the department are appointed by the superintendent.

Rafferty said that Unruh's action was only part of "an increasing amount of partisan politics in education." He said that in recent speeches he had been urging listeners to write to the legislature and protest.

YOUNG KING Hussein spent much of the day at war games put on by his nation's first paratroops and was reported by an official spokesman to have told them they were the "nucleus of a new unit" for the Jordanian army.

Anti-Hussein leaflets were distributed through out the country Saturday, urging Hussein's overthrow and the establishment of Jordan as "the fourth star in the U.A.R. flag."

Students in Amman waving the new three-star U.A.R. flag were dispersed without violence and the flag confiscated by police. Troops took over to maintain order in Jerusalem.

The Jerusalem demonstrations forced security forces to open fire to control the crowds but no Jordanians were reported wounded.

Ambulances Unhindered

A labor dispute failed to curtail ambulance service in Long Beach Saturday, as a contest of will between Bowers Ambulance Service and drivers and attendants ended its second day in stalemate.

Fire Department personnel continued to stand by to provide ambulances in case Bowers' operation should falter, under an order issued by City Manager John R. Mansell.

Police officials were under instruction to contact Mansell immediately if any emergency arose in the city's ambulance contract with Bowers.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Urge Laos Policy Action by Nations

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States Saturday urged the three nations charged with policing the Laotian peace agreement to try to check the peril stemming from new Communist military operations there.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk held individual meetings Saturday with the envoys of India, Poland and Canada—the countries designated under last year's Geneva Accords to see that the pact was kept.

Earlier, President Kennedy held an hour-long meeting on Laos with his National Security Council.

Kennedy and his top military and diplomatic advisers were understood to have considered the wisdom of sending a special appeal to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. This would have asked him to use his influence to try to halt pro-Communist Pathet Lao attacks which have violated the Geneva Accord and sent Neutralist government forces reeling in retreat in Northern Laos.

Neutralist forces withdrew to the edge of the vital Plaine Des Jarres in East-Central Laos Saturday, ahead of advancing troops of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao, military sources reported.

JFK Lauds Pope's Encyclical

NEWTON, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy said Saturday Pope John XXIII's encyclical, "Pease on Earth" in its closeness to statements of men of other faiths, "shows we are learning to talk a language of progress and peace across the barriers of sect and creed."

The President, in his first public comment on the Pope's message, said that "As a Catholic I am proud of it and as an American I have learned from it."

Kennedy spoke in his home state at a centennial convocation at Boston College.

"In its penetrating analysis of today's great problems —of social welfare and human rights—of disarmament, international order and peace—that document surely shows that on the basis of one great faith and its tradition there can be developed counsel on public affairs that is of value to all men and women of good will," he said.

Nixon Toasts the Press

WASHINGTON (AP)—Richard M. Nixon proposed a toast Saturday to working newsmen, hailing them as "the most underpaid skilled craftsmen in America."

His tribute, offered at a luncheon of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, was in sharp contrast to the bitter blast he directed at much of the press last fall after being defeated in his race for the governorship of California.

The former vice president was in a far different mood today. He told the editors, he would like "an opportunity to extend my remarks." He then went on to say that since the governor's race he has done some writing for newspapers, written a book and found that "Nothing can equal the pressure of having to meet a deadline."

"So," he said, "I speak with great respect to working reporters and editors. And I'd like to propose a toast to the working press—the most underpaid skilled craftsmen in America."

In his address to the editors, Nixon called for a "command decision" by President Kennedy to force the Soviets to abandon their beachhead in Cuba. He proposed open United States support for forces organizing to overthrow any foreign controlled government in the hemisphere and for those resisting any Red take over of a free regime.

Rockefeller, Heiress Still Silent

NEW YORK (UPI)—A question of whether Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller intends to remarry—soon—was raised Saturday by the divorce of an heiress who once worked on his staff.

Both the multimillionaire Rockefeller, a possibility for next year's Republican presidential nomination, and Mrs. Margaretta (Happy) Murphy, the heiress, remained silent.

She was divorced in Sun Valley, Idaho, April 1 from Dr. James S. Murphy, an associate in virology and medicine at the Rockefeller Institute. The names of Rockefeller, 54, and Mrs. Murphy, 35, mother of four, have been linked by newspaper smart-set columnists since soon after he was divorced in March, 1962.

Chemist Classifies Sub Debris

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (UPI)—A chemist told a Naval Court of Inquiry Saturday that debris, apparently from the sunken submarine Thresher's nuclear reactor shield, was charred in "a rush of flame."

Fred L. Downs, a chemist employed at the Portsmouth naval shipyard where the Thresher was built, testified about tests he made on new debris recovered in the Atlantic where the submarine sank April 10 with a loss of 129 men.

The debris included a chunk of charred plastic about one foot square and one inch thick which Downs said was from the nuclear reactor shield of a submarine of the Thresher class. Downs said he tested the plastic for impact, tear effect and compression but was unable to determine how the edges were torn, broken or burned.

Garcia's Execution Brings Marchers

LONDON (AP)—Demonstrators marched in cities on both sides of the Atlantic Saturday to protest the Franco government's execution in Madrid of Spanish Communist Julian Grimau Garcia.

The dawn execution by firing squad less than 48 hours after his conviction of "military rebellion" was denounced by the demonstrators as the work of assassins. Shouts of "Death to Franco" were heard in such cities as Mexico City and Rome.

Canada Prisoners Riot

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (UPI)—Some 350 prisoners rioted at the federal prison here Saturday, overpowering a guard who was held with a knife at his throat for 14 hours before he was released unharmed.

A total of 200 steel-helmeted Royal Canadian Mounted Policemen, prison guards and city police lobbed a large amount of tear gas into the rioters before quelling the disturbance. The rioters set three fires.

Women's Day Meet Will Hear Dr. Lee

COSTA MESA—A professor of anthropology will speak at this year's Community Women's Day program at 10 a.m. May 1 in the auditorium at Orange Coast College.

Dr. Dorothy Lee of San Fernando Valley State College and Iowa State University, will discuss the "Role of Women in Today's Culture."

Carriers' Future in Navy Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Navy estimate on the future of carriers and their aircraft, when the full impact of ballistic missile weapons is felt in the 1965-75 decade, will be ready for Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara by mid-May.

It is expected to project a continuing major role for the big flattops.

The study has been under way since December. More than 20 officers, headed by Vice Adm. William A. Schoech, Deputy Chief of Naval Operations for Air, have been assembling the material, with help from scores of experts.

* * * *

NAVY SOURCES said Saturday it will be ready for the May 15 deadline set by McNamara.

The broadened study ordered by McNamara does not mean he is aiming at "junking of carriers," a defense spokesman has said.

But obviously the analysis of the sea-based strike forces includes a new look at the role of carriers when ballistic missiles of the Navy and Air Force have taken over most of the strategic targeting system.

Carriers are now packaged within the "general purpose forces" under McNamara's over-all allocations of missions and roles for the military forces. This suggests their primary role has become participation with conventional forces in limited or general warfare.

While details of the study have not been delineated, indications are that it will include a prediction of probable need for worldwide deployment of U.S. Navy flattops.

FAST-MOVING IBC SHOW PLANNED

New Pageant Concept Outlined

By BOB SANDERS

"The International Beauty Congress this year will usher in an entirely new concept of beauty pageantry that will make the rest of the so-called beauty contests look sick in comparison."

So said Wayne Dallard, executive director of the IBC this week as he unveiled the dazzling array of talent he has lined up to help him put on the show.

"We are going to convert this show from being 'just an event' into being a full-scale production," he said. "We have decided to use the revue format, as espoused by George White, Flo Ziegfield and Ken Murray, because it fits so well the talent that is inherent in our show — feminine beauty."

Dallard made these observations in announcing that Frank Allen Hubbell, the well-known radio, television and movie musical director would adapt music for the show as well as conduct the orchestra.

The music to be used in the 1963 IBC show, which will be televised on a nationwide NBC network, will utilize at least three numbers by Meredith Willson, with whom Dallard has worked in past years.

The opening of the show will be built around Willson's "American Anthem" and the closing will use Willson's "Freedom Song" in which the word "freedom" is sung in 45 different languages. Another Willson number, the "love duet" from the California Story, which Dallard produced several years ago in Hollywood Bowl and San Diego, will also be the basis for a major pageant number.

FRANK HUBBELL
Music Adapter

LUCILLE NORMAN
Featured Vocalist

STEPHEN PAPICH
Ballet Director

"This music ties in so strongly with the new theme of the pageant, "Beauty through Friendship," Dallard said, "that it was almost impossible not to use it."

Contacted in his Mandeville Canyon home, Willson expressed considerable elation that his music was to play such a prominent part in the new IBC show.

"I am delighted that Wayne Dallard, whom I have worked with off and on since 1950, has decided to feature some of my music in his new production," the writer of "The Music Man" said.

"The Freedom Song" which I wrote to help fill the need for greater understanding between the different races of the world is almost an obvious choice for this pageant which has a built-in potential for promoting international understanding through the comparison of international beauty," Willson added.

In addition to the appointment of Hubbell as musical director, Dallard also announced three other principals who will play major roles in the entertainment portion of the pageant.

They are Lucille Norman, gifted soprano, Stephen Kemelyan, nationally known baritone, who will carry the vocal portion of the program and Stephen Papich who will direct the dancing of the ballet presentations.

"The show will utilize more than 250 people in the cast," Dallard said, "in a closely coordinated and superbly timed production.

"We have already roughed out the opening and closing numbers and I can see where we can easily cut at least an hour from the dragging, 3½-hour programs of the past.

"This show is going to move at a fast clip with the judging integrated into the production. There will be none of the long pauses while the judges 'take a last look' and the audience has to wait. They will have plenty of opportunity to judge the girls while the show is going on."

Hubbell, who has been writing music for Hollywood since 1936, says he already has written two complete numbers for the show. They are "Sound the Trumpets," which will be played during the crowning of the International Beauty Queen, and "March of the Free," which will herald the first entrance of the foreign participants in the show.

Hubbell, who began his musical career as a trumpet player, says he played in an act at the old Hoyt's Theater on the Long Beach Pike way back in the early 1920s when he was only 15 years old.

"Weyland Hoyt, whose family owned the theater, played saxophone with our act," Hubbell recalls. "I wonder if he's still around."

'Rush Week' Begins for Legislators

SACRAMENTO (AP) — This is Rush Week at the Capitol as legislators hurry to beat Friday's cut-off date for unrestricted introduction of bills.

The 80 assemblymen and 40 senators already have turned in just over 3,800 bills, plus scores of resolutions and constitutional amendments.

After Friday, it will take Rules Committee approval and a two-thirds vote of either house for a bill to be introduced. Friday, therefore, is expected to be a busy day.

The week also will bring the first major floor debate of the session, and possibly the first floor action on a major, controversial measure — Gov. Brown's bill for a limited four-year suspension of the death penalty.

The Assembly has set debate on the bill as a special order of business at 10 a.m. Tuesday, with action likely. The measure is expected to squeeze out of the lower house, but appears doomed in the Senate.

The Senate Judiciary Committee goes at it again Monday night in another of a series of hearings on bills dealing with dangerous drugs.

The Assembly Education Committee is scheduled Monday to consider bills by Assemblyman John L. E. Collier, R-Los Angeles, for a pay-later tuition system for students at state colleges and the University of California, and for state payment of junior colleges for instructing certain types of students.

Wednesday, a revived and revised purity of elections bill comes before the Assembly Elections and Reapportionment Committee, which already rejected the measure once.

At Brown's suggestion, however, Assemblyman Gordon H. Winton Jr., D-Merced, amended the bill so it doesn't apply to legislators, but only to the top seven elected state officials.

Military Pay Boost Pending in House

WASHINGTON (AP)—House action is expected soon on a bill to authorize a $1.2-billion yearly increase in military pay and allowances, effective Oct. 1.

Backed by the Defense Department as a necessary step in helping the armed services recruit and retain personnel, the bill would give increases to all active and retired persons, except those with less than two years service.

Rep. Carl Vinson, D-Ga., Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, has said he hopes to bring it to a vote in the House during the first week of May.

* * * *

AS APPROVED by the Armed Services Committee 31-1, on April 9, the bill would provide varying percentage increases ranging from 5 percent for generals and admirals to 16.4 percent for first lieutenants and 16 percent for master sergeants.

Retired personnel would get an increase of 5 percent plus automatic increases in the future whenever the cost of living index rises 3 percent.

Increases in subsistence allowance for officers and ration allowances for enlisted men would also be provided, along with a new allowance, equivalent to one-third of the quarters allowance, for personnel who are not allowed to take their families with them to duty stations. The new provision is called the "family separation allowance."

* * * *

THE BIGGEST FIGHT in committee was over the retirement pay section, which Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S. C., chairman of the subcommittee that handled the original Defense Department proposals, called "the most complex and controversial part of the bill."

Rivers' subcommittee accepted the department proposal that persons who retired before June 1, 1958, be allowed to recompute their retirement pay on the basis of higher pay scales that became effective on that date, but the full committee knocked it out of the bill.

The 5 percent boost in retirement pay would provide $56,730,000 a year for the nearly 350,000 military personnel now on the retired lists. The number is growing at a rate of more than 50,000 a year and by 1980 retirement costs under existing pay scales will be more than $3 billion annually.

Insurance on Girls' Autos Up

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Insurance rates on unmarried female auto drivers under 25 have been boosted 15 per cent by two big companies because, as one spokesman said, girls "aren't as safe as we thought they were."

Rates in the same category for boys are 100 percent or more higher than those for adults. This has been the case for some time, but rates for girls had been the same as those for a husband and wife.

* * * *

A SPOKESMAN for State Farm Mutual, explaining why his company has put in the new increases, said:

"Young females aren't as reckless as young fellows, as a group, but they're just not as mature as their mothers and fathers."

Allstate has had the boost in effect almost a year. The National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters said these two firms are the only ones to increase the coverage for girls.

Spy With Pail, Mop Feared by Woman Unionist

LONDON (AP) — A woman union delegate charged Saturday that employment of outside cleaning women by government departments is a threat to security.

"What guarantee have we got that Olga the Beautiful Spy will not find access to some of our secrets—always assuming that we have some left—by means of a disguise of overalls, mops and pails?" demanded Kathleen Edwards, a delegate to a meeting of the Civil Service Union. The union represents cleaners employed directly by the various government departments.

NEGRO BOY'S APPEAL

Claims Slain Man's Son Murdered Him

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga. (UPI)—Preston Cobb Jr., the Negro youngster sentenced to death at the age of 15 for the murder of his white landlord, said Saturday the man was shot by his own son.

In an affidavit presented at the court hearing seeking a new trial, Cobb named Joseph Coleman Dumas as the murderer of his father. He said he confessed to the murder because he feared for his own life and that of his widowed mother and brothers and sisters, who lived as tenants on the Dumas farm.

Cobb, now 17, was convicted of murdering 73-year-old Frank Coleman Dumas, his white employer, in August 1961, and sentenced to die in Georgia's electric chair.

The sentence drew vigorous protests in this country and abroad while the young Negro remained in Reidsville State Prison awaiting execution.

* * * * *

COBB'S CHARGE that the younger Dumas killed his father was supported by an affidavit from a truck driver who said he heard a confession from Joseph Dumas a few minutes before he died in an automobile accident.

The truck driver, Negro Willie Jackson, said he ran over to the younger Dumas, who was thrown onto the highway by the crash, and heard him say: "I've killed my father and I've killed myself."

Jackson said young Dumas repeated the phrase several times.

Donald L. Hollowell, an NAACP lawyer who has taken Cobb's case, sought a new trial on grounds that the Negro youngster did not commit the murder, but confessed only to prevent reprisals against his family.

The state attorney, George Lawrence, presented affidavits from four members of the younger Dumas' family swearing that Joseph was at his own home at the time the elder Dumas was killed.

In his statement, Cobb, who was not present at the hearing, said young Dumas pointed a pistol at him and forced him to accompany him to his father's house.

He said he and Joseph walked into the house and saw the elder Dumas reading a paper. Cobb said Joseph walked behind his father, shot him in the back of the head, and the two of them carried his body to the old man's station wagon.

* * * *

COBB SAID Joseph Dumas forced him to help remove the body and toss it into a roadside ditch a few miles from home.

Then, Cobb testified, Joseph Dumas removed some money from his father's wallet, gave him the wallet with some money left in it and told him to drive away in the station wagon and never come back.

He said Joseph Dumas threatened to harm his family if he told what he had seen.

Cobb was arrested a short time after this while driving the blood-stained vehicle. He had the elder Dumas' wallet in his pocket.

Superior Court Judge George S. Carpenter withheld a decision on granting a new trial and gave attorneys until May 4 to present further arguments.

Airline Gets 100,000 World's Fair Tickets

NEW YORK (AP)—The first 100,000 New York World's Fair tickets of a proposed million-ticket purchase by American Airlines were delivered last week.

Robrt Moses, fair president, handed the tickets to C.R. Smith, president of the airlines, at a ceremony in the Fair headquarters.

This is the largest single purchase thus far by an corporation. The tickets will be distributed throughout American's system of 52 cities and will be made available at reduced rates to the carrier's customers.

Japanese Volcano

TOKYO (AP)—Mt. Mihara, an active volcano on Izu-Oshima, 70 miles southeast of here, erupted Saturday, spewing smoke 1,500 feet into the sky, the Central Meteorological Agency said there was no report of damage or casualty.

ROBOT TO 'FEEL, CHEW' PLANET

Moon-Survey Vehicle to Take Off Next Year

By LEE CRAIG
I-P-T Aerospace Editor

Sometime next year, the United States will send a spidery spacecraft across more than 238,000 miles of space to blaze a trail for manned voyages to the moon.

The 600-pound craft, dubbed "Surveyor," will be packed with instruments that will enable it to view, "feel" and even "chew" the moon's surface, transmitting its discoveries to earth.

* * * *

SEVEN Surveyors are being built by Hughes Aircraft Co. in Culver City for the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, manager of unmanned lunar exploration for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Their mission is threefold:

To provide astronauts who will land on the moon with a foreknowledge of conditions essential to their safe landing and return.

To develop techniques in control, guidance, communications and landing required for a successful manned voyage.

To obtain basic scientific data about the moon.

Each spacecraft will weigh about a ton after it is launched from the Atlantic Missile Range at Cape Canaveral.

After burnout and separation of its Atlas booster, Surveyor's second-stage Centaur engines will ignite to provide the craft's final impetus for its 66-hour, one-way journey.

About 20 hours away from the earth, after Centaur separation, Surveyor will receive orders from NASA's Deep Space Instrumentation Facility to adjust its coasting path with its liquid vernier engines so that it will intercept the moon.

* * * *

RETROROCKET power will slow the spacecraft to about six miles an hour to ensure a gentle landing on the lunar surface as three television cameras, two pointing up, one down, send pictures to earth.

Once landed, scientific instruments will collect soil samples and make geochemical analyses, "feel" the surface to assess its physical properties and measure radiation and particle fields of the moon's atmosphere.

Surveyor will operate on the moon's surface for about a month.

THIS IS AN ARTIST'S concept of how the spacecraft Surveyor will land on the moon in order to send scientific information and television pictures to earth.

Brazil-Soviets Agree on $600-Million Pact

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazil signed a new five-year trade agreement with the Soviet Union Friday. A Brazilian official indicated it might be expanded into an economic and technical assistance program with the Russians.

The trade agreement calls for an exchange of more than $600 million worth of goods in the next three years. Trade for this year will amount to $160 million—more than double that of last year. It will increase to $200 million next year and $225 million in 1965.

Brazil will export coffee, cacao and cotton to Russia. The Russians will send petroleum and wheat, two chief Brazilian imports, plus manufactured goods and goods of production.

* * * *

THE BRAZILIANS tacked onto the agreement a guarantee that the Russians would not resell any of the Brazilian products to other countries. There had been local newspaper reports the Russians would sell the coffee to Cuba.

Brazil began trading with the Soviet Union in 1959 on a small scale. The exchange of goods since then has amounted to about $145 million.

U.S.-Brazilian trade for 1962 alone amounted to $1.15 billion worth of goods.

But Finance Minister Francisco San Tiago Dantas gave every indication Brazil wanted to expand economic ties with the Soviet Union.

"Brazil finds in the Soviet Union a market of unforeseeable potentiality not only for coffee and other tropical products, but even for consumer goods manufactured in our country," San Tiago Dantas said.

* * * *

HE SAID at the signing ceremonies he was confident the Brazilian-Soviet economic relations would "extend to that of economic cooperation and technical assistance." He did not elaborate.

A few months back, the U.S. State Department was reported concerned about the prospects of a new Soviet-Brazilian trade agreement. Specific U.S. objections were not given, however.

Last month, after two weeks of talks, the United States agreed to a commitment of $398.5 million in loans and other financial assistance for Brazil. The U.S. aid, however, will be meted out in lumps as Brazil's shows progress against inflation.

BAN FREE RIDES

Belgian Policemen, Streetcars 'At War'

GHENT, Belgium (AP) — Policemen and the streetcar company in Ghent have declared war.

The streetcar company claimed it was losing money and canceled free rides for off-duty policemen. Now policemen switch traffic lights to red when they see a streetcar coming. Or they stop it and check whether there are more people than the authorized limit.

Flier Broke Spine, But Didn't Know It

WITTERING, England (UPI)—Flight Lt. Benny Jackson, 29, had been walking around without any apparent trouble since a bomber crash last month in which he was the sole survivor.

Last week Royal Air Force doctors discovered through X-rays that he had a fractured spine.

Expect 125,000 to Visit Schools Here This Week

By ROBERT WILCOX

A record 125,000 persons are expected to visit the 77 Long Beach public schools during the 44th annual celebration of Public Schools Week, which starts Monday.

Open houses throughout the school district will feature classroom visitation, exhibits of student work, demonstrations and special programs.

Schools will be open from 7 to 9 p.m. on the following schedule:

Monday—Long Beach City College liberal arts, business and technology and general adult divisions and Nightingale and Tucker special schools.

Tuesday — All elementary schools.

Wednesday — All high schools.

Thursday—All junior high schools.

Theme for the 1963 observance is "Our Public Schools — Symbols of Freedom."

* * * *

W. ODIE WRIGHT, superintendent of schools, and Orlo Peugh, chairman of the Citizens' Public Schools Week Observance Committee, emphasized that the event is open to the general public as well as parents.

The City College open house will be highlighted by the Industrial Arts and Vocational Arts Exhibit at the Business and Technology Division. On display will be drawings and special projects in woods, metals, crafts, electronics, graphic arts and architecture.

The 53 elementary schools will present varying programs. They include music presentations, exhibits in literature, reading, mathematics, American heritage and art, and physical education demonstrations.

The open houses at the six high schools will include:

A band concert at Jordan, a rehearsal of excerpts from the musical "Carousel" at Millikan, a foreign language laboratory demonstration at Polytechnic, a "modern mathematics" lecture at Lakewood, and an art exhibit at Wilson. Dewey has scheduled an 8:15 p.m. music assembly.

Spelling bees will be conducted at three of the 14 junior high schools. Other activities include musical programs, "science fair" exhibits and physical education demonstrations.

THIRTY YEARS A NURSE

Miss Hazel (Chris) Christiansen, RN, (left) of 2001 Cedar Ave., serves a piece of cake to Mrs. Claire O'Malley, director of nursing service, during a fete celebrating Chris' 30th anniversary as a nurse at Memorial-Seaside Hospitals.

HAZEL CHRISTIANSEN

Honor Nurse Official at Memorial Hospital

There was a special affair for a very special person the other day at Memorial Hospital, 2801 Atlantic Ave.

Miss Hazel (Chris) Christiansen, R.N., was celebrating 30 years of nursing service with Memorial and Seaside Hospitals. And she has a Service Award pin with five rubies and a diamond to prove it!

A native of South Dakota, Chris was graduated from Seaside's School of Nursing in 1931. She took advanced courses in orthopedics at Shriners' Hospital, San Francisco, and advanced courses in communicable diseases at Los Angeles General Hospital.

* * * *

IN 1933 she started at Seaside Hospital, 14th and Chestnut, as a supervisor and relief night supervisor on the second floor of the A wing.

In 1941 she was promoted to the nursing office as supervisor on the late afternoon shift.

Then, in June 1960, when Seaside moved to Atlantic Ave. and became Memorial Hospital of Long Beach, she was named senior assistant director of nursing service, the same post she holds today on the 3-to-11:30 p.m. shift.

One of the most popular nurses at the hospital, Chris also is active in the hospital's investment club, the Twenty Grand Club.

Chris lives at 2001 Cedar Ave.

City College Schedules 3 Lectures

Three continuing public lectures are announced for this week by the Long Beach City College General Adult Division. The schedule:

Plan Model Boat Contest

A contest to select the best-built model of the tug Long Beach was announced Saturday by the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce's Port Ambassadors.

The contest, part of the area observance of World Trade Week, is open to all Southern Californians of any age. Models can be custom made or assembled from commercial kits.

Applications for the contest may be obtained from the Chamber of Commerce, 121 Linden Ave., or at Pierpoint Landing.

* * * *

WINNERS in three age categories—up to 11 years; 12 to16; 17 and over—and an overall champion will receive trophies. All winners will receive four tickets for a harbor cruise on the MV Shearwater. Overall winner will be made a honorary captain of the tugboat Long Beach and be given a half-day assignment on board—without pay.

The overall winner also will receive four round trip tickets on the SS Catalina, four Dodger tickets including free parking, and a fishing rod and reel from Pierpoint Landing.

* * * *

APPLICATIONS must include the answers to 10 questions about the Port of Long Beach. Answers can be found in the Port's illustrated brochure and annual report for the fiscal year 1961-62.

Model boats must be delivered to the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce on or before 4 p.m., May 17.

BOB STRICKNEY, 13, of 3055 Eucalyptus Ave., is shown working on model of tugboat "Long Beach" which he plans to enter in model building contest held in connection with World Trade Week observance.

5 Icing Bagpipes Adorn Wedding Cake

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Alexandra's 5-foot high, 130-pound wedding cake is decorated with five sets of icing bagpipes in her Scottish fiance's family tartan, it was announced.

The princess, who marries Angus Ogilvy in Westminster Abbey Wednesday, asked especially that the bagpipes be put around the bottom of the three-tiered cake. They are set against a background of interlaced white satin ribbon.

Tito Asks Business As Usual

WASHINGTON (AP)—Yugoslav President Tito has sent President Kennedy a letter saying Yugoslavia intends to remain independent and non-aligned in the East-West struggle, informed sources said Saturday.

Tito was said also to have called for a "normalization" of U.S. Yugoslav trade relations, now impaired by a congressional provision against most-favored-treatment of Yugoslavia.

Tito's message was brought to the White House Thursday by Yugoslavian Ambassador Veljko Micunovic, who has just returned to Washington from consultations in Belgrade. Micunovic also met with Secretary of State Dean Rusk yesterday.

The views expressed in the Tito letter were described as similar to the policies Yugoslavia has been following for some time. Though avowedly a Communist country, Yugoslavia has broken with the Soviet bloc and follows an independent foreign affairs course.

Defector Awarded Lenin Prize

MOSCOW, Sunday (AP) — Bruno Pontecorvo, famed Italian-born physicist who defected to the Soviet Union from Britain, has won a Lenin prize, Russia's highest honor, the Soviet news agency Tass announced early today.

The 60-year-old Pontecorvo, credited with helping the Russians build their atomic bomb, was a leading member of the British Harwell Nuclear Research Institute before he secretly fled to the Soviet Union in 1950.

He was recommended for the prize in February for his pioneering research with nufrinos, a microparticle of unusual properties.

MOWW to Hear Apollo Project Talk

"The Apollo Program" will be discussed at the Long Beach Chapter of the Military Order of the World Wars monthly dinner at Allen Center Wednesday evening.

Cdr. B. J. Long USNR, assistant to the vice president of North American Aviation in charge of the space and information system, will be the speaker and will also show several colored slides.

The Apollo program is designed to carry man to the moon.

Cdr. Long was formerly a combat pilot, test pilot and also participated in missile development at Pt. Mugu.

Lieut. Col. John W. Doran, chapter commander, will preside.

THE WEEK IN REVIEW

State Department Hit Cuba Exiles' 'War Move'

By HARRY SHARPE
United Press International

The State Department, with President Kennedy's approval, cracked down last week on what it called Cuban exile attempts to drag the U.S. into war over Cuba.

It said the United States does not intend to put its foreign policy at the mercy of refugees who have been given sanctuary from Communist Premier Fidel Castro's firing squads.

* * * *

AT THE SAME time Secretary of States Dean Rusk told the American Society of Newspaper Editors the United States has made "a major commitment of force" to prevent communism from spreading from Cuba. But that, he said, does not include an invasion demanded by the exiles.

The President also addressed the editors, chiefly on domestic economic issues, but he firmly denied he had promised another invasion of Cuba. He also said U.S. handling of the Russian missile crisis last fall means "there is today more widespread assurance that both peace and freedom can prevails."

The State Department centered its fire on Dr. Jose Miro Cardona, head of the Miami-based Cuban Revolutionary Council who resigned along with seven other members after charging Kennedy with reneging on a promise to invade Cuba. He also accused the President of adopting a policy of "peaceful co-existence" with Castro.

* * * *

THE DEPARTMENT said Miro had made demands—so far reaching that they "almost certainly" would bring war — including $50 million to recruit a new invasion army and giving the council a strong voice in U.S. Cuban policy.

Miro made his accusations, most of them vaguely based, in a 10,000-word statement issued after he resigned. The document purported to recount his dealings with Mr. Kennedy after the ill-fated 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion. He said the President had "formalized" a pact calling for a new invasion.

The State Department replied indignantly that this was false, as proven by the record. It threatened to hold from the council a $2.4 million annual subsidy which is used mostly for secret purposes. It accused Miro of "gross distortion."

The department's tone indicated the President had run out of patience with some exile leaders and regarded the document as "blackmail."

* * * *

RUSK TOLD the editors that U.S. Cuban policy was aimed at preventing Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev from returning offensive weapons to Cuba; enforcing free use of international air space and waters around Cuba; "interdiction" of Cuban-based hostile forays against other Latin American countries; assurance that if Cubans erupt against Castro the United States would not allow Russia to crush the revolt like "a Hungary," and making it crystal clear that Cuba has no future in this hemisphere under communism.

He said it had been made "very clear" to Khrushchev that presence of his troops in Cuba "is not acceptable" and that in the interests of all the Americas they must "get out."

He did not answer renewed charges by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., that 17,000 Soviet troops are still on the island. The President has put the figure at no more than 13,000.

* * * *

THE STATE Department denied it had threatened to deport Miro as "a traitor" or that he and other exile leaders would be barred from Washington councils if the anti-Kennedy document were released.

Council Vice President Antonio de Varona broke with Miro over release of his allegations and set out to rebuild the exile group. U.S. officials said "it may take some time" to repair relations.

Miro Cardona took his tough attitude after the President banned as meaningless and provocative hit-and-run exile raids on Cuba and Russian ships in ports there. Kennedy hopes to bring Castro's eventual downfall through economic, political and diplomatic pressure and possible internal rebellion.

In addressing the editors, the President strongly defended his domestic spending policy and tax-cut plans as ways to build prosperity and head off recessions. He told them bluntly that if it were not for federal aid to hard-pressed state and local governments, "the federal budget today could be in balance."

* * * *

HE DECLARED that a $5 billion cut in his budget would slow the nation down and mean a million fewer jobs. He also emphatically attacked claims of the congressional economy bloc—Republicans and conservative Southern Democrats—that any tax cut must be offset by budget reductions.

He said that if the budget were reduced further it would only impose heavier burdens on states and communities. "The right way to a balanced budget is to seek first a balanced economy," he added.

The dike against steel price increases finally burst with no certainty how the President would react, nor how much it would cost consumers. But cost it will. Even the industry agreed with that. The first chain reaction occurred in construction. Aluminus Co. of America hinted it may raise prices.

* * * *

GIANT U.S. Steel and most other companies, large and small, announced price jumps on selective grades, mostly within a $4 to $7-a-ton range.

The President was disappointed though apparently reconciled. He was said to feel the companies had made a strong case for hikes and that in good conscience he was unable to block them as he did so angrily a year ago.

Eleventh-ranked Wheeling Steel nibbled a hole in the price barrier a week ago. Mr. Kennedy promptly warned the industry and the steel workers union which may now seek wage hikes, that both must use restraint. He repeated this in his speech to the editors.

Warnings came from Congress where next Tuesday a Senate committee will begin an investigation. Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., said the increases could nullify any gains Americans make through tax cuts. The auto industry foresaw 2 per cent price increases on its 1964 models. The President voiced hope they would absorb the cost instead of passing it along.

All sides agreed that the President had improved his image in the business world. U.S. Steel and other companies cited statistics to prove the price advances were warranted. The steel union can reopen its contracts with 11 companies after April 30.

News that the President's wife, Jacqueline, was expecting her third child, took Washington by storm. It had been one of the First Family's best kept secrets. Mrs. Kennedy, now 33, has long cherished the idea of having a child while her husband occupies the White House. She will be in semi-seclusion until the expected birth in August.

The U.S. Civil Rights Commission aroused Southern wrath by proposing the President withhold all federal funds—about $650 million—from Mississippi which it said was close to "a complete breakdown of law and order." The state has been involved in racial troubles. The commission accused it of "open and flagrant violation of constitutional guarantees which affront the conscience of the nation."

In Canada Prime Minister John Diefenbaker resigned, clearing the way for Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson to take over the government Monday. President Kennedy had differed sharply with Diefenbaker who opposed arming Canadian defense planes with U.S. nuclear weapons. Pearson is expected to confer with Kennedy soon after he takes office.

BEACH Combing

with MALCOLM EPLEY

A FINE show of confidence in L.B.'s fire department—which we later found out was, fully justified—was shown by some fellow who called on the phone Thursday at the height of a brief but dangerous fire in our press room.

The caller asked for Bill Wray, adv. plans director. The person who answered the phone said: "Mr. Wray isn't in his office. Our building is on fire."

"Oh o.k.," said the voice on the phone. "I'll call back later."

IT's not often that an event that makes reportable news occurs so close at hand to the newsroom.

So it wasn't hard to get the facts. The big issue with us for a while was whether we would have an edition the next morning to print them in.

That we did is in large measure due to the fine work of the firemen, both in quick response with plenty of good equipment and in the intelligent and responsible way they went about suppressing the blaze.

THIS fire flashed through a big ventilator duct which runs along the ceiling of the press room, within a few feet of the massive but delicate equipment that turns out the printed papers. It and the complex electrical set-up adjoining it could be quickly put out of commission by even a light dousing of water.

The firemen attacked the blaze in the duct with water, but they carefully avoided any unnecessary spraying of the liquid over the delicate equipment. The manner of their operations showed clearly the results of good training and an awareness of the fact that water can sometimes do damage comparable to that it denies a fire.

In short, the firemen put out our fire and they did it with a minimum of the damage fire-fighting can cause. Needless to say, we are all warmly appreciative, and no pun intended. We could have been a lot warmer and less appreciative. This fire, less effectively fought, could have swept the entire building.

AN interesting sidelight concerns a big clock on the wall of the press room directly under the duct that caught fire.

The heat stopped the hands of the clock at 4:31, exactly pin-pointing the time of the fire.

Started by sparks from a welding operation, the blaze could not have occurred at a more opportune time from the standpoint of our operations. The Press-Telegram night final run was just off, and several hours elapsed before the press was needed for the late evening runs of the Independent. That gave time to check everything out, clean up the mess and make necessary repairs.

It was a suspenseful period. In no business except public utilities, is regularity and continuity of operation more important than with a newspaper. In earthquake, fire or other disaster, the press always struggled determinedly to avoid missing an edition. It is the code.

IN passing out appreciative notes, I must not omit a word for the Long Beach police dept.

The traffic squad quickly set up controls on the streets around the building. Guards were placed to prevent foot or vehicle travel in the alleys where there was danger of injury to spectators and the possibility of interference with fire-fighting operations.

A couple of our own men found out how tight was this barrier. They wanted to get into the alley, presumably on some semi-official business. No amount of argument or showing of identification cards could get them by until the situation cleared.

IT did, after a while, and the fellow who wanted to talk to Bill Wray, if he called back, as promised, got his man on the phone. The building, as he had expected, did not burn down.

MUSIC, DRAMA, ARCHITECTURE INCLUDED IN MAY PROGRAM

Four Centuries' Art Festival Scheduled

Music, art, architecture, drama and literature will be "big" in Long Beach during the month of May. The occasion will be "A Four Centuries Festival," sponsored by the Long Beach Music Council and affiliated community organizations.

Included in the month-long festival will be 43 separate events ranging from concerts and drama productions to art exhibits and the fifth annual Long Beach Writers' Conference. A complete calendar of events will be published in The Independent, Press-Telegram next Sunday.

Chief organizers of the festival are the officers of the Long Beach Music Council: Dr. Gerald Daniel, chairman; Mrs. Wilma Hastings, vice chairman; William C. Boyd, treasurer; and Mrs. John McDonald, secretary.

Planners of the third annual Long Beach Music Festival selected the "four centuries" theme, covering the 17th, 18th, 19th and 20th centuries. Participating groups were either to include a work from each century on to concentrate on the music of one epoch.

GERALD DANIEL
Heads Festival Program

As a means of dramatizing to the community the wealth of cultural activities available in Long Beach, the Four Centuries Festival was then expanded to include many other events already scheduled during May.

Participating organizations include the Council of Living Theater, various art galleries, the American Institute of Architects, the Long Beach Public Library, Long Beach City College and Long Beach State College.

Opening events of the festival will be the Community Concerts presentation of violinist Gabriel Banat on May 1 and the Long Beach Civic Light Opera production of "The Desert Song" beginning May 2. Final event will be the presentation on May 31 of antiphonal choral works from four centuries by the combined choirs of City College and State College.

Between these dates there will be 15 other concerts, 14 art exhibits, the May 9-11 Writers' Conference, and a number of drama productions at community and college theaters. Stage fare will range from Shakespeare to the works of Beckett, Albee and Ionesco.

Special attention will be given during the festival to outstanding local buildings designed by Long Beach members of the American Institute of Architects. Mary A. Holmes, lecturer in art at UCLA, will be presented by the LBCC General Adult Division in a weekly series of illustrated talks on art since the 17th century.

Many events of "A Four Centuries Festival" will be open to the public without charge.

A WORLD AWAY FROM THE TEEMING CITIES

Santa Ana Mts. Wild Paradise

By PAUL WALLACE

The Los Angeles-Long Beach Metropolitan area, like floodwaters fed by the well springs of the Midwest, has spread its burgeoning population north and east across the flatlands.

The farms and citrus groves of the Los Angeles basin have been inundated in huge waves by sprawling residential tracts, industrial and commercial centers, until little open land remains on the valley floors.

From Long Beach, the surge of people has spread rapidly eastward across the orchards and truck farms of Orange County to lap against the foot of the Santa Ana Mountains.

The easily-tamed level lands swarm with people and houses and automobiles, the smells of industry and internal combustion engines and the enervating noises of this bustling society.

* * * *

BUT THERAPY for shattered, civilization-saturated nerves lies only a few minutes away.

In the Santa Ana Mountains, where the twin humps of Santiago Peak—Old Saddleback—probe nearly 6,000 feet into the sky, the land is primitive, little traveled—and uninhabited.

Small herds of deer bound through the spring-green brush and squirrels bustle under aromatic stands of bull pine. Red-tailed hawks wheel over steep canyons, bees drone lazily and tiny lizards skitter across the trail.

The area is lonely, big and spectacular. And it is accessible.

Rough, one-lane dirt fire roads curl up to Saddleback and along the backbone of the range from Black Star Canyon on the west to the Ortega Highway (State Highway 74), which runs through the mountains between Capistrano and Elsinore on the east.

* * * *

THE ROADS are opened to the public each year after the first rains decrease the fire hazard. They are left open for general use until July 1 when the fire risk again becomes too high.

The next three months, with the weather warming and the snows gone from Saddleback, is the best time of year to visit this nearby wilderness.

Anytime during the week you practically will have it to yourself. Sundays produce more traffic. But anytime the difficulty of the all-dirt fire roads that form the main arteries through the mountain area will separate the real explorers from the Sunday drivers.

The narrow trails are indescribably circuitous. Generally, the grades are not too steep.

They range from rough to very rough in places. But all are passable for a modern auto. If you have a jeep, pickup truck or motorcycle, though, you would be better off.

* * * *

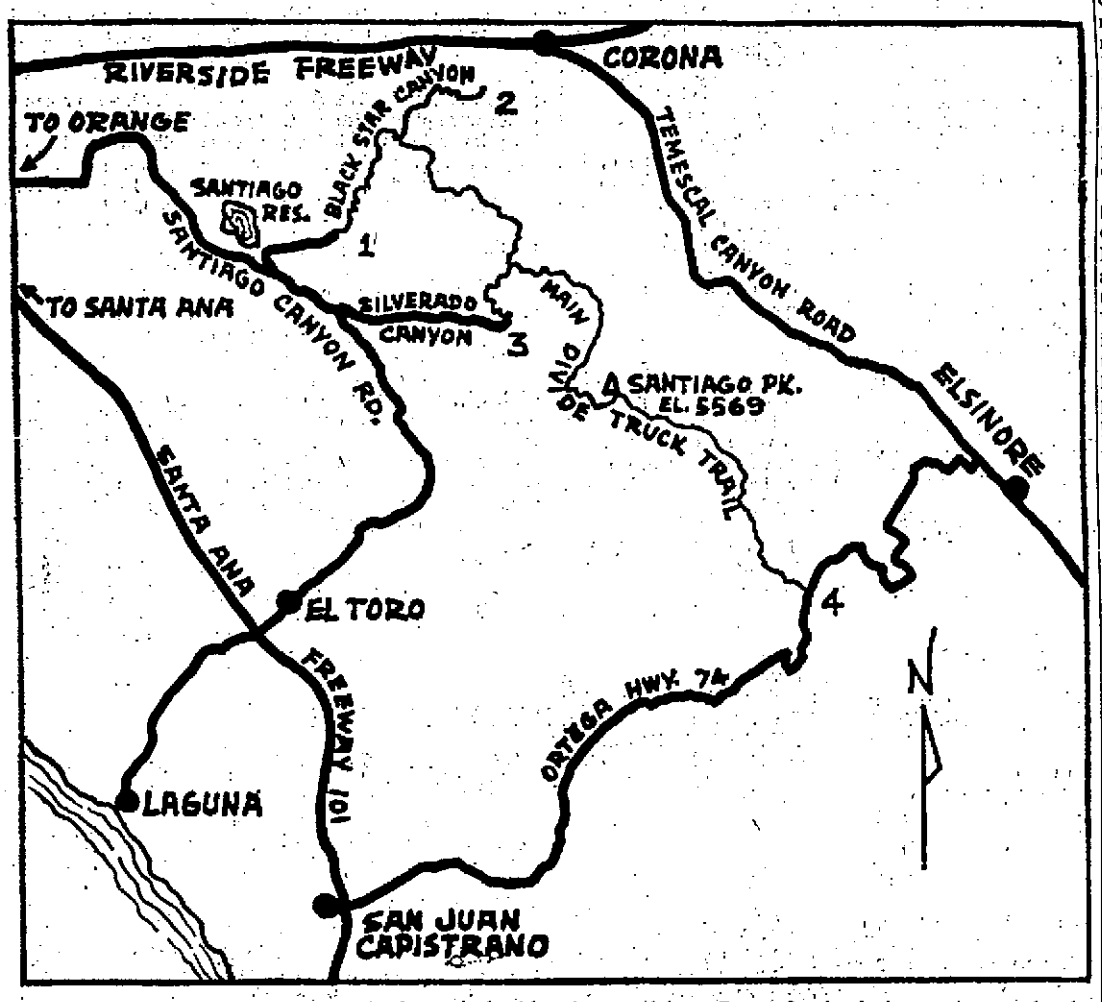

IT IS a rough drive and not easy on cars. Average speed will be 8 miles an hour.

There are turnaround spots on most of the roads about every mile. But if you meet someone, sometimes one of the cars may have to back up for some distance before they can pass.

It is advisable to have a vehicle not subject to overheating. Go in with plenty of gasoline in the tank and at least one good spare tire plus tire changing equipment. If you are going far into the mountains, the Forest Rangers recommend taking a canteen of water. Binoculars would be an additional nicety.

There are only four open gates into the Saddleback area—and one of them—behind Corona—is poorly marked and almost impossible to find from below.

The El Cariso gate leads onto the Main Divide trail Canyon Road; Black Star Canyon Road, which goes north from the intersection of Santiago Canyon and Silverado Canyon Roads; the hard-to-find gate off Chase Drive behind Corona (the other end of the Black Star Canyon route across the mountains) at the foot of the mountains' eastern slope; and the El Cariso gate on the west side of the Ortega Highway about two miles past the 2,000-foot-level road sign up the highway from Capistrano.

Once on the trail, the route is clearly marked with distances and points of interest.

The El Cariso gate leads onto the Main Divide trail which runs along the backbone of the range to connect first with the trail from the Silverado Canyon near Saddleback Peak itself, then on west to intersect with the Black Star Canyon trail.

It is about 15 miles from the Ortega Highway to Saddleback. From there down to hill to Silverado Canyon—which is the busiest route—it is another 15 miles. From Silverado Peak west along the Main Divide trail to Black Star Canyon trail, then right out the Corona gate or left to Santiago Canyon Road, it is about 18 miles.

Sightseers can always just drive in a few miles, then come back out the same way, if they don't feel up to the arduous run from one gate to another.

* * * *

A RECOMMENDED short run is in the El Cariso gate where, after three miles of unusually rough road, you come into Los Pinos Potrero—a lovely live-oak dotted mountain meadow and a delightful spot for a picnic.

The top of Saddleback, itself, is the one busy place in the whole range with its complex of antennas, relay stations and communications equipment. Its main building is topped by a Forest Service lookout tower, used only during the fire hazard season.

The view from here is inspiring from any direction, with the Southland from San Bernardino to Palos Verdes spread out at your feet.

It is a world away from the teeming valleys below. But it is a vista that must be won over 30 miles of jolting switchbacks.

Forty-Niner Days on LBSC Campus

A gala Long Beach State College Spring stage revue, "Forty-Niner Days," will begin Friday at the eastside campus and feature pioneer scenes complete with "dance hall girls" and "Pete's Gulch" townsite constructed on stage.

The annual event has been extended to two days this year, ending next Saturday.

Cargo Vessel Joining 7th

The Long Beach-based USS Ashtabula, commanded by Capt. J. S. Hill, left Pearl Harbor Thursday to join the Seventh Fleet on operations duty, the Pacific Service Force announced Saturday.

The Ashtabula, a Navy cargo ship, is carrying 38 drums of clothing for distribution to Korean orphans in addition to fuel oil and aviation gas.

UN Supporters Meet Tonight

A public meeting of the American Association for the United Nations will be held tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Unitarian Church, 5450 Atherton St.

Doyle's Seat Sought by Newsman

Alhambra newspaperman Hal Butler formally entered the 23rd district congressional race for the seat left vacant by the death of the late Clyde Doyle, when he filed on the Republican ticket Friday.

Butler will oppose Compton Mayor Del Clawson and former Bell Mayor Harold Bennett, both Republicans, in the race which will end in the special election on June 11. There are six Democrats also running for the office.

Dan Ridder Heads Fair Committee

A Long Beach advisory committee for the California World's Fair, headed by Dan Ridder and numbering more than two score prominent citizens, was announced Saturday by Nelson McCook, president of the fair organization.

McCook said the committee will be kept informed on fair operations and will be asked for advice and aid in carrying out an effective program. First meeting of the group is scheduled for May 3 at the Lafayette Hotel when a full briefing will be given the members and invited ex-officio members and public officials.

RIDDER, co-publisher of The Independent, Press-Telegram, said the acceptances of committee appointments demonstrated enthusiasm for the fair in the Long Beach community and a recognition of the importance of community interest and support. "A successful fair," he said, "will bring tremendous economic and cultural benefits to Long Beach and to all of California."

Membership of the committee, which McCook said may be expanded from time to time, follows:

George L. Craig II, shipbuilding firm official; James G. Craig Jr., broker; James H. Crooker, auto firm head and president of the International Beauty Congress; Allen W. Danielson, bank vice president; Albert G. Davis, furniture company official; James E. Edmonds, mortgage company head and chairman of the Urban Re-Development Agency.

ALSO, C. L. FOWLER, petroleum firm head; Herbert Frahm, telephone company division manager; William S. Grant, former assemblyman; John W. Hancock, industrialist; Walter Haverkorst, retired bank vice president; Everett Houser, attorney and member of Water Commission; J. S. Jacobs, electrical contractor and member of Board of Education; George R. Johnson, attorney; John L. Kelley, insurance company head.

ALSO, JOE SHUFF, department store manager and president of Downtown Associates; Irvin Solomon, restaurant operator and vice chairman of Armed Service Commission; Ike Sukman, department store head; George Taubman, attorney; George Trammell, attorney; Gus Walker, bank president; Odie Wright, school superintendent; Vaile G. Young, department store president.

Ex-officio appointees include Congressman Craig Hosmer, Assemblymen Joseph M. Kennick and George Deukmejian, County Supervisors Burton W. Chase and Frank Bonelli and State Sen. Thomas Rees. Mayor Edwin Wade is an honorary member of the committee.

Harry Krusz, Chamber of Commerce executive vice president, will act as secretary of the committee.

Campaign Fund Law Is Needed

THE UNTIDY AFFAIR of the Filipino lobby fund shows the need for a federal law requiring congressional candidates to make full, itemized public disclosures of money contributed to their campaigns.

If such disclosures were required, we doubt that much of the money handed out by lobbyist John A. O'Donnell to representatives and senators would have been accepted; and it is possible that the outcome of certain legislative issues might have been different.

O'DONNELL, A LOBBYIST for sugar companies and war damage claimants in the Philippines, contributed to the campaigns of 11 Democratic and three Republican representatives and six Democratic senators. He later told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that it was important to his clients that senators and representatives familiar with Philippine affairs get re-elected to office.

The largest campaign contribution went to Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, Wisconsin Democrat, who says he turned the money over to the Democratic National Committee. Rep. Zablocki is chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Subcommittee on the Far East and co-sponsor of a war claims bill passed last year. A smaller amount went to Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, Minnesota Democrat, who sponsored the war claims bill in the Senate.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, commented at the end of the hearing on the O'Donnel affair:

"I do not believe that, if the administration and the Congress had been informed of the true facts as we now know them, the legislation which was actually passed would have been enacted."

The Senator will now propose an amendment providing that the war claims be paid to the Phillippine government rather than to individuals and private companies.

That will remedy that error, but what about the question of lobby pressures?

AS SOON AS THE revelations were published, three of the Senators who received money from O'Donnell said they had had no personal knowledge of his contributions to their campaign.

On the basis of such disclaimers, one would have to conclude that Mr. O'Donnell didn't do his job very well. The legislative record, however, suggests otherwise. A citizen must be forgiven if he entertains the suspicion that somebody somewhere along the line knew where the money came from and was influenced by it.

The standard reply to charges of this sort is that political campaigns can't be run without money. True, the American politician depends upon private contributions. We are not trying to alter that. What we suggest is a federal law which:

1. Requires each candidate to assume full responsibility for the receipts and expenditures of his political campaign.

2. Requires a full public accounting at frequent intervals of those receipts and expenditures.

If such a law were passed, no representative or senator could excuse himself by saying he didn't know he had received money from certain sources; and the public would know which lobbyists are seeking to influence which congressmen.

Some states have rigid laws regulating the publicizing of campaign contributions, others very weak ones. A federal law would subject all congressmen to the same rules.

No honest lawmaker could possibly object.

'But You Promised—'

BOB HOUSER

We Call It an Open Primary but CDC, CRA Slam the Door

FORMER GOV. GOODWIN J. Knight thought that we were only one step removed from abolition of the direct primary in California. The task of selecting party nominees had, in practical effect, fallen to unofficial but powerful volunteer political organizations.

HOUSER

These groups, of course, are the California Democratic Council (CDC) and the California Republican Assembly (CRA). They are immune to election laws which provide tight reins on official party organizations — the state central committies of both parties.

Official groups cannot endorse one candidate over another within their own parties before a primary. In short, they are constrained by law to allow California to have an open primary in which the people decide which primary candidate becomes a general election nominee.

But the unofficial CDC and CRA are free. So they hold endorsement conventions, fact-finding meetings and come up with recommendations for each primary contest. Rejected candidates usually withdraw from the primary, recognizing the almost unanimous success that these unofficial endorsees have.

Thus, as Knight indicated, California's primary nominees are virtually selected in convention—even though unofficial—and the open primary is almost a wasted motion.

WITH EXCEPTIONS. Take 1958. CDC endorsed Stanley Mosk for attorney general. This didn't keep Robert I. McCarthy from staying in the race, but McCarthy lost. CRA endorsed Caspar Weinberger but Pat Hillings stayed in and won the primary.

The convention choices don't prohibit anybody from running. But the fact is, the non-endorsed usually lose. This big muscle has rendered the official state committees to second-rank status in which they may not fire a shot until after the primary, other than their general volley on behalf of the party name.

Bill Knowland, former U. S. Senator, said recently he has never felt "that a contested primary election needs to be fatal to a political party" if the party unites behind the winner. Recent history doesn't refute Knowland's word but it's a fair case study in disaster if the party does not unite.

Richard M. Nixon and Joseph C. Shell provided the contest for the June, 1962, Republican primary. Nixon won about two-to-one. Did the GOP then unfy, as Knowland suggests as a preventive against party fatality? It did not.

DESPITE A 3 TO 2 registration majority favoring Democrats, Republican primary candidate for governor actually outpolled Democrats by some 20,000. But in the general election, Pat Brown beat Nixon by almost 297,000 votes.

Overriding puzzle for Republicans is how to unify behind the GOP primary winner in 1964 elections. But the question for Californians in general is whether unofficial groups like CDC and CRA should keep their undisputed power to virtually name the primary victors in advance.

An obvious alternative is simply to prohibit their preprimary endorsing activity by law. Then you have a true open primary with theoretical starting-gate equality for as many candidates who choose to run.

IN SUCH AN open joust, it's conceivable that Republicans might have accepted the 1962 primary verdict with more grace. It might have eliminated some of Joe Shell's bitter "kingmaker" accusations against Nixon backers. And, in turn, it might have made a victorious unity possible.

Since this concern is not one which bothers the Democrats at the moment, a legislative Rx for good GOP health seems not likely to be sold over the counter or without prescription by internists now resident in Sacramento.

Steel Workers' Chief Stays Very Quiet in Palm Springs

WASHINGTON—One enigma in the maneuvering over steel prices is the whereabouts and silence of Dave McDonald, president of the United Steel Workers. Dave, though sometimes so histrionic that friends say he should have been in Hollywood, has not been heard from.

Real fact is that McDonald is holed up on his Palm Springs, Calif., estate, incommunicado. What happened to him remains a mystery. His associate say that he was running a 104-degree temperature and has had to recuperate. Some unkind critics say that he's suffering from the fact that he didn't get an Oscar from Hollywood. Actually, Dave has an alcohol problem and has to retire and recuperate occasionally.

Regardless of the critics, McDonald is smart to lay low at this time. Under the terms of the Steel Workers' contract, he can't open the contract until May 1 and can't call a strike until 90 days later.

McDonald was singing low regarding any wage increases prior to the skillful upward slide of prices by steel companies. Now you can write it down in a book that the union will come in for heavy demands after May 1.

MISS KAY HALLE, close friend of Winston Churchill and one of those participating in the citizenship ceremonies for him at the White House, had suggested to President Kennedy that a member of the Iroquois tribe from near Palmyra, N. Y., be invited to attend the White House ceremonies. This was because Churchill's great grandmother was one half Iroquois.

The British statesman's great grandfather, a rich planter from Williamstown, Mass., was riding through the woods of western New York when he stopped for a drink of water. A young half-Indian girl, Clarissa Wilcox, brought him water. He vowed to come back and marry her, which subsequently he did.

When her daughter, Clara Hall, married Leonard Jerome, one-fourth owner of the New York Times, it was not admitted that Clara was part Indian. A stigma was attached to such admission in those days. Today, anyone having Indian ancestry boasts of it.

The White House finally vetoed the idea of having an Iroquois present at the citizenship ceremonies, partly because there wasn't time to find a capital representative, also partly because it was feared the invitation would look corny.

UNLIKE last year, the steel industry handled its public relations with superb skill this year. Though the steel moguls pay hundreds of thousands of dollars to public relations experts, last April Roger Blough of U. S. Steel came down to break the bad steel news to Kennedy just one day before a White House press conference. This gave JFK a readymade forum, and he went to town.

This year, the steel moguls waited until the day Kennedy was about to hop off to Palm Beach. His children had already taken the plane south and he was about to embark when he got the bad news. The steel execs were playing it smart. They knew JFK was itching to get away for Easter.

GOV. PAT BROWN of California is trying to clean up the most insidious influence in every election—campaign contributions. He argues that California officials sometimes accept campaign funds from questionable donors during the heat of battle, are likely to do favors for those donors after election.

California, now the biggest state in the union, still doesn't have a law requiring that the names of individual contributors be published. In this respect, California is far behind South Dakota, New Hampshire, and many other states. All a California politician has to do is to list the lump sum of his contributions after the election is over.

"Republicans wouldn't pass a new election bill when they were in office," complains the governor, a Democrat, "and now the Democrats are in control and they won't pass it either."

Northwestern Mutual is owned by its own policy holders, of which there are many. The late Robert Uihlein was a long-time director and the Uihlein family have policies in the company but do not own it. . . Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon has warned the White House that state and city governments are raising taxes as fast as the federal government tries to reduce them. State taxes are expected to rise $1,500,000,000 this year; city taxes $1,000,000,000. The government is trying to reduce taxes $3,000,000,000 at the same time.

No Room at Inns of Bulging Capital

By P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — This, traditionally, has been one of Washington's biggest convention weeks, and the tourist season, which began with a mere trickle of several hundred thousand the week before Easter, has now begun in force, which means that every day here resembles Tournament of Roses day in Pasadena.

This puts quite a burden on the hotels in town, one they meet with a simplicity of approach that is a delight to connoisseurs of such things, if not the tourists and convention people. They meet the crisis by overbooking their rooms with advance reservations, then fill them up on a first-come, first served basis.

This, of course, makes for a full house. The fact that it also makes for long lines of stranded travelers apparently doesn't faze anyone. They simply suggest to them that they try the hotels in Baltimore, a good hour away and about $24 away by cab.

No apologies are offered, nothing, in fact, but the cold stare they teach in hotel school.

The worst of the lot this past week has been the International Inn, one of our newest, whose architecture, design and appointments are enough to make Frank Lloyd Wright turn over in his grave, along with other architectural greats of history back to the second dynasty in ancient Egypt.

Their announcement to tired, distraught travelers in a strange city is simply: "No room at the Inn." They say, "Try Baltimore." or, "I wouldn't care if you were the President of the United States."

The only point to be made to those of you considering a trip to the capitol during our week of trial might be that you take the subject of your advance reservation up with your attorney, let him consult with the hotel's attorney, and get in on an early plane.

HAROLD WILSON, the British Labor party leader, recently visited Washington. He attracted a great deal of attention, partly because he is expected to be Britain's next Prime Minister, and partly because he has been a biting critic of U.S. policies in the past. When Wilson appeared at the Press Club for a speech, he was wearing a tie bearing the insignia of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. "Why the NATO tie?" an American asked a member of the British Embassy staff. "Just to let you blokes know that Harold considers himself still on your side," was the rejoinder.

New JFK Policy on Steel Cheering

WASHINGTON—When Mr. Kennedy in the last few days decided to acquiesce in what are called "selective" price increases in the steel industry, he took a constructive step which will do more to improve the business situation than even a tax cut could do.

LAWRENCE

Confidence on the part of the business world is a difficult thing to measure. Its absence is readily apparent, and its presence is a material factor in encouraging business planning and business expansion.

When Mr. Kennedy this time refrained from using presidential influence on the price-making machinery, he, in effect, proclaimed throughout the business world a message of encouragement. It could change the whole trend in business generally and bring the stimulus that has been lacking during the last 12 months.

But, it is often asked, will not the price increases bring inflation? The answer is to be found in examing the experience of the past with price increases. Sometimes they stick and sometimes they cannot stand up against buyer resistance. But even so, a moderate rise in the cost of materials doesn't always lead to a corresponding price increase by the users.

BUSINESSMEN HESITATE a long time before increasing prices. They want the demand for their products not to diminish but to increase. They want larger and larger volume. It is conceivable that there may be some small increases in prices by users of steel. But the test will be whether a larger volume can be attained.

As for union labor, its leaders are familiar with the "profit squeeze" and also with the high cost of strikes. It will be a year or more before there can be a determination of the extent to which the current price rise will actually increase profits of the steel companies. The outlook in the steel industry for at least a year of progress now has changed for the better.

Mental Illness, Retardation Differ

EDITOR:

In regard to Jim McCauley's article, "This State's Mental Health Program One of Best in U. S." I don't doubt that this is true. However, Mr. McCauley fails to distinguish between the mentally retarded and the mentally ill. Actually, there is an important difference between the two.

The mentally retarded are persons who were born with intelligence below normal, or who suffered permanent brain damage while small. The mentally ill are persons of normal intelligence who have become seriously disturbed or maladjusted.

Outsiders Turned Tide at Little Lake

EDITOR:

We who lost the "Battle of Little Lake" at the polls on April 16th are both shocked and stunned that a campaign of hate, slander, threats, and intimidation could win. Those of us who gave our time, money, and effort to the point of exhaustion did so to preserve our system of basic education for the sake of all children in our little district and also the rest of the nation.

It is difficult to accept the fact that we could lose to a pressure group from outside our district, namely the California Teachers Assn., who has now won control here in Little Lake, and will not stop here, but go on trying to gain control of other good school districts. Tuesday's result would indicate that they can, whenever they are willing to apply all their resources to the job.

Why are so many Americans apathetic about their right to vote and their obligation to examine honest facts before they do? It is time that all voters take a good look at our free country. We must be prepared to work and fight to preserve our freedoms.

Our children represent the future of the United States and it is our duty to help them prepare for their responsibility, that our nation, founded with Trust in God, and a belief in the dignity of the individual, will continue that way.

Paper Praised as Fair, Impartial

EDITOR:

It has been some time since I have stopped and taken the useful time of writing to my newspaper.

I wish to thank you gentlemen for printing a paper in a fair impartial manner. Although I certainly disagree at times with some views taken by your Currents of Opinion column, I find more often than not that I agree wholeheartedly with the editorial. The editorial on capital punishment of April 15, 1963, was excellent.

I enjoy reading certain columnists, particularly David Lawrence and earnestly hope you will continue printing his work.

As for sports and local news, your paper is tops especially for residents of the Los Angeles Harbor, Long Beach and Orange County areas.

Again, thank you and keep up the good work.

Thresher Tested Out of Its Depth

EDITOR:

The 129 men who have most surely perished on the U.S.S. Thresher have left us with a debt greater than the assistance we will provide to their survivors. This great debt shall not be discharged until the men responsible for the location of this test over such depths are identified and removed from authority. This culpable inefficiency on the part of those responsible must not be allowed to continue.

This test not requiring such depths, was being carried out over one and ½ mile depths that exceeded the required depth 10 times over. The 1000 foot limitations of the continental shelf in the vicinity of test surely exceeded anticipated test dives by a wide margin. Any intelligent test procedure must provide limitations, which any failure cannot be allowed to exceed. In this case, the depth to which an accident could plummet the disabled submarine, clearly exceed the operational and design limits. This precluded salvage for study in the event of failure.

In this case the great loss of life and equipment cannot provide any help in preventing future casualties to the other ships of this type. We all know there is a right way, wrong way and Navy way to do things but this is stupidity of the worst sort.

Languages in the News

By Charles F. Boldt and Robert Stevenson-Combs

General de Gaulle has been widely quoted in the French press as saying that the Russians, too, belong to Europe and may some day become part of a European system. Franco-Russian relations have not always been so cordial.

France has twice invaded Russia during the last 150 years, and to this day there are linguistic vestiges of the first invasion, under Napolcon I, in both French and Russian.

The Russian word shval means "a good-for-nothing," and is traceable to the French cheval, "horse." Another Russian word is for "nogoodnik" is shant rapa', which comes from the French expression (il ne) chantera pas — "he won't sing"—said with derision by soldiers of Napoleon's Grande Armee when they could not get a Russian peasant or prisoner to sing local Russian songs for their amusement.

When General Winter (General Zima') joined the Russian General Staff and the French were eventually chased all the way back to Paris by the Cossacks, a new word came into French—the well known bistro. Bistro means "quick" in Russian, and Paris restaurateurs, not averse to making a few francs during the occupation, would entice the Russians into their restaurants with promises that they would be served quickly. This, the Russian word for "quick" became the word for the Frenchman's popular corner restaurant.

In modern times, another Russian word has invaded French and other languages. In French, it is le spoutnik.

Easley Tells Council-Race Aims

(Editor's Note: One in a series on the May 14 Long Beach primary election.)

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

H. M. (Red) Easley, 53, of 125 Hermosa Ave., an automobile salesman, is a candidate for Long Beach City Council in the 2nd District. Bert Bond now holds the office.

Easley said his decision to run and his campaign platform are addressed to what he considers to be practices and programs which need doing and changing, with these specifics:

He opposes autonomy for the city's Water and Harbor Departments, would have them under absolute control of the City Council and thus eliminate a "three-government situation."

Favors negotiated contracts over sealed bids with the aim of giving city business to Long Beach businessmen rather than to out-of-town firms. If sealed bids should be retained, he would favor granting local firms a percentage bidding advantage.

Advocates a close examination of why "we don't have as many ships in our port as we used to," despite our modern Navy landing, port and breakwater.

Says toilet facilities in Bixby Park are in a sorry condition, worse than the back hills of Kentucky, whereas they might be improved with a portion of oil money earmarked for park facilities.

There should be better marking of one-way streets, he says, and remedy for inadequate street signs which often are impossible to see from a driver's vantage point.

Easley is critical, also, of "buses that never run on time and fares that are too high; unkept parkways; irregular and rough patching on streets; not enough small-boat-launching facilities; hazardous, unused railroad tracks on Long Beach Boulevard; irregular sidewalks caused by tree roots and sinking; poorly supervised playgrounds; and unfair shake for this city from taxes it pays to the county.

"It's time the citizens of Long Beach look alive and take an interest in their city and not wait for someone else to do it," said Easley. "I submit they can start by electing a representative who will work in their behalf to the full extent of his ability, with honest, integrity and the desire to have Long Beach become the best city in California."

LEACH ENDORSED

Brose Leach, City Council candidate in the 9th District, announced he had received the endorsement of local 692, International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

In a talk to the local's membership, Leach expressed a need for better understanding in the City Council of "the needs and desires of the everyday working people."

He also stressed the importance of passage of Proposition A on the June 4 ballot, underwriting financing of World's Fair buildings. He said it would increase employment, especially in the construction and material-supply businesses.

Arizona's Survivors Stage Reunion Here

A memorial reunion of former officers and men who served aboard the USS Arizona, sunk at Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, was held Saturday at the Lafayette Hotel.

Samuel Rose, chief of the central office contact division of the Veteran's Administration was featured speaker.

In recounting America's progress in the two decades since the sinking of the Arizona, Rose said,

"The world has been brought into the age of the atom, the age when man finally achieved the power to blow himself off the globe or to harness this energy and create a new and better way of life for everyone.

"These two decades," the VA officer told the meeting, "ushered in more change, more lasting revolutions, on more fronts than any two decades ever before in the thousands upon thousands of years man has inhabited this earth."

Joe Keehan, of 811 Locust Ave., served as chairman for the reunion.

Chiropractors' Work as M.D. in Rehman's Clinic Told to Jurors

By BOB SCHMIDT

The conspiracy trial of Dr. Jerome Rehman will close out its seventh month this week, after surprise testimony Friday by a defense witness that he observed a chiropractor engage in medical procedures at Dr. Rehman's Avalon Clinic.

Dr. James Patrick McGrady, who worked from 1958 to 1961 for Dr. Rehman as a physician and assistant surgeon at the clinic, 535 E. 231st St., discussed the chiropractor during cross-examination by Dep. Dist. Atty. John A. Marin.

* * * * *

HE TESTIFIED that there were two chiropractors working at the clinic while he was there. Asked by Marin about their functions, Dr. McGrady replied:

"Yes, well, you know, if he had a laceration, he would . . . he would clean it up, clean out the wound, put a bandage on after he sewed it up."

Several years ago, a doctor's license was suspended for permitting a chiropractor to put stitches in a patient, a representative of the district attorney's office said.

Asked what other functions he saw the chiropractor perform, Dr. McGrady answered that "he did some manipulation."

Dr. McGrady had testified earlier, under direct examination by attorney Milton Emlein, that he worked three years at Avalon Clinic, saw hundreds of patients and never was told by Dr. Rehman how to practice medicine. He said the diagnoses he made were his alone and were not influenced by Dr. Rehman.

One of the allegations against Dr. Rehman is that he performed unnecessary surgery and prescribed excessive hospitalization.

Dr. McGrady also testified that he saw Dr. Rehman perform certain operations, with which, a prosecution witness had testified, Dr. Rehman was unfamiliar. Dr. McGrady said Dr. Rehman performed the operations several years before the prosecution witness, a nurse, joined his staff.

* * * * *

EARLIER, another defense witness, Dr. Irving M. Cyril, testified he never had given Dr. Rehman "instruction" in the course of an operation.

This contradicted another prosecution witness, who had testified she heard Dr. Cyril instructing Dr. Rehman on surgical techniques in an operation Dr. Rehman was performing.

Dr. Rehman and three other men are charged with conspiring to commit acts injurious to public health. Their trial, which began Sept. 26, will resume Monday at 9:30 a.m.

RED MEN STILL LOSING BATTLES

Indian Pride Balks Aid

By MARK CLUTTER

The Longknives — U.S. Cavalry — ended the last Indian wars before the turn of the century — but thousands of Indians today still are losing their personal battles with the white man's world.

They come to the big cities from reservations where hunting, fishing and a little farming still are a way of life. They bring few skills — and proud souls that often prove their undoing.

* * * *

BOB BABCOCK, manager of Indian Center, Inc., 2920 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, described the unhappy fates that overtake many of the estimated 27,000 Indians in Los Angeles County.

"When an Indian has troubles, he quits talking," Babcock said. "He withdraws into himself. He won't seek help or mix with people. His wife may be afraid to even leave the house."

People from 30 tribes seek the aid of the Indian Center, said Babcock, who is half Blackfoot. The Center provides food or clothing, if needed, gives advice, helps in obtaining legal counsel, provides social events and sells Indian arts and crafts.

* * * *

"THE PEOPLE who have the most trouble in Los Angeles area are Plains Indians," he said. "They come from states like the Dakotas, and they find adjusting to the big city very difficult. Some of them can't take it and go back. Others stay and make good.

"The children often do better than their elders. There is very little delinquency, and they usually get along well in school."

One mistake that people make in dealing with Indians results from not understanding differences between the tribes. An Indian is not just an Indian; he is a member of a culture. Each tribe has its own way of life, its own customs and ideals.

"People who want to help Indians had better understand the Indians they are helping," Babcock said. "It is important not to hurt their pride or offend their tribal customs. It is also important to find out what they need."

* * * *

HE TOLD of a mission that receives many boxes of clothes. The mission priest told him he could do more with the postage than with the clothes. These Indians simply don't need more clothes than they have.

California Indians and Navajos have the least trouble in adapting to the city, he said. The Navajos have a strong tribal government, and the Californians are mostly in good economic situations.

Liquor, contrary to popular opinion, is not a serious Indian problem.

* * * *

"ONCE IN a while drink becomes a problem for an Indian, just as it does for a white man," Babcock said. "There are a few drifters to whom it is a very serious problem."

The Indian Center is not classified as a charity because Indians do not want charity. All the personnel donate their time.

Dancing looms large on the social calendar. The adults remember the traditional dances, but the teen-agers prefer standard teen-age dancing.

—Staff Photo

TRIBAL DISTRUST of the white man and his ways—including the magic of his camera—is expressed by these scowling young Navajos in front of the family hogan. If brought to a big city, they will adapt more easily than their parents, Indian leader says.

U.S., Australia OK Agree on GI Custody

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) —Australia and the United States will sign a status of forces agreement soon to cover American servicemen working on high atmosphere and other projects, the government said.

Under the agreement, the United States will deal with its own men for offenses against U.S. laws and Australia will take over cases involving offenses against Australian laws.

Civic Beautifying Awards to Be Given

The Civic Beautification Committee of the Women's Division of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce has invited public nominations for its 1963 Community Awards.

Awards will be presented for outstanding landscaping, exterior housekeeping and architecture in the following categories of structures: industrial, business, commercial and professional buildings, churches, clubs, schools and public agencies, storage yards, lumber, brick and sand, wrecking and second hand lots, service stations, drive-ins, auto washes and parking lots, parks, golf courses and recreation areas.

The deadline for nominations is May 1. Judges will visit all buildings and lots nominated and the winners will be saluted during PAINT-UP, FIX-UP, CLEAN-UP week May 24 to May 31.

Residential buildings are excluded from the awards.

Names and addresses of firms and institutions to be considered for the awards should be sent to Civic Beautification Committee, Chamber of Commerce, 121 Linden Ave.

Nazi Hess Will Be 69 on Friday

BERLIN (AP)—Adolf Hitler's onetime deputy, Rudolf Hess, will be 69 Friday behind the bars at Spandau war crimes prison. It will be his 22nd birthday as a prisoner. He was captured in May, 1941, when he flew to Scotland.

There will be no birthday greeting and no special treatment for the former deputy fuehrer. If he continues the pattern set several years ago, it's a safe bet that he will spend the day harassing his guards.

"He is a thoroughly vicious man and always tries to get a guard or other prison worker into trouble," a knowledgeable source said recently.

"He will ask guards and warders to do things which he knows are against prison rules. Then, when one of them complies because he feels sorry for the old man, Hess reports him to an officer."

Hess refuses to receive visitors although he is allowed one 30-minute visit a month.

He is serving a life term for war crimes. The only other prisoners in Spandau, Baldur von Schirach and Albert Speer, are serving 20 years.

The prison is ruled jointly by the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France. Troops of the four nations rotate the major guard duty.

500 Church Leaders to Meet in L.B.

More than 500 leaders will attend the 21st annual national convention of the American Council of Christian Churches, to be held here Tuesday through Friday.

Headquarters for the day sessions will be the Breakers International Hotel with evening meetings set for Municipal Auditorium.

* * * *

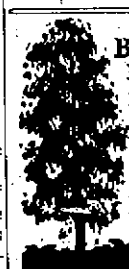

AMONG nationally prominent churchmen who will speak are Dr. Carl McIntire, president of the International Council of Christian Churches; Dr. H. C. Slade, editor of the Gospel Witness, and Dr. Raymond F. Hamilton, president of the American Council.

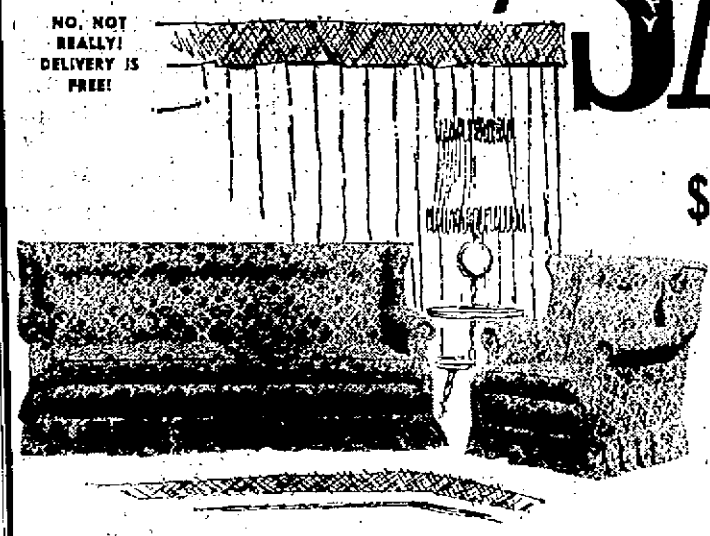

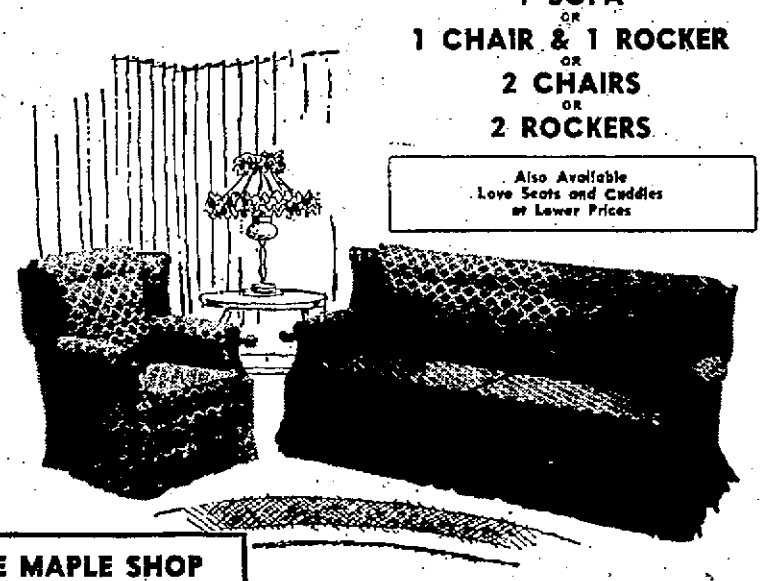

The council represents some 2½ million fundamental believers.

Navy Reserve Base Plans Radio Show

A series of 15-minute radio variety shows is being produced by the Long Beach Naval Reserve Training Center, 4122 Orangewood Ave., Los Alamitos, for distribution among radio stations in Southern California.

The pre-taped shows will salute various cities in Los Angeles and Orange counties. Long Beach will be the subject of the first show with Mayor Edwin W. Wade featured.

Chief Journalist William Barrymore, USNR, of 1032 Cherry Ave., has been appointed by Capt. Anthony D. Christopher, commanding officer of the training center, to produce the shows. Barrymore has produced a number of radio shows for the Navy.

* * * *

NAVAL RESERVE personnel and talented amateurs from this area will provide most of the talent for the shows, Barrymore said. Interviews with naval and civilian dignitaries will also be included.

The first show of the series is expected to feature an interview with Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz on American education, several numbers by the Western Avenue High School a cappella choir of Anaheim and the San Diego Naval Base band, Barrymore said.

Omarr Reads the Stars

By SYDNEY OMARR

FORECAST FOR TODAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Brighter outlook today, as moon moves to your sign. Emphasis continues on finances. But situation now turns favorable. Stress unity, family harmony, spiritual growth. Fine for quiet evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Sun enters your sign. You are in spotlight, and could be asked opinions. Close one may confide secret. Be charming, wise and remain discreet. Dress; highlight personal appearance.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Emphasis on hopes, wishes, ambitions, opportunity for making new friends. You could receive sensitive flash which might affect immediate future. Have faith in your own ability, be self then "steal thing."

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): You are due to receive "boost" up ladder. Be appreciative. Take avantage of opportunity. Display sense of humor. Delay details. Too much excitement to attend to routine matters!

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): You may be looking too far into future. There are some present concerns which require attention. Key is preparation. Be sure you have loose ends tied. Don't trust to luck today.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Much that appears beautiful at first glance, might end up having "blemishes." Means look beyond cover. Dig deep. Be sure you know what you're getting into. Excellent day for self-analysis.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Aim for the top. Cooperate with family members. Attend church of choice. Do things to enhance standing in community. Discuss plans for self-improvement. Day to plan.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Plenty of pressure, but relief due if you are patient. Exciting day to make discoveries. Keep eyes open. Listen. Put two-and-two together. Revelation due. Be ready!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Good day for short journeys, vacation planning, get-togethers with relatives. Take initiative in offering friendship. Strive for maturity, joy which comes from giving.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Use day to "clean house," catch up on details. Clear away clutter. Stress clarity. Find out where you stand. Answer questions concerning motives, desires, ambitions. Don't deceive yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Emphasis on willingness to take chance on your own abilities. Status quo will not do. Find out why you have been restless. Seek new directions, spiritual counsel.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Pace slows somewhat. Be grateful! Gain strength, conserve energy. Rest, relax, plan. Be with loved ones. Express yourself. Exchange ideas. Delight can be obtained from right associations.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . your outstanding characteristic is ability to help others in time of "stress." You have qualities of steadiness, determination—and humor.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Opposing forces "dig in." The end of a negotiating period. Points have been made and decision is imminent.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY

ARIES (March 21 to April 19): Cycle high. Exercise initiative. Sales ability at peak. You can now perform valuable services. Have confidence. Be original, unique. Turn on Aries personal magnetism, charm!

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Pressure due to expectations of others. Take limelight in stride. Key is prosper hap-ning. You can't please everyone. So don't try. Be sensible. Hold on to recent profits.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Friendships featured. Means inroads are being made upon recent streak of loneliness. Be cheerful, versatile, ready to entertain visitors. Key is expansion.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Be wary today. But not chronically sceptical. Means give others benefit of doubt. By giving in even a little, you receive much. Chance to improve position, standing. Take it!

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Change highlights day. Good Lunar aspects sparks imagination, fiery drive, creative abilities. Don't "vegetate." Read, travel, ask questions. Give fame to "special person."

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Recent time spent analyzing conditions around you bears fruit. You can now understand motives of loved one. Includes family member who was recently "irritating." Get budget in order.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Don't try to "pull the wool" over eyes of the public. Be open, sincere, above-board in business and personal relations. Be truthful. You then move toward happiness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Kind of day which may make you feel everyone else is out of step! Seems the more you do, the less credit received. Key is steady pace. Credit is due—you will soon get double helping!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): The more you strive to please, the more others may "lean" on you. Be helpful. But also insist that associates, friends, relatives carry their share of weight. Be guided by Golden Rule.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Day when strength is tested . . . strength of character, determination, willingness to back up beliefs. Be sure, confident. Better to start than to linger over "side" projects.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Past premises, responsibilities, ideals push into current scene. Calm attitude, based on quiet reflection, wins day. Reaction of public may be difficult to assess. Stress diplomacy.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Check possessions, opportunities for added income. Be especially considerate of family. "Spread-sheiner." Flash wonderful PISCES smile. Other encouragement, suggestions. Be available.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you are extremely independent, willing and able to break from authority and experiment.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle up for Pisces, Aries, Taurus. Special word to Libra: More attention than you imagine . . . from sources in authority.

Self-Service Carts for Baggage in Use

NEW YORK (AP)—Fifty self-service carts — similar to supermarket carts—have been put into use in Grand Central Terminal for the convenience of railroad passengers.

"A man's job is going," a porter remarked ruefully.

The carts, introduced by the New York Central Railroad, enable passengers to move their luggage between the trains and taxicab stands. Porter service, however, still remains available.

The carts also are available to passengers arriving or departing on New Haven Railroad trains.

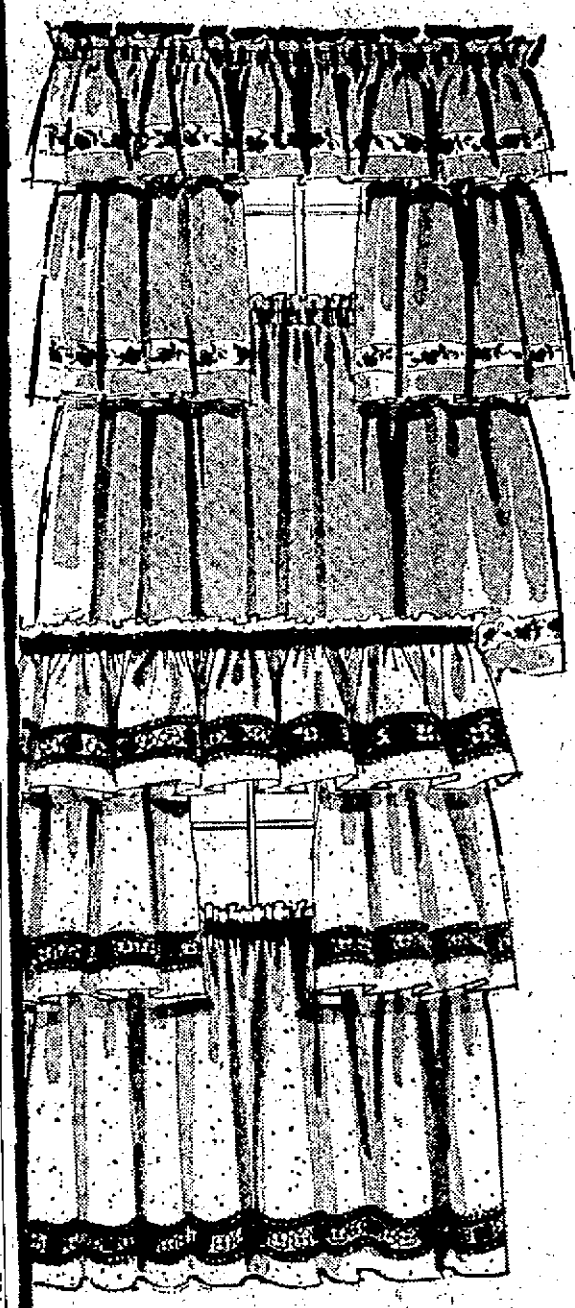

Pointed Shoes Back— Bunions Are, Too

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Dr. Louis W. Breck, an orthopedic surgeon of El Paso, Tex., said in San Francisco that bunions were common 25-30 years ago when women were wearing pointed toe shoes, adding:

"The incidence is increasing very rapidly today due to the renewed popularity of the pointed toes."

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Will Steel Hikes Affect Wage-Price Stability?

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The dam broke for steel price increases this week.

The plug was pulled when U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's biggest producer, joined in the selective boosts initiated eight days earlier by relatively small Wheeling Steel Corp.

Big and small companies came tumbling after and soon the move had spilled through virtually the entire industry.

No further comment came from President Kennedy, who had indicated after Wheeling's action that selective increases would be acceptable.

The boosts averaged about 3 per cent with U.S. Steel posting the smallest ones. The increases covered less than 50 per cent of production.

* * * *

MANY QUESTIONS remained to be answered in the wake of the price boosts. They included:

Will there be a rise in prices of consumer goods using steel?

Will the United Steelworkers Union harden its demands?

Will wage-price stability be affected generally?

Most steel users said they were studying the new price schedules and that it was too early to tell what might happen.

The union remained silent. It can reopen its contract for wage negotiations May 1 and would be free to strike 90 days later.

It was far too early, also, to determine the effect on a wide range of wages and prices. Kennedy has said that what he wants to avoid is an inflationary spiral.

* * * *

A STEEL industry publication, Iron Age, expressed the opinion that "demand for steel is strong enough to sustain most increases."

Frederick Kappel, chairman of American Telephone & Telegraph Co., said the steel price raise "is one of the good things that has happened to the economy. It could be a blessing in disguise."

He added that the fact "President Kennedy stayed out" may help what he sees as a new confidence about business.

While interest was centered on the cascade of price boost announcements, steel production reached the highest level in three years. Output last week totaled 2,464,000 tons, up 2.1 per cent from the previous week. The industry operated at an estimated 80 per cent of its capacity.

* * * *

MUCH OF the heavy demand came from the automobile industry, where an estimated 159,000 passenger cars came off assembly lines this week. This compares with 152,694 last week and 146,215 a year ago.

Sales continued heavy but the rate of gain over a year ago fell off somewhat. Dealers delivered 219,063 cars in the first days of April, 1 per cent above a year earlier and a record for the period. However, in the first three months of this year sales were 10 per cent above a year ago.

A move toward smoothing labor relations in the auto industry was made when Ford Motor Co. and General Motors Corp. agreed to set up joint study committees with the United Auto Workers Union to prepare for new contract negotiations next year.

ELSEWHERE in the economy, personal income, housing starts and industrial output rose.

Personal income advanced in March to an annual rate of $452.7 billion, about $1.6 billion above February. For the first three months of this year the rate was $452.1 billion, $20.1 billion ahead of the 1962 first quarter.

The rate of housing starts last month rose to the highest in four months — 1,494,000 annually. This was 17 per cent ahead of the February level.

* * * *

TOTAL output of factories, mines and utilities reached a record in March. The Federal Reserve Board said its index of industrial production rose to 120.4 per cent of the 1957-59 average from 119.4 in February. The old record of 119.8 was set last September.

In the aerospace industry, Boeing Co. and the AFL-CIO Machinists Union agreed on a new contract, averting a strike that government sources ha dsaid would hamper the nation's space and defense programs.

Briefly around the business scene: New York Life Insurance Co. issued a $7 million policy on the life of a California business man. . . . Trading in stock of the bankrupt New Haven Railroad has been discontinued on the New York Stock Exchange. . . . A $50 million Air Force contract for rocket motors was awarded to Tiokol Chemical Co., Lockheed Propulsion Co. and Aerojet-General Corp.

MRS. AMERICA

Hope to Learn If Husbands Are Hen-Pecked

MIAMI (UPI)—Sociologists hope to learn this week whether Mrs. America candidates have hen-pecked husbands.

Secret ballots will be taken from the husbands of the 51 Mrs. America candidates. It is hoped they will show whether the candidates are perfect wives—as their titles proclaim them to be—or something less.

Competing in the contest, which will be decided April 27, are representatives from 50 states and the district of Columbia.

Their husbands will be asked "do you feel you are hen-pecked and why and do you mind it?" and "What do you think of your mother-in-law and father-in-law?"

The unsigned ballots will have no effect on the contest.

Computers to Do City Accounting

Long Beach's municipal accounting will be converted to automation during the next 15 months with the installation of an electronic high-speed computer system estimated to save $700,000 within seven years.

After a year's study, city officials have signed an agreement with International Business Machines Corp. for setting up the EDP (electronic data processing) system to replace punch-card tabulating machines. Although only six years old, the latter are already considered obsolete.

Cost of the installation is placed at $245,000, plus a monthly rental of $9,290. The city also has the option of purchasing the equipment within two years at a cost of $437,000.

* * * *

THE NATIONALLY-known consulting firm of Booz, Allen & Hamilton recommended the advance into automation after a study that began last April. IBM was selected as the contractor in competition with bids from five other firms.

Beginning in the summer of 1964, EDP will handle mountains of paper work such as general cost accounting, utility billing, tax bills, oil production accounting and water-injection records. The last is expected to expand on a big scale when the offshore oil field is developed.

One major saving will come from the fact that EDP will process during one eight-hour shift a volume of work greater than now keeps three shifts busy on a round-the-clock schedule, according to Samuel M. Roberts, head of the Administrative Management Department.

Machines now in use have a capacity of some 125 lines per minute. The new installation will print 600 lines a minute — error-proof if correctly programmed.

* * * *

THE EDP BATTERY will be installed on the second floor of the Municipal Utilities Building, where it will be operated by the commercial division of the Gas Department. One cost item is $55,000 for remodeling and air conditioning that section of the Utilities Building.

Roberts said the computer system will be the equal, from a standpoint of automated efficiency, of the most advanced in use by any local government.

Finding jobs for personnel to be displaced is not considered a problem. Opportunities for employment in this field are greater than the supply of trained operators, Roberts said.

SURFACE BARELY SCRAPED

WHERE'S OUR HONOR, ETHICS?

'Gambling Scandals to Hit All Sports'

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—"We have not scraped the surface of our gambling scandals," a prominent college athletic official said recently. "Mark my words, there will be many more of them and they will infest every sport.

"But what can we expect? We have undermined the principles of our finest young men. Our colleges stoop to the lowest, reprehensible methods to grab a star athlete. They pay him off under the table. They make him a toy god.

"The emphasis is on winning. You have to go big time, or else. So we lose all sight of ethics and codes of honor."

These words, by executive director Al Duer of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, have been echoed by such men as Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, and Judges Saul S. Streit and Joseph A. Sarafite, who dealt out sentences in 1951 and 1961 basketball scandals.

They came to roost again this week when two of the most prominent players in the National Football League—Golden Boy Paul Hornung of the champion Green Bay Packers and giant tackle Alex Karras of the Detroit Lions—were handed indefinite suspensions for betting on games.

Five other members of the Lions were fined $2,000 each for making a friendly wager on the outcome of the Green Bay-New York title game. The Detroit club was slapped with a $4,000 penalty for failing to take proper action on police charges that players were associating with unsavory characters.

This is the most widespread disciplinary action ever for the exciting gridiron sport, whose mushrooming popularity is filling vast ball parks on autumn Sunday afternoons and challenging baseball as the national pastime.

BUT PEOPLE ARE ASKING: Is this the extent of the pro football mess? Where and when will the betting scandals hit next? Can baseball, zealously guarded and almost inviolate since the "Black Sox Scandal" of 1919, be drawn again into the ugly web?

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate investigation subcommittee, taking little for granted. "We're still investigating the overall picture," he warned.

It's a broad, evasive and apparently insolvable problem.

Betting is in the nation's blood, whether it's nickels or $1,000 bills, legal or illegal.

Close to $3 billion is poured through parimutuel machines yearly at the thoroughbred and harness racing tracks, with Uncle Sam's full okay.

Weekend golf foursomes think nothing of playing two-bit or $10 Nassau. At the big golf tournaments, players are sometimes auctioned off openly in Calcutta pools, and it's easy to place a wager—for $1 or $10,000—on your favorite player with an unofficial bookie at the 19th hole.

By far the heaviest illegal betting, however, is on football games—pro and college.

The big bettors are the men who follow the pros. They consult handicappers and take their plunge on one game at a time, giving or taking points.

THIS HAS POPULARIZED THE "point spread," which has become an everyday commodity provided by a sports information service operating out of Minneapolis.

They figure the odds. The Giants, for instance, may be made 7-point favorites over Green Bay. If you bet the Giants, they must win by at least 8 points if you are to collect. If you bet Green Bay, you score on any differential, win or lose, underneath the spread.

Then there are the dime and dollar bettors—the college boys, soda jerks and office workers—who try their luck with the football cards, which flood the country in season.

These cards, with appropriate odds, offer a list of 25 or 30 games. The bettor circles four or more choices and gets a receipt. If he picks four correctly, he is paid off at the rate of 10-1. Ten out of ten choices can bring as much as 150-1.

The cards are sent to local pushers, often students on campuses, who take bets from ten cents to ten dollars or more.

It was this seemingly innocent enterprise which trapped and ruined the careers of two University of Michigan athletic stars back in 1958.

They were Tony Rio, a first string fullback, and Jack Lewis, the basketball captain, arrested with five other students for operating a ring which sold football cards on the campus. The project netted about $10,000 a week on the Michigan campus, police said.

It was the innovation of the point spread which turned college basketball into a monstrous scandal that sucked scores of the nation's finest players and most reputable teams into its clutches.

In 1951, 33 players representing seven colleges—

COLTS WIN, 9-6

Dodgers in 7th Place!

By GEORGE LEDERER

The Dodgers produced a season record of six runs Saturday, but also exceeded any previous sloppiness afield and stumbled back into seventh place.

Two of three errors by Maury Wills accounted for four unearned Houston runs as the Colts galloped to a 9-6 decision.

Only bright spot of a bleak afternoon for the Dodgers was the slugging of Frank Howard, who postponed his debut in spectacles and made his average a spectacular .447 with two singles and a double in four chances.

Howard plans to wear glasses for the first time this afternoon when the series concludes with a doubleheader. He'll continue the slow break-in process by wearing them in only one game.

* * * *

HOWARD didn't specify the game, which may be the Dodgers' best strategy of the season.

Don Nottebart, a 5-4 winner over the Dodgers at Houston, had an easier time of it Saturday, although he again failed to finish. He enjoyed a 9-3 edge going into the eighth inning.

At this juncture, the Dodgers had been restricted to five hits and one earned run. When Nottebart missed with his first two pitches to Ron Fairly, with Dodgers on second and third, and one out, Don McMahon relieved and eventually restored order.

A double by John Roseboro chased home two runs after Fairly lined out and a single by Willie Davis completed the Dodgers' second three-run inning of the year. Jim Gilliam had opened the eighth with a walk and Howard followed with a double off the Houston bullpen screen.

Dodger pitching, which boasted a 1.34 earned run average going in, also failed for the first time this season. Loser Johnny Podres allowed six runs in 3⅔ innings after giving up only a half-dozen in his last 31 innings.

* * * *

PODRES also was guilty of a balk, his first in three years and the Dodgers' first this season. His successors, Ken Rowe and Jack Smith, let loose three wild pitches, two producing runs.

DODGER OF DAY

FRANK HOWARD singled twice and doubled, raising average to .447, as Dodgers lost to Houston, 9-6.

The Colts, who have had nine balks called against them in 11 games, finally received the benefit of one when they broke on top, 2-0, in the third inning.

Nottebart, who helped himself with two singles, a walk and two runs scored, singled with one out in the third. Carroll Hardy followed with a double just out of Howard's reach and Nottebart scored as Johnny Temple blooped a single to right. Hardy crossed when first base umpire John Pryor detected Podres balking.

Wildness by Podres and Rowe made it possible for Houston to score four times on two singles and Wills' first error in the fourth. With one run in and two out, Podres walked Nottebart and Hardy to fill the bases.

* * * *

ROWE'S first pitch was wild, allowing J. C. Hartman to score and two runs followed when Wills muffed Temple's grounder.

The Colts made it 8-2 in the seventh when Wills dropped Rowe's force attempt at second and rookie catcher John Bateman doubled home

Dodgers Cut-Price Day Set

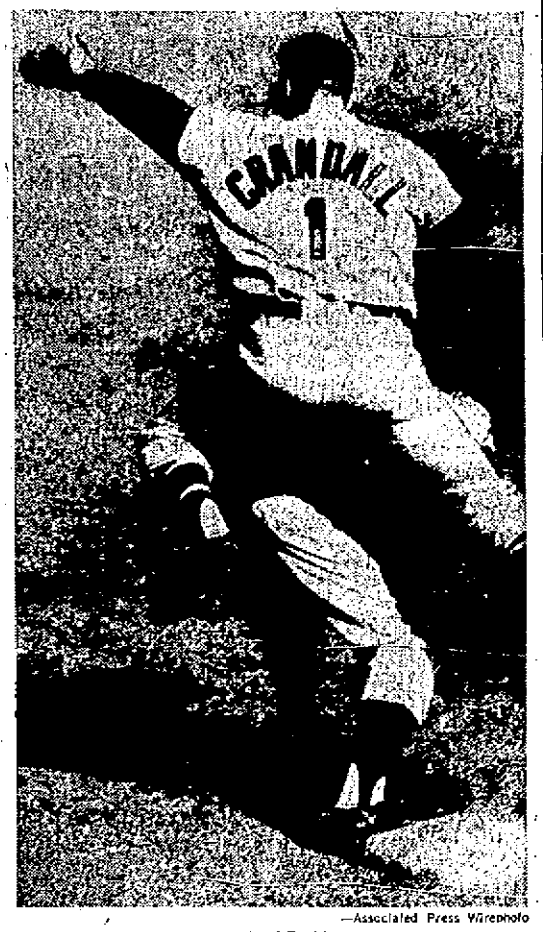

The Independent, Press-Telegram again is offering for its readers a chance to see the Dodgers for half-price . . . this time, however, Long Beach's "Two-for-One" ticket day will be Sunday, May 19, when the Dodgers engage Casey Stengel's Mets in a DOUBLEHEADER!

The reader simply has to complete the ticket blank on page two of today's sports section and enclose a check or money order for HALF the total value of the requested seats.

All applications MUST be sent directly to the Dodgers this year — NOT the Independent, Press-Telegram. (Any applications or money sent to these newspapers will be returned to the sender!)

Deadline for all "Two-for-One" requests is May 13. Tickets will be allocated first-come, first served.

The Independent, Press-Telegram also again will sponsor a batboy contest in conjunction with Long Beach Day May 19. The Dodgers will allow the winner to sit on their bench, supply him with a uniform and give him an autographed baseball.

13,668 See Jet Deck Triumph

By ERNIE MASON

Jet Deck came roaring out of the No. 10 starting post and after being bumped got into high gear to capture the Pacific Coast Quarter Horse Racing Association Derby Saturday at Los Alamitos before a crowd of 13,668, which backed the J. C. Chambers star down to 1-5 favoritism.

Jet Deck, with veteran Charles Smith up, went the 440 yard distance of the classic for quarter horses in 21.9, three-tenths of a second off the record set by Pokey Bar last year in this same Derby.

Moolah Bar, a hard-hitting filly, got up for second in the 10-horse field with Chudej's Rhoda, another filly, taking third.

Jet Deck returned $2.60, $2.40 and $2.20 to his faithful fans and picked up $12,500 of the $25,000 purse for owner Chambers of Denver. The victory gave the son of Moon Deck a total bankroll to date of $152,504. This is $10,039 short of the all-time money winning earnings for Pokey Bar.

Jet Deck still has a chance to pick up another $8,250 from the $15,000 Los Alamitos

Angels Nip Loss Skein

By ROSS NEWHAN
L. P-T Staff Writer

KANSAS CITY — Medical bulletins from the Muelebach Hotel indicated that flu-bedded Bill Rigney took a decided turn for the better at 6:54 (PST) Saturday night.

That was the moment the Angels snapped a three-game losing streak and an aggravating batting slump with a 7-4 victory over Kansas City's tarnished green and gold.

Del Rice was again in command and finally nailed his second victory in eight tries at the Angels' helm. The Angels did not exactly explode out of their slump, but crept out with a 13-hit attack featured by the thumping of Lee Thomas.

* * * *

MAD DOG bit off four hits, each contributing to an Angel scoring rally, as he lifted his average to .357.

Julio Navarro saved Dean Chance's first victory, but Kansas City manager Eddie Lopat may have been the Angels' real saviour. Trailing only 4-2, Lopat let rookie Dave Thies suffer through a three-run Angel ninth which put the Seraphs out of reach.

Had Lopat lifted Thies quickly, the A's would have had a chance to retain their American League lead, for they scored twice in the final frame.

Chance was not exactly awe-inspiring, but he had limited the A's to only one run when Ed Charles, Chuck Essegian and George Alusik ripped back-to-back bases filling singles in the sixth.

That sent Rice boiling out of the dugout and brought Mel Nelson into the stew. The Angel southpaw got Haywood Sullivan on an infield pop, but when he walked Bobby Del Greco, trimming an Angel advantage to 3-2, Rice put Navarro to work.

Navarro pitched the acting manager into the genius category by retiring Dick Howser on an infield fly and Gino Cimoli via a third strike.

* * * *

THE ANGELS' favorite Puerto Rican export did not allow another hit until Howser singled in the ninth. A triple by Cimoli and Jerry Lumpe's sacrifice fly produced two runs, but by then Lopat was asking for a second chance.

ANGEL OF THE DAY

LEE THOMAS had four hits and lifted his average to .357 as Angels trimmed Athletics 7-4.

The Angels put their right foot forward, scoring twice off Diego Segui in the opening round. A single by Billy Moran, L. Thomas' triple and Leon Wagner's fielder's choice put the green and gold in a 2-0 hole.

Chance yielded a run on a walk, infield out, and Siebern's single in the third, but the Angels got it back in the fifth on singles by Albie Pearson, running a hitting streak to 10 games, Moran, L. Thomas and Leon Wagner's sacrifice fly.

L. Thomas' double following Pearson's walk accounted for the fifth Angel run in the seventh, and Mad Dog's single started the tell-tale ninth's rally.

* * * *

AS THIES cast a mournful eye at the quiet bullpen, Wagner singled, Bobby Rodgers walked, Felix Torres singled and Jim Fregosi singled.

The victory was the Angels' second in six games on this trip and left the team

Pierce's Legend Ruined by Cubs

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The legend of Billy Pierce's invincibility at Candlestick Park ended Saturday when Bob Buhl pitched the Chicago Cubs to a 4-0 victory over San Francisco and their veteran southpaw.

Buhl limited the explosive Giants to a pair of singles in the first eight innings before he left the game with a stiff shoulder.

The former Milwaukee Brave was replaced in the ninth by Lindy McDaniel who ended the game by fanning Willie McCovey and Orlando Cepeda after Jim Davenport had singled and reached second on a balk.

Buhl raised his season mark to 1-1, and now has a lifetime record of 15-15 against the Giants. The only hits off him were a Texas League single in the sixth inning by pinch hitter Matty Alou and another one base hit off the bat of Jose Pagan.

Pierce, who never had lost at Candlestick since the Giants acquired him from the Chicago White Sox, was going for his 15th win on home grounds. But he did not survive the fifth.

Now 1-1, Pierce was tagged for five hits and charged with all the Cub runs, one of which was unearned.

CELTS EYE CLINCHER TONIGHT

BOSTON (AP)—Boston can become the first team in pro basketball history to win five straight playoff championships by beating the Los Angeles Lakers tonight. Coach Red Auerbach says his Celtics will do just that with a combination of "hustle and Russell."

Los Angeles coach Fred Schaus concedes nothing about the game except that "this is it." By edging the Lakers 108-105 Friday night, the Celtics took a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven NBA title series.

Remarkable Bill Russell, Celtics pivotman who controlled the boards Friday night, and hot-shooting Tommy Heinsohn are the players to whom the Lakers must find better defensive answers if their playoff lives are to be extended.

The proud Bostonians expect to be doubly tough now, sensing the kill and the fulfillment of a promise to land the top prize once more for retiring captain Bob Cousy. In addition, the Celtics are anxious to prove predictions premature that the Lakers, who barely missed dethroning them last year, would do it this season.

KHJ (9) TV, 5 p.m.

Boston's job, as usual, will be to hold super-stars Elgin Baylor and Jerry West to a combined total of 60 points and put the defensive clamps on the rest, especially Dick Barnett, who collected 26 points in the most recent encounter.

Russell scored 22 points, including the clinchers, Friday while doing a standout job off the boards. Heinsohn had 35 points.

So far the Lakers haven't solved the riddle of how to get the ball more often from Russell, Tom Sanders and Heinsohn with their front line.

The Laker task is staggering. Only once before in NBA annals has a team been down 1-3 in games and pulled out the title.

Senators Crack Yankee Hex, 7-1

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Washington's Dave Stenhouse hurled a five-hit 7-1 victory over the New York Yankees Saturday night to break a hex the world champions have held over the Senators in their own ballpark.

Stenhouse was helped by a lusty 13-hit Senator attack that included homers by Marv Breeding and Larry Osborne and two triples and a pair of singles by Chuck Hinton.

Every Senator, including Stenhouse got at least one hit off four New York pitchers who saw duty.

It marked the first time the Yankees had lost in 11 games played in the new district of Columbia Stadium which opened last season.

The Senators found Yankee starter Bill Stafford easy pickings. Breeding whacked his first pitch of the game for a homer and one out later, Hinton tripled and Osborne homered. Another three-run Senator scoring burst drove Stafford out in the third.

Veeck Toasts (!) O'Malley

Sunday is sermon day, so today we'd like to offer a few pearls from the pulpit of Bill Veeck, who really takes apart baseball in his tremendously interesting new book, "Veeck—As In Wreck."

BILL VEECK
Book Tells All

Veeck, who hopes to return to baseball soon (but probably won't after the printing of his book), really takes off on Commissioner Ford Frick and the Yankees' Del Webb and George Weiss, in particular.

Of special interest to this corner, however, was a chapter dedicated to the Angel franchise in Los Angeles. Veeck, then with the Chicago White Sox, stood almost alone in protesting the way expansion was coming to the American League. He especially objected to the manner in which Dodger president Walter O'Malley had dictated terms to both the American League and Frick.

Some of Veek's amusing and bitter comments follow:

"Our battle ended on December 7 (a date which Roosevelt, in a flash of prescience, once characterized nicely), in a joint meeting of the two leagues presided over by Frick and his commanding officer, Walter O'Malley. O'Malley, like Gen. MacArthur, affects a cigarette holder.

"The vote was 6-2, with only Chicago and Cleveland voting against accepting O'Malley's terms for the Angels.

"Worst of all, we humiliated ourselves and downgraded our league.

"'I want you to know,' said the commissioner to the press, 'that without the complete cooperation of Mr. O'Malley, baseball would have been in one of the damndest messes ever seen.'

"It was nice to know that Frick was suitably grateful to O'Malley for being willing to accept everything that O'Malley had asked for.

"Said the cooperative Mr. O'Malley: 'The commissioner steered a straight course. If he had lost his sense of direction, we would have wound up in an awful mess.'

"I don't know about that. If the commissioner had lost his sense of direction, I have every confidence that Walter would have propped him up again and pointed the way!"

"I have to give the commissioner credit for being so alert, though. He and O'Malley made certain that Gene Autry didn't fill his saddlebags full of money and ride off into the sunset.

"As far as I know, the contract the Autry group signed with O'Malley for Chavez Ravine has never been made public. But I am not far off, I can guarantee you, in saying they will be paying him something around $1,000,000 in rental fees over the four years. In addition, O'Malley is their concessionaire, another source of profits.

"There is no doubt, pardners, who's the top gun in Los Angeles.

"It was the most brutal thing I have ever seen in my life. And yet, I have to make one reservation. Autry went into it with his eyes open.

"The Angels are going to be a financial drag on their league for, possibly the next three or four years.

"Sometimes in moments of acute depression, I find myself wondering whether Autry really outdrew all those guys with the black mustaches."

VEECK DOES GIVE O'Malley credit, as follows:

"The last thing in the world I'd do would be to disparage Walter O'Malley. He won every round in Los Angeles, just as he has won every round since he came into baseball.

"There are a lot of people in baseball ready to say he's been lucky. They say he walked into Brooklyn with a string of pennant winners, inherited from Branch Rickey; they say he was lucky to beat the field to the bonanza in Los Angeles; they say he antagonized everybody in Los Angeles unnecessarily with his moneygrubbing and he still was lucky enough to be in a position where he couldn't help but make a fortune.

"Lucky, my eye. O'Malley is smart. He's smart mostly for O'Malley, but if everybody you could say that about was put behind walls, you'd be able to gather all the unwalled people into Busch Stadium and have someone lead them in group singing."

"O'MALLEY," Veeck winds up, "couldn't stand to sit back (10 years ago) and watch the then new Milwaukee franchise rake in all that money. I had the distinct impression that O'Malley wasn't going to sell the Dodgers (then in Brooklyn) to anyone because he had already mapped out Los Angeles for himself. And that was four years before he moved.

"Well, it's easy enough to say that anyone could have made a fortune in Los Angeles. The only thing that counts is that O'Malley was the man who did it!"

End of Sunday sermon. Amen.

THE NEW YORK POINT OF VIEW

Alston on Hot Seat Again?

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—It was inevitable that the discontent, dissatisfaction and dissention among the Los Angeles Dodgers would come to light.

Insiders have known for some time that these three D's contributed as much to the Dodgers' collapse last year as did the loss of Sandy Koufax in midseason and the failure of the team to score any runs in the last 21 innings of the regular season.

The disclosure by general manager Buzzie Bavasi early this week that he had put down a player uprising emphasized what those close to the team already knew—that the club is split in half in its loyalty to manager Walter Alston.

The younger players swear by to their manager but a faction, which includes a number of veterans, believes coach Leo Durocher should be the manager. They are convinced the Dodgers would have won the pennant last year with Durocher at the helm.

These silently rebellious players have the highest admiration for Alston as a man but have little respect for his ability as a manager despite his record of three pennants and two world championships in nine years.

In acknowledging for the first time the discord on the club, Bavasi revealed it was Durocher who tipped him off to what was going on. The general manager completely exonerated Durocher from fomenting the dissension.

Bavasi, however, has been aware for some time of the strained relationship between Alston and some of the players and also between Alston and Durocher. That could have been behind his denouncement of Durocher last winter when he accused the Dodger coach and former manager of being disloyal to Alston. Bavasi also declared there no longer was room on the club for both Durocher and Alston.

Bavasi had no serious intention of firing Durocher at that time but he felt Alston, for whom he's always been a strong defender, was being made the scapegoat for the Dodger collapse. He knew, too, that Dodger owner Walter O'Malley was a strong admirer of Durocher's managerial ability.

Durocher had reason to believe he might succeed Alston this year following a secret meeting among O'Malley, Alston, the coaches and then team captain Duke Snider in St. Louis 10 days before the end of the 1962 season.

O'Malley, who never before had interfered with handling of the team, called the meeting because of his alarm over the steadily shrinking Dodger lead.

Mincing no words, O'Malley charged Alston with being too easy on the players and urged the manager to adopt a get-tough policy.

* * * *

WE'RE GOING to blow the pennant unless you light a fire under them," O'Malley reportedly warned Alston.

Alston, quietly but firmly disagreed.

"The kids are under enough pressure as it is," he said. "They need encouragement, not a tongue-lashing. They feel badly enough as it is. I don't believe we ought to do anything to aggravate them. Most of them are just kids and might blow sky high."

According to the informant, O'Malley became enraged.

"Aggravate them," he repeated. "These are not high school kids; they're professionals earning good money. I want you to ride herd on them. And if you don't want to take the responsibility, you can put the blame on me."

Alston insisted his way was the best and O'Malley finally capitulated, saying, "Okay, but if we blow the pennant, some heads will roll."

The Dodgers did lose the pennant but no heads rolled. Alston was reappointed manager and Durocher was retained as coach with an admonition that one more open clash with Alston would mean his job.

While just one blowup between Durocher and Alston was made public last year, actually there were several. At one point near the end of the season Alston accused Durocher of countermanding his hit-and-run signs to the hitters. He stripped the coach of any authority he might have had by having Greg Mulleavy relay the hit-and-take signs to the hitters.

Relations between Alston and Durocher became so strained that the coach moved his locker from the manager's private clubhouse enclosure. Durocher also switched his seat from next to that of Alston on the team bus and sat in the rear.

The conclusion is reached that the Dodgers must get off to a fast start this season. Both Bavasi and O'Malley are convinced the personnel is there to win the pennant. Anything less could cost Alston his job.

Durocher?

By mid-season, he could be manager of the Dodgers or be looking for another job.

THIS BIRD WAS FLYING LOW

Baltimore Orioles third baseman Brooks Robinson eludes tag by Cleveland third sacker Max Alvis in second inning of game Saturday. Robinson, who was on with a double, raced to third on a fielder's choice. Woodie Held's throw was wide and Robinson later scored on a single by Luis Aparicio.

Tigers Fall in 15 to Red Sox

BOSTON (AP) — Roman Mejias, who had gone 0-for-6, smashed a two-run double and Boston upstaged Detroit's own 15th inning rally for a wild 4-3 victory Saturday.

The 4½-hour battle tied the season's major league record for most innings.

Three singles, one of them good for a run by Chuck Schilling, and a force play preceded the winning blow by Mejias. The Cuban was hitting .081 when he belted the drive which touched off a Sox celebration on the field which made it look as if they'd just won the World Series.

* * * *

IN THE top half of the inning, the Tigers, Billy Bruton broke a 1-1 tie with a two-run, two-out single.

A wild pitch by Tiger starter Jim Bunning was the only reason Boston was in the game at all. It enabled Schilling to score in the sixth inning. Bunning went out after working 12 frames.

Friend Shackles Reds on 4 Hits

Mets Hand Spahn First Setback

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bob Friend fired a nifty four-hitter and his teammates backed him with a 10-hit attack off Joey Jay and Jim Brosnan as the Pittsburgh Pirates dumped the Cincinnati Reds Saturday.

Friend, bulwark of the Pirate pitching staff for almost a decade, limited the Reds to just one hit over the last seven innings after giving up runs in each of the first two frames. It was the second victory of the season for the big right-hander and both have been against the Reds.

The Pirates scored the winning runs in the seventh when Dick Schofield and Bob Clemente singled and Donn Clendenon walked. Bill Mazeroski's sacrifice fly to center scored Schofield and Clemente came home on Bill Virdon's single. Bob Skinner's triple and Clemente's sacrifice fly following Schofield's walk scored Pittsburgh's first two runs.

Doubles by Don Blasingame and Frank Robinson in the first and Vada Pinson's first homer of the season in the second inning brought in Red runs.

Reds manager Fred Hutchinson and the Pirates' Clemente were ejected from the game during the eighth inning arguments.

The loss was Jay's third of the year and his second against the Pirates.

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Mets extended their winning streak to two in a row Saturday, defeating Warren Spahn and the Milwaukee Braves 3-1 behind the seven-hit pitching of southpaw Alvin Jackson.

Gil Hodges drove in a run with his first hit of the season and catcher Norm Sherry, another ex-member of the Dodgers, hit his first home run as the Mets whipped the Braves for the second time in two days.

Until Friday's 5-4 triumph, the Mets had lost all eight starts from opening day and four of the defeats were at the hands of the Braves.

Jackson, making his third start of the season, did not permit more than one Brave to reach base in any inning until the eighth. He permitted two hits in each of the last two innings but pitched his way out of trouble on each occasion.

Sievers' Big Bat Helps Halt Cards

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia's Roy Sievers, back in the lineup after being sidelined with a rib injury, batted in three runs with a triple and double as the Phillies defeated St. Louis, 6-2, Saturday and ended a four-game losing streak.

Marcelino Lopez, 19-year-old rookie southpaw, scored his first major league victory although he needed help from relief ace Jack Baldschun, who pitched four shutout innings. Lefthander Ray Sadecki suffered the defeat, his first of the season.

* * * *

SADECKI courted trouble in the third inning when he walked Tony Taylor and Johnny Callison after one out. Sievers rapped a triple off the right field wall scoring two. A single by catcher Earl Averill scored Sievers and gave Lopez a 3-0 lead.

A controversial balk call helped St. Louis to a run in the fourth as George Altman doubled, went to third on the balk and scored on a sacrifice fly. The Cardinals added another in the fifth on a walk to Dick Groat and Bill White's run scoring double into the right field corner.

Johnny Callison hit a home run over the right field wall, his second of the season.

Nicholson's 5 RBI Pace Chisox

CHICAGO (AP)—Dave Nicholson drove in five runs with a triple and a grand-slam homer Saturday to propel the Chicago White Sox over the Minnesota Twins 10-7.

Nicholson's second homer of the season was lofted into the left field stands in the sixth inning and came off the first pitch served by Frank Sullivan, fifth of six Minnesota hurlers.

The Twins took a 3-0 lead in the first inning on Bob Allison's three-run homer.

But the Sox wiped it out with a pair of runs in the third on Floyd Robinson's single, Nicholson's triple and Joe Cunningham's single, and three more runs in the fourth.

ORIOLE ROOKIE STOPS TRIBE

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dave McNally, an $80,000 bonus rookie moved into Baltimore's starting rotation because of an injury to Chuck Estrada, pitched the Orioles to an 8-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians Saturday.

The 20-year-old left-hander, who hurled a two-hit shutout in his only other major league start last September, allowed seven hits and struck out nine Indians.

Cleveland's only run was tainted. Oriole right fielder Al Smith misjudged John Romano's fly ball in the second inning and it went for a triple. Romano then scored on a wild pitch by McNally.

Smith more than atoned for his fielding miscue. The veteran, obtained in a winter trade with the Chicago White Sox, cracked out three hits and drove in a run as he extended his hitting streak through all nine games played so far and increased his average to .424.

Luis Aparicio, another former White Sox player, drove in three runs with a pair of singles and upped his average to .394.

Vegas Probe Led to NFL Suspensions

There are strong indications that as late as three weeks ago, NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle, would be satisfied to wind up the pro football gambling case by fining three or four players and let it go at that.

But about that time, government agents were completing the Las Vegas phase of the gambling investigation for the McClellan Senate Committee and the Justice Department.

When they turned over their findings in Washington, it is said that Attorney General Bobby Kennedy's office contacted with Rozelle, gave him additional information and then applied "indirect" pressure on him to crack down harder on the gambling players than it had first been planned.

PAUL HORNUNG
Why Did He Do It?

Before Rozelle made his public announcement last Wednesday that Paul Hornung and Alex Karras were suspended for an indefinite period and that five Detroit Lion players and coach George Wilson were hit with large fines, he called the department and informed officials of what he was doing.

Thus, his final announcement represented a compromise between Federal action and the league's own house - cleaning that at least for the time being has satisfied both sides.

However, the McClellan Committee could still break things wide open when it begins its hearings on sports gambling shortly.

On the day Rozelle announced the penalties, a four-man team of McClellan investigators, headed by general counsel Donald F. O'Donnell, returned to Las Vegas to continue the probe into Hornung's activities and possibly some other pro football stars who have not yet been mentioned publicly.

For instance, when McClellan investigators left Las Vegas three weeks ago, they indicated to local police that at least three top football stars other than Karras were involved in evidence they had found, particularly from records of several thousand telephone calls subpoenaed from the Vegas phone company.

While no names were mentioned outright at the time, the initials of the last names of three men were tossed around in Vegas circles . . . H., M. and L. Naturally, the "H" was the tip about Hornung.

As it turns out, Paul's activities were known by many players throughout the league as well as by leading bookmakers across the country. In fact, Green Bay games were taken "off the board" after the third game last season . . . the only games the bookies refused to handle. At no time were the games of the Detroit Lions taken "off the board."

The "west coast businessman" with whom Hornung admitted being associated with in placing bets on pro and college games has been identified as Barney Shapiro, Las Vegas slot machine operator. He runs the United Coin Machine Co., there.

Hornung allegedly first met him in 1956 when Paul was in San Franscico for the East-West All-Star game.

Shapiro, it is reported, was betting on both pro and college football games at that time and was in frequent telephone communication with Hornung as early as 1957 seeking his opinion on certain games.

Hornung himself has declared he didn't begin betting for himself through his "associate" until 1959. The bets ranged from $100 to $200 at first, but later reached as high as $500 a game. This continued through 1962.

Hornung claims he stopped betting on the games last season. However, this is where the evidence becomes even more damaging. The McClellan investigators are reported to have uncovered a series of at least 12 long distance telephone calls between Hornung and Shapiro the past football season. Some of the calls were placed by Shapiro to the Green Bay star, others by Hornung to the Las Vegas figure.

McClellan investigators questioned Hornung several times in recent weeks about his relationship with Shapiro and that he also admitted to making other calls to him under assumed names.

Hornung also was questioned five times by O'Donnell himself and he is said to have admitted giving certain information on the Packers, their condition, morale, etc., the past season . . . even though he says he no longer was betting.

Why did Hornung do it? That's a question that only he can answer.

According to Rozelle's announcement, Hornung didn't make much money wagering on the games . . . that his biggest profit was $1,500 in one season.

It doesn't make sense to risk a great career and business future for a few hundred dollars, especially when he has been making big money right from the start in pro football.

In fact, he made over $125,000 in 1961 from salary, endorsements, personal appearances, etc. That was his top season, but it is estimated he still collected well over $50,000 the past year despite being injured much of the time.

And although notorious in sports circles as a "high liver," he nevertheless is reported to have taken good care of his money!

BET SCANDALS REVIEWED--

Including championship teams such as Kentucky, CCNY and Bradley—were accused of having a part in helping fix 86 games.

Ten years later—in 1961—the scandal erupted again. This time 39 players were involved with 24 colleges and 48 games. Jack Molinas, a onetime Ivy League star at Columbia, only this year was sentenced to 10 to 15 years as the "master fixer."

"You are a completely amoral person," Judge Joseph A. Sarafite said, in handing down the sentence. "You callously used your prestige as a former All-American basketball player to corrupt players and to defraud the public."

Few sports have been free from the gambling influences.

IN COLLEGE FOOTBALL, attempts were made to fix games involving the University of Maryland and Louisiana State game in 1952, later the Florida State-Florida and the Oregon-Michigan contests.

In each case, honest players blew the whistle and the would-be fixers were arrested.

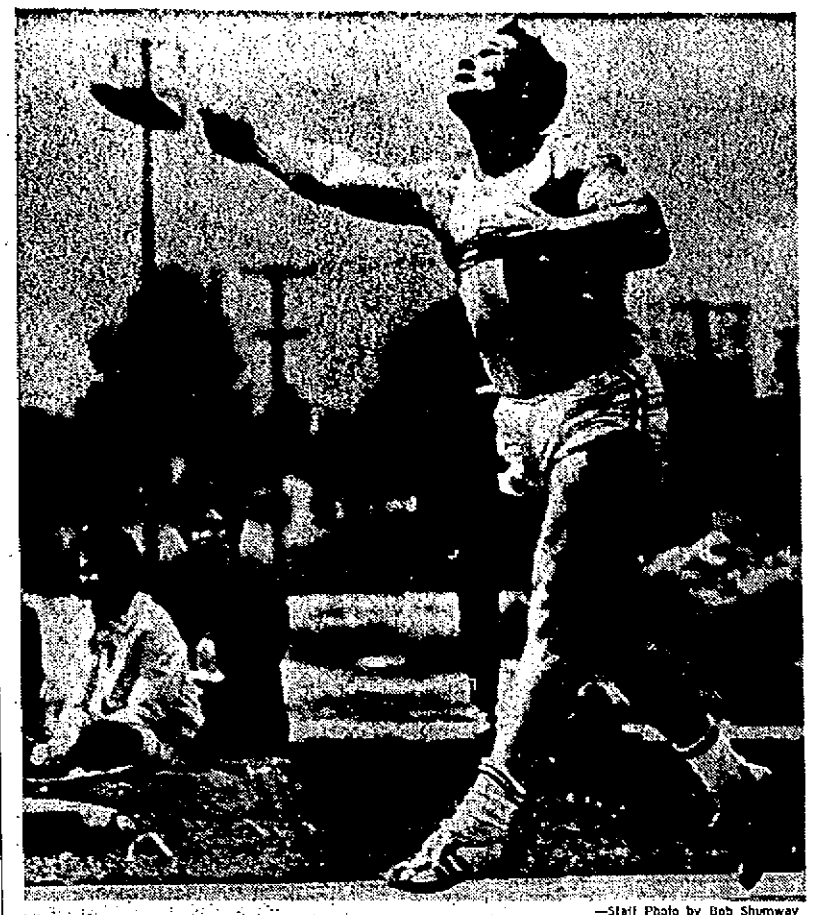

The major pro football scandal before the present one involved the New York Giants-Chicago Bears title game back in 1946. Frank Filchock and Merle Hapes reported they were offered money by Alvin J. Paris to fix the game. Both players were suspended but later reinstated.

Pro basketball has been affected. In 1948, Joe Fulks, star of the Philadelphia Warriors, swore out a warrant against a Philadelphia pool hall operator whom he charged with attempting to get him to throw games. The operator later was cleared but Pennsylvania, as a result of the case, put in a law fixing stiffer penalties for bribery attempts.

Former middleweight champion Rock Graziano admitted in 1947 he was offered $100,000 to lose a fight to Reuben Shank. The fight never was held. Rocky's license was revoked.

In baseball, five players once were suspended from the Class D Evangeline League in Louisiana for alleged links with bookies. In 1948, the National Hockey League expelled Billy Taylor, a New York Ranger, and suspended Don Gallinger of the Boston Bruins for association with known gamblers.

So no sport has a monopoly on betting scandals, and it's not just an evil of the times. As long as men are greedy and want to make an easy buck, they're bound to continue.

2 L.B. STATE RECORDS FALL

Another Dazzler for 49ers' Dee

By JOHN DIXON

The weather was irrationa and so were the marks Satur day as Long Beach State an a select group of guest tuned up for big-meet tim on the 49er field.

Polar breezes limited the athletes to polar bear time through much of the meet but when the wind slowed th runners speeded to severa achievements worthy of inter national note.

It was another good day for Jack Rose's L. B. State gladiators. They established two school records, and split the eight individual races with the 100-strong Southern California Striders.

* * * *

IN ALL, the national championship-favored Striders won nine events, Long Beach four, the Pasadena Athletic Assn. three and other competitors two. It was a non-scoring meet.

The day's outstanding effort gain was contributed by Der Dee Andrews.

The scatback from Poly ligh and Long Beach City College lowered his 330-yard urdles school record from 6.7 to 36.5, only three-tenths f a second shy of the best ime in the world for the vent.

Andrews led from gun to ape by an ever-increasing argin. A stiff wind, which isconcerted his balance and tep, cost him several ticks on the officials' stopwatches. He drove through two hurdles.

"I had a terrific start," Andrews recalled after the victory, "but the race didn't feel as good as last week's."

Earlier he won the 120-yard high hurdles in 14.1, spurred by a wind of illegal proportion and the constant challenge of Strider John Chaldu.

Andrews broke first but Chaldu quickly turned it into a deadheat to the midway point, from where Dee slowly inched ahead. Chaldu was credited with 14.2.

* * * *

FORMER 49er Gary Patterson turned in a blistering also-ran performance. Recently released from service, and with little race preparation, he was second in the 330s in 37.5 and fourth in the 120s in 14.3.

Long Beach's other record-breaker was Tom Hayden, who continued his weekly self-improvement program with a discus throw of 171 feet, one-half inch, bettering Frank Carl's old school record of 166-10. Venerable Parry O'Brien won the event at 184-5.

Other 49er victories were scored by Darryl Taylor and Ralph Lee.

Taylor outgunned Strider Warren Farlow in the stretch to win an intellectual 880 handily in 1:52.7, while Lee was a decisive mile victor in 4:18.7. Both winners were handicapped by severe wind gusts.

The sprints were sizzlers, but wind was a positive factor here. Strider Willie Williams won the 220 in 20.7 and shared the 100 title in 9.5 with teammate John Gilbert.

Although pole vaulting 16-4½ in practice during the week, Strider Ron Morris won at only 14-6. The Olympic Games silver medalist fouled out at 15 feet as a result of timing troubles caused by swirling winds in the stratosphere.

Next week the best in the West will compete in the Mt. San Antonio Relays.

L.B. SPIKERS STAR FOR CAL

SEATTLE — California swept past Washington, 81½-63½, as high jumper Bill French cleared 6-6¼ and Dave Achibald ran the 440 in 47.7 in a track and field meet here Saturday.

French is a graduate of Jordan High in Long Beach. Another local spiker, Bill Sprague from Poly, finished second and third in two hurdle races and ran on Cal's winning relay team.

SAYS SCHMELING

Good Boxing Days Gone

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI) — The big man gestured a well-manicured hand and said: "You just can't compare today's fighters with the champions of my time. There was more skill, better know-how in the old days. We were better trained."

That was Max Schmeling talking, the man who fought his way to the world's heavyweight championship in the 1930s but is best remembered for the terrible pasting he took from Joe Louis.

Schmeling, at 57, still looks like a fighter despite his manicured nails and tailor-made suits. As half owner of a soft drink (Coca Cola) bottling plant he is a financially successful business man with 200 employes.

He talked with a United Press International reporter in his office about the death of Davey Moore and other ring fatalities. His theory is that it's the present-day state of boxing and the caliber of the men in it that explain such tragic accidents.

"Boxing has made no advances since the '30s," he said. "In fact it has been slipping ever since then. Too many of the fighters don't really know how to box, to defend themselves and to carry out a proper offense. Today's matches often turn into free-for-all style fighting.

"In my day we put the emphasis on self-defense, excellent technique, skill, brains, a quick eye. How many boxers can you really say that about today?

* * * *

"AND THEN there's a change in the whole attitude. Nowadays too many boxers have families, need to make money, need to accept fights even when they should avoid them because of their health. That helps explain Moore's case.

"They should have stopped Moore's fight much earlier, thrown in the towel after he showed signs he was not his usual self."

Schmeling doesn't think boxing should be banned as a professional sport.

"They shouldn't stop boxing just because fighters have died," he said. "People get killed in other sports. They don't stop motor racing because people get killed by the dozens."

But, in the opinion of der maxie, the fighters themselves and the people who train and manage them should do a better job.

He and Louis "today are friends," Schmeling said. "He was one of the world's truly great boxers."

DUCK SOUP FOR OREGON SPIKE CREW

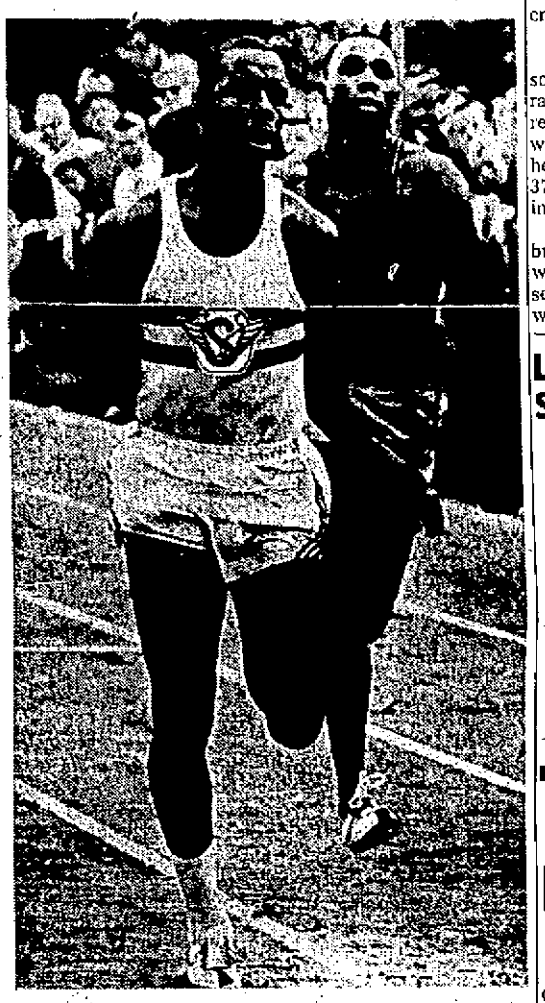

EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—The powerful University of Oregon track tteam rolled over Brigham Young, 96-49, in a dual meet here Saturday, losing only two events.

John Burns won the javelin for the Ducks with a heave of 250-1; Dave Steen took the shotput with a 59-6¾ mark; the 880-yard run was won by Ray Van Asten in 1:51.5, and the Ducks made a clean sweep of the two-mile with Keith Forman winning it, 8:58.4. Clayton Steinke and Dan Tonn followed.

Mediocre marks were established in the 220 and the pole vault. Oregon's Marty Frank and Bob Watson tied in the vault at 14-3 and Dave Blunt won the 220 in 22.3.

No Compton Cup

The Compton Cup track and field meet was rained out Saturday and rescheduled for next Saturday night. Moore Leaguers will not compete at that time, however.

HEADIN' HOME
Strider Willie Williams lunges for finish tape in 100-yard dash as Long Beach State's Jim Richardson trails by two feet. Williams was winner in 9.5, Richardson was clocked in 9.6.

5 Kansas Relays Marks Smashed

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI)—Fred Hansen of Rice University broke the Kansas Relays pole vault record with a vault of 16 feet, ¾ inch Saturday, and Loyola of Chicago snapped Texas Southern's fantastic relays win streak.

Hansen, who two weeks ago won the Texas Relays with a 16-1 vault, catapulted over the crossbar with his fiber glass pole on the last try.

He and Gerald Pratt of Texas Southern broke the meet record earlier with 15-9 vaults. Pratt could not clear the winning height.

The old pole vault record was 15-6¼, a mark Hansen set last year. He said it was too dark to attempt a higher record.

Four other meet records fell Saturday. Texas Southern broke two Relay records. The javelin and high jump standards also were upped.

Loyola, led by little Tom O'Hara, zipped over the distance medley course in 9:54.2 to break the old meet record of 10:06.9, set by North Texas State in 1939. Southern finished second and bettered the old mark of 10:06.5.

* * * *

O'HARA, mile-leg anchor man for Loyola, took the baton 30 yards behind Texas Southern's Major Adams. The 130-pound red-haired Chicagoan passed Adams just after the three-quarter mile mark and won by almost 50 yards.

Missouri's Robin Lingle won the Glenn Cunningham Mile at 4:04.8, just missing the meet record. Ed Red of Rice cracked the javelin mark with 256-1½. Southern's records were 40.7 in the 440 relay and 3:09.2 in the mile relay.

TRACK BRIEFS

LONDON (AP)—John Uelses of the United States, history's first 16-foot pole vaulter, did not approach that height Saturday but set a United Kingdom record of 15-5 in winning his specialty at an international track meet.
The victory made it a clean sweep for the three-man U.S. squad, John Thomas having won the high jump Friday night and John Dunkelberg scoring a double, winning the 600 Friday night and the 440 Saturday.

SAN DIEGO—Darryl Nelson won three events and placed second in another to lead San Diego State to 100 win over Los Angeles State. Nelson won the 100 in 9.7, the 220 in 22 flat, the triple-jump with 46-8½, but lost the broad jump by one inch to the Diablos' Ken Tucker who leaped 23-6½.

MADRID (AP)—Luis Garriga, a Madrid high school student, raised the Spanish high jump record to 6-8½. Several track coaches from Sweden have been working with Garriga in preparation for the Olympic Games in Tokyo next year.

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI)—Dave Edstrom, a member of the 1960 U.S. Olympic team, upset Phil Mulkey of Birmingham, Ala., in the gruelling decathlon of the 39th annual Kansas Relays.
Edstrom scored 7,423 points and Mulkey, trying for his sixth consecutive triumph, got 7,316 points.

Tribe Scares USC Spikers

PALO ALTO — Southern California won the mile relay, the final event of a rain-sogged, wind-swept dual track and field meet with Stanford Saturday, and with the victory edged the host Indians 73-72.

Thus the Indians were thwarted once again in their bid to beat the Trojans in a dual meet which now numbers 28 dating back to 1933.

Stanford had asked to postpone the meet to today but USC said it had to return to Los Angeles Saturday night. The meet then was shifted from Stanford to the nearby Foothill College field.

* * * *

IN THE shuffle, two Stanford hop, step and jump men left, thinking the meet was today.

Stanford coach Payton Jordan, who is an ex-Trojan sprinter, would say only, "It was a tough one to lose."

Going into the mile relay, Stanford led 72-68.

Yang Iron-Man Again, but Oxy Topples UCLA

UCLA's iron-man, C. K. Yang, won four events Saturday and scored 21¼ points, but the Bruins were beaten by Occidental's track and field team, 74½-70½, on the strength of a mile-relay victory.

Yang, Nationalist China's finest athletic export, won the pole vault at 16 feet even and tried for a world record at 16-5½ but missed.

He also won the high hurdles and broad jump with meet marks and took the javelin throw, and ran on the winning Bruin 440-yard relay team.

Occidental's weightman, John McGrath, a 6-7, 270-pounder, set a meet and school record in the discus with a toss of 183-11½. He also won the shotput at 55-10½.

Occidental had to come from behind to win the final event — the mile relay — and sew up the meet.

DON ANDERSON
Raps Four Hits

49ers Fall in Twin Bill

Long Beach State's baseball team visited its country cousin Saturday afternoon, but ended up out in the cold as San Fernando handed the 49ers 7-6 and 3-0 defeats in a CCAA doubleheader.

It took the Matadors 11 innings to win the first game as SFV's hitters finally solved LBSC's pitchers. Jerry Lidman opened the fatal frame with a single, was advanced to second on a sacrifice and scored on Bob Hiegert's base hit to left.

Long Beach earned three of its six runs on home runs. Jack Bogdanovich hit a 350-foot shot over the left field wall on the first pitch of the game, and pinch-hitter Bob Cooper delivered the second over 410 feet, in the ninth inning.

* * * *

THE SECOND game was a comedy of errors, with 49er pitcher Ed Perry ending up on the short end of the laughs. Perry allowed only one hit—Gary Angello's fourth-inning single. His teammates were not nearly as brilliant, however, committing six errors.

Four of the miscues came on successive plays in the second stanza as San Fernando scored twice to cinch the game. The Matadors scored all three of their runs without the benefit of a hit.

Don Anderson was Long Beach's most productive hitter, rapping four hits in seven at-bats, one a double.

ANGEL ANGLES: Despite the splint on the little finger of his right hand, Danny Osinski threw some 10 minutes on the sideline prior to the contest. Osinski revealed there was still a great deal of pain in the finger. The splint will remain on until the Angels return home next Monday.

Kansas City coach Jimmy Dykes, a former third baseman himself, thinks the A's Ed Charles, who drove in the winning run in Friday's second game, can be one of the greats. "And I mean great," says Dykes. "Brooks Robinson is the best in the game today, but Charles has got the potential at the plate and in the field to be his equal some day soon."

The Angels depart immediately following today's game for Washington and a two-game series with the Senators. Then it's two games in Detroit and three in Baltimore before road trip No. 1 is history. Next Friday's and Sunday's games with the Orioles will be televised.

A's owner Charles O. Finley would be quick to OK a Jimmer trade. "Give us Osinsky and we'll give you Jimenez," said Finley. "Never," answered pitching coach Marty Grissom.

Kansas City's personable public relations director Jim Schaaf, who played cward for Paul Hermus at Notre Dame, was deeply shocked by Hermus's transgressions. "I'd never have believed it of Paul," said Schaaf.

Saturday's contest was Moran's 350th in the major leagues. The all-star second baseman has come a long way since the spring of 1961 when he was deeply considering quitting baseball.

Vike Aquas Second in Metro Meet

Long Beach City College broke two conference marks in placing second in the Metropolitan Conference swimming championships Saturday at Santa Monica City College. Los Angeles Valley captured the title with 119 points while the Vikings finished with 91.5.

Doug Evans splashed to a record in the 100-freestyle (49.9), lowering the old standard by 1.2 seconds. The 400-yard freestyle relay team of Evans, Riley Quayle, John Setmire and John Montrella swam to a 3:27.7 clocking to establish the other mark.

100-backstroke—Maxwell (SM), Raffaelli (V), Smeerdyk (C), Cooper (LB), Leos (C), Sutterlin (LB) 59.0.

49ers Rule Loop Swim Seas Again

SANTA BARBARA — Long Beach State's swimmers still rule the conference seas after they scuttled six opponents in the three-day championships which ended Saturday at UC Santa Barbara.

The 49ers won five of seven final events to finish with 136.5 points, far ahead of runner-up Cal Poly's 76.

Chuck Babcock won his third individual contest. Bill Barnett and Don Watt copped their second of the meet while Ron Malandra finished first in the 100-yard freestyle in CCAA and school record time. The LBSC foursome of Doug Will, Barry Von Hemert, Malandra and Murdock Fraser also cracked the conference 400-yard freestyle relays mark.

All in all, the 49ers finished first in 12 of 17 events.

* * * *

LONG BEACH now has captured the title two years running and three times in four tries. The 49er swimmers were coached by Jack Torney while the regular boss Jim Schultz is with the Pan-Am team.

Torney also set something of a record when he was thrown fully clothed into the pool for the third time in four years.

100-backstroke — Barnett (LB) 59.6 (CCAA and LBSC record), Rhoads (LB), Scarani (CF), Wilde (F), Bartholomew (F), Kangas (F).

100-breaststroke — Watt (LB) 1:05.0, Gibbs (UCSB), Vogel (CP), Brooks (SF), Van Gelder (F), Szuch (SD). Watt's qualifying time of 1:04.7 was CCAA and LBSC record.

1650-freestyle—McElhaniff (LA) 18:42.9 (CCAA record), Svendson (CP), Meech (LB), Marvel (CP), Van Hamert (LB), Wilde (F).

100-butterfly—Babcock (LB) 55.7, Pearson (F), Wilson (CP), Heintz (CP), Kubin (LB), Strong (F).

3-meter diving — Moxley (LA) 461.55, Dare (LA), Lichty (LA), Slone (CP), McGraw (SF), Wright (F).

400-freestyle relay — Long Beach (Will, Hemert, Malandra, Fraser) 3:23.3 (CCAA and LBSC record), UC Santa Barbara, Fresno, San Fernando, Cal Poly, San Diego St.

Final scoring: Long Beach 136.5, Cal Poly (SLO) 76, Fresno 66, L.A. State 46, UC Santa Barbara 43.5, San Fernando 29.5, San Diego St. 22.

SCRATCH ONE VIKING
Long Beach's Gary Korsmeier is forced at second base during first inning of second game by Bakersfield's Chuck Lawson Saturday. Vikings won both games to boost their league record to 15-0.

Vike Skein Reaches 15

By KEN PIVERNETZ

The Metropolitan Conference baseball schedule was expanded to 21 games this season in an effort to do away with ties that had forced playoffs the previous three years. There should be no doubt about the 1963 champion.

Long Beach City College swept to its 14th and 15th consecutive league wins on campus Saturday at the expense of Bakersfield College to set an all-time Metro mark. The 1952 Bakersfield team won all 14 of its league games.

* * * *

JIM PARKS ran his record to 6-0 with a 8-2 first game win as Syd O'Brien went 5-for-5 and drove in four runs while Mike O'Connor made the most of an infrequent appearance by winning the second game, 6-1.

The twin losses all but eliminated Bakersfield from championship contention as its league mark dropped to 10-5. Cerritos took both of its games Saturday to keep pace at 12-2-1.

O'Brien was the whole show on offense in the first game as he hit a long 2-run triple to left-center in the seventh inning to break open what had been a tight duel between Parks and George Culver. Frank Smith brought O'Brien home with a single and Parks was able to breeze the last two innings.

O'Brien's five RBI for the day gives him 25 in the 24 games LBCC has played this season.

* * * *

O'CONNOR made his first start since March 5 in the nightcap and though touched for seven hits, he walked only one—something that couldn't be said for his counterpart, Terry Delamarter.

Delamarter couldn't find home plate with a Geiger counter as he issued 12 walks in the six innings he was around. Three LBCC runs came home in the third without a hit and it was due all to Delamarter's wildness, thanks to six free passes.

O'Connor gave up his only walk and got touched for back-to-back singles in the third, but outside of that, it was another impressive performance for a LBCC pitcher.

Yanks Lose Soccer Match in Pan-Am Games' Opener

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI) —Chile defeated the United States, 10-2, Saturday night in a soccer match that helped open the Pan-American Games.

Despite their opening defeat, the Yanks were expected to match their showing in the last Pan-Am games at Chicago when they won 120 of a possible 163 first places.

A special Brazilian air force group flew over the stadium as the day opened, performing daring aerial stunts. It was then hot and sunny but later the sky became overcast as 50 Brazilian boy scouts lined the track and released 200 "pigeons of peace."

While the crowd waited impatiently for the start of the ceremonies, it was entertained by a Brazilian army band. Later, two other bands joined in providing martial music.

Cuba, which decided at the last minute to send a team here, was represented by a large delegation which waved little Brazilian flags but received little applause.

Bear Crew Easily Defeats L.B. State

California's varsity crew squelched Long Beach State's bid to avenge an earlier loss this season when the Golden Bears stroked to a decisive 2½-length victory Saturday in Cerritos Channel. Hosting USC finished a distant third.

The defeat for Bill Lockyer's boys was rough in more ways than one. A cabin cruiser exploded at a Terminal Island boat landing just before the race. Two fire boats kicked up such a big wake rushing to the fire that the three varsity eights were in for a bouncy ride from start to finish.

Cal grabbed an immediate lead, gained an open-water margin early and held it throughout. The Bears flashed across the finish line in 5:53.2. The 49ers were timed at 6:05.5 while the Trojans struggled home in 6:18.2.

In the junior varsity rematch, Long Beach reversed its defeat on the Oakland Estuary by edging the Bears by ¼ length. The 49ers and Cal raced neck-and-neck with LBSC finally pulling ahead at the wire. The victors were timed at 5:45 over the smooth 2,000-meter course. Cal was clocked at 5:46.6 against 6:08.3 for USC.

* * * *

SATURDAY marked the first time the Bears had rowed off their home course this season. Coach Jim Lemon said "we had a tough time beating Long Beach at 2 miles and I though the shorter distance would make them even tougher.

"But we got off to a fine start with a stroke of 36 and maintained a count of 34 throughout to win handily."

Long Beach's oarsmen started with a stroke count of 37 and finished at 35.

SIFFORD FOURTH

Charles Retains Lead at Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Bob Charles of New Zealand sank a 5-foot birdie putt on the ninth green Saturday to start the back nine of the third round of the $50,000 Houston Golf Classic with a one-stroke lead over Jack Nicklaus, the new Masters champion.

Charles and Nicklaus, playing in the same threesome, were tied as they moved onto the ninth green, but Nicklaus' first putt hung on the lip of the cup and he took a par.

Charles, with a front nine 34 after first rounds of 67 and 66, began the back nine with a 45-hole 167-eight under par for the 7,021-yard, par 35-35—70 Memorial Park course. Nicklaus had a 65-69-34—168.

Charles Sifford of Los Angeles, the first Negro to play in the 17-year-old classic, held third place with a 67-69-33—169, having shared the lead momentarily with Nicklaus after the first five holes.

Grouped at 171 were Dow Finsterwald, Tommy Aaron, the first round leader, and amateur Kermit Zarley, the National Collegiate champion from the University of Houston.

Charles began the first round with a one-stroke lead over Nicklaus and Zarley and a two-stroke lead over Sifford.

INGO, LONDON CLASH TODAY

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Ingemar Johansson, former world heavyweight boxing champion, regards today's bout with Brian London as another stepping stone in his determined bid to regain the title.

Johansson's European title will not be at stake in his 15-round match with the former British Empire champion. Ingo, recently turned 30, recapured the European crown last June 17 by knocking out Dick Richardson of Wales. He had to give up the title when he became world champion.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

New Leader for Casting Club

The Long Beach Casting Club installed a new slate of officers Friday night, topped by one of the youngest presidents it ever elected—Don Reed, a man with a lot of drive and zoom and who has been fishin' ever since he can remember.

His legal name is Donovan L. Reed, and he's 30 years old. He prefers the Don without any other syllables. He lives with his wife, Kay, at 6821 Motz St., Paramount, and they have three children, Kathy, 10, David, 8, and Karen, 7. The entire family shares Don's interest in fishing, although Kay admits it's a bit difficult to fish and take care of three children at the same time.

DON REED
A Lot of Drive

Don recently was promoted to the office of general manager of Beach Manufacturing Company in Compton. The firm makes machine tools and aircraft components.

Going into office with Don were the following: Walter Oliver, first vice president; George Harrison, second vice president; Don McGavin, corresponding secretary; Frank Messersmith, recording secretary; Ed Caldwell, treasurer; O. T. (Rosy) Rosecrans, captain, and Dick Tague, co-captain.

There isn't a man in the group who wouldn't go fishing at the drop of a hat. And most of them are hunters, too. Even the president, who boats and paints (well, too, they say), now owns a gun and has added hunting to his hobbies.

PRIMARILY, THE CASTING CLUB was organized in 1925 by the late David R. Linder to teach young and old the art of casting flies and artificial lures, but that sort of thing leads to fishing, as every one knows, and a good caster makes a fine fisherman if he keeps at it long enough.

Once again, Ed Williams, with 1938 points, showed his heels to the casters in running away with the top casting trophy as best all-around champion.

Other winners: Master class — Frank Messersmith (1880 points), first; O. T. Rosecrans (1861), second, and Willie Waters (1840), third. H. H. (Zip) Carpenter, best distance caster. Earle Thomas, tops in beginners' class.

Marty Willans showed he is following in dad's footsteps by taking the junior championship. Special awards went to Jack Geduldig and Elmo Botkin.

Fishing prizes went this way: Allen Lowe, largest steelhead (12-1); Barney Garlick, largest rainbow (4-8) on a fly; Claude Kreider, largest brown (5-0) on a fly; Dr. Charles Nelson, largest trout (2-2) caught in California on a fly, and Vern Garten, largest land-locked trout (9-3 Dolly Varden) on a fly; Jerry Simpson, largest bass (1-12) caught on a flyrod and artificial lure with one hook.

George Harrison won special mention for a small-mouth bass (5-8) taken in Pelican Lake, Minn.

THE RETIRING PRESIDENT, Earle Thomas, who has steered the club through a most interesting year, was master of ceremonies at the annual dinner which was held at the Petroleum Club.

He took note of the Long Beach Hobby Show (May 9-12) at which the club will man a booth where fly-tying and rod-building will be the attractions.

It also was announced that the LBCC will be host to the Western Tournament of Angling and Casting Clubs June 21, 22 and 23.

The Casting Club has had a most interesting history. When David R. Linder started it almost a half-century ago, its meeting place was on any spacious lawn where men could practice flycasting.

In the years that followed, the city granted the club the right to build its own clubhouse and casting pool in Recreation Park provided certain standards were maintained.

In recent years each president has strived to get and reach a certain goal, carrying out improvements that would make the club more attractive. And that it certainly has done. The interior of the clubhouse is beautifully done and the fish mounts are in excellent taste.

A women's auxiliary, the Long Beach Women's Casting Club, also has a big hand in maintaining the club property.

DRAG BOATS AWAIT WORD ON WEATHER

A trimmed field of 50 quarter-mile drag speedboats are awaiting word from the weatherman before they take to the starting line at Marine Stadium today at noon for Long Beach Boat and Ski Club's scheduled competition.

The usual LBBSC field of more than 100 boats was cut down by elimination of lower speed classes from the race and by threats of bad weather. Today's meet is slated to pit classes from 50 mph up. Class racing normally starts at 35 mph.

In qualification trials Saturday, the former world record-holder "Golden Thing" has been clocked at speeds over 160 mph when running on alcohol fuel. Use of alcohol and other fuel addatives, however, has been banned in Marine Stadium by a recent Recreation Department ruling.

Pin Tourney Rolls Into Fifth Week

The California Woman's Bowling Assn. State Championship tournament rolled into its fifth week Friday with more than 1,000 women bowlers from every corner of the state scheduled for weekend shooting at Cal Bowl and Java Lanes.

State association president Helen Bellows presented Los Angeles bowlerette Esther Woods with a diamond medal for her 300 game in the recent L.A. Woman's City Tournament. The presentation was made during team event bowling at Java Lanes Saturday.

STABLE SURPRISES COKES IN TV BOUT

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocky, muscular Jose Stable of Cuba and New York beat top welterweight contender Curtis Cokes of Dallas Saturday night with a savage hooking attack to body and head for an upset unanimous decision in their nationally televised fight at New York's Sunnyside Arena.

There were no knockdowns during the excellent bout but Stable was penalized the eighth round for a foul for a low blow.

ROD LAVER

Pro Tennis Troupe in L.A. Friday

Tennis grand slammer Rod Laver of Australia spurted spectacularly to earn a clash with countryman Ken Rosewall Friday at the L.A. Sports Arena in the 1963 world pro championship playoffs.

Only able to break even in 18 initial tests in a six-man round-robin across the country, the 23-year-old Laver swept 15 of his last 20 frays to clinch second spot behind Rosewall. The top playoff prize is $35,000.

During the late splurge, rookie pro Laver racked up world champion Rosewall thrice and twice forced the round-robin winner to marathon tussles.

Third and fourth-place winners of the 45-match round robin were ex-American Cupper Earl Buchholz and Spain's talented stroking Andres Gimeno. They collide Friday seeking a consolation $20,000 playoff prize. Both matches will be decided by the best-of-three sets. A doubles will follow.

The three-match program will start at 8 and tickets range from $1.50 to $5, announced tour director Tony Trabert. (Ticket information may be secured by telephone GR 8-1817 or GR 7-8146.)

Arnett Seeks Ye Old Rams Golf Repeat

Jon Arnett faces a strong field of contenders Monday when he tees off as defending champion in the 12th Ye Old Rams gold tourney at Yorba Linda CC.

Tournament chairman Bob DeLauer has set tee time for 12 noon in the shotgun event and Arnett, who won the tourney over the same course last year with a 75, probably will have to lower his score if he hopes to repeat.

Among the top contenders from the current Rams' roster are quarterback Zeke Bratkowski, two-times NFL golf champion, and defensive halfback Charley Britt, a near scratch player in college.

Among other players entering are: Jim Phillips, Ollie Matson, Roy Hord and George Strugar.

Other former Ram halfbacks, three-time winner Dr. Les Horvath and four-time kingpin Jack Banta, actors Howard Keel, Bob Sterling and Jack Ging and tennis star Jack Kramer are among leader challengers.

The Rams coaching staff, head man Harland Svare and assistants Ray Wietecha, Don Heinrich, Lindon Crow and Bob Schnelker, also will compete.

SPORTS BEAT

Contracts for PGA sponsored golf tourneys prohibit gambling in the form of Calcutta pools or parimutuels, but three big name golfers said Saturday it is difficult to keep gambling off the nation's courses.

Jimmy Demaret said he bet on himself the year he won the Masters at odds of 10-1. Mike Souchak said gambling is the golfer's own business as long as he doesn't bet against himself. Jackie Burke said there is more gambling among golfing fans in Houston than in Las Vegas but said golf "is the riskiest of all sports to bet because it's so unpredictable."

* * * *

WORD out of Philadelphia Saturday said it's almost a certainty that Paul Brown will be the next owner of the Philadelphia Eagles. Those close to the source say that if Brown doesn't get the Eagles it will be the biggest upset since Detroit trounced Green Bay last Thanksgiving Day.

* * * *

VINCE LOMBARDI, head coach of the Packers, isn't looking forward with relish when the rookies start streaming into the Packer camp in less than three months. Reason: Paul Hornung, whom Lombardi says always has a psychological effect on the youngsters, as well as the veterans, will not be around. The all-pro back has been suspended indefinitely for betting.

JAPAN'S national and local governments will spend $1.712 billion to get the Tokyo area ready for the 1964 Olympics but reports are there still won't be enough hotels to accommodate the foreign visitors.

* * * *

TONY LEMA, third-ranking money winner among the touring golf pros this year, has reserved the Desert Inn honeymoon suite during the Tournament of Champions classic at Las Vegas May 2-5. Lema said he and Betty Cline, an airline stewardess, will be married April 28.

DAWN FRASER, the AP's sportswoman of 1962, said Saturday she wants to swim the 100 meters for Australia in the 1964 Olympic Games in Tokyo. "I want to be the first woman to break the minute for this race in the Olympic Games," said Dawn.

UCLA's eight-oared crew swept all three events over a 2,000-meter course at Mission Bay against San Diego State.

NOW EYES DERBY

Easy Triumph for No Robbery

NEW YORK (AP) — The Greentree Stable's unbeaten Kentucky Derby candidate, No Robbery, took command at the start and, swinging wide entering the home stretch, galloped to a 2½-length victory in the $90,800 Wood Memorial Saturday at Aqueduct.

A crowd of 58,064, the largest turnout of the New York season, backed the speedy bay son of Swaps-Bimlette down to odds-on favoritism and they weren't disappointed.

No Robbery stood off a late challenge by Patrice Jacobs' Bonjour and ran the 1 1/8 miles in 1:49 1/5. This was the fastest time since the Wood was transferred from old Jamaica to Aqueduct in 1960.

Last year, Admiral's Voyage won in 1:45 4/5.

* * * *

GEORGE D. Widener's Crewman, considered the better half of his two-horse entry, proved a bitter disappointment as he finished ninth in the field of 10 3-year-olds. His stablemate, Top Gallant, came up from last place and gained third place.

The first three all are eligible for the $125,000-added Derby at Louisville May 4.

They all carried 126 pounds.

The winner paid $3.60, $3 and $2.10. Bonjour returned $5.10 and $2.70 and Top Gallant $2.30 to show.

SAN MATEO (UPI) — On My Honor, a slop-loving gelding, put on a powerful stretch drive to win the 48th running of the $42,900 California Derby at Bay Meadows.

On My Honor came from 10 lengths back in the stretch to defeat Lak Nak in 1:54 for the mile and one-sixteenth on a slow track. The winner paid $21, $9.60 and $5.60. Lak Nak returned $18.20 and $7.60 and Olympiad King $4 to show.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — El Peco Ranch's Decidedly, last year's Kentucky Derby winner, won the $11,075 Ben Ali Handicap at Keeneland in track record time.

Carrying 121 pounds, including jockey Jimmy Nichols, Decidedly covered the 1 1/16 mile in 1:41 2/5, one-fifth second faster than the record set a week ago by Times Roman.

The winner returned $5.80 and $2.20. There was no show betting. Times Roman, the favorite, paid $2.40.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jaipur, Belmont Stakes winner and champion 3-year-old of 1962 who earned $618,926 during his career, was retired from racing Saturday by his owner, George D. Widener of Philadelphia and New York.

quarter horse championship May 4.

Starting on the extreme outside where the going was a bit heavy, Jet Deck didn't really get rolling until he'd covered about 250 yards, having been bumped at the start by Bar Depth. Meanwhile, Moolah Bar got off to a fast start to take command with Tiny Charger pressing hard.

250 Top Rodeo Pros to Compete at LB Arena

More than 250 top national pros will compete in the giant Pacific Indoor Rodeo set for the Long Beach Arena May 3, 4 and 5.

The season's richest purse—at least $12,000—has lured such greats as Dean Oliver of Idaho, five-time world champion calf roper and currently rodeo's leading money winner; Bill Martinelli, number two man in saddle bronc riding; Harry Charters, world champ in 1959 and now fourth in money won; Pete Crump, Bob Robinson and Jim Charles, all among the best in bull riding, Sherman Sullins, number three man in steer wrestling.

Five performances are scheduled—Friday, May 3, at 8 p.m.; Saturday at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m.; Sunday, 1:30 p.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Eight-time world champion Casey Tibbs, most famous rodeo cowboy of all time, is producing the attraction and has lined up a tremendous show including a number of specialty acts. There also will be 19 outlaw animals from the national finals.

* * * *

AUGMENTING the program will be the appeal of the Long Beach Arena as the site. It will be the first time an event of this type will be staged in the grand building, and the setting is expected to be outstanding.

The animals will buck less than 10 feet from the front row with bucking chutes set up at the arena end where the broncs and bulls enter from their quarters on the beach.

One of the big jobs in preparation will be the spreading of 1,200 tons of dirt on the arena floor and the stockholding pens.

General manager Lex Connelly has insured that the event will be run smoothly by employing the same persons who set up the operation for the highly-successful National Finals Rodeo at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

Tickets for all performances are on sale at the Long Beach Arena and also at Mutual and Liberty ticket agencies.

DODGERS--

two runs for his first major league RBI.

Smith allowed the final run via a walk, a wild pitch and a scratch hit by Carl Warwick in the eighth.

Manager Walter Alston called Wills and Wally Moon into his office for a closed-door chat after the game. "It's strictly private," was Alston's only comment.

Alston plans to start the same lineup for the first game this afternoon, making it three days in a row and another record.

Bob Miller, unscored upon in 16⅔ innings, faces Bob Bruce (0-1) in the opener. A pair of first-time starters, Pete Richert and Randy Cardinal, are matched in the nightcap.

INTER-AMERICAN HIGHWAY

Panama Trip No Picnic But There's Adventure

By DONNELL CULPEPPER
I, P-T Outdoor Editor

A 35-year-old dream comes true next Friday at Mexico City when the Inter-American Highway is formally opened to year-'round traffic. Called the economic backbone of Central America and Mexico, the highway stretches from Panama City to the United States border, where a motorist can take any number of highways to go farther north.

In fact, it is now possible to drive from Panama City to Fairbanks, Alaska (7,500 miles), if you are that adventurous. And, within possibly the next few years when the famous Darién Gap is completed south of Panama, there will be a 22,000-mile road of sorts" from Fairbanks to the tip of South America.

Just now we are concerned with the Inter-American Highway from our own border to Panama and, before we get too far into this subject, this writer is not suggesting the present highway as the route for a family picnic or a honeymoon trip.

* * * *

THE REASON for Friday's celebration is that a caravan of buses carrying officials of all countries involved is leaving Panama City this week and will rendezvous at Mexico City for the formal event Friday.

After long, hot baths to take off the Central American dust, they'll whoop it up and then take planes to Washington, D.C., for another celebration.

It is well to wind up the whingding in Washington; the U.S. government paid at least two-thirds of the cost of the highway from our border to Panama.

Already five countries, Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua and Costa Rica have more than quadrupled mutual trade to $37 million in 10 years as a result of a highway that still is not in first-class condition.

* * * *

THE HIGHWAY won't be completed until sometime next year when final paving is scheduled. At this writing, the best parts of the highway run through Mexico, particularly from our own border to Mexico City.

Even so, Central America's fledging Common Market is booming because at long last the countries have a mutual transportation system.

And as that tiny Common Market rises in stature, so will grow the goodwill for the United States. At least that is what members of the Pan American Highway Congress' permanent committee predict.

The U.S. suggested the highway way back in the '20s and then Congress set aside $50,000 just to study the route.

* * * *

IN AN EFFORT to map the route and line up accomodations, a team of the Automobile Club of Southern California has just finished a 32-day trip to Panama City, where they put their two GMC carry-alls on a boat bound for Long Beach-Los Angeles Harbor. The team was comprised of David Packwood and Art Watkins, of the club's public relations staff; Bill Escherich, administrative assistant to Thomas M. Smith, director of travel services, and Howard Goetzman, supervisor of the club's touring bureau.

They undertook the trip primarily to prepare a folio of road conditions, motels, auto service facilities, plus all the problems that a motorist might encounter on such a trip — 4,500 miles from here to Panama City, via Nogales.

The trip, if you wanted to reach Panama quickly, could be made in 14 days.

* * * *

THE AUTO CLUB group found a highway fairly excellent as they traveled through Guaymas, Mazatlan, Guadalajara, Mexico City and Oaxaca, but then the going really got rough in Central America.

Even in Mexico, and particularly on the Nogales-Mexico City stretch, they listed some common road hazards—buses, pedestrians, livestock, narrow bridges, chuck holes and loose gravel on the road shoulders. As a result of their experience, they suggested no night driving on any part of the highway.

One humorous situation about buses and narrow bridges came to light when the four held their press conference.

When you are approaching a narrow bridge in Mexico, with a bus coming from the opposite direction and the bus driver turns on his headlights, for heavens sake get off the road because that driver is coming through, come hell or high water or any American driver.

* * * *

THE AUTO CLUB team also found that a caravan of 25 cars and trailers already had attempted to go through to Panama City. Some had succeeded; others had fallen by the wayside. And wouldn't you know that they were from Texas — trying to be first, I guess.

It costs about $1200 to ship a car back here from Panama. Cars being scarce in Panama, a motorist is better off to sell his car there and fly back home, provided he doesn't want to make a return trip in his car.

The highway varies from sea level, where it's always humid to 11,000 feet at Cerro Buena Vista, Costa Rica (zero), and altitudes of 5,000 to 7,000 are not uncommon.

* * * *

AS ONE TRAVELS south of Mexico City the paved two-lane highway begins to give way to one lane, often unpaved and sometimes in poor condition, yet passable.

You travel through every type of terrain—arid country, farmlands, livestock ranches, along beaches, through many canyons and over mountains with real pine trees like our own in California.

Peoples of all lands are exceptionally friendly, especially if you know enough Spanish to converse with them.

* * * *

EVEN THOUGH you know Spanish well, one-dollar bills still speak very loudy in all countries south of our border. Credit cards are virtually useless, even at service stations.

Art Watkins puts it this way:

"A trip such as this requires, first, mental preparation, and second, car preparation. It is still an adventurous trip, not a family picnic. It takes a lot of time, patience and understanding.

"With some high school Spanish that I had almost forgotten, I got along fairly well and actually increased my knowledge of the language. Bill Escherich did most of the interpreting when I and others got too mixed up."

* * * *

ALL FOUR MEN refused to recommend the highway for campers, although they admitted the Texans with their trailers did fairly well. There are no facilities for trailers and campers. To pull out beside the road or in a field is not using good logic, in their opinion.

They stayed at the best motels and hotels. The average in Mexico was $6.15 per night; $11.40 through Central American. Reason for that difference was mainly that they stayed in capital cities in Central America, where hotels of the Hilton class are common.

A couple could travel through Mexico on $26 per day (all expenses), but probably would average $37.25 per day in Central America.

Temperatures ranged from freezing to 102, and one member said he was certain it was hotter than that in their carry-alls.

* * * *

RESERVATIONS should be made for all overnight stops. In the Latin countries one never knows when there will be a special event, like a fair, bull fight or just a dance, and the hotels fill up early.

The middle of the dry season, which corresponds to the end of our own winter, is the best time to plan such a trip.

Any car can make the trip; it does not have to have special high bed. Grades are moderate everywhere.

The worst part of the highway is in Guatemala and Panama, where it may be three years before an 80-mile stretch is paved.

The road goes through all capitals except that of Honduras.

* * * *

SOME OTHER TIPS that may prove helpful to anybody planning a trip even from here to Mexico City:

Get an international automobile certificate from the Automobile Club. Also get a full passport and arrange for Mexican and Central American insurance. Ordinary insurance issued in the U.S. is of no value when accidents occur in Mexico or other countries. You can cover yourself and car for about $2.25 per day.

Prepare for long waits at borders, even though your papers are in order.

Border stations are open 24 hours a day, but an extra dollar bill is useful when you try to enter the country at siesta time or in the middle of the night.

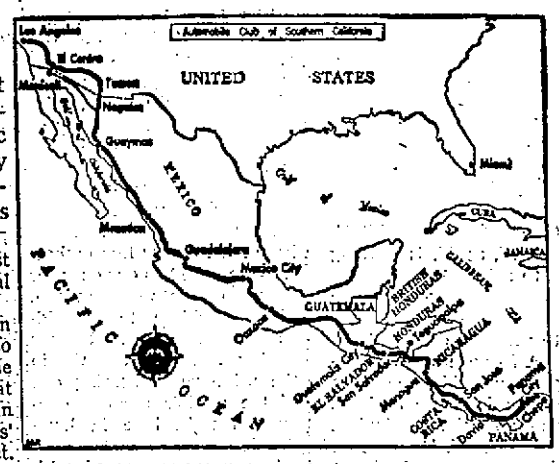

* * * *

ONE BORDER BOSS was heard telling a tourist: "Give my man a dollar and he won't make you open up your baggage."

Such might be an exception rather than the rule. The Auto Club team had no trouble, but it had its papers in perfect shape and had made reservations all the way.

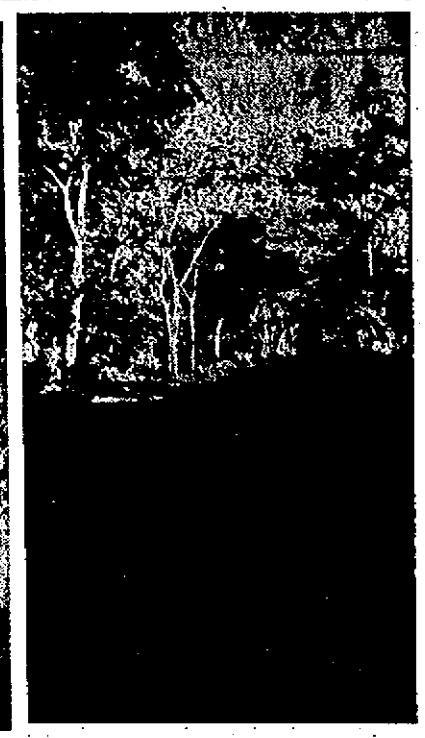

One member of the team cited a widely known fact: Women south of the border act more feminine. Shorts, stretch pants, bikinis and the like are virtually unknown.

Asked how he liked the women of the southern countries, he said: "By the time we reached the Costa Rica border, everybody in a skirt was a living doll." And all four, asked if they would like to return, said "yes" in unison.

RUINS OF OLD STRUCTURES in Panama have a g host-like quality. The ancient buildings are not far from the new Inter-American Highway.

2 Boys' Paintings Hung Upside Down

DERBY, England (UPI) —David Stocker and Gerry Smith, a pair of 4-year-old modern artists, have received apologies from the adults who hung two of their paintings upside down in a current exhibition.

Stocker painted a railway engine and Smith a little girl. The works, however, were placed upside down and named "Petrol Pump" and "Flower Pot."

Loch Lomond to Supply Fresh Water to Scots

BALLOCH, Scotland (AP) — Loch Lomond—of the bonnie, bonnie banks—is going to be dammed up to supply a wide area of central Scotland with fresh water.

The high road to the lake will become a bit lower. Steps will be taken to insure that the low road doesn't disappear altogether in the 7-million-pound ($19.6 million) project.

The secretary of state for Scotland has given the go-ahead to a plan to put Loch Lomond on tap. It will provide up to 100 million gallons of fresh water a day for new industries all over the industrial belt of Scotland.

The natural rise and fall of the inland Loch as a result of rain and drought will be controlled by a dam across the River Leven, which runs from Loch Lomond down to the River Clyde.

The control point will have a special fish "ladder" to allow salmon up to the loch. It will also have a canal system for the passage of small craft.

FIREMEN IRKED

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —The hydrant worked, but the color scheme bothered the fire department.

After discovering that a hydrant had been painted peach with blue polka-dots, the department ordered it redone in white.

Dirty Public

LONDON (UPI)—Dr. Richard Beeching, chairman of the nationalized British railways, said Saturday British trains and stations are dirty because "the public are so filthy."

He's a Late Starter

GEORGE MONTGOMERY, at 45, is learning to act.

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—After 25 years in the business, George Montgomery says he is now learning now to act.

"I came in this business green off a ranch in Montana," says the handsome Montgomery, onetime husband of Dinah Shore.

"I was put under contract at 20th Century-Fox and played leading men opposite Betty Grable and others. I was making $350 a week, more money than I knew existed.

"I even bought a ranch with it. Then one day, I was put in a movie that Vic Mature was supposed to do but couldn't.

"THE AGENT I had then said he would get me more money. He made me wait in the car while he talked with the front office. The studio was over a barrel. They didn't want to, but they had to pay me $2,750 a week. I was flabbergasted.

"But with the big increase in salary went a studio's vengeance. It was my last picture for Fox as a leading man and I wound up making low-budget cowboy movies for the next 18 years."

MONTGOMERY got rich in the cowboy field but his movies were never shown on the Bel-Air circuit. He opened a thriving furniture factory.

"All the producers in town thought I did nothing better than make funiture," he said. "They were probably right because you don't get much of a chance to learn how to act in the oaters."

A few years ago, Montgomery decided to get out of his furniture business and also the low-budget coyboy field. He went on the summer stock circuit in a number of plays such as "Two For The See Saw."

"SUDDENLY," he said, "I realized I was just learning how to act. I wish now that I had started it all 20 years ago. It's a job to go out on that stage in front of a live audience and sustain a performance.

"I've learned more in the last two years than I had learned in 20 years of moviemaking."

Montgomery, a real cowboy, isn't bemoaning his many years on Hollywood horseback. After all, Gene Autry never had a movie play on the big-town circuit and now he owns a major league baseball team, the Los Angeles Angels, plus several radio and television stations and a chain of hotels.

"But," says Montgomery, "I'm still young enough (45) in this business to start playing some good roles. I'm just a late starter."

AUDIENCE STAMPS AND CHEERS

Mehta and L.A. Artists in Great Concert Here

By RACHEL MORTON

The Long Beach audience in Concert Hall of the Municipal Auditorium Friday waxed enthusiastic over Zubin Mehta's conducting with stamping of feet and calls of "Bravo!" at the close of the concert which he conducted with the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra.

How fortunate we are to have such a very fine orchestra come right to our door for several concerts each season. May we hold fast to this golden opportunity. And how doubly fortunate are we in the privilege in hearing one of the world's greatest conductors right here in Long Beach.

The program opened with the "Overture to Khovantchina" by Moussorsky. "Moods of the Sea," would best describe Debussy's "La Mer". Beginning with the mist of early morning, one heard in the music the awakening of the surf jetting spray and spindrift and then building to a massive spilling.

* * * *

THE MUSIC of the second episode painted the shimmering sea, the restless sea, the upsurging sea. In the last movement, Debussy depicted a storm at sea that was eloquent and marvelous. The thunders rumbled and crashed, the heavens opened with torrential rains. The storms subsided, becalmed was the sea, but the waves rose and fell tempestously.

Mehta roused the orchestra to a thrilling performance.

Dvorak's "New World symphony," with its haunting melody "Goin' Home," plantation folk tunes and the stirring marching song of the Finale, to touch upon only a few of the highlights, was likewise given a magnificent performance under the conductor's great emotional direction.

YOU AND BUILDING SECURITY

Financially, home ownership makes YOU one of that great group of Americans building security through the ownership of a tangible and stable asset — a part of America itself. The fact of the matter is that the thoughtful person of today might well ask himself if he can afford NOT to buy his own home. Steadily increasing equity in a well-chosen home is one of the best forms of painless and automatic saving to provide for retirement.

In terms of personal satisfaction, YOU and every member of your family will benefit. Children will make longtime friends, feel more secure because they "belong" to a neighborhood. Their chances for healthful growth and recreation will be vastly improved. And in these assurances YOU—the parents — can take satification. Moreover, YOU will live fuller and more interesting lives as active adult members of the community.

A NEW LISTING
Designed by Frances Heusel w/ charm & comfortable family living in mind. This elegant home is the one to consider, if you are an executive who appreciates value. The exterior is enhanced by Canyon Bouquet Stone & leaded glass windows, & is instantly eye appealing. As you enter the lovely foyer, you become aware of the excellent floor plan. To the left is the formal liv. rm. which is VERY spacious & to the right of the foyer is the formal din. rm. with a chandelier of rare exquisite Elegance. Beyond the din. rm. is a huge paneled family rm. which creates a complete circular floor plan for large scale entertaining. The family suite includes 2 lge. bdrms. & 2 baths. Plus a master suite. The Wardrobe & closet space in this home leaves nothing more to be desired. Off the kitchen is a maid's rm. or the 4th bedroom. The breakfast room is large & cheerful, and the kitchen is planned w/every consideration for the "utility-conscious" home maker. For further enjoyment this home has a secluded patio & an 18x36 pool.

GARDEN GROVE

A Kings Mansion With Heated Pool
Majestically situated on an estate-size lot is this palatial 3-bedroom, 2-bath home. Towering trees, rolling green lawns and a heavy shake roof add to the picture-book setting created here. As you step upon the cloud-soft careting in the mammoth living room you will thrill to its exquisite decor enhanced by an elegant raised hearth used brick fireplace and the effective use of expensive draperies and shutters. The Golden Award kitchen displays a built-in range, oven, dishwasher and a custom designed breakfast nook. Sliding glass doors open to a fabulous semi-enclosed and covered patio with decorative brick planters and exquisite plantings. Adjoining it is a separately fenced heated and filtered swimming pool complete with diving board and underwater lites and glamorized by flickering Tiki torches. Flagstone decking and beautiful planters. Many, many more delightful features are included for only . . .

Anaheim Plant Playing Key Role in Progress

By VERN ANTHONY
Southland Progress Editor

One of the first air space industries to locate in Orange County, Northrop Corporation's Anaheim facility today rates among the top bracket in prestige and accomplishments, although outranked in size.

Nortronics System Support, at 500 E. Orangethorpe Ave., occupies some 600,000 square feet of buildings on a 61-acre site.

A breakdown of personnel shows that of 4,000 employes about 5 per cent live in the Long Beach area.

* * * *

THE ANAHEIM PLANT was opened April 1, 1951. At first it manufactured precision optical material for the Army, with fewer than a thousand workers.

Today, it specializes in several important defense programs—automatic checkout test systems, ordnance and countermeasure devices, mechanical ground support equipment and optical systems.

Nortronics products played a key role not long ago in United States aerial reconnaissance activities during the Cuban crisis.

PROJECTS under contract include DATICO automatic checkout units for the Navy's Polaris fleet ballistic missiles; major components of the Army's Hawk surface-to-air missile system, and optical viewing systems for the Army. In addition, there are undisclosed "classified" projects.

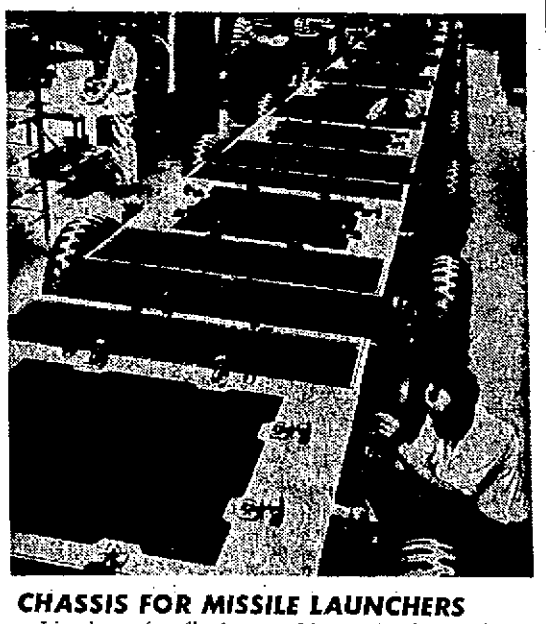

The term DATICO derives from digital automatic intelligence checkout equipment such as the Navy uses for launch-readiness tests on all nuclear submarines and for other maintenance checkout purposes.

DATICO capabilities encompass control, performance measurement, performance evaluation and recording.

Phone Co. to Build New L.B. Facility

Groundbreaking Friday launched General Telephone Co. into construction work on a new 'California' Central Office at 1698 California Ave.

The $1,570,000 project includes initial cost of $295,000 for land and building; $1,075,000 for switching equipment in the building; and $200,000 for outside substructure and cable.

The expansion move ties in directly with anticipated growth of downtown Long Beach, expected high-rise development and the upcoming World's Fair, a company spokesman said. The new office will absorb services now handled at the 550 Elm Ave. building—permitting the latter facility to handle increased downtown business.

Grove Students Vie in Realtor Essay Contest

Students from the four Garden Grove District high schools — Rancho, Santiago, Bolsa Grande and Garden Grove High — are submitting entries in an essay contest under sponsorship of the local Board of Realtors.

More than 50 entrants are expected, the students writing on the subject "The Home is the Heart and Hope of the Nation," according to Mrs. Bea Rusche, essay contest chairman.

The Garden Grove winner will be announced at the Realtor Civic Day luncheon May 15, she said.

This winner then will compete against winners of other county realty board essay contests; and the countywide winner will go up against statewide competition at the state realty convention Sept. 22. This will be in Los Angeles.

Winners will receive awards as well as honors and have a chance for national recognition.

LONG BEACH FIRM GROWING

C of C Spotlights Kit Co. in 'Success Profile'

By VERN ANTHONY
Southland Progress Editor

Desirous of giving recognition to growth of established firms in the Long Beach area, the Chamber of Commerce has launched a so-called "Profiles of Success" program.

Kit Manufacturing Co., a Long Beach producer of mobile homes which has expanded to a three-plant national operation in 18 years, is first industry to be spotlighted.

Candidates for "Profiles of Success" will be nominated on a monthly basis by the Chamber's Growth & Diversification subcommittee under chairmanship of Richard Caldwell, area marketing administrator for General Telephone Co. of California.

* * * *

"NEW INDUSTRY and new payrolls are always important, but we must not forget that the most significant economic growth is often that which occurs from within a community," Caldwell said the past week.

"The Kit Manufacturing Co. profile of success reflects an interesting combination of management skills and intelligent evaluation of market opportunities," he said.

It also was noted the Chamber would be alert to outstanding examples of manufacturing growth through product diversification and international trade.

* * * *

The company, located in Long Beach since 1947, is one of America's largest mobile-home builders.

The firm first pioneered in production of small, do-it-yourself assembly "Kits" for camper trailers, developed many of the first 20 to 40-foot trailer designs, and now even produces homes on wheels that embrace a comfortable 1,200 square feet of living space.

* * * *

KIT PRESIDENT, Dan Pocapalia, one of the company founders, reports the mobilehome industry now compreses the largest prefabricated homebuilding business in the country, producing nearly twice as many units as manufacturers of convention-

Long Beach Architect Firm Wins in National Competition

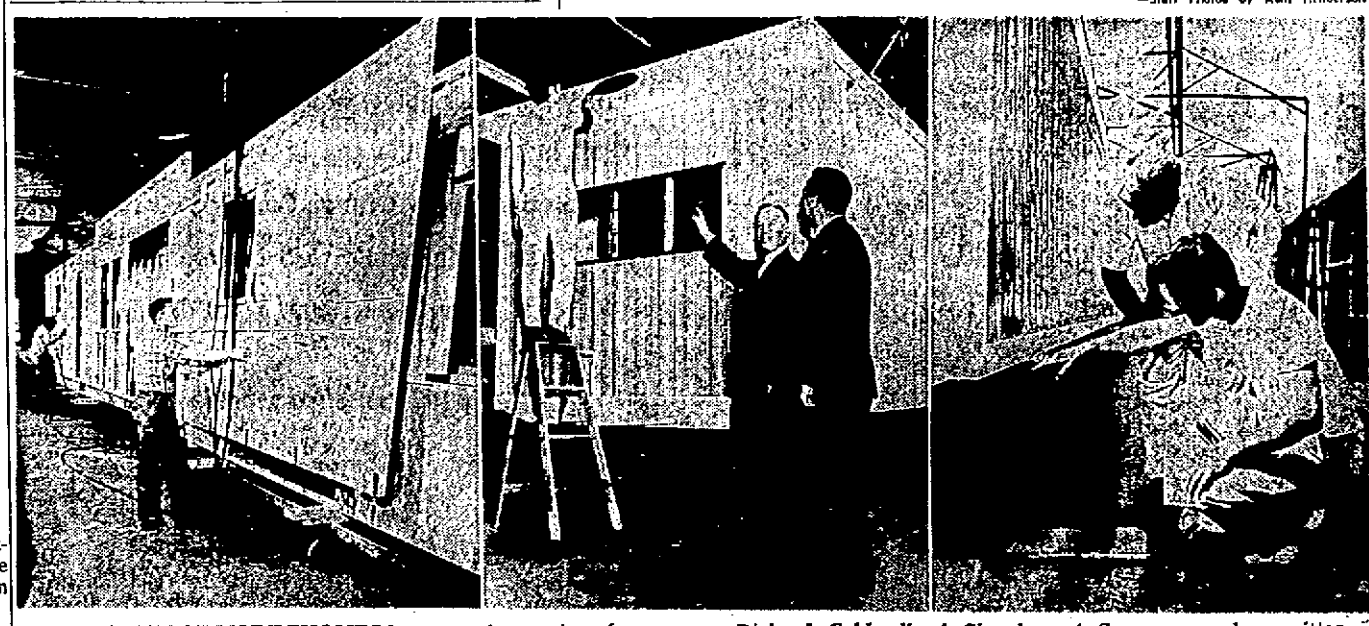

The Edward Frank residence at 82 Rivo Alto Canal, which was designed by Long Beach architects Killingsworth, Brady and Smith, just has been chosen for a First Honor Award in the Homes for Better Living Competition. This national competition, held each year to select the best in American housing, is sponsored jointly by the American Institute of Architects and House and Home, Life and Time magazines. The top award given to the Frank house was for Custom Houses more than 2,000 feet in area.

The award will be presented to the architects during the A.I.A. convention at Miami in May.

L.B. Penney Store Exec Post Filled

Appointment of Arthur S. Anderson as sales and merchandising manager of the J. C. Penney Co. store in downtown Long Beach has been announced by Warren Harper, manager.

Anderson formerly held a similar position in the San Fernando Valley store and has been with the Penney Company for 12 years, starting as a management trainee.

Born in Glendale, Anderson is 38 years old. After completing school in Glendale he spent 3½ years as a bomber pilot with the 8th Air Force in England during World War II.

Attending the University of Southern California, he was graduated in 1951 with a Bachelor of Science degree in retailing.

With his wife, Virginia, and two sons, Gary and James, Anderson plans to reestablish his home in the Long Beach area.

Long Beach Mobilehome Firm Grows

al prefabricated homes.

Faced with this demand, Kit management went to work early on plans to regionalize manufacturing activities in order to capture a larger share of a rapidly expanding market.

The task of long-range planning fell primarily on the shoulders of Pocapalia, secretary-treasurer Arnold J. Romeyn, manufacturing vice president V. T. Kruse and Thomas G. Fagan, vice president and national director of sales.

• • • •

IT QUICKLY was evident that the selling price of Kit's product was influenced by the cost of moving it from factory to dealer to user. Hence, the more plants, the more competitive the selling price.

In 1958, a modern fully mechanized plant was erected in Caldwell, Idaho, 25 miles from Boise. There, a trained work force of more than 100 now produces a variety of quality mobilehome products for the Pacific Northwest.

Three years later, after a comprehensive study, Kit established its third plant in McPherson, Kan. Comparable in size and work force to the Idaho operation, the Kansas facility produces for distribution in a 14-state region. The fast-moving organization also is seeking a fourth plant on the Ohio-Pennsylvania area.

• • • •

EVEN THE Long Beach plant came under the cost-conscious scrutiny of Kit management. Faced with a need to enlarge the operation, the firm came within a chassis-width of leaving Long Beach for a new location.

Fortunately, a careful appraisal revealed the greater advantages of expansion at the present location where Kit's production capability soon will reach 10 units per day.

With a functional teletype system for national interplant communication, operation of a company aeroplane from the Idaho plant, and constant attention to production techniques, Kit Manufacturing Co. of Long Beach is on the move.

TALK OVER CONFERENCE PLANS

Grove Women Realtors to Co-Host Conference

Garden Grove and Santa Ana chapters of the Women's Council of the National Association of Real Estate Boards will host a one-day Southern California conference Saturday at the Charterhouse Hotel in Anaheim.

Hours will be from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., starting with a continental breakfast and including luncheon. Presiding will be Jeanette Heron, regional governor, south, Women's Council NAREB.

Conducting the conference will be Vida Harold of San Francisco, regional vice president, assisted by Marie Rose Gasper of San Jose, regional governor, north, and Jeanette Heron.

The conference will deal with program planning, policies, workshops, panels and ways to increase membership. Last year's conference was held in Santa Barbara.

Realtors to Note Schools Week

Education will have its day before the Long Beach District Board of Realtors at the group's Tuesday breakfast meeting.

OWEN COOK

Owen J. Cook, Board of Education business manager, will speak and board members will be honored guests as the realtors give recognition to Public Schools Week.

In addition, according to program chairman Verne Morrill, Lakewood High School Madrigal Singers will be on the program.

The 7:15 a.m. realty sessions are held at the Crown Cafeteria.

Death of Scheinost Mourned

A wide circle of friends in the building and real estate business expressed grief the past week over the death in a plane crash of Dale A. Scheinost, 42.

Formerly a builder in the Long Beach area, Scheinost had been FHA and VA coordinator with George M. Holstein & Sons of Costa for eight years. He was widely known in the Southland.

DALE SCHEINOST
Crash Victim

Scheinost and three others men died in a crash Wednesday near Hemet.

A native of Nebraska, Scheinost lived at 11281 E. Chapman Ave. in Garden Grove.

He is survived by his wife, Helenstar, and two sons, Don, age 12, and Charles, age 20. Charles in his first year at Arizona State College, Tempe.

Jaycees Name Boyd 'Young Man of Year'

Long Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce has named William C. (Bill) Boyd "Young Man of the Year" for outstanding contributions to community life.

Boyd, 29, received the distinguished service award at the organization's annual Gridiron Banquet from JC President Barton Smith.

The head of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce's promotion and public relations was nominated by the Long Beach Advertising Club and selected by an awards jury.

WILLIAM C. BOYD
Honored

• • • •

"BILL BOYD was selected because of his unselfish and devoted volunteer work with numerous Long Beach organizations," Smith stated, "in addition to his professional achievements with the Chamber."

Boyd was tournament director of last year's World Water Ski tournament, which provided the first network telecast of a Long Beach-produced event. He was a prime mover in the organization of "Starlight Serenade" summer symphony pops concerts, which were presented here for the first time last year and attracted large crowds to each performance.

Get Transmission Service Franchise

Former Oregonians Charles Jones and Dave Phillips have received the first western franchise granted by National Transmission Service Centers and are going into business at 1440 W. Pacific Coast Highway in Long Beach.

Jones is experienced in the auto industry and as an engineer, and Phillips recently completed an advanced course in automotive mechanics at the University of Alaska.

Young Westminster Realty Board Has Fast Growth

Chartered as recently as Dec. 18, 1961, the Westminster Board of Realtors has had a 300% increase in membership, a recent drive having added 10 new brokers, 15 salesmen and 17 affiliates.

Leading the drive were Dick Nerio, board president; Providence Payne, membership chairman; and Eula Hughes, Blue Book chairman.

Herbert L. V. Coffey was acting president when the board received its charter.

The board has an active multiple listing service. Meetings are held at 8 a.m. each Thursday at El Don's Pancake House, at Beach Boulevard and Bolsa Avenue.

GET RESULTS
Young in age but growing fast, the Westminster Board of Realtors added 42 to its membership in a recent drive. Heading the campaign were President Dick Nerio, Providence Payne (left) and Eula Hughes.

Bellflower Area Schools Share in Emblem Use

One hundred thousand reproductions of the California State emblems in four colors have been distributed to California elementary schools by the California Real Estate Association, according to Bob Prigmore, president of the Bellflower District Board of Realtors.

Four elementary school districts in the Bellflower area are among the many who are using the reproductions, Prigmore said. Bloomfield School District, Hawaiian Gardens; Paramount Unified School District; Bellflower Unified School District and Artesia School District have secured copies for use in their elementary classes.

P&G Plant to Have New Warehouse

Construction has started on a new 200,000 square foot warehouse at the Long Beach plant of Procter & Gamble Manufacturing Co., 1601 W. 7th St.

The building is going up south of the plant on property formerly used as a parking lot has been relocated east of the plant.

Plant Manager Paul Nichol said the warehouse is due to be completed by September.

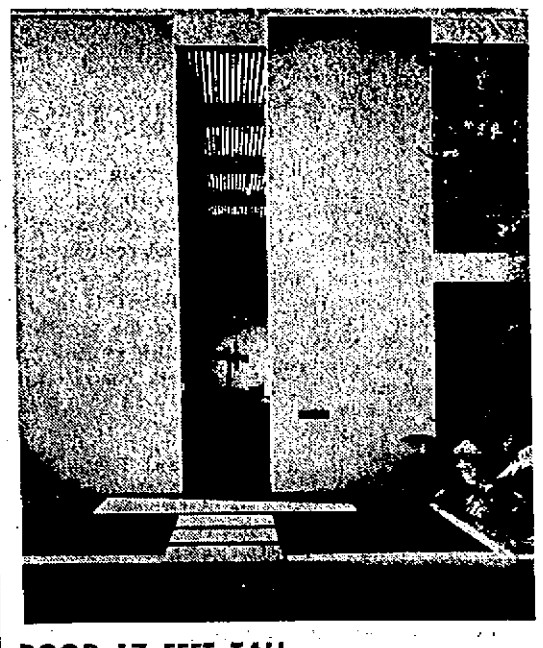

He explained that the building will be used for finished product storage and will include a small office area, a truck dock and railroad siding.

Bole & Wilson of Long Beach are engineering the project.

Wins Mexico Trip

George Goldberg of Walker & Lee has won a week's vacation for two in Mexico City as winner in the real estate firm's exclusive listing contest just completed.

The firm announced plans for another contest with prize of a trip for four to Hawaii.

Study House No. 25 for Arts and Architecture Magazine, also was selected last month by the editors of Architectural Record Magazine as one of the 20 best contemporary houses in the United States in 1963. It will be published soon in a book known as the "Record Houses of 1963."

The book has received worldwide notice and at present is being published in Spain, Switzerland and Italy.

The home is located on a 45-foot lot on the Rivo Alto Canal and has many unusual features, including an entrance door 17 feet tall. All the main living areas face toward a two-story patio with a large Rosenthal sculpture.

* * * *

AS MANY visitors to the house will arrive by boat, the canal side of the home was given special attention by the architects. Entry is by stepping stones over a shallow reflecting pool. The extra-tall door was made of a honeycomb core with special sheets of seamless aluminum laminated on both sides. It has an electronic opener and opens into a high inner courtyard.

In the national competition, 10 custom-built houses, 12 garden apartments were cited for honors.

Scoring honorable mention in the class won by the Long Beach firm was Architect Pierre Koenig of Palos Verdes. Architect Carl Maston of Anaheim won honorable mention in another division.

On Convention Panel Saturday

Long Beach City College Business and Technology Division faculty member Mary Louise Lynott will be a panelist on letter writing Saturday at the state convention of the American Business Writing convention.

The event will be at San Fernando State College.

Miss Lynott is secretary-elect of the Long Beach National Office Management Association.

GUIDING LIGHT of present overall operations is Thomas Victor Jones, company president although only in his early 40s.

Jones was a wartime plane engineer for the Douglas Aircraft Co. then had an air advisory capacity with the government of Brazil, where he took his bride, the daughter of actor Conrad Nagel.

Four years later, he returned to this country and joined the Rand Corp., where he authored a study showing that jet power would make massive military airlift operations feasible. His next move was to Northrop; and he has played a major role in revitalizing that company.

* * * *

JONES HAD A THEORY that Northrop could prosper by concentrating on making selected parts rather than entire systems.

For instance, Northrop built the Mercury capsule recovery system that returned Astronauts Alan Shepard and Virgil Grissom from space.

Jones' goal is to make Northrop "a master and manager of advanced technology."

In his own words:

"We are neither an aircraft company, space company, nor an electronics company. We are neither a totally prime nor subcontractor. We are all of these . . . we are an advanced technology company."

CALIFORNIA CENTRAL Office will house automatic switching equipment, including facilities for direct distance dialing, to serve 5,200 customers at first and eventually 45,000.

It will provide relief for both the Uptown and Downtown Long Beach divisions. A portion of the 5,200 customers who will be involved in the initial transfer now are served from each of these two divisions. First transfer will involve the area north of Pacific Coast Highway to Hill Street and between the flood control channel and Alamitos Avenue.

The eventual boundary for the new center will be from 7th Street to Hill and between the flood control channel and Redondo Avenue.

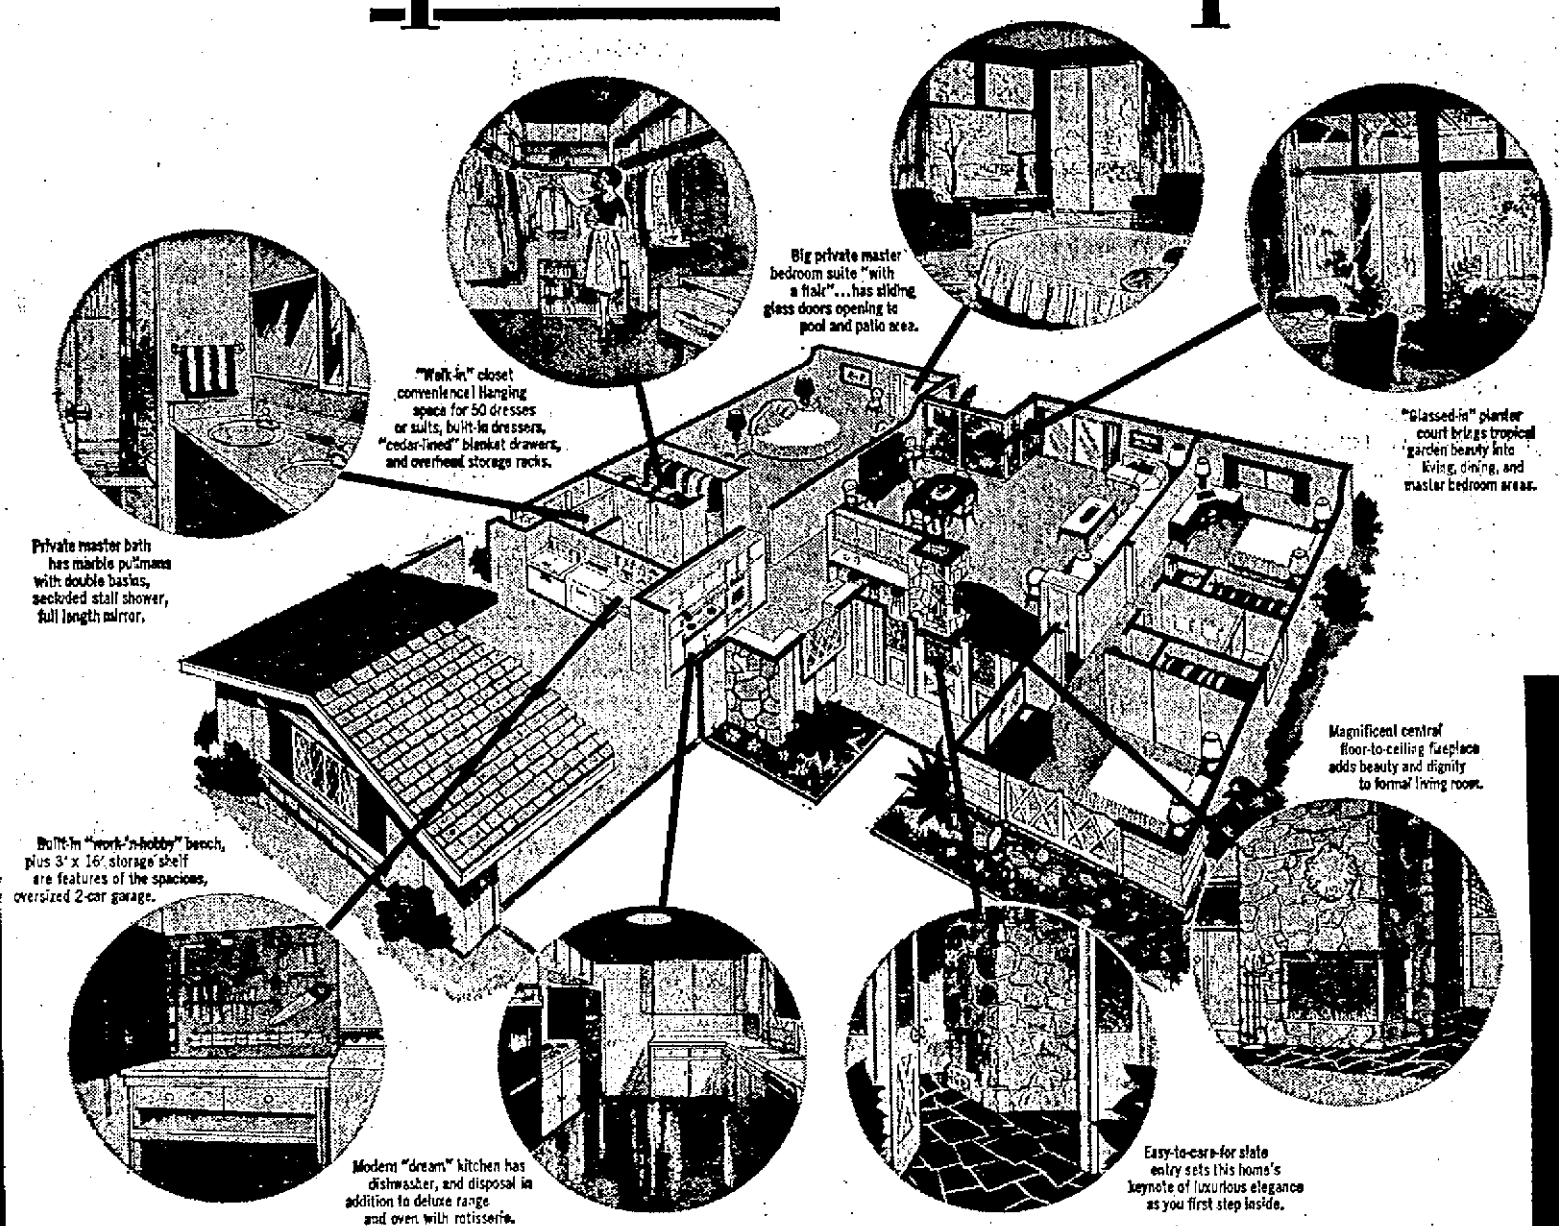

* * * *

THESE CHANGES will be made progressively from next year through 1979. The building itself is slated for expansion in 1968 and again in 1979 to ultimate capacity of five full units. The new center is scheduled to be in service by Oct. 4, 1964.

General Telephone has acquired the land between California and Lewis avenues and between 16th and 17th streets. Old buildings in the area have been cleared away.

The project is seen as a major improvement in the district immediately east of Poly High School. The first building will be 120x65 feet, of reinforced concrete and brick construction.

L.B. Rehabilitation Trainees Earn Way in Private Industry

Slim T. is in his early fifties, a hemiplegic. He now fabricates diamond-faced cutting wheels for a manufacturing plant in Torrance.

Pete M. is 37. He has been a quadraplegic (all four limbs affected) since a tragic driving accident at the age of 21. He is now an electronic assembler, working for an electronics firm in Hawthorne.

Beatrice L., 34, a post polio victim with leg and hip involvement, contracted that disease at the age of 7, was hospitalized for most of six years. She is now a percision electronics assembler at Northrop Aircraft Company.

* * * *

THESE ARE EXAMPLES of the 289 handicapped persons who have been graduated from Community Rehabilitation Industries—a non-profit, community sponsored industrial workshop—since its inception seven years ago next Friday.

Community Rehabilitation Industries, located at 1409-21 E. Anaheim St., was founded after 12 representatives of Long Beach health and welfare organizations met and decided that a training workshop could help bridge the gap for many between physical and mental disability and utilization of ability. Trainees pay no fees; they earn while they learn.

* * * *

JUDGE MARTIN DeVRIES, president of the board of directors, which includes 25 community and industrial leaders, emphasizes that "This project has reaped great benefit for the community."

"From a strictly dollars and cents aspect, the fact that 289 graduates are now earning an average of $4,200 a year in private industry is proof enough that C.R.I. is good business."

C.R.I.'s rehabilitation function is to evaluate, train, provide paid work experience and develop employment opportunities in industry by means of sub-contract work.

* * * *

OF INTEREST is the fact that 85% of the workshop's income has had to come from its own work, contract work bid on and won on a purely competitive basis. Eight percent has come from the State Vocational Rehabilitation Service for services rendered some of their clients. The remainder has come from C.R.I.'s own Community Thrift Shop at 7th Street and Pine Avenue, and the generosity of individuals, organizations and firms.

In seven years, more than 700 persons have been trained in the C.R.I. workshop program. More than $400,000 has been paid out to production trainees in wages and more than $75,000 in income taxes withheld.

DISCUSS AIR SURVEY ROUTE
Developer Keith Smith (left), Coral B. Davis, Hubert Orton and Pilot Don Wilson talk over itinerary for helicopter survey of investment land in Long Beach and vicinity.

LOW ALTITUDE 'LOOK-SEE'

Businessmen Use 'Copter for Investment Site Survey

Recognizing the advantages of aerial recognizance, three businessmen recently made a helicopter tour of the Long Beach vicinity for a survey of land suitable for development. They were reported amazed and pleased over the results of their low-altitude study.

On the flight were Keith Smith, president of the San Sebastian Development Co. and the Wings Van and Storage Co., Long Beach; Hubert Orton, 30-year member of the Los Angeles Board of Realtors and interested in the investment field; and Coral B. Davis, affiliated with Smith and former president of the Riverside Board of Realtors.

* * * *

THEY WERE PILOTED by Don Wilson of Utility Helicopters, Inc.

Orton, past president of the Hollywood Lions Club, is a Methodist Church conference lay leader and board member of the University of Pacific, Stockton, and California Western University, San Diego. Two sons are associated with him in the building business.

Also affiliated with the San Sebastian company is George Trammell, former city attorney of Long Beach.

The San Sebastian company, located at 4290 Long Beach Blvd., is engaged in the buying and development of properties; and the helicopter survey, Davis said, was employed to gain a speedy, comprehensive look at site possibilities in the Long Beach area, South Bay area and in Orange County.

Davis said the company now controls some $3 million worth of Southland properties and plans to purchase about $5 million worth in the Long Beach and South Coast areas.

Sunkist Home Sales Nearing Sell Out

The steady sales pace being recorded at Sunkist Plaza and Springdale South in Huntington Beach has left only a handful of residences remaining for sale, reports Sy Bram, general manager for Sunkist Plaza Builders.

A radial location close to shopping, schools, employment, and recreation, plus no down payment terms have been instrumental factors in the record sales, Bram added.

Terms presently allow buyers to move in for $100 minimal closing costs.

"All of these community features are particularly suited to meet the needs of growing young families," Bram said.

* * * *

AN ADDITIONAL inducement for buyers is the planned community concept that assures the prospective owner every possible convenience and service furnished almost at his doorstep.

Sunkist Plaza and Springdale South offer four basic floor plans, with over 25 variations in exterior elevations. Combinations of three and four bedrooms, plus family rooms and two baths provide for a complete flexibility of selection catering to individual taste.

These homes are all Waste King Universal equipped and feature built-in gas ranges and ovens in color, matching hoods, forced-air heat, Formica counters, natural ash cabinets, all brass hardware, aluminum and glass shower doors, aluminum sash windows, sliding wardrobe doors and generous use of luxury materials for exteriors, for shutters, etc.

ON LOTS OF 6,000 square feet and over, these homes come with fully fenced rear yards and Sunkist Plaza homes include fireplaces, the spokesman said.

Springdale South homes are priced from $16,250, while Sunkist Plaza Unit 3 are from $17,750.

DINING ROOM ADJOINS PATIO

In this model of a Troy Hills Home the large dining room is separated from the patio and pool area by large sliding doors of glass. The dining areas of the homes are proving popular with home buyers.

Formal Dining Room Attracting Buyers to Homes in Troy Hills

"Growing in popularity are two Troy Hills plans which provide formal dining rooms —the '400 Plan' opening onto the terrace through sliding glass doors and the '700 Plan' with a recessed planter court and window wall which create a delightful dining atmosphere," says Jim McCarthy, vice president of The McCarthy Co., co-builders with Sant Construction of the new Fullerton home community.

Dining rooms meet the growing trend toward more frequent formal entertaining. "When the modern hostess entertains informally — perhaps around the pool—she is completely casual. But when she prefers formality and dresses in the once again fashionable long evening or hostess skirt, she also prefers candlelight and more formality of atmosphere in which to serve her guests," McCarthy said.

THE TROY HILLS "700 Plan" places the dining room next to the living room, separated by ingenious floor plan design. It is conveniently served from the separate, adjacent kitchen, which has a handy breakfast bar for snacks or children's meals.

The large recessed planter court, with a surrounding wooden grid deck, is also overlooked by window walls in the living room, and the master bedroom suite. The latter is in a wing of its own for complete adult privacy. Sliding glass doors from living room and master bedroom open onto the patio-pool area. Two other bedrooms and their full bathroom are located in the opposite wing of the dwelling.

Another popular feature of the Troy Hills "700 Plan" is the floor-to-ceiling Palos Verdes stone fierplace, which serves as a dramatic divider wall between living room and handsome slate-floored entry.

* * * *

TROY HILLS three or four bedroom, two-bath homes, with dining rooms, dining areas and family rooms, are set on a choice of level or rolling hillside lots up to 1/3 acre in size.

Homes are priced from $20,950. Buyers may trade in their present home, or reserve their favorite plan with a $100 deposit while building up to their down payment. Offered are veteran no-down-payment VA terms, FHA financing from $1200 down, conventional and Val-Vet financing.

Home Buyers Given Membership in Club

In excess of $2 million worth of sales have been reported at Harbor Estates SeaView by D. R. Colegrove, president of Dike & Colegrove, Inc., developers of the San Clemente ocean-view community.

A major factor contributing to this sales record, according to the builder, is an arrangement whereby purchasers receive from the builder a free membership in the nearby Capistrano Beach Club. This long-established, recently-remodeled club is only a few minutes drive from the devolpment and offers, in addition to excellent beach, pool, dining room and lounge facilities, a complete year-round program of family activities.

Many buyers plan on commuting to the commercial and industrial areas of northern Orange County, a short drive using the southern portion of the Santa Ana freeway.

Located in northernmost San Clemente, Harbor Estates SeaView overlooks Capistrano Beach and the Pacific.

Enclosed patios are a feature of many of the two, three, and four bedroom designs.

Prices of homes at Harbor Estates SeaView range from $22,950 to $32,900, including title to the land.

Six furnished models are open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily. To reach the development, take the Santa Ana/San Diego Freeway to the Camino Estrella turnoff, at which point signs direct motorists to the development.

$8 Million Building Program Launched

Tiara Estates Homes, Inc., Garden Grove, will start construction next week on 327 single family homes and apartment units in five Orange County locations following signing of a contract with the Southern Counties Gas Co. to utilize the Balanced Power home program, Jerry Farrow, secretary-treasurer of the building firm, announced.

The home developments are in Fountain Valley at Burchard and Heil; in two Garden Grove locations at Euclid and Chapman, and Louis and Lampson, and in Anaheim at Ninth and Orangewood. The apartment complex is in Buena Park at Rostrata and Franklin. The projects will represent a valuation in excess of $8 million.

THE FIRM'S Tiara Estates development in Fountain Valley will include 180 three and four - bedroom, two - bath homes priced from $17,990 to $21,300. The homes will be in four basic floor plans and 10 elevations. They will include family, laundry and hobby rooms, dens, a 500-square-foot premium room (in some models), central entry halls, carpeting, drapes, fencing, lawns and built-in ranges, ovens and dishwashers, according to Farrow.

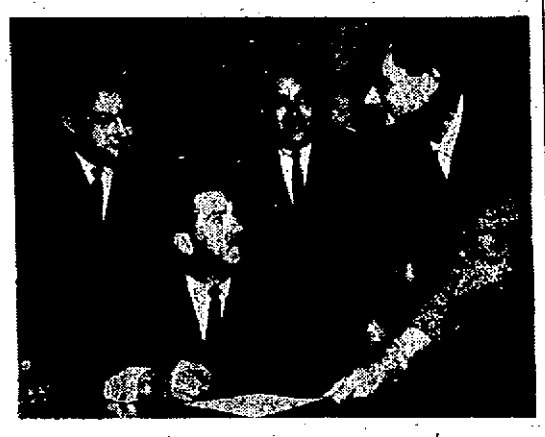

The developments in Anaheim and Garden Grove (Euclid and Chapman) will contain 30 and 20 homes, respectively, with three and four-bedrooms and split level, one and one-half story and two-story elevations. They will be priced from $35,000 to $40,000.

The estates at Louis and Lampson in Garden Grove will contain 47 three, four and five-bedroom homes available in four basic floor plans and 12 elevations. They will be priced from $22,000 to $24,900.

* * * *

THE APARTMENT complex will contain 50 units in 12 one-story buildings. The units will incorporate two rooms and one bath plus built-in gas ranges and ovens in kitchens. The apartments will be available for individual unit rental, or multi-unit buildings may be purchased, Farrow said.

Sales for all of Tiara Estates Homes, Inc., developments will be handled by Farrow Realty Corp., 22-year-old Orange County organization headed by Dick Murray, director of sales.

BALANCED POWER CONTRACTED

Jerry Farrow (seated), secretary - treasurer of Tiara Estates Homes, Inc., Garden Grove, signs contract with Southern Counties Gas Co. to utilize Balanced Power home program in 327 single-family residential and apartment units the firm will start constructing. Looking on are Dick Murray (left), director of sales, Farrow Realty Corp.; M. S. Salgado, manager, Real Estate Advertising Service, the firm's ad agency; and Allan Alcott, builder representative, Southern Counties Gas Co.

Dutch Haven's Los Alamitos Homes Reported Selling Fast

Introduced to Southern California homebuyers only a short time ago, Dutch Haven's new Executive Series in Los Alamitos has rapidly become one of the Southland's fastest-selling developments, according to a spokesman for Luxury Homes, Inc., creators of award-winning Dutch Haven communities.

The Luxury Homes' official attributed the community's swift sales to several buyer-appealing factors such as location within a centrally located city experiencing tremendous growth; proximity to schools, shopping centers, employment and recreation; construction by a nationally recognized firm with an established repuation for quality and value and the inclusion of a vast number of luxury features normally unavailable at moderate prices.

* * * *

SITUATED ON Katella Avenue in Los Alamitos, the Executive Series is designed as the Epicure Line" of Dutch Haven's popular American Homes. The, recently introduced series offers a wide choice of distinctive exteriors. Floor plans are created to offer maximum living area for families, as well as complete versatility and convenience.

Prices of Executive Series homes start at $19,500, with VA, No-Down, FHA and long-term conventional financing available. The homes are three and four bedrooms in size, with family room and up to three baths.

* * * *

FEATURES INCLUDE custom fireplaces with log lighters, formal dining areas, double-door entries, extra-large closets with cedar floors, built-in counter-top range and oven, Mr. and Mrs. closets, hardwood paneling, separate utility rooms, built-in dishwasher and disposal, custom lighting fixtures, and complete color coordination.

To visit the furnished models from Long Beach, go east on Willow Street (Katella Avenue) direct to the homes.

Builder Names Superintendent

C. M. (Chuck) Crumpton has been named general superintendent of the Mervin B. Johnson building company, one of Orange County's largest builders of homes, small shopping centers and apartment units. Johnson pointed out that he plans to expand into a complete general contracting firm for heavy commercial, industry, residential, high rise, tract homes, and large multiple housing projects, and Crumpton will be in charge of all the firm's building projects. The new general contracting firm will be known as Great Western Contractors, Inc.

Sunshine Homes in Fast Growing Area

Location is one of the important considerations by home purchasers today, stated Richard C. Hunsaker, president of S. V. Hunsaker & Sons, prominent southland builders and developers.

This is one reason the Huntington Beach Sunshine Homes in unit 3, have received better than average buyer acceptance, according to Hunsaker. These homes are located in one of the fastest growing areas of Orange County. Beaches, schools, shopping centers, and industrial areas are nearby.

Offering the buyer the most popular of architectural planning, built-ins, and modern materials designed for lifetime satisfaction, these attractive homes have three and four bedrooms, two full baths, family room, and large two-car garage. Huntington Beach Sunshine Homes may be purchased with no down payment and immediate occupancy is available.

* * * *

POPULAR FEATURES in these quality homes include wall-to-wall carpet, floor to ceiling folding wardrobe doors, forced-air heat, all-copper plumbing, and plenty of built-ins. The ultra-modern kitchens have built-in range and oven with hood and exhaust fan, Insinkerator disposer, vinyl tile, Formica counter tops, and natural finish cabinets.

Furnished model homes are open daily for inspection from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. and are located on Heil Ave. two blocks west of Golden West St.

Novel Floor Plan Is Proving Popular

A SHERWOOD ESTATE
Spacious Sherwood Estates homes feature extra-large "bedroom-size" closets and abundant storage space in kitchens and bathrooms. The new George D. Buccola developments are in Anaheim, Tustin, Orange, Costa Mesa and Santa Ana. Homes are priced from $29,950. Here is a view of the dining area.

Separate living quarters are featured in an unusual floor plan proving exceptionally popular at Sherwood Country Club Estates, according to Carl Gattuso, sales manager for the upper Newport Bay community. This master suite is upstairs in the split-level designed home and includes bedroom, bath, and sitting room with fireplace.

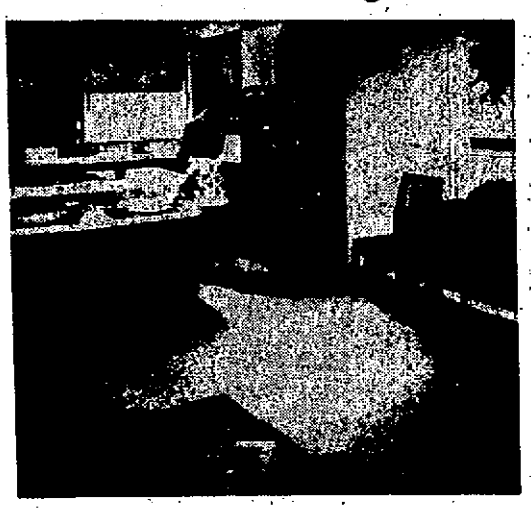

"This unique arrangement is selling particularly well to families with teenage children or those with in-laws living with them, as it provides the utmost in privacy," Gattuso explained. Located above the garage-family room area of the home and reached by its own stairway, the suite assures complete seclusion and may be used as a studio, a two-bedroom unit, or one bedroom-sitting room quarters. The downstairs portion of Plan 26 includes three large bedrooms, two baths, formal dining room and family room.

* * * *

OTHER County Club Estates models include as many as five bedrooms and four bathrooms, all two story with family rooms and formal dining rooms. Priced from $32,500 to $34,700, the homes include full title to the property in this exclusive area which is leasehold land primarily. All-electric appliances, carpeting, and huge walk-in closets are popular features of the homes.

Furnished models are open daily and evenings at Sherwood Country Club Estates located on Santa Ana Avenue near Palisades Road, across from the Santa Ana Country Club in Costa Mesa.

Three Fashion Home Units Are Selling

A FASHION HOME
The finest of materials are used in Fashion Homes. Raised ash cabinets and vinyl tile floor in the kitchen-family room area are just two samples. Fashion Homes communities are located in Huntington Beach, Garden Grove and Westminster.

Spring is the time of the year that gladdens the heart and puts bounce into the step. It's the happiest time of the year! Or so say the poets.

"And there is nothing more fun for a family than moving into the first home they've owned; or stepping up to a bigger and better home than they now own." So says Mervin B. Johnson, builder of the three Fashion Homes developments in Huntington Beach, Westminster and Garden Grove.

"And we guarantee," he went on, "that moving into a Fashion Home is an exciting experience. Each development varies, so that home-buyers can have their choice of the many, many features they like best!"

* * * *

FASHION HOMES in Huntington Beach have all-electric built-in kitchens, including dishwasher, with block wall fencing included at no extra cost. They are priced from $19,250.

Fashion Homes — Garden Grove, offer O'Keefe & Merritt gas built-in range and oven, with dishwasher and block wall fencing; full prices from $18,500.

Westminster's Fashion Homes contain all-electric kitchens and beautiful hardwood floors, on raised foundations, with full prices from $21,950.

All three offer no down to vets, except costs and impounds, with low FHA terms.

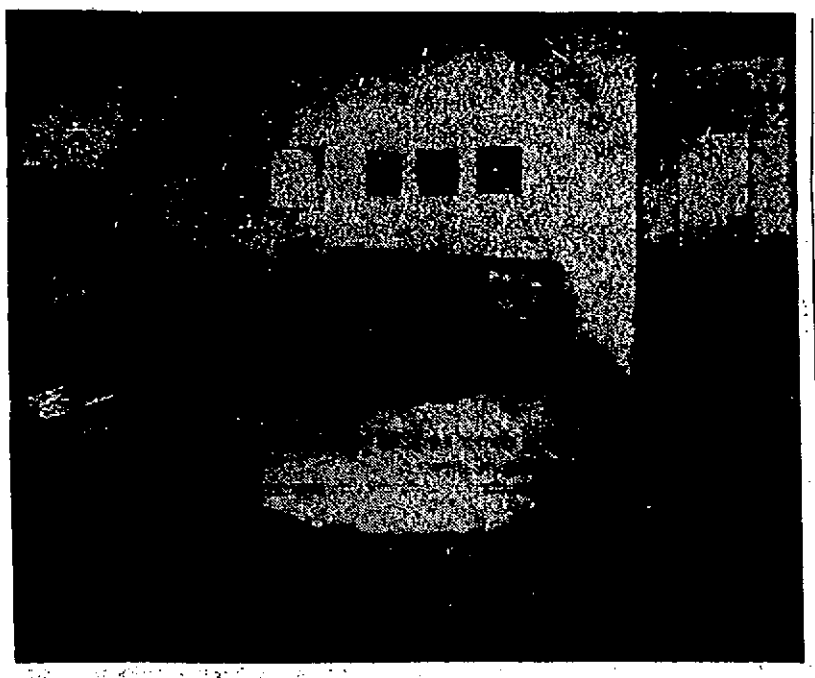

* * * *

THE THREE AND FOUR-bedroom, family room, two bath homes are conveniently located to either the San Diego or Garden Grove freeways, or both; and all three Fashion Homes communities are no more than 10 minutes from the $78 million Douglas plant in Huntington Beach, now well-under-construction.

To reach any of the three communities from the Long Beach area: drive east on Seventh St. to ½ mile east of Bolsa Chica and you're at Fashion Homes — Westminster; continue on Garden Grove Blvd. to Brookhurst St., turn south to Bolsa, left four blocks to the model homes of Fashion Homes — Garden Grove. To visit Fashion Homes — Huntington Beach, turn south from Garden Grove Blvd. on to Beach Blvd. (Hwy. 39). Continue to Sugar Avenue (1½ miles south of Westminster Blvd.), turn right two blocks to the models.

Doubling Plant Size

DOWNEY—The Yale Engineering is expanding its Downey production space by nearly 13,000 square feet, doubling its size. The firm employs 50 persons and manufactures metal and plastic screw machine products.

GRAND OPENING TODAY

Grand opening of Cameron Homes in Huntington Beach is today. Selling for less than $20,000, the homes include three bathrooms, fencing, drapes, carpets, an inside service porch, and three or four bedrooms. Down payments are from $495.

Cameron Homes in Huntington Beach, Open for Sales Today

"Supply seldom exceeds the demand, especially in the home building field; but such in a fact in the case of the three-bathroom Cameron Homes, selling for less than $20,000," so says Stanley E. Bell, builder.

"We have been building and selling feature-packed homes, with many "extras" included in the sales price for the past two years. The home buying public buy them immediately. For instance, our most recent development was 95% sold out by the end of the first week."

Grand opening of the newest Cameron Home community, located on Newland Ave. just off Beach Blvd., in Huntington Beach is today. All the homes contain three bathrooms, three or four bedrooms and a family room. Also included in the sales price are fencing, carpets, drapes, an inside service porch with ample room for dryer, washer and sewing machine, and built-in Universal gas range and oven.

* * * *

BUILDER BELL points out that these are just the principal attractions of Cameron Homes in Huntington Beach. "We have the usual things other builders include as features: forced air heating, vinyl tile floors, pullman lavatories, and so on; yet no other builder offers three bathrooms, fencing, carpets, drapes and an inside service porch for $20,000 or less.

Low move-in costs from $495 prevail, which puts Cameron Homes in Huntington Beach within the price range of just about everyone.

The decorated models are open from 11 a.m. to dark, and easily reached from the Long Beach area by taking Seventh east to Beach Blvd. (Hwy. 39). Turn south on Beach to Newman Street (¾ mile south of Warner Ave.), turn left on Newman to Cameron Homes in Huntington Beach.

Start 3,000 Home Development in Large Laguna Niguel Area

A spectacular $60 million Pacesetter Home development at Laguna Niguel just south of Laguna Beach is underway following groundbreaking ceremonies during which Pacesetter president John W. Klug announced the start of construction of 3,000 homes.

Completion of the first Pacesetter Homes in the $20,000 price range is scheduled for late summer with an early June date set for the opening of models. These will be the only medium-priced homes in Laguna Niguel's 11-square mile complex of planned communities.

* * * *

THE PACESETTER homes will be architecturally designed to blend with the softly rolling Laguna Hills, and will overlook the fairways of El Niguel Country Club's championship 18-hole golf course.

Klug's purchase of 1100 acres at Laguna Niguel last July, cited as one of the largest transactions in recent Orange County history, marked the first time any major builder had been invited to participate in this master-planned community development.

"With the opportune purchase of this vast acreage of beautiful and historic land we now have the rare opportunity to offer a blend of location and home design at a price unmatched in the entire Southern California coastal area," Klug declared.

* * * *

"THE HOMES we build here will compliment the careful and unique planning that has resulted in Laguna Niguel's being one of the best examples of master-planned land use in the Southland," he added.

The development parallels the scenic Crown Valley Parkway, a 7½ mile six-lane divided highway now under construction that will link the Santa Ana Freeway with Pacific Coast Hwy. by mid-summer.

LINKING TWO CENTURIES

John W. Klug (left), president of Pacesetter Homes, receives a historic "Chain of Title" scroll from W. H. Beck, general manager of Laguna Niguel Corp., during ceremonies launching Pacesetter's 3,000-home, $60 million development at Laguna Niguel. The scroll traces nearly two centuries of ownership of the 1,100 acres, from the King of Spain, in 1769, to Pacesetter Homes today.

Don Schug's Talbert Village made a highly successful debut last weekend with the grand opening of the first section. Located in Southwest Orange County, the quiet little city of Fountain Valley hosted unusual Easter weekend crowds, out to inspect the new unit.

The development offers 100 homes of quality construction and design, with all improvements in: Concrete driveways, landscaping with sprinklers, block wall perimeter, wall to wall carpeting, all-electric kitchen including dishwasher and washing machine, master bedroom suites with private bath, fireplaces, covered patio, large walk-in closets. The two, three and four-bedroom homes are priced from $19,250 to $19,950 with no hidden or added assessments, and a land deed to every owner. These suburban homes offer a unique feature, a "private" walkway direct to the Fountain Valley Elementary School. The children cross no outside streets.

* * * *

CIVIC LEADERS of Fountain Valley have formulated a "master plan" for organized growth, assuring economic stability and continued suburban appeal in the future. The plan includes an agricultural preserve immediately adjacent to Talbert Village, plus a fine public school system.

Bart Allan, sales coordinator of the development, said the opening is extended through this weekend. To reach Fountain Valley and Talbert Village from Santa Ana Freeway, drive South on Brookhurst or Hwy. 39 to Talbert Ave. From Brookhurst turn right and from Hwy. 39 turn left to homes.

New Downey Facility

DOWNEY — Tech-Magnetics Co. will be open for business about May 1 in new quarters here. The electronics firm will occupy 3,600 square feet of building space and expects to double its 15-man work force within a year.

Country Club Unit Home Sales Start

Sales begin today at Country Club Village, luxury duplexes, according to Lee Healy, sales agent for the project.

The development includes 20 custom-styled duplexes designed in an authentic Tahitian theme and is located near the Virginia Country Club in Long Beach.

According to Healy, a community association will be responsible for landscaping and maintenance at the development. He said that aside from the carefree living aspects, the duplex units provide an investment as well as an income-providing opportunity. A community pool is also provided for the convenience of the residents.

* * * *

THE TWO-BEDROOM, two-bath units have carpets and feature Frigidaire built-ins. Priced at only $44,500, excellent financing is available.

A development of Mesa Verde Builders, the Country Club Villages sales office is located at 3615 Pacific Avenue in Long Beach. The office is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Cardinal Park Homes Nearly Sold Out Now

If sales continue at their present pace, Cardinal Park will be sold out within two weeks, states Charles W. Hester, developer of the popular Westminster subdivision.

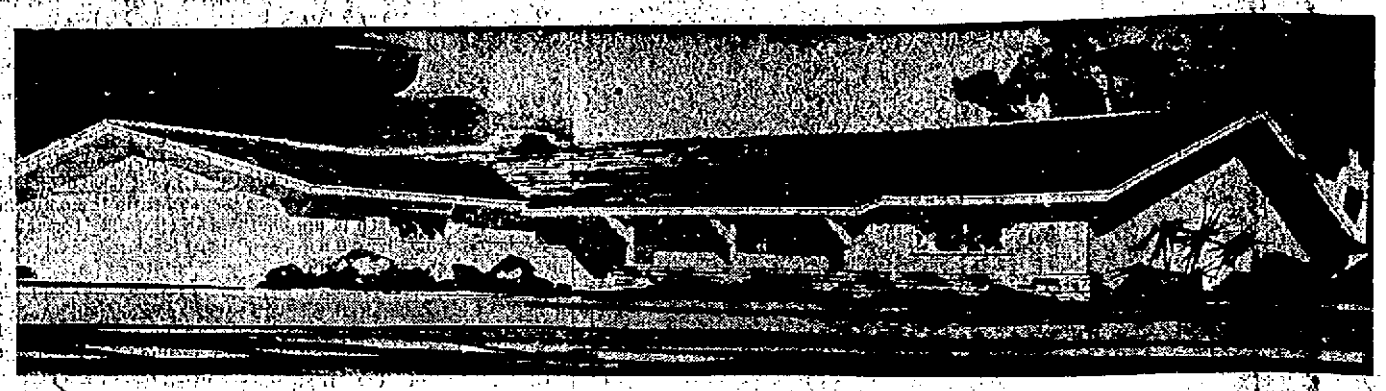

The new community of 120 one and two-story homes offers dwellings of three and four bedrooms, family rooms and two baths. Prices start at $23,900 and can be purchased with as little as $395 down plus costs and impounds.

Hester stated there were two outstanding reasons for the popularity of Cardinal Park. One is location. The homes are on Golden West St., just south of Garden Grove Blvd. close to Long Beach, recreational areas and the major shopping and industrial areas of Orange County.

* * * * *

THE SECOND big reason for the popularity of Cardinal Park is the completeness of its features which are included in the original sales price. Here such features as wall-to-wall carpeting, underground sprinklers in front and back, lawns and shrubs, block wall in rear and side and built-in electric range and oven are all included in the sales prices of the homes. All homes also have used brick fireplaces with mantle and ash paneling on the fireplace walls.

From Long Beach drive out Seventh St. (Garden Grove Blvd) to Golden West then right to furnished models.

LARGE HOMES PRICED FROM $23,900
Cardinal Park offers such attractive homes as this, starting at $23,900 for as little down as $395 plus costs and impounds. The location on Golden West just south of Garden Grove Boulevard has great appeal to home buyers.

Rancho Carrillo Attracts

Beamish & Diggins, Newport Beach developers, are surprised at the numbers of people who have visited Rancho Carrillo in San Juan Capistrano.

"Even on the rainy weekend, 300 people came out and two families purchased ranchos! Another recent weekend brought throngs who bought nine parcels. The demand is so much greater than last year—or than we anticipated—that we've had to put a seven-day limit on reserved ranchos," stated Beamish.

* * * * *

PRICES START at $7,950 for the 3-acre sites in "the land of the Dons." Purchase transactions must be firm after the seven-day courtesy period so that other interested families may have the opportunity to buy one of the few remaining parcels.

Beamish attributed the accelerated interest to development of the community recreation area where rancho owners may bring their families to swim, picnic and relax.

Available for outright ownership for the first time, the sites are located on a portion of the old Mission Viejo Ranch, 8 miles east of San Juan Capistrano's Old Mission on the Ortega Highway.

The developers, Richard Beamish and Ronald Diggins, are also co-developers of the San Clemente Pacesetter home sub-divisions.

Home Fair Attracts Throngs

Over 1,000 prospective home buyers converge on Westminster each weekend to view Orange County's newest "showcase of beauty" —the Sol Vista International Home Fair.

Each of the five furnished models in this 565-home master planned community by Alco-Pacific Construction Co. reflect an international theme.

Exotic design features include sunken living rooms, recessed, floor-to-ceiling or raised hearth fireplaces; master bedroom - bath - dressing room suites, spacious sliding door wardrobes, Hilite aluminum windows and doors, gracious wallpaper, Robertshaw thermomstat control, custom lighting fixtures.

Residences in this elegant development are priced from $22,895 to $28,250.

Display pavilion and furnished models are open daily from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the corner of Westminster Boulevard and Bolsa Chica, Westminster.

For Style-Guided Misses

The High Fashion Count D-O-W-N

By MARY ELLIS
I, P-T Fashion Editor

Countdown for the takeoff.

It works for misses, as well as missiles.

Females on all fronts complain they don't know what-to-wear-where, what the jewelry load should be, whether they should don colored gloves or plain.

Others lament they don't know what-plus-what adds up to a high fashion look.

Result: many a would-be fashion plate shows up at the Woman's Club social wearing—and carrying—everything she can find, as demonstrated by our model, top left.

ALL WRONG, say local fashion authorities.

To meet the pace of the space age, they say, a well-dressed woman should look streamlined as a jet, as uncluttered as a Hercules missile.

So to zero-in fashion-conscious femmes on how-much-of-what-to-wear-when, we've enlisted the help of local experts and have devised a workable fashion formula.

It's called the Fourteen Point System and makes simple arithmetic of achieving a total high fashion look.

The idea: After you've counted up to 14 by the formula below, it's time to start taking off.

EVERYTHING you wear— that shows—counts one point or more.

If your hat has more than one color, flowers, veil, feathers or ornaments, those add extra points. Jewelry or glasses count; also bows, straps or buckles on shoes; checks, printed fabrics or dotted designs up the total and every color counts one point.

Remember gloves, bags and wraps count, so the indoor costume should total no more than 8 or 10 points to stay within the 14-point limit when taking off for outer places.

SOME DEVIATIONS: Large-framed women should use 11 points as their perfect. Women with bright-colored hair should stay near 11 points.

A smart rule of fashion states: never wear more than three areas of color at a time, including the color of your hair.

For example, a black dress, red jacket, white gloves and hat will look more attractive on a brunette than a blonde.

Blondes should try to match the costume to the color of the hair. Then they can use two other colors.

Cocoa makes an excellent basic color for the girl with medium brown hair.

REMEMBER, the answer to high fashion, like in algebra, is equal to the sum of its parts. All must be carefully assembled to add up to a total fashion look.

Use the chart below until it becomes fashion habit. Have fun with it, too. For instance, make a clothes count of what you're wearing now (plain bathrobes, 2 points; curlers count double).

And when you go to the races, tabulate what the clothes horses are wearing. It's more fun than watching fillies in a photo finish.

FASHION ORBITS right out the window in this overdone costume for after-five which, according to our point system, totals 20-plus-plus. Shoes are wrong for costume, hat is too Zsa-Zsa, ornate necklace is too much for figured dress, earrings too much for necklace. Put them all together, it's just TOO MUCH!

AFTER THE COUNTDOWN, local model Lepsa Victor of Vogue Modeling Agency is zeroed in for fashionable evening. Sans extra load of jewelry, feathered hat and sandals, her count is 10—dress 5, flower 1, shoes 1, gloves 1, earrings 2—leaving a fashionable margin for wrap and handbag.

The Fourteen Point System

This guide has been designed to help you educate the eye. Six to 10 points for complete costume is considered drab; 11 to 14, perfect; over 14, start the countdown—you're overdressed!

Legally Speaking—and a Lot of Other Ways, as Well!

By IOLA MASTERSON
I, P-T Women's Editor

Affair Tuesday, in California Room of the Breakers' International Hotel, was attended by scads of smart women, with or without hats as their party whims dictated, plus husbands and judges and their wives.

Honoring volunteers in the Legal Aid office operated by Lawyers Wives, "Roz" Friedman was recognized for 750 hour "labor of love" over the past four years.

Those who received certificates for 100 hours or more during this past year were Jane Began, Pat Bradbury, Flo Brooks, Rebecca Fitzmorris, Sally George, Barbara McColm, Frances Starr and Peggy Wilson. Between all 49 LW volunteers, 1,640 hours were devoted to service to the community according to Norma Wisot, president.

Incidentally, my boss, Mac Epley was a most effective guest speaker.

Fashionably legal—some do and some don't!

BIG NEWS in our department—we're now dewey eyed mother (hens!) of a bride. Our fashionable Mary Ellis made center aisle news Friday night at Belmont Heights Methodist Church with Gene Carlton. An engineer with the Navy Dep't., he and Mary are on a brief honeymoon trip to Palm Desert.

PUT YOURSELF in Lee Denny's shoe leather, the poor guy. Imagine his consternation when, after a hard day at the office, he arrives home to find his wife and car missing AND a "For Sale" sign on the front lawn of his house!

Wife, Thelma, arrives home a few minutes later from a shopping tour to find husband and neighbors gathered 'round the sign. She assures them all sign was plunked by a prankster.

Husband and wife spend evening answering calls from other upset neighbors.

WONDERFUL spring vacation week in Palm Springs for Legia Clayton and two sons. Husband, Sterling, was "sterling"—transported them down; manfully turned nose of his car back to Long Beach where he kept own nose to the grindstone during holiday.

SHOES designed to grip a boat deck securely did their job too darn well for Tina Biby. As a result she has a broken leg—in two places!

Seems Tina and John, their daughter and son-in-law, Jody and Tom Ramsey, were enroute to Catalina out of Newport aboard their sailboat, "Madcap." Tina was preparing dinner below when they hit a big swell and the boat lurched. Well, the jar turned Tina but not those deck gripping shoes. As a result—snap, crackle, pop!

They made race-time back to shore and Hoag Memorial. "Broken Bone Biby" was adamant that they turn around, go back for the weekend—she'd be, she allowed, quite busy on her own, keeping appointments with the boys and girls in white. And she was.

Long Beach Misses don't miss at USC.

CORNER of "USC Blvd. and Gamma Phi Beta Way" will not only be lighted by quaint lamps but by faces 'n neat figures of five Long Beach Gamma Phis as models during sorority's annual mother-daughter benefit tea and fashion show.

Mothers assisting Friday's party plans are Myrtle Hachmeister, Rosie Nicholson, Mazelle Willhoit and "Cappie" Poch.

Incidentally, Susan is new AWS secretary of "El Trojano," Brenda is prez of Spurs (and made Dean's List), Diane is International House hostess.

Black and White Decor for Ball

PREPARATION for their forthcoming Black and White Ball on Saturday at the Pacific Coast Club involves these Symphony Juniors in a beachcombing search for driftwood and other appropriate objects to transform into glamorous decor for the party. All done up in warm garb for a chilly morning are (from left) Mmes. Robert McAllister, Katherine McNulty and John Booth.

Formula which has proved markedly successful and glamorous in the past will again be followed this year when Symphony Juniors give their White Ball on Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Pacific Coast Club.

Title of the ball derives from the elegant decor and from the fact that the women will wear either black or white gowns. The Bon Vivants orchestra will play.

Upon first entering the ballroom for their evening of dining and dancing, guests will first glimpse the stunning decor planned by Mrs. Katherine McNulty and her committee. Suspended from the ceiling will be dramatic black rattan cages filled with black and white foliage.

Each table will be centered with a large glass water in which black goldfish will be swimming. Coral, sea-fans and pampas grass, done in black and white will encircle the snifters.

Mrs. Robert Guyett is chairman for the event assisted by Mrs. Robert McNaughton, reservations, and Mrs. Stephen Dodge, invitations.

Numerous pre-dance cocktail parties are being given throughout the city. Among those entertaining are Mrs. Wallace Simmons, president of Symphony Juniors, and Mr. Simmons, Messrs. and Mmes. Robert Guyett, Courtney Trostle, LeRoy Carlisle and Lew Mahieu.

Talk of the Town

IT HAS been a wonderful month—from educational to hilarious—for Bev and Dr. Dick Matlock and their children.

First, Bev and Dick went to Miami for a week's worth of medical meeting (education) while sons, Bob and Bill, batched it here (hilarious). Together the Matlocks went on to Washington and New York for awhile before Dick returned to batch with the boys (more hilarious) while Bev stayed on to rendezvous with daughter, Margie, who had been on trip of her own, and to remain for leisurely visit with Bev's dad at the Waldorf Astoria.

Grand month is now over since Beverly's return last Tuesday. Grand weather, she reports, too.

LUCKY Ina and Willie Harris and their offspring, Richard, Marcia, Bill and Bob. They spent an idyllic spring vacation week with his parents, Harriet and Frank Harris, in another new home they've bought in the spa.

LOTS OF side trips (to St. Mary's Hospital) before the big trip (to the West Indies) for Marge Hanewinckel and daughter, Diane Arnold. Diane's young ones have been recuping, in side-by-side beds, from little folks' surgeries. Soon as they are completely recovered Doyle Hanewinckel and Marge will take Diane, Linda and Scotty to Miami (for a stay at the Fountainbleau) then fly off for Jamaica for an almost two week stay.

AM ALWAYS cross with myself when I've used up too many of the best adjectives. Then I'm burned out when it comes to trying to describe the true elegance —(exotic is pretty close to the right word) of Assistance League's tea Tuesday.

It was annual honoring of new provisionals and was given at the lovely home of Martha and Art Hall, Fifteen The Colonnade (the address should give you some idea!)

Peg Fairley, chairman of Life Members (the hostess group, traditionally) asked Sallie Van Dyke, as capable as they come, to serve as tea chairman. She chose a dramatic Japanese theme and was aided in decorations by Vivian Davis and Georgia Combs. The food (it's a "divil of a time" to be on a diet, let me tell thee) was under direction of Ina Reed and Myrle Clarke.

Among others doing yeoman duty were Maggie McFadyen, May Holtz and Clare Hossom.

Mamie Speaker

White Shrine Will Install

Installation of Mamie Rae Speaker as worthy high priestess and Charles H. Boone as watchman of shepherds of Nazareth White Shrine 8 will take place at 8 p.m. Monday in Palos Verdes Temple, 1120 E. Market St.

Other line officers to be installed in open ceremonies are Amelia Gilson, Walter Van Wagner, Pearl Mahaffie, Ellice Dunbar and Faye Christian.

Ada M. Lavender, general chairman and installing officer, will be assisted by Bert Mahaffie. Gladys Jordan is dining room chairman.

Mrs. Mark Kuffel New League Prexy

Taking over leadership of the Assistance League of Long Beach, Mrs. Mark Kuffel will be installed as president at the annual meeting Monday at 10 a.m. in the Supper Room of the Lafayette Hotel.

Mrs. Kuffel received her formal training in the Mid-West. She first became associated with league work in 1950 when she joined the Bookworm Auxiliary in Los Angeles, on which board she later served.

Long Beach Assistance League membership became hers in 1955. Mrs. Kuffel served on many important committees and chairmanned special league activities.

* * * *

HER CIVIC interests include board membership for three years of the Women's Auxiliary to the Los Angeles County Medical Association. She is also a member of the Downtown Opti-Mrs. and a charter member of the American Field Service in Long Beach.

Climaxing her year as president, Mrs. Don Murphy will be presiding officer and reports will be made of projects accomplished during her term.

Installation of new officers will be conducted by Mrs. George F. Paap.

They include Mmes. James Keipp president-elect; and William Ellery, Karl Ward, Vernon A. Williams, Chris Conway, David N. Eagleson, Jerome Young, Harold West and Edwin Simons.

Joining the executive officers as members of the board are Mmes. Fred B. McNair, Carlton H. Waters, Dean Gilmore, Charles Campbell, W. Odie Wright and Copeland Green.

The league will continue the philanthropic programs of service to the community which now include the operation of five girls' clubs. These clubs are financed by the Thrift Shop, managed by league members; by the sale of cookbooks and placement of gum ball machines.

The clubhouse at Fourth St. and Rosewell Ave. is owned by the league, which also supplies funds for camperships and educational scholarships.

* * * *

SPECIAL guests at the noon luncheon following the installation will include Mmes. Melvin Campbell, founder; Richard S. Castle, national president; and Lawrence Lydick, chairman of Region I.

To be welcomed into full membership following a year's training as provisionals are Mmes. Albert Beach, Kenneth Berkaw, Thomas M. Brown, Thomas Comiskey, Vern Garten, Frank Homolka, Wesley Horton, Leland Irish, Harlan Moore, James J. Nagle, Lewis F. Seapy, Walter Strawinski, Floyd Webster, William Woodard, Monroe Yunker and William Zantiny.

Greek Letter Groups Busy

Southern California Phi Mus have made a date to attend "Open Book" April 28 at Pasadena Playhouse. The play, a comedy written by Hugh White and Matt Parent, will star Martha Scott and Arthur O'Connell. In the play, an unexpected family skelton emerges during homecoming in a small town.

The benefit performance is sponsored by the Southern California Council of Phi Mu. Proceeds will go to the Los Angeles Orthopedic Hospital for the Children's Division general fund. Phi Mu has contributed continuously to this project since 1933, recently furnishing two conference rooms in the children's ward.

The fraternity's social service slogan is "Service to Children." Toys for children in the pediatrics ward of Memorial Hospital is the local philanthropy.

Tickets for "Open Book" may be obtained from Mrs. E. R. Thompson, social service chairman, or any Phi Mu alumna.

Pi Beta Phi

Alumnae of Pi Beta Phi in the Long Beach area will meet at the Chandelier Restaurant Saturday at noon for annual Founders' Day luncheon.

Golden Arrow members, who have been initiated 50 years or more, who will be honored are Mmes. H. A. Barr, E. F. Cody, E. T. Hatfield, R. J. Leebrick, G. H. Mangold, H. F. Miller, Amy Skinner and Miss Isabel Noble.

Mrs. Phillip Knox of Whittier, national collegiate vice president of Alpha Delta Pi, will speak on "Sororities in California." Mmes. Rogers Wright and J. H. Wooding are in charge of arrangements. Reservations may be made with Mrs. H. B. Crosby, 4325 Faculty Ave.

Alpha Delta Pi

Alpha Delta Pi Alumnae Association will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Perry Land, 170 La Verne Ave. Mrs. Eugene Hoffman will co-hostess.

Donald E. Leedom of E. F. Hutton Co. will speak on investments. New officers will be elected.

Youthful Dancers on Civic Show

Virginia Valodin Dance Studio of Long Beach and Torrance will be presented on the Recreation Department sponsored community program at 8 p.m. Monday in Exhibit Hall of Municipal Auditorium.

High lights will include variety numbers of tap novelties, rumba by tiny tots, Ballet in Blue, Samoan Knife Dance, Tahitian Drum Dance, Hawaiian jazz and Arabian dance. They will be performed by a troupe of 45 youngsters ranging in age from 3 to 17 years.

Carl H. Robertson leads community singing to open the program at 7:30 p.m. with Regenia Beam as accompanist. Tyo Orchestra plays for old time and square dancing with Joe Marshall as caller.

The public is welcome without charge.

Card Benefit

Funds for aid in the research of crippling diseases will be the goal of Kennyettes when they entertain at a noon luncheon and card party Thursday in the Garden Room, Third Street and Alamitos Avenue.

AMERICAN OR INTERNATIONAL? Alex Moore, Britain's top dance authority, ponders the "international style" of recently elected king and queen Mike Howey and Lynn Van Winkle (right) and the American swing dancing of prince and princess Bob Boies and Bernice Garcia. The two couples, slated to rule over the eighth annual Grand Medal Ball in Long Beach Arena April 27, are prepared to demonstrate that U. S. dancers can match footwork with all comers—in any style.

THE BRITISH ARE COMING!

Our Dancers Out to Win Newest Revolution

"Dancers in the United States are years behind the times."

This bold statement, likely to titillate the sensitive nerve ends of every red-blooded dancer in America, was made by Alex Moore, Britain's top ballroom dancemaster and author, while in Long Beach on his tour of the "colonies."

Chairman of the ballroom branch of the Imperial Society, international dance association centered in London, Moore is conducting a series of examinations leading to membership in the world-wide group.

Proclaiming the superiority of England's "international style," Moore casts a critical eye on America's dancers and seeks to interest Yankees in world standardization of the terpsichorean art. He points out the goodwill advantage of dancers from all countries stepping out on the ballroom floor in complete accord.

DISTINGUISHING the "international style" from strictly American dancing is a certain fluidity of movement and step technique that has the dancing couple gliding over the floor in a free-flowing, highly coordinated blending of music with body motion, he said.

In the international style, which encompasses the waltz, slow foxtrot, quickstep and tango, the dancer leads out with the heel rather than the toe, giving a naturalness of movement not otherwise achieved.

Moore readily concedes that Americans excel in the rhythm dances such as the cha cha and swing, and originate most of the world's dancing fads, the United States until 1960 was not represented in the world championships—the Olympic Games of the dancing field.

WHILE AMERICA may be behind in the international dance race, young Long Beach dancers, true citizens of their own "International City," are moving out to close this alleged gap as quickly as possible.

Poised and ready to demonstrate to all comers that the United States will not be left behind, members of 80 Southland dance clubs will flock to the Long Beach Arena at 7:30 p.m. April 27 for their eighth annual Grand Medal Ball. The event is open to the public and tickets will be available at the door.

Presented by Derrall and Chloe Call of Fine Arts Center, the event has grown to be probably the biggest of its kind in the country, attracting dance enthusiasts, youth authorities and civic notables from throughout the West Coast.

Exhibition dancing by club members, a presentation of trophies to more than 300 advanced members, and general dancing to the music of Manny Harmon will be featured. Ball chairman is Mrs. John Babrowski.

SPEARHEADING the attack on America's supposed dance lag will be many teen-age international style champions who have captured top honors in major competitions throughout California.

Leading these talented youths are Pat Hassey, and Connie Palmer, four-time junior champions in 1962-63 competitions in Long Beach, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Ruling over the ball will be Mike Howey and Lynn Van Winkle, king and queen, and Robert Boies and Bernice Garcia, prince and princess, recently elected by the more than 9,000 members of the participating dance clubs.

Television dancing stars Bob Burgess and Barbara Boylan will headline the ball program which will be high lighted by outstanding specialty, precision and production numbers.

A FASHION FOOTNOTE adding to the international flavor of the ball, and said to be one of its most attractive aspects, are the unusual gowns worn by many of the advanced dancers.

Termed "English style" and adopted by Americans taking up the international technique, the gowns—in reality dance costumes—are distinguished by thickly ruffled petticoats of stiffened net.

At first imported from London, or made here by professional dressmakers at great cost, clever mothers of dance club members have successfully copied the originals and created their own designs. Between 50 and 100 yards of net are used to support overskirts, frequently embroidered with brilliant beading and sequins.

Pacific Guild Will Install, Give Funds

Assuming the presidency of Pacific Hospital Guild at a luncheon Tuesday at League House will be Mrs. C. W. Reams.

Other officers to be installed: Mmes. David Lawrence, William Irwin, W. C. Osborn, William Jones, James Batcheller, Leonard McDonald and William Laufer.

Serving as installing officer will be Mrs. Ward G. DeWitt following the theme "Service." Table decor will consist of yellow topiary trees of roses.

Mrs. C. S. Smith, past president, will report on accomplishments of the guild for the past year and will present a check for $6,500 to David Lawrence, administrator of the hospital, to purchase needed equipment.

Mrs. C. W. Reams

HONORED guests are to be wives of the hospital board of directors, the Mmes. Fred San Chez, Carl Flinn, Milo Dick, Irving Litwack, John Munholland, Walter Havekorst, R. J. Carmody, P. Victor Peterson; guild founders, Mmes. Lind Albrecht, Willis Baughman, Rufus A. Davis, Gerald Houts, David Lawrence and Gus Lueking, as well as Mr. Lawrence and Mrs. Ruth Ware, staff member.

Open House on Tuesday at Centers

In observance of Public Schools Week, eight Child Care and Guidance Centers and seven Extended Day Centers will hold open house on Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m. at their respective locations.

These centers, directed by the Board of Education, are designed to assist the working family and programmed to meet the emotional, social and physical needs of children from two years through the sixth grade.

The day's activities include supervised free play, music, art, science and social living training with a noon meal, two snacks and adequate rest periods.

All Manners of Ships Are on Yon Horizon

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I went on a cruise last summer and met a great many men. But there was one who seemed to be everything that I wished for.

We talked by the hour on subjects ranging from flowers and the beauty of nature to the philosophies and ideologies of people and civilizations through the ages. Not only is he intelligent but he's sweet, understanding and possesses all the virtues that I want in a man.

By the end of summer I was completely in love with him and we've been writing regularly. My love grows stronger and I think of him constantly. He lives abroad and works on this cruise ship. I don't know whether I shall ever see him again, but I know I shall never be able to forget him.

Would it be better to stop writing or keep hoping and praying for the best?—BLESS YOU.

DEAR BLESS YOU:

You can stop writing, but never stop hoping and praying for the best. I'm sure he's just great, but I'm also sure there are a great many other men equally so.

So relax and enjoy your corresponding. But, my dear enjoy the beauty of nature with someone near and discuss the philosophies and ideologies of the ages with someone here now. It may not be the cruise ship—but your ship will come in just fine.—M. M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I am 14 years old and I have a stepfather whom I adore more than I do my real father. My stepfather has done more for me in two years than my real father ever did in a dozen.

My father told my cousin that we weren't his. We haven't heard from him or seen him since October.

I used to think I loved him, but I'm not sure any more. What do you think of a man like that? I want him to read this and maybe it will change his mind about the way he has been treating us. — UNWANTED BY FATHER.

DEAR UNWANTED:

My heart aches. You love your real father — that's plain. You want him. But know what? Step up all the adoration and admiration that you are capable of—for your stepfather. He's about to be a father—yours! —M. M.

* * * *

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My husband has always been unfaithful. He comes home with barmaid's makeup all over his collars—when he manages to get home, that is. Then he makes up all kinds of lies about me and our neighbor men.

Sometimes I would take it to keep from tearing up the little kids. Then again I'd fight like a tiger. Finally, I filed for divorce and then he said he'd never do it again.

Here lately he's got us all scared to death. Gives us all plenty to eat but curses me and the children daily. He is jealous of every man that comes to the house. He goes wild but never lets on like he ever did a thing. And I've never been unfaithful nor have I ever wanted to be—GIVE UP?

DEAR GIVE UP:

What is there to give up except a sick man who makes himself sick with his own unfaithfulness? Charging others with similar sin began at the Garden of Eden and will probably be the pastime in hell.

If he's willing to doctor for it, wait it out. If he's not, separate. Being cursed daily is not healthy for you or for the kids.—M.M.

Films Mark Library Week

Los Altos Branch Library, 5614 Britton Drive, will make note of National Library Week with a public program at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Librarian Sally-Ruth Isenberg will introduce the program, a showing of "The Golden Fish," award-winning color film. It was produced by Jacques-Yves Cousteau, author of the book, "The Silent World," and the motion picture of the same name.

The two other films to be seen are "Glass," a humorous portrayal of glass making, and "Begone Dull Care," in which unusual designs painted directly on the film are set to jazz music.

Freak Hand Is Capper

No par contest would be complete without one freak hand and Bill Root and Barry Rossler concocted a humdinger when they prepared the hands for the Association of American Playing Card Manufacturer' intercollegiate tournament.

South has a really big hand and should be amazed to find his partner able to make a positive response to his opening two bid. He seems to be cold for 13 tricks if his partner can show the missing ace. South uses Blackwood whereupon North bids five diamonds to show that one ace.

South can now get a bidding par for either seven clubs or seven no-trump and then finds that in order to get points for playing the hand he must play at seven no-trump against a spade lead.

Par contest or no par contest South can count all the tricks he needs and then some unless all four diamonds are held in one hand against him and should try to find a play to guard against this.

* * * *

THE PLAY is to win the first trick with dummy's ace of spades, then discard his ace of hearts on dummy's queen of spades.

This establishes three heart tricks in dummy and South now throws his ace, king and queen of clubs on them.

Then he leads dummy's jack of clubs and when the ten spot drops the rest of dummy's club suit is good and South makes the hand in spite of the bad break in diamonds.

Dinner Date

Holy Innocents Parish will sponsor a ham dinner from noon until 7 p.m. next Sunday at the parish hall, 20th Street and Pasadena Ave. Tickets may be purchased at the door, or in advance from Mrs. Doris Laing. The public is welcome.

A CRACK DICTAPHONE operator just may be equally crafty with a golf club, and local secretaries will find out next Saturday at a Playday at Hacienda Hotel in San Pedro, one of events in Secretaries Week. Wilma Conde (chairman for week) is pictured sending a long one down the fairway to surprise of Lois Knoll, seated, and Virginia Minks, chairman of speaker's bureau.

Week Fetes 'Gal Fridays'

All work and no play makes "Gal Friday" a dull girl, so in the coming week — designated by National Secretaries Association as "Secretaries Week"—there'll be everything from a playday to a breakfast given in their honor (for their bosses, too) by the Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday.

Wilma Conde will serve as local chairman for the Queen Beach Chapter, according to Rita Dugan, chapter president.

On Saturday at the Hacienda Hotel, in San Pedro, the girls will replace typewriters with golf clubs, business correspondence with bridge sessions, long distance calls with a dip in the pool and Metrecal wafers with a substantial buffet luncheon. New secretaries and prospective members are particularly invited to join them. Reservations may be made with Lois Knoll, Star-Kist Foods, Terminal Island.

* * * *

FROM CHICAGO, Ruth Gallinot, national president, states that, in its 12th consecutive year of nationwide observance, Secretaries Week has again been set aside for these women to reflect on the progress that has gained secretaryship recognition as a profession.

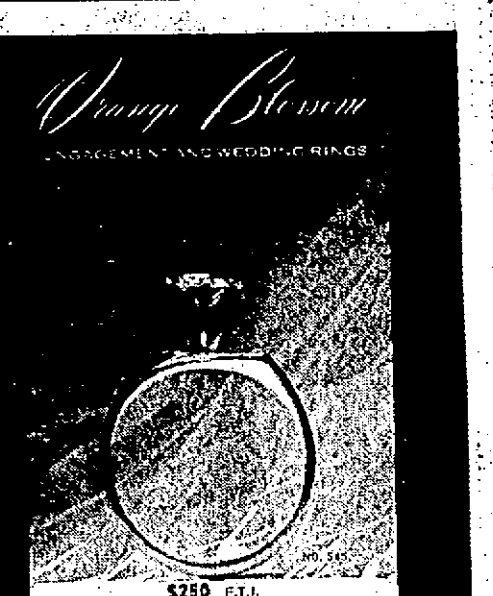

She states that their code of ethics underscores their resolve to further the interest of whatever business they follow and to exemplify loyalty and conscientiousness at all times.

Members will speak at high schools, colleges and service clubs throughout the week. Virginia Minks, chairman of the secretaries speakers bureau, will handle this phase of the week's events.

Working under Mrs. Conde is a local committee consisting of Alice Bowman, Pat Hutto, Ruth Sheffield, Lois Knoll and Vervyl Sumrall.

They'll Sing 'The Desert Song'

MARY ANNE RIDOUT . . . romantic Margot Bonvalet

By ELISE EMERY

"This will be the finest production ever done of 'The Desert Song!'

"Better even than the lavish Los Angeles Civic Light Opera version!

"It's a wonderful, nostalgic show, paced for today's theater.

"The dialogue has been updated. The music and dances are in modern tempo. The comedy is contemporary.

"But the thing that has made 'Desert Song' a classic of music theater is left unchanged — the marvellous, melodious music that has enraptured audiences since 1926."

* * * *

HENRI SCANLON, director of the production which Long Beach Civic Light Opera will open Thursday in the Concert Hall, is an authority on Sigmund Romberg's musical.

The romantic show, set in the deserts of Arabia, opened simultaneously in New York and Chicago in 1926, and the next year in Los Angeles starring Perry Askim and Elvira Tanzi. The setting was contemporary then, but for the Long Beach production the time will be moved back to 1900 to take advantage of opulent costuming.

Stars will be soprano Mary Anne Ridout as Margot and Philip Haynes in the dual role of the Red Shadow and Pierre.

Scanlon has performed in seven productions and directed three. "It's my show," he says.

* * * *

HIS FIRST association was in 1939 when he sang the tenor role of Sid El Kar in a revival of the original Los Angeles production.

He toured 68 weeks, sometimes playing five shows a day.

In 1951, as director of Long Beach Singers' Workshop, he staged the light opera in the Concert Hall.

"People told me I was crazy to move from Morgan Hall where our other productions had been. They said we'd lose our shirts.

"We had a cast of 30, a six-piece orchestra and six dancers.

"We made sets of cardboard boxes. I took my own furniture from my apartment for props and slept on the floor for three weeks. We made our costumes, too.

* * * *

"HARVEY WAGGONER, now general manager of Civic Light Opera, was the first Long Beach Red Shadow. He was terrific! Betty Kimber played Margot.

"Opening night the auditorium entrance was jammed. We played three nights — all we could afford — to sold out houses. We were a smash hit. "Desert Song" got us out of the red — the first time we made any money.

IN 1956, Scanlon again directed "Desert Song" for Singers' Workshop in the Concert Hall. James Boyd and Bette Arntzen headed the cast of 60. There were six dancers, and the orchestra had grown to 12. The costumes and some of the back drops were rented. Lighting was better.

Again the show played three performances to capacity audiences.

The current production, which will run Thursday through Sunday, the following Tuesday and May 2 through 5, has a cast of 92. There is a 28-piece orchestra and — still — six dancers.

* * * *

THERE WILL BE gorgeous, professional backdrops, sophisticated color, a knock-out harem scene, elegant costumes, magnificent lighting, a large chorus.

Bill Roberts, who does the choreography, also will play the comedy lead opposite Elaine Nelson.

"Most of all, the music — The Desert Song, One Alone, Riff Song, Romance, I Want a Kiss — and all the others, modern classics," said Scanlon.

* * * *

"WE'LL HAVE ANOTHER sell-out run. Audiences can never resist that beautiful Romberg music."

Tickets may be purchased by mail or in person at the Civic Light Opera office, 518 E. Fourth St.

Soloists performing include Grace-Lynne Martin, soprano; Victor Gottlieb, cellist; Theodore Norman, composer - guitarist; Dorothy Remsen, harpist; Leonard Stein, pianist; Ernst Krenek, pianist - composer; Arthur Gleghorn, flutist.

Six Spanish Painters Plow Furrowed Fields

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

The showing of Six Spanish Painters at Long Beach Museum of Arts, 2300 East Ocean Blvd., which continues through next Sunday, is, on the whole, very disappointing. While recent articles in national magazines have told of experimental work which is being produced in Spain, those in this exhibit plow in fields long-since furrowed.

Two characteristics prevail among this half-dozen painters with the one exception of the lone woman, Aurora Allisent. These are the use of thick black outline and, with a few exceptions, the employment of oppressively rich color.

ON THE PLUS side of the ledger, there are found here a high degree of craftsmanship in the application of pigment, strong use of compositional devices, clear and specific definitions of form and space.

The show, also entitled "Spain 1962" by the committee who originated it under the American-European Cultural Exchange Program, will please many local viewers who are unresponsive to abstract expressionism, a native-American development which has spread throughout the world. There are human figures aplenty, at tables, mending fishnets, gathered at the well. There are stunning landscapes and cozy little seacapes of harbors at sunset.

AMONG THE MORE unusual of the works are "My Son" by Jose Zorralique which is painted in a primative fashion reminiscent of Dubuffet. The influence of Dali may be felt in two works by Ricardo Fradera, "Lovers 1967" and "Woman in a Tree." Aurora Allisent paints thinly on drawing of female figures in "Air, Sea and Sun" and "Musical Composition."

For purposes of comparison, the museum has helpfully hung a selection from the Art Rental Gallery close by.

Boston Group Plays Tonight

Boston Symphony Orchestra will perform tonight at 8:30 p.m. in Shrine Auditorium under auspices of the Southern California Symphony Association.

Eric Leinsdorf will conduct. Mahler's "First Symphony," and, Prokofieff's "Classical Symphony" will be featured.

MAJOR & MINOR NOTES

Merry Moments in Musical Life

By RACHEL MORTON
L. P-T Music Critic

After three consecutive Sundays of serious Major and Minor Notes columns, let's laugh a little today.

I've been thinking over some quips about music which may give my readers a bit of amusement. Once when I was about to go on the stage to sing a concert, the chairman of the occasion approached me: "Will you sing now," she said, "or shall we let them enjoy themselves a little while longer?"

At a funeral service, the church quartet in which I was the soprano sang very feelingly, "One by one they're gathering home." We did not understand the frigid reception we got until we learned that the deceased was the man's third wife!

While consulting the program of songs I was to sing at a concert in England, I was flabbergasted to read, instead of "My Lover Comes on a Ski," by Clough-Leighter, "My Liver Goes on a Spree!"

* * * *

I LOVE THE STORY of the baritone singing the prologue in a bad performance of "I Pagliacci," when hoots and yells and cries of derision greeted him. Calmly he waited until quiet was restored, then announced simply: "If you think I was bad, wait until you hear the tenor!"

A soprano of the same ilk gave a recital of operatic arias in Carmel when I lived there. The next morning the critic wrote: "Madame gave a recital of operatic arias last night. She gave her all, and it was too much!"

* * * *

THE EXIGENCIES of opera performances are often laughable. I was singing Isolde, and being a vehement actress, I grabbed the poison cup from Tristan with real dramatic fervor. Imagine my horror, in looking at my hero to discover instead of a bearded knight —a beardless youth! I had pulled off his beard with the cup!

Another performance in which I was singing Aida called for a rebuke from our impresario. "Tell Miss Morton to be more careful of her make-up in the next act," he advised my dresser. "Just now as she ran across the stage her slit skirt revealed a leg half white, and half black!"

* * * *

I HEARD Schumann-Heink, the famous German contralto, who spoke with a decided accent, announce to her audience before one of her concerts: "You will excuse, please, my singing tonight. I am a little horse, (hoarse), I have a little coit (cold)!" And when a clerk who was selling her some talcum powder inquired, "Would Madame like it scented?" she replied: "No," I take it 'mit!' "

It is related that Nellie Melba, when she was a little girl, sang a solo at a school concert. Next day she asked her little playmate how she liked her singing.

"You sing all right," said the child, "but I saw your drawers."

Chapman Symphony Orchestra will play its final concert of the season next Sunday at 4:30 p.m. in Chapman College Auditorium. Dr. Ralph S. Smith will conduct

Lillian Smith to Lecture

Lillian Smith, distinguished author and lecturer, will speak May 1 at 8 p.m. in First Congregational Church.

Her topic will be "The South Today Through the Eyes of a Southern White Woman."

Miss Smith is author of "Killers of the Dream," "Now is the Time," "Strange Fruit" and "Memory of a Large Christmas."

A resident of Clayton, Ga., she won the Southern Authors' Award in 1950.

Her lecture is sponsored by the church's social action committee. Tickets may be purchased at the church office or from Mrs. John F. Richard, 1044 Chestnut Ave., and Mrs. W. T. Webber, 410 W. Fifth St.

Gallery-Goers to Promenade

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

The half-dozen blocks on Los Angeles' La Cienega Boulevard between Santa Monica Boulevard and Rosewood Avenue will blossom with flowers, topiary trees and hundreds of bright banners May 5.

On that Sunday from 5 to 9 p.m., 20 galleries will present one-night-only shows for the Gallery Promenade to be staged by the Junior Art Council of Los Angeles County Museum.

Cocktail bars will be set up in six or more patios adjoining the galleries, and music will add to the festivity.

Each gallery plans an outstanding show. For example, Ankrum Gallery will show paintings by controversial author Henry ("Tropic of Cancer") Miller, with Miller himself on hand to greet promenaders.

Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres have been donated. Proceeds from silent auctions of donated work will be given to the Art Council.

All funds raised will be used for acquisitions for the new County Museum or Art now under construction in Hancock Park, and for continuation of the council's projects.

Long Beach women helping prepare for the 2,500 expected gallery - goers are Mmes. James G. Craig Jr., George R. Johnson and James Kresl. Tickets may be had from council members or by calling the County Museum in Exposition Park.

* * * *

A FIGURE DRAWING course will be offered by Long Beach Art Association in the gallery, 800 E. Ocean Blvd. at 8 p.m. Mondays and 10 a.m. Tuesdays. The last four classes will include drawing from a model. First session is slated Tuesday morning. Call the gallery for further information.

* * * *

SPECTRUM CLUB will hold its spring rendezvous Saturday and next Sunday at La Quinta, near Indio. President C. P. Wood reminds members to bring water, firewood and a shovel as there are no facilities at the camp.

* * * *

DARRELL FARBER will have a one-man show of oils, water colors, drawings and collages at Bergen's Interiors 5201 Long Beach Blvd. The exhibit will open with a reception next Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. and will run through May 20.

* * * *

ARTISTS in the southwest area of Los Angeles County are invited to enter the third annual Crestwood Art Festival to be held May 25 and 26 at Crestwood Street School in San Pedro.

Purchase awards will be offered: John Weeks, educational curator at Long Beach Museum of Art will judge the exhibition. Artists are limited to three entries each; there is no fee. Works will be received May 24 from 3 to 8 p.m. at the school, 1946 Crestwood St.

For further details contact the Crestwood Art Committee, 1947 MacArthur St., San Pedro.

* * * *

"JAPANESE Art Today," an exhibition of work by 37 Japanese painters, opens next Sunday at Westside Jewish Community Center, 5870 W. Olympic Blvd., Los Angeles.

Matao Uric, consul-general of Japan will attend the opening reception at 8 p.m. The show will continue through May 28.

* * * *

AWARDS OF $2,000 will be made in the ninth annual All-California Art Exhibit at the Laguna Beach Festival of Arts July 6 through Aug. 11.

The exhibit is intended to acquaint the expected 200,000 festival visitors with work of present day California artists.

Jurors will be Robert Brackman, painter and teacher, and Thomas M. Messer, director of the Solomon Guggenheim Museum. Six awards will be made, two each of $500, $300 and $200.

The competition is open to all living California artists. Original works in oils, water colors or other media may be submitted. Entry blanks and information may be obtained from Laguna Beach Art Association, 307 Cliff Drive, Laguna Beach.

Tickets on Sale for Schola's Pops Concert

Soprano soloist Marni Nixon and folk singer Denny Brooks will be guest artists for the fifth annual "Pops" concert of Long Beach City College Schola Cantorum next Sunday at 4 p.m. in the college auditorium.

Tickets will be available this week at the student body banker's office on the LBCC Liberal Arts Division campus, 4901 E. Carson St., or at the box office next Sunday.

Wayne B. Gard will direct the 130-voice Schola Cantorum in a variety of choral music ranging from light classics to folk songs, spirituals and musical comedy selections. Accompanist will be Helen Davenport.

* * * *

MISS NIXON will sing with the Schola in an arrangement of Victor Herbert's "Italian Street Song" and will also present several solo numbers. She has appeared as soloist with the New York Philharmonic, the Los Angeles Philharmonic and other major orchestras and has sung with the Los Angeles Guild Opera, New England Opera Company and the San Francisco Cosmopolitan Opera.

Miss Nixon has also appeared in many musical comedy roles. Her voice was dubbed in for the role of Anna acted by Deborah Kerr in the motion picture production of "The King and I."

In the folk sung portion of the program, Brook will be accompanied by Robert McCandless on the string bass. Tom Westerman will be the soloist for one of the numbers from "West Side Story."

Holbrook Twain' at LBCC May 1

Originally scheduled for Feb. 14, Hal Holbrook will present "Mark Twain Tonight" on Wednesday, May 1, in the Long Beach City College auditorium.

There will be no advance sale for the LBCC "Evenings at Eight" program, but approximately 500 tickets will be available the night of the performance.

Holbrook interrupted his 1963 Mark Twain concert tour to appear in the current Broadway production of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois."

Symphony at LBSC

Long Beach State College Symphony Orchestra will give a concert on Wednesday in the campus theater at 8:30 p.m. There is no admission charge and the public is invited.

Dr. Bertram McGarrity will direct the 60-piece orchestra. Works by Drs. Robert E. Tyndall and Charles E. Becker, faculty members, will be given first performances.

Linda Sue Marks, 3427 E. Seventh St., will sing two Mozart arias. Fred Peters Jr., 1067 Ximeno Ave., will be clarinet soloist.

Broadway's Hit Barbecues

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
L. B. I.-T. Food Editor

Chef of the Week

His closest proximity to the water today is the fish he has hauled out of it.

However, today's Chef of the Week, Martin W. Blatt, is especially well known for his sailing ability. If ever there is danger of halyard trouble aboard a boat, you'll find Blatt among the crew.

When not afloat, Blatt is general manager of The Broadway-Long Beach, a position which he has held since January of '62.

* * * * *

THOUGH a native of Los Angeles, Blatt spent his growing-up years in Salinas. He attended grammar and high schools there, before entering Hartnell Junior College of Junior Rose Bowl fame.

Following graduation from Hartnell, he enrolled at UC, Berkeley, majoring in business education. His leadership ability manifested itself early, for he served as student body president in high school and as president of his freshman class.

World War II managed to interrupt his college career, and he joined the Navy. His whole war stint was done in San Diego in Naval communications.

* * * * *

THE WAR OVER, Blatt returned to Salinas and became affiliated with United Airlines. He helped establish the first U.A. office in that city.

He was soon transferred to Oakland and made account executive and sports representative in charge of

Martin W. Blatt

In 1958, he went on loan to the 1960 winter Olympic all sports travel.

Games at Squaw Valley as assistant managing director. His duties included transportation, housing and pageantry.

The Olympic Games scores all totaled, Blatt made a complete change in professions. He joined the Broadway Department Store in Los Angeles, heading up customer service. Six months as assistant store manager preceded his appointment as manager of Broadway-Long Beach in January of '62.

* * * * *

HE'S PROUDLY called Dad by son, Jerry, 17, and daughter, Janice, 14. They enjoy fishing, handball, and in fact, sports of all kinds. Contrary to store manager precedent, he makes his home in Long Beach.

Active in the Los Altos Business Men's Association, and the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, he's a past president of the 20-30 Club and of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Quite naturally, his recipe is for fish, and today's it's to be barbecued.

BARBECUED FISH
6 to 8 lb. albacore or yellowtail
BARBECUE SAUCE
1 pt. prepared barbecue sauce
½ lb. butter
2 tbsp. soy sauce
Dash Worcestershire
Dash Tobasco
1 medium onion, chopped fine
2 lemons sliced (peel included)

Mix ingredients in pan—bring to boil and simmer approximately 15 minutes.

Prepare boat of heavy duty aluminum foil, or two thicknesses of lighter foil. Be sure to make it large enough to fold over at top, so that no steam can escape. Place fish in "boat"—fold top securely, and barbecue about one hour. Fish should not be too close to grill. Open foil and baste several times during barbecuing procedure.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Her Gown's Like New, Too

DEAR ABBY: We recently announced that our daughter's wedding date is June 22nd. A neighbor called and asked me what time our wedding was scheduled for. I told her we had planned it for 11:00 a.m. Then she told me HER daughter was getting married at four o'clock the same day, and would we let her use our flowers? I didn't know whether to say yes, no or what, so, like a fool, I said yes. My huband told me I ought to have my head examined. Now he wants me to call her up and tell her if she wants to use our flowers she should pay half the florist bill. Would you?—SPOKE TOO SOON

ABBY

DEAR SPOKE: The time to have suggested that your neighbor pay half the florist bill was when she asked to use your flowers. Having already said yes, it would be extremely awkward to add ifs, ands or buts.

* * * * *

DEAR ABBY: We live in Hawaii. Last Christmas a friend from the mainland sent us a large box of apples from Oregon. The apples were in transit for almost four weeks and arrived rotten. Apparently they had been wrapped for protection against freezing, but not against heat. We wrote and thanked our friends for the "delicious" apples. Now we are wondering if maybe we shouldn't have written them the truth. What if they send us apples again next year? —HILO FANS

DEAR FANS: By all means, write and tell your friends the truth. You would be doing them a service. Any reputable company, whose business is to ship fruit, is delighted—if not eager—to replace spoiled merchandise.

* * * * *

DEAR ABBY: In my possession is a perfectly good wedding ring that has never been worn. If it would make the woman happy who wrote and complained that her husband never gave her one, I shall be glad to send it to her. The story behind it is this: A friend of my husband's broke up with his fiancee and threw the ring out of a window. My husband retrieved it and tried to persuade him to keep it, but he would have nothing to do with it. My husband is now dead and I do not know the friend's name, but I still have the ring and it might as well bring a little happiness to someone. —NORFOLK

* * * * *

DEAR ABBY: Please advise "L. J." not to become discouraged about being an "unwanted child." I, too, was an unwanted child, but now I am wanted in eleven states and Mexico. Sincerely, —"BIG RED" (from Houston)

Strong Foreign Trend in Home Furnishings

Californians Seek Typical American Furniture Designs

By STELLA ROACH

It will be Spanish or English—and "not as she is spoke" but as home furnishings creators express it. Out of the great Mediterranean influence of the past two years, the Spanish has taken on the greatest hold, particularly in California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas where the Mexican-Spanish heritage is deep-rooted, loved, rich and colorful.

Then a few months ago traditional English design started coming in and is now considered high fashion, especially in the East. Earlier introductions which were adaptations of such famed names as Chippendale, Sheraton, Hepplewhite and Robert Adam were rich, dark wood tones. More recently oak stylings in the Jacobean manner are being made.

So the foreign influences continue. French and Italian reproductions range from country to court styles and here, one or the other means richness in woods, finishes, hardware and decoration. Decorative detail in wood pieces will include carving and cane, marble inlays, grill work, painted finishes and gold trim.

* * * *

ALL OF THESE things and much more are evident in the Long Beach retail stores and in 600 showrooms of the 13-story Los Angeles Home Furnishing Mart where thousands of dealers go every month to view and select new merchandise for their stores.

In California the designers and many manufacturers are pulling for design that will be typically American. Such a design would not need the term American Modern . . . it would be simply American. And this would mean contemporary at its best: Simplicity, straight lines, non-bulky look. Plenty of this type of contemporary furniture is on display.

While walnut and teak are being used by California creators of fine furniture, oak is seen all over too. Today's contemporary pieces combine traditional and modern styling and interest is added with burls, marble, cane, grill or woven work. The natural finish is still the thing.

As for shapes and forms being seen in the numerous new lines there is everything from space age buckets to medieval arches. Sawbuck tables and deacons' benches vie with bucket seats of the age of tomorrow.

* * * *

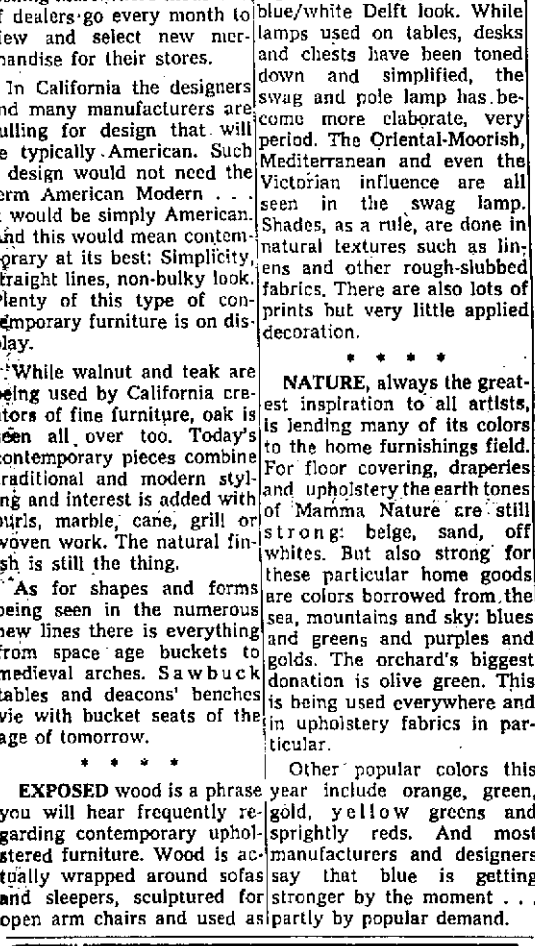

EXPOSED wood is a phrase you will hear frequently regarding contemporary upholstered furniture. Wood is actually wrapped around sofas and sleepers, sculptured for open arm chairs and used as the base for otherwise totally upholstered pieces comes up as decorative accents.

Lamp news? Lots of fashion is what's new in lamp design. But even better is the observation that lamps shown in some 100 display spaces at the Los Angeles Home Furnishings Mart have slimmed down bases, much less clutter and they are back to normal in size: no excessive height or bulk. Contemporary lamps are more formal and the new lamps go well with 18th and 19th century decor. Interesting to note many bases in the blue/white Delft look. While lamps used on tables, desks and chests have been toned down and simplified, the swag and pole lamp has become more elaborate, very period. The Oriental-Moorish, Mediterranean and even the Victorian influence are all seen in the swag lamp. Shades, as a rule, are done in natural textures such as linens and other rough-slubbed fabrics. There are also lots of prints but very little applied decoration.

NATURE, always the greatest inspiration to all artists, is lending many of its colors to the home furnishings field. For floor covering, draperies and upholstery the earth tones of Mamma Nature are still strong: beige, sand, off whites. But also strong for these particular home goods are colors borrowed from the sea, mountains and sky: blues and greens and purples and golds. The orchard's biggest donation is olive green. This is being used everywhere and in upholstery fabrics in particular.

Other popular colors this year include orange, green, gold, yellow greens and sprightly reds. And most manufacturers and designers say that blue is getting stronger by the moment . . . partly by popular demand.

CONVERSATION PIECE
The pine sugar bin, a fixture in Pennsylvania Dutch kitchens years ago, is a conversation piece that adds warmth, charm and practicality to the 20th century living. This bin holds magazines in the living room, entertainment accessories in the recreation room or knitting in the bedroom. It's the right height for a lamp table. Bauritter offers this.

CLASSIC DESIGNS RETURN
Serenity and calm of the past is brought into the home with this heirloom Victorian styling offered at Lanes Home Furnishings, 3030 E. Pacific Coast Hwy. It is a masterpiece of reproducing the romantic period in classic design with hand-wrought elegance. Offered in mahogany, fruit wood or antique white, the sofa and chairs come in a large selection of brocades, tapestries and antique velvet.

ART IN FURNITURE TODAY
Contemporary furniture design is a form of modern art. New pieces are unusually functional and visually exciting in terms of both design and color. A good example is Kroehler's Modern Artisan Collection just being introduced. Shown is a pedestal party table and occasional chairs while in the background is a chest.

Cultural Living Is Back in Home

"The Many Uses of Leisure" was the theme for the 1963 Winter Market at the Los Angeles Home Furnishings Mart.

Eddy S. Feldman, mart managing director, observed: "For generations only the very wealthy had leisure time. Today people in the lower and middle income bracket are fast becoming the 'leisure class.' Shorter-hours week and numerous time-saving devices are among factors contributing toward more time on our hands.

"The average homemaker, for example, not only has fine appliances to take the load off housekeeping, she also has home furnishings which require less time for proper upkeep. Drip dry fabrics, man-made fabrics for carpets, plastics, wood finishes developed in recent years take little care. And of course, the new cleaning materials, waxes and polishes are the 'instant' kind, nowadays. Another time saver is frozen food, packed and all ready for fast cooking. Thus Mrs. Homemaker finds herself with more and more leisure time right along with her husband. And each day something else is discovered or invented to ease the load for the average person at home, at the office or at the factory," Feldman continued.

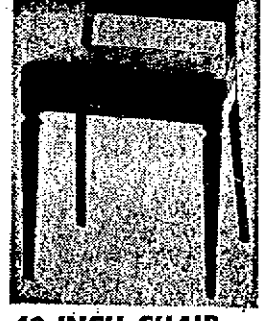

"FOR TOO LONG, however, most of us looked at leisure time as a time for swimming and sunning, tennis and golf, bowling and skiing as well as spectator sports.

"Encouraging people to use their leisure time for cultural activity should become an important project of the home furnishings industry. For this in turn will encourage better homes and discourage juvenile delinquency and other social problems of our time

"We selected 'The Many Uses of Leisure' as our Winter Market theme to suggest that leisure time is time out for music, art, reading and study, creative hobbies such as arts and crafts, the theater, horticulture and travel as well as time out for play and sports.

"IN RECENT MONTHS there has been a reawakening toward the more cultural aspects of daily living. Take, for instance, the new awareness of art. More and more average persons are learning to appreciate famous paintings and object d'art. Hi fi has helped many others to better appreciate and understand good music," Feldman added.

"This trend also creates an innovation in cultural living expanding present homes to include rooms for these creative and cultural hobbies. Let's bring back the library and the music room to the average home. These rooms were included in homes of people of moderate means in another era of our country . . . they can be included again," Feldman concluded.

BRIGHTEN BREAKFAST

Smart sophistication for a setting to brighten breakfast, luncheon, cocktails or after-dinner coffee is provided by these graceful designs from the new "Nassau" collection introduced by Molla, Inc. The simplicity of these clean-lined pieces is enhanced by softly curved lines used in the chair-backs and sloping legs. The attractive console table-buffet combination is a boon to effortless serving.

English Decor Now Popular U.S. Vogue

Members of Parliament concerned about the Americanization of England can relax . . . England has invaded America at its very core — the home.

A current vogue in home furnishings decor is the English look. It represents a reaction to the informal or casual styles which have been predominant in the home furnishings market for the past several seasons (Mediterranean, Early American, etc.).

With every passing season, pace-setting designers predict a "look" . . . sometimes old, sometimes new, often a "forward step" and occasionally a "return to" . . .

* * * * *

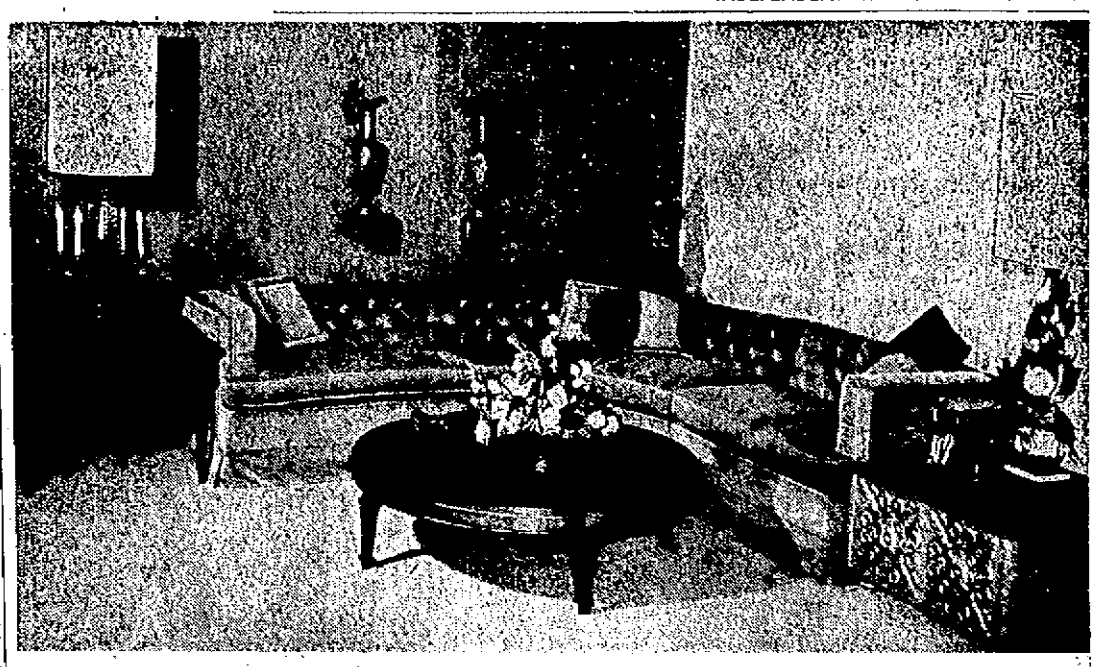

THIS SEASON it's a "return to" . . . and not an unwelcome one. We are returning to a look that is characterized by greater formality, but with a strength and verve that is missing in the more delicate and stilted formal elegance of the French periods.

The broad scope of English design in furniture permits women to express great individuality and versatility within the framework of its formality.

Though pale colors and lightly scaled furniture are synonymous with the overlapping Hepplewhite, Sheraton and Adam periods, they are balanced by the use of satinwood inlays, deep toned mahogany, walnut, and painted designs and finishes which provide the necessary latitude for creating brighter, more vivacious rooms.

* * * * *

DURING THE MORE robust design periods of William & Mary, Queen Anne and Chippendale, crewel hand-embroidery added lively embellishment to the decor. Although it originated in England in the 17th century and was first used with Jacobean furniture, crewel embroidery continued to be popular until the late 18th century, because its warmth and richness was highly complementary with the aforementioned furniture styles.

MIRROR ADDS ROOM HEIGHT

A spacious room with a traditional, substantial elegance focuses attention on the magnificent "granada" sofa, beautifully long and deeply quilted. Barker Bros. decorators accented with a massive wall credenza . . . added height and light to the rowith the gilt framed oval mirror. The colors are light, the fruitwood woods are rich and elegant . . . the perfect combination for our California homes.

Texture of Carpet Important

The soft pile surface of a carpet or rug makes a unique contribution to your home—not only in comfort underfoot, but in style.

After color, texture is the most important element in establishing the "mood" of a room — cozy and informal, spacious and elegant, as the case may be.

This year there are carpets and rugs with textures for every decorating theme. From long shaggy loops for smart contemporary rooms to thick-piled carpets for elegant, traditional furnishings—the choice is varied.

* * * *

THE STYLES for 1963 reveal a new emphasis on "velvet" textures—the straight yarn cut pile which is one of the classic texture types associated with carpets and rugs.

Seen in rich colors, these plain-surface carpets underscore the most elegant, traditional rooms and provide a luxurious basis for even the most ornate furnishings.

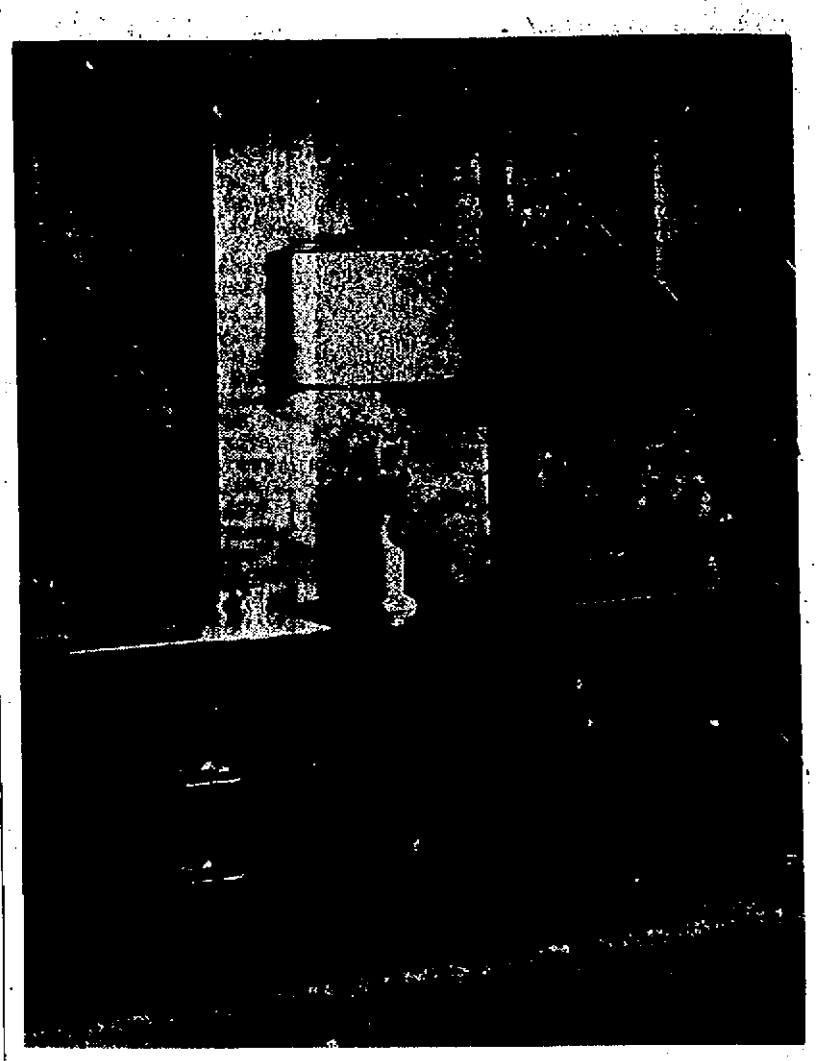

Other carpet textures for traditional settings include new versions of the familiar "sculptured" or "scroll" patterns. These textures, so familiar a generation ago, have been brought up to date and are often achieved with new construction techniques. Many of them are combinations of cut-and-looped pile, a practical as well as a beautiful version.

* * * *

FOR CONTEMPORARY rooms there are many versions of looped texture—loops arranged in a "high-low" manner, tight loops for a nubby effect, twisted loops for a frieze appearance.

Striated loops, or "ridged" textures, are often highlighted by combinations of color and are also styled for contemporary furnishings.

Texture is easy to choose in carpets and rugs, since the choice depends largely on your own preference.

RADIANT FASHION NOTE

The pristine beauty of classic form interpreted in warm-tones butternut and acacia burl is the radiant fashion note of this Thomasville Regent House of bedroom, dining room and occasional grouping featured at Aaron Shultz Furniture of Quality, 4321 Atlantic Ave.

Influence of Mexico Is Noted

The colorful heritage of Old Mexico, that has already exerted a dramatic influence on the design of modern fashions, fabrics, and decorative accessories, is now making itself felt in the field of contemporary American furniture. Brown-Saltman's exciting "Hacienda Group" provided a high light of the new home furnishings.

Designed by John Keal, who spent months south of the border absorbing local color and studying native craftsmanship and design, the new grouping is distinguished by an unusual turned-leg motif and the lavish use of marble (available in four different colors) as tops for all pieces. These include a long low coffee table; a square corner table and end table; a commode that introduces an interesting interlaced veneer on the door panels; a luxuriously scaled hexagonal coffee table and a wedge table.

LUXURIOUS SECTIONAL HAS SWEEPING CURVE

A certain eye-catcher in your living room, this 18-foot sectional has a sweeping curve that adds to the luxurious touch it brings into the home. Offered by Long Beach Furniture, Sixth and Long Beach Boulevard, it comes in a choice of fabrics, has reversible cushions and has Shepherd casters. It is moderately priced for such a large addition to the living room.

CHAIR ACCENTS ROOM

In addition to providing the comfort that only a tall chair can, this chair adds an exciting accent to a room. While this chair has a wood frame it has the luxury of an upholstered frame by virtue of the comfortable little arm bolsters.

CANE AND HARDWOOD

The combination of hand-woven cane and fine hardwood distinguishes this rocking chair by DUX of Burlingame. The frame is available in either solid walnut or solid teak and the reversible, zippered seat cushion and neck pillow are foam rubber.

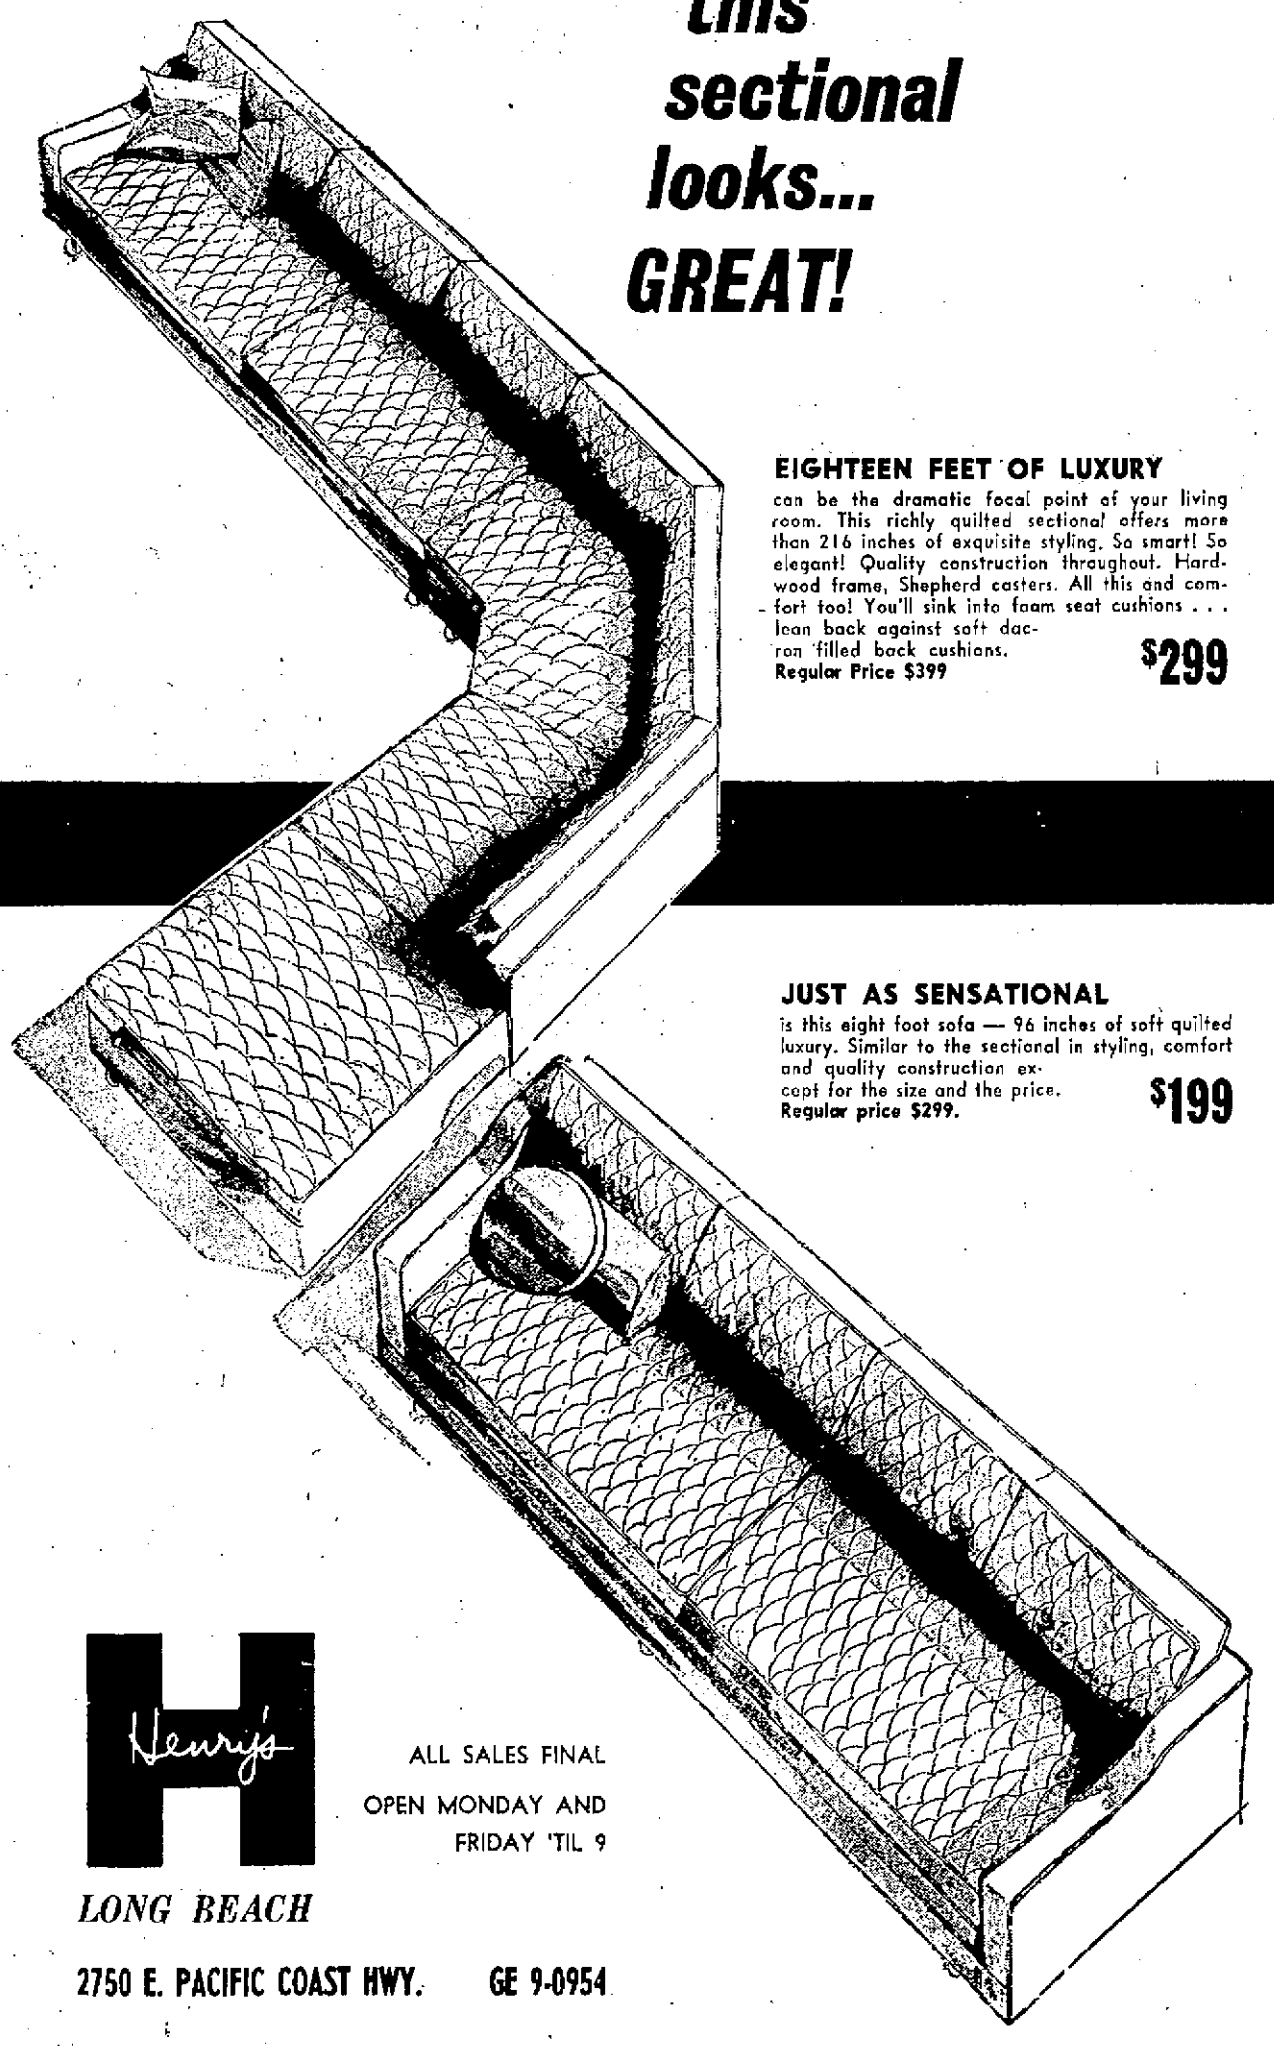

BRUNCH TABLE SET

There are two good reasons for the reappearance of the brunch table and chairs. One is, they often fit more properly than standard dining furniture, in the dining alcoves found in today's homes and apartments; plus the fact that the compatability of their low height adds a unity and continuity that makes the living room appear larger. The other reason is the new look of the family room and its wider use. Here, the brunch table becomes a game table, a snack table, a card table or even a work table.

UNUSUAL BEAUTY IN SETTING
The warm chestnut color of fine wood veneers blend with the upholstered pieces to create a grouping of unusual beauty at Davis Furniture, 1975 Long Beach Blvd. The magnificently crafted cocktail table, end table and door chest are from Henredon's Sequent grouping, exclusive with Davis in Long Beach. There is beauty in every detail as evidenced by the jewel-like effect portrayed by the door chest. The long and lovely sofa is by Marge Carson.

Bring Outdoors Indoors With Novel Conversion of Your Den

FRESH LOOK
A bright and gracious room that retains the fresh look of summer throughout the entire year, this setting features furniture from Molla's new "Wildflower" collection, designed by Lawrence Peabody. This slim-lined design, softened by a graceful floral-spray motif, is offered in a variety of seating pieces and coordinated tables. The colorful floral-patterned fabric brings a summery note to the room.

The approach of summer brings such light hearts and pleasant thoughts, it seems a shame that this delightful season comes only once a year. How beneficial it would be if we could bring it back to cheer midwinter doldrums. With a little effort and a lot of imagination, you can convert a playroom, den or spare room into a greenhouse-like retreat that will delight family and guests as an ideal place for entertaining or just relaxing.

Select furniture that combines the light look of outdoor designs with soft upholstery geared to indoor comfort. Perfect blend of both is slim-lined fine steel pieces graced with delicate floral-spray ornaments. A variety of comfortably foam-cushioned seating pieces, coordinated with attractive serving and accessory tables, provides maximum comfort with minimum upkeep. Choose a brilliant floral upholstery fabric to set the bright color scheme for your outdoor-indoor room.

* * * * *

SURROUND your basic furnishings with accessories and decorative accents that have one thing in common — the employment of designs or materials suggestive of outdoors. For example, you might use an inexpensive three-dimensional plastic wall covering in a brick pattern to cover one or more walls of the room. For the more venturesome, architectural interior materials offers a corkwood wall covering that is an expert-fooling look-alike for real tree bark. This would make a conversation-piece covering for one wall.

Flooring is no problem, with the variety of vinyl tiles now on the market in patterns simulating natural materials from brick or flagstone to straw and rush.

Not to be forgotten is the vital importance of outdoor foliage in any room that does homage to summer

Textured Look Given Pillows

The big fashion news in decorator pillows is the textured look. This look is achieved by prints which resemble tweeds; by butcher linen, woven fabrics of burlap, embroidery, waffle weave corduroy. Vibrant colors continue to be used for three pillows and as for shapes, they come as boxes, knife edges in squares and rounds and oblongs. Many pillows are enhanced by the use of tassels or double flange welting.

Moderate Decor for Bathroom

The "country look" has come into the bathroom. For two or three years the overdone elegance trend had many a bathroom over-embellished with gilded lilies, fish and other ornate decorations.

This year simplicity seems to be the keynote in bathroom decor and this apparently was brought about by the introduction of the country look and the "mister" bathrooms. Femininity, of course, is still of major importance in bathroom accessories but not the frou-frou type of femininity.

* * * *

AS FOR COLOR in the bathroom emerald green is high in favor. Also the yellow greens and the brown greens; chartreuse is also coming in.

Clear blues will become more popular, according to forecasts. Since there has been an increased use of natural food finishes in bathroom cabinetry browns, beiges and mochas are other colors that will gain in popularity for this important room in the house.

New Methods in Laying Carpet Offer Fine, Fast Installation

"What is a 'tackless' wall-to-wall carpet installation?"

"Why must there be seams in my wall-to-wall carpeting? Will these seams show after the carpet is laid?"

"How long will it take to have my carpet installed? Will it require more than a day?"

These questions are typical of those frequently asked by homemakers as they consider plans to have carpeting installed wall-to-wall in their homes. Their concern is understandable, as fine carpeting should have a topnotch installation.

* * * *

FORTUNATELY, improvements in carpet-laying techniques and tools have kept pace with the many advances in carpet manufacturing. A prime example of the progress in this field has been the widespread development of "tackless" installations.

This is a method of laying carpet by securing the carpeting to wood strips anchored to the floor adjacent to the walls. These strips contain rows of pins angled toward the wall. Following the principle of the curtain stretcher, the pins grip the back of the carpet.

The "tackless" strips are anchored to wood floors by nailing and to concrete by strong adhesives. Their use makes possible a taut, smooth installation that eliminates the need for tacks, which can become unsightly dust catchers. Tackless is currently the most popular carpet laying technique, and is widely recommended.

* * * *

THOUGH THE development of broadloom, or wide-width, carpeting has reduced the amount of seaming formerly required, seaming is still necessary today because the carpet has to be cut into sections and joined in order to cover all of the floor space. Most broadloom carpets are made in standard widths of 9-foot, 12-foot and 15-foot, and some are also available in 18-foot rolls.

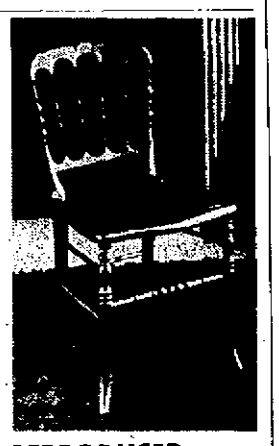

Seams could possibly be totally eliminated in a room if the widest roll-width were used. For example in a room 13 feet wide, a 15-foot wide carpet could be used. However this would entail considerably more wastage than if sections of a 12-foot carpet were used along with a few seams. Therefore the use of seams is more economical.

* * * *

MODERN SEAMING techniques have made it possible to produce inconspicuous seams that even experts cannot spot readily. Moreover, these seams are strong, so that they will not separate or become apparent after the carpeting is down months or years later.

The use of new tools and techniques developed in recent years has greatly speeded-up the carpet laying process. Today, a crew of trained mechanics can install as much as 80 square yards of carpeting in a home within a normal working day.

This means that between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., carpeting can be completely installed in the average-size living room, dining area, hallway, stairway and two bedrooms. A housewife can rest assured that in most cases her new carpet will be laid and all the furniture put back in place before her husband returns from work.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Right Carpet Is Key to Home Decorating

Q. I have a copper-colored sofa and a moss-green chair in my living room. What do you suggest as a carpet color?

A. Since you have contrasting colors already, it would be better to choose a carpet in one of these tones, rather than introducing a third color. You might choose a carpet in a copper or moss green shade, or one blending these tones.

Q. I have a rug with a definite floral patern. Can I also use patterned draperies?

A. Probably not. Although it is sometimes possible to use two definite patterns in a room—if one is large-scale and one is small-scale, for example—it's usually best to let one pattern dominate, especially in a large area such as the floor. Your draperies, however, might have a great deal of texture interest or a muted color combination.

Q. Should my walls and carpet be the same color?

A. This isn't necessary at all. They may be different tones of the same color—generally, with the darker shade used for the carpet—or they may be related colors. It's best to avoid directly contrasting colors in these two large areas unless the room is very large.

Q. Can tweed carpets be used with traditional furniture?

A. It depends on the variation of design. Many "tweed" carpets today are subtle mixtures of color and blend beautifully with the soft lines of traditional styling. Also, traditional furniture may be fairly simple rather than ornate. A sharp "salt-and-pepper" tweed would probably not be compatible with very elaborate period furniture—but between these two extremes, there are many possibilities.

Q. Is there any one texture type in carpets especially designed for contemporary rooms?

A. No. There are many texture variations in carpets today, and very few of them are limited to one type of decor. Some textures—such as the soft curves of "scroll" or "sculptured" carpets—might suggest traditional furnishings, just as some bold textures suggest modern decor. But many other textures are adaptable to a variety of furnishings.

WILLBANKS

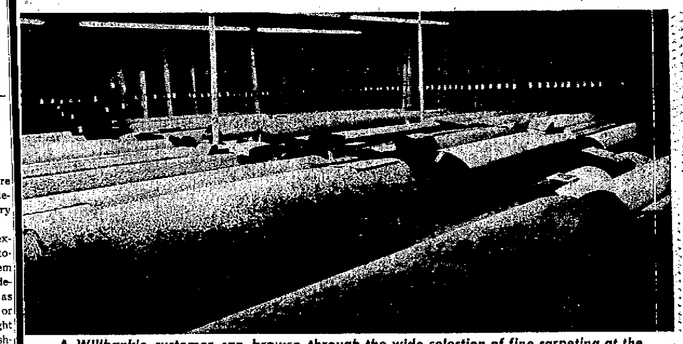

SELLS QUALITY CARPET & DRAPES FOR LESS!

WILLBANK'S HUGE WAREHOUSE STORE. Truckloads of carpeting arrive daily, bringing you this area's largest selection of fine carpet. Large quantity purchasing enables you to get the best carpeting at discount prices.

Here are examples of our realistic pricing policy. (The prices below are for the carpet alone. Our expert installation is 1.25 per yd. and the finest 50-oz. rubberized felt pad is 75c per yd. The red Cushionaire pad is $1.75 per yd.) We also have hundreds of roll ends and remnants for that extra room or den at cost and below cost. We are franchised dealers for: ALEXANDER SMITH, MOHAWK, FIRTH, GULISTAN, MAGEE, BERVEN, HOLLYTEX, CORONET, and most others.

CARPET FROM 3.95 yd. to 18.85 yd. Only First Quality Goods

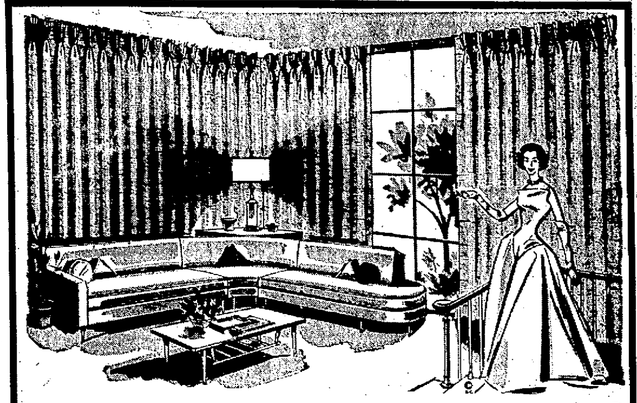

A Willbank's customer can browse through the wide selection of fine carpeting at the store or see samples in their own home.

4 REASONS WHY WILLBANKS SELLS FOR LESS!

1. We make huge mill purchases by the truckload.
2. We have only one low overhead warehouse, located on Signal Hill.
3. No mood music, display windows or other cost-raising features.
4. We put the glamour and the extras on your floors, not our own.

Willbanks Offering Largest Selection of Brand Name Rugs

Now recognized as the area's largest volume carpet dealer, Willbanks Carpet and Drapery Co., now has the largest selection of brand names at the lowest possible prices, a spokesman for the firm announced.

Today's quality carpet is lived with for years. The choice of a proper carpet is of primary importance in furnishing a home. The same is true in the selection of drapes.

Because of this importance, your selection should be made when you have:

1. A knowledge of what you are buying.
2. A confidence in the firm from whom you are buying.

Willbank's is a departure from the usual carpet specialty shop. It was founded on the premise that quality carpet, backed by expert installation, could be sold, at a minimum mark-up, in sufficient volume to be profitable. The same policy prevails on its draperies.

The extension of his premise was to operate, without frills and costly fixtures from a low rent and thus low-overhead location in a Factory-Warehouse location at 1879 Freeman Ave., Signal Hill.

* * * * *

BY ELIMINATING high rent and other cost raising features, the company decided it could afford to pass on to its customers the substantial savings by giving more carpet and drapery value at less cost.

This new experiment in merchandising paid off in large volume sales. These large sales, in turn, allowed Willbank's to bargain from strength in dealing with carpet mills, for quality purchases, at great savings—these savings are likewise passed on to the customer.

Today, the Willbank's Co., is growing and expanding into other areas after building, in the Long Beach area, a reputation for selling, at a minimum mark-up, quality carpet and draperies expertly installed and with complete satisfaction guaranteed.

A shopper will find, on display, at the warehouse, the latest lines of carpets and drapery material in wide varieties, made by famous mills.

* * * * *

IT IS NOT the policy of the Willbank's Co. to sell you a particular carpet or certain drapery material, but rather to act as consultants—to explain the facts—to be definite in answering your questions and to assist in the selection of the best material, best suited for your needs—most in harmony with your decor and at a cost to fit your pocketbook, the spokesman explained.

You may, if it is more convenient for you, select your carpet or drapes right in your own home. Willbank's will, without obligation, send to your home a salesman, with a complete line of samples in which you are interested. Then you will see the carpet or drapes in the proper setting — make certain it matches your decor and have the entire family discuss its suitability for your needs.

Willbank's too, is justly proud, of their industry-wide reputation, for the very high quality of expertly trained, long experienced installers handle all installations, including the difficult and complex, with facilities and precision.

Crewel Embroidery Is Being Revived

An age-old art is very much back in style in the home furnishings field. Crewel embroidery is being revived and almost any of the home magazines you pick up today will have instructions or articles on it. Manufacturers of fine fabrics are using crewel embroidery for draperies, bedspreads, pillows, chair seats. It is a great hobby to take up.

SOFA OF UPHOLSTERED SILK FABRIC

From the Lloyd's of Long Beach custom furniture shop comes this exquisite sofa, upholstered in smart silk fabrics. Lloyd's will custom build sofas in any size and in any fabric. The lamp and accessories are part of Lloyd's immense collection of the unusual. The store's at 4141 Atlantic Ave.

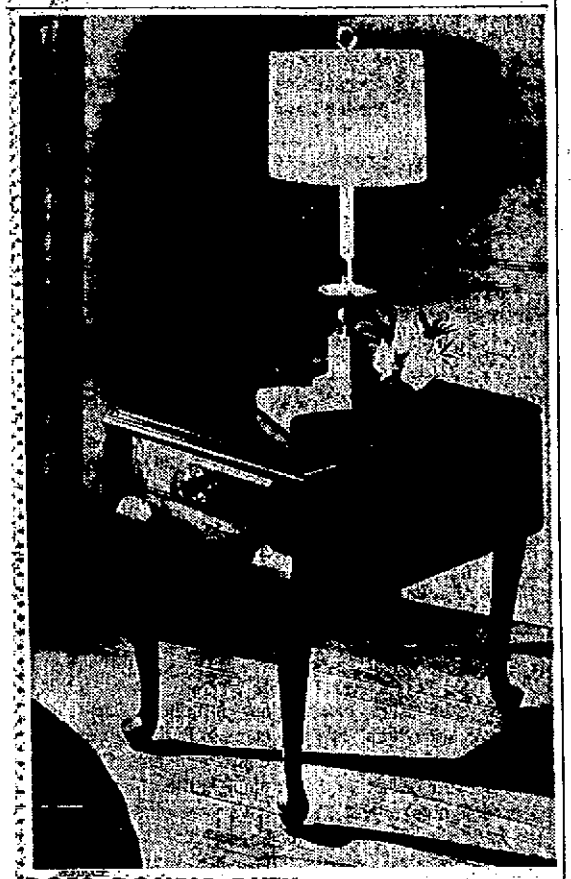

Draped Tables

If you have an old round table put a skirt on it and make it look like the latest smartest decorator item.

DOES DOUBLE DUTY

Thomas Chippendale named a table for the Earl of Pembroke, and almost 200 years later, the same piece makes a royal addition to today's home. The Pembroke table is that rare combination of both beauty and utility. This Ethan Allen version by Baumritter serves as a lamp table in the living room, and the drop leaves lift to give room for a chair-side dinner, hobbying or sewing. In the bedroom, the table is equally useful as a bedside commode.

EXPERTS IN HOME DECOR

Buffums' Department Stores not only offer the newest in styling and home decor, but they provide expert consultant advice as well. Here are John Stettler and Carl Stewart, who specialize in the field of fabric and color for homes, offering advice on drapery, carpet and upholstery harmony. They go into homes with swatches of fabric and samples of carpet to help plan new decor.

Carpet Colors Cover Spectrum in Exciting Rich, Deep Tones

By WOLFE SHAYNE

Attempting to "catch the trend" on carpeting is akin to catching "which way the breezes blow." But this season, according to what can be gathered from the creators, will embody everything that nature has to offer—tranquil or stormy in tone and mood—polychrome or monotone just as nature should; an endless variety, all exciting and new.

For example take Mohawk. "Colors shall be clear, deep and rich, with emphasis on the gold and green families."

Alexander Smith declares . . . "cleaner, fresher, clearer colors . . ." Firth . . . "breath-taking color-hand combinations in vibrant, exotic colorings . . . subdued versions in exquisite muted shades . . ."

* * * *

STEPHEN-LEEDOM gives . . . "emphasis on deep hues . . . strong colors . . ." And Regal is for . . . "yellow tones including hot orange and shocking pink combinations . . . yellow-greens including the olive tones . . . blue-green combination . . ."

Speaking of colors, James Lees predict a trend toward richer carpet hues. "The trend is to deep, rich blues and greens, deep russet, deep golds, avocado and moss . . . golden yellow, bronze and bitter green.

* * * *

COLOR STYLISTS at Bigelow are counting on "marigold and other members of the orange family . . . for 1963 . . . several softer shades of rose, gold and beige . . ." In fact Bigelow color stylists have made 38 color additions with what they term their "Coordimates"—a color coordinate program which offers the home owner identical, complimentary or contrasting shades in all grades and styles.

Jaeger and Branch are stressing lilacs and oranges, Hollytex meanwhile is advancing tone-on-tones—somewhat toward what they term the "modern" colors.

From Masland comes "Eye-Stoppers" or even more glaring "Eye-Poppers," to use their own coined vernaculars. They go further, proclaiming with such adjectives as "holder" and "lusher" the startling nature of their colorations for '63 which range from emerald to crimson and gold; from pink to blue to avocado.

* * * *

AN UNUSUAL color treatment comes from Downs—"flakes of four accent colors on backgrounds of peacock blue, vale green" . . . through gold and beige and moss, among others.

Callaway prefers the . . . "deeper, more vibrant and brighter colors of sunny Spain"—which puts them on course, of course, with our Mediterranian trend in furniture design. Even in nomenclature they go Latin with such colorful designations as "Costa Brava Blue," "Fandango Flame" and "Torreador Red." So . . . "Jubilo jornado" to all those inclined in that direction.

And if these titles aren't urge enough to send you on your way, savour some of these for '63: "Creme D'Cocoa," "Olde Linen," "Turquoise Gleem," "Bubble Beige," "Ginger Spice," "Mystic Green," "Black Coffee," "Expresso," "Ultra Violet," "Verdant Jade" and "Martini." The latter will either close the spectrum for you or open it, depending on your own capacity.

Decorator Clocks Back

The Grandfather clock is back and with "him" are two charming additions — the Grandmother clock and the Granddaughter clock. They are known as the Decorator clocks.

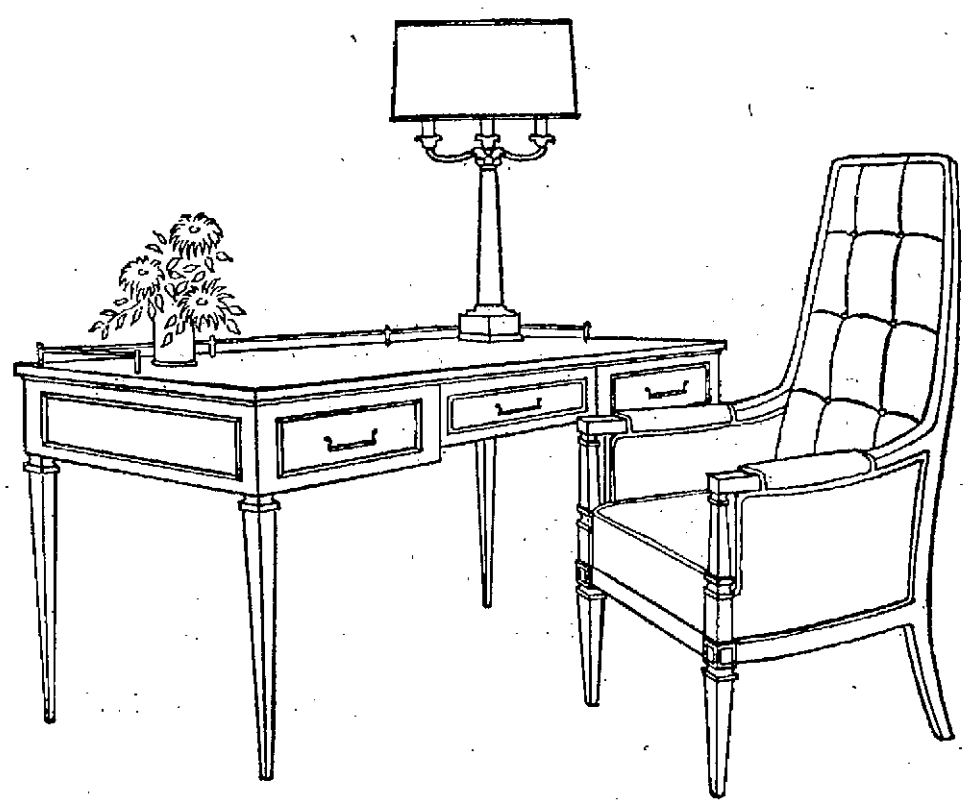

The pleasant "at home" feeling generated by the petite Grandmother clocks are wonderful ways to fashion an interior. These clocks come in Early American, Contemporary and Italian Provincial. The chimes? You can have your choice: the stately Echo "Bim-Bam" chime on the half hour or the universally loved Westminster, with part of the melody on the ¼, ½ and ¾ hour. A "Big Ben" gong tolls the hour.

Two Style Trends in Rugs

Return to Elegance Is Noted

Whether your home is elegant in the traditional manner, or smartly contemporary, carpets and rugs are again proving that the "well-dressed floor" is the perfect starting point for home decor.

Carpets and rugs for 1963 reveal two definite style trends. Traditional and contemporary. There's a return to elegance in a variety of traditional patterns, rich colors and soft, thick textures. At the same time, there are crisp colors, interesting textures and patterns done in the contemporary manner.

• • • •

SEVERAL important color trends are seen throughout these varied stylings. Gold appears as the most important color family for 1963—ranging from soft, burnished bronze tones to sharp clear golds, often mixed with a related color such as orange or russet.

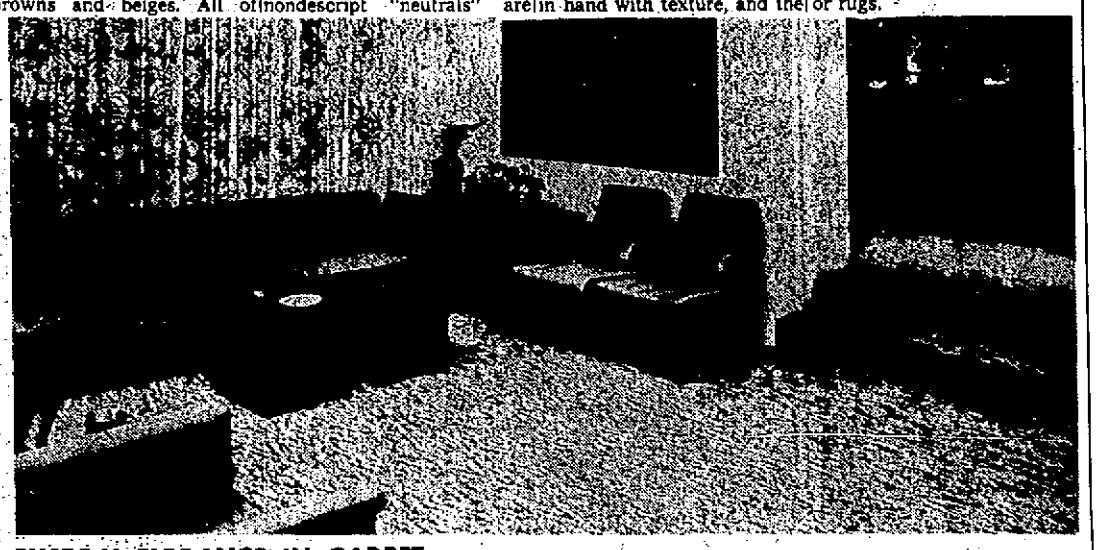

There's a tinge of gold in other color families, too — notably in the greens, with avocado, moss and bronze greens appearing in many new styles.

Sharply contrasting colors are often seen in vivid area rugs, but in carpets there is a definite trend toward subtle blends of color. Closely-related color mixtures, such as turquoise and bronze, or reds with orange, are favored over the tweeds with a definite contrast, such as black-and-white, or the "salt-and-pepper" tweedy styles.

• • • •

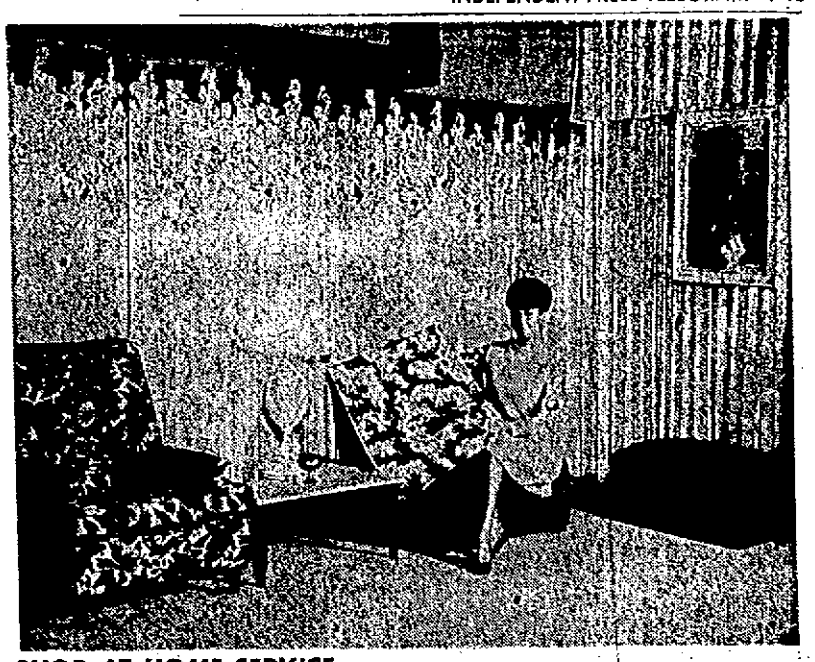

WHEN CARPETS are not done in vivid colors, they are shown in a variety of interesting "neutrals" — mixtures of black with brown or charcoal; varying mixtures of browns and beiges. All of these have a definite color "character," however. The nondescript "neutrals" are waning in popularity.

Color, of course, goes hand in hand with texture, and the two together determine the total style effect of a carpet or rugs.

CUSTOM ELEGANCE IN CARPET

The art of Wilton weaving hits a new high with the introduction of this cut and uncut all-wool carpet. The mixture of two, three or four colored yarns for special coloring effect and the slight, abstract chevron pattern impart a custom elegance to this carpet.

SHOP-AT-HOME SERVICE

Samples of carpeting, draperies, upholstering and slip covers will be taken into the home of customers by employes of the Sears Shop-at-Home Service. This permits customers to see the merchandise in the setting of their own home and then expert advice is given free on home decor.

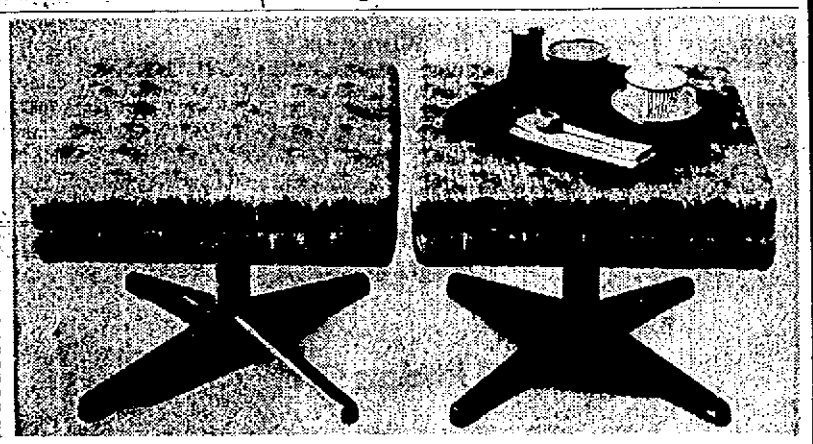

Rug Label Tells All

Read carpet labels carefully when you shop. They contain valuable information such as exact fiber content, country of origin (or where the carpet was made) and usually the color name, brand name and pattern designation. Save these for future reference in cleaning or repairing carpets, or matching pattern and color at a later date.

ADDS MUCH TO DECOR

A quality all-wool rug executed in traditional design underscores the return to elegance in interior decoration. This Masland Wilton is in a familiar pattern that will match the gracious quality of fine period reproductions or mate subtly with the genteel lines of provincial furnishings.

FOR OCCASIONAL SEATING

For use alone or in pairs as extra occasional seating, this ottoman by DUX Inc. has pedestal base available in solid walnut or solid teak. The seat is foam rubber. Sylve Stenquist designed the ottoman for use either as extra seating or as a foot rest with a chair.

OPEN MONDAY NIGHTS UNTIL 9:00 P.M.

Custom Order Rugs Fit Decor Properly

Would you like to have your monogrammed initials carved into the plush pile of your carpet? Or your family crest designed in the surface yarns?

These ideas, and countless others, are entirely possible today through the custom services offered by a number of leading carpet and rug manufacturers.

Custom requests are not usually based on mere whimsy, however. More and more homeowners are ordering custom rugs to find just exactly the color they want, to get a large, seamless carpet to fit a room exactly, to achieve an individual design or texture.

* * * *

CARPET MILLS today are turning out more colors, textures and styles than ever before, and in most cases this volume production includes just what a customer wants.

However, there is always the excitement of owning a "one-of-a-kind" rug, or the practical value of finding a very unusual color to fit in with existing furnishings, or having a carpet made to fit a room with an unusual shape.

Custom orders are placed through decorators or through stores offering this service. Generally, a color swatch or design sketch is sent for approval, and the custom order is completed within four to six weeks after confirmation.

The cost? Less than you might think. Many custom rugs cost no more or very little more per square yard than top-quality carpet regularly stocked in stores, and no minimum yardage is required for a custom order.

Beaded Curtains in Style Again

Beaded curtains are back—and you can string your own and make them as gay or as subdued as you wish. And you can use them in any room in the house. They are particularly attractive in bathrooms, dressing rooms, the kitchen and entry halls.

STORYBOOK BEAUTY IN DINETTE
Homemakers can be "empresses" with this new Corinthian collection by Daystrom in which romantic Gothic puts true storybook beauty in dinettes. Proportioned after the tower arches of Rheims Cathedral, Gothic arches are newest in dinette chairs.

Use of Good Padding Is Very Important for Your Rug Wear

Homemakers who have finally completed their selection of new carpeting find that their next question is:

"What kind of padding should I buy?"

Though the use of good padding is vital to a completely satisfactory carpet installation, its selection is much simpler than picking out the carpet. The only factors to consider are the performance and value features.

Carpet paddings are made of a variety of materials. They include: Felted hair, or combinations of jute and hair, or all-jute; sponge rubber; foam rubber and plastic foam products.

* * * *

THE FELTED HAIR paddings have long been the most popular underlay material. They are durable, resilient and cushiony, but at the same time give firm support to the carpet, helping it to resist buckling or giving away too easily under foot pressure.

The all-hair pads are frequently recommended as they are reasonably priced and are the most durable of the felted products. The jute-hair combinations are usually lower-priced than all-hair pads, though not as durable, and are considered good buys for short-term installations. All-jute padding, though cheapest, is the least durable, and sometimes tends to mat under the carpet.

The felted paddings are made in various weights based on the number of ounces per square yard. They range from 32 ounces to 86 ounces. Normally, a 40-ounce pad will be completely adequate for most areas in a home.

* * * *

THE RUBBER PADDINGS come in a variety of thicknesses and forms. Some have a completely flat surface, while others have a rippled or indented texture.

Most rubber paddings tend to be more springy or "bouncy" than the felted underlays. Carpet installers feel that though this feature is desirable to a degree, they generally recommend those rubber and felted pads which give firmer support to foot pressure than those which dip sharply or give away too easily.

They also favor rubber paddings which feature a surface of burlap or scrim fabrics which are molded to one side. These underlays are laid with the fabric side up, which permits the carpet to stretch tautly and evenly over the padding during installation.

* * * *

IN GENERAL, the better grades of rubber paddings are priced higher than the felted carpet cushions. A good quality rubber pad will give long-term service, is mildewproof, moth-proof and non-allergenic.

Another type of padding is made of felted hair impregnated with foam rubber. This underlay combines advantages of both the felted and rubber cushions.

Some carpets offered today have the padding bonded to the back. While some of these carpets are good values, do not be deceived by a loosely constructed carpet that seems thicker because of the padding attached.

All carpet buyers should beware of falling into the trap of skimping on the carpet quality and attempt to compensate with a thick padding.

AID TO HOMEMAKERS
Free decorating counsel has attracted thousands of young homemakers to Frank Brothers. For more than 30 years, Frank Brothers has displayed the most complete selection of fine Contemporary furniture, carpeting and accessories in the West, as well as a handsome collection of Scandinavian imports and custom furniture from their own work rooms. Frank Brothers is located at 2400 Long Beach Blvd.

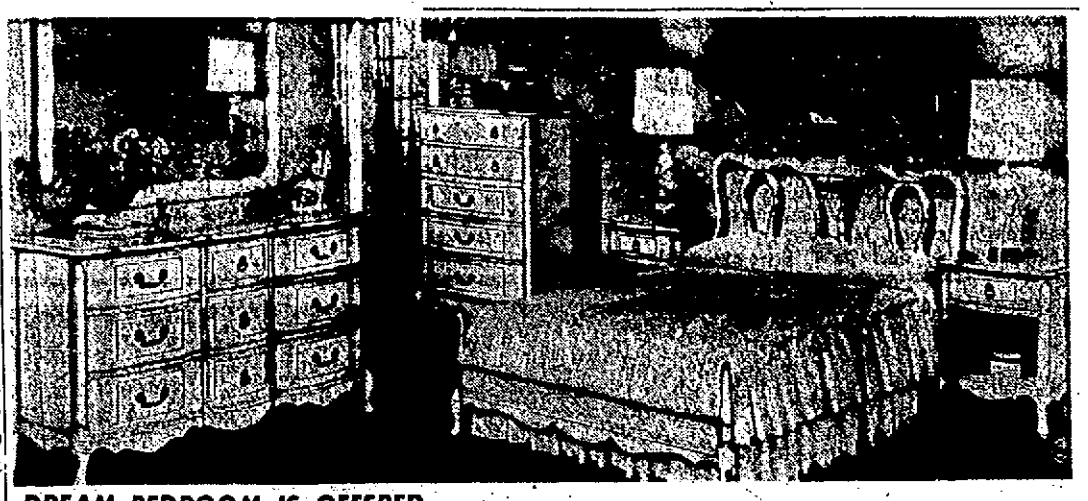

Rugs Sold on Credit

Investigate sensible credit terms when you buy a carpet or rug.

Most retailers offer a variety of credit plans, from a 90-day extended charge account to two- or three-year credit for a large purchase.

For example, for just $15 a month for 36 months, you can have good-quality wall-to-wall carpeting for a heavy traffic living room, 15x20 feet. That includes the cost of padding and installation.

Costs for carpet in lower-traffic areas will be even less—as low as $1 per square yard, per month, for just 12 months.

There's High Style for Sofa-Beds Now

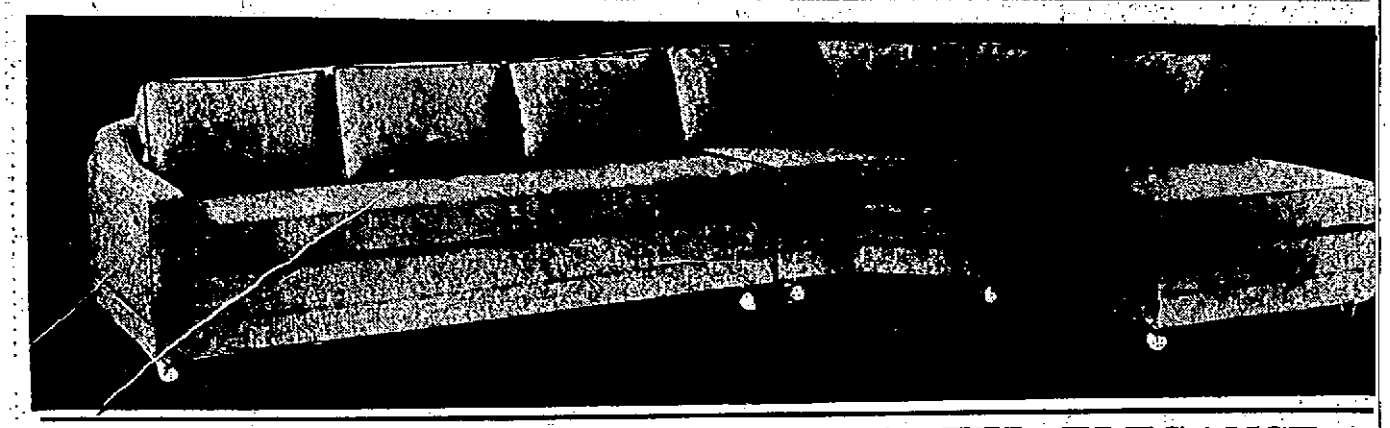

The sofa-bed, for so long designed mostly for teens, guest rooms or the youngsters' room, have come into their own as high fashion furniture this season. Many manufacturers of dual-purpose or convertible sofas who exhibit specially for furniture dealers at the Los Angeles Home Furnishings Mart have introduced some beauties recently.

Style range is broad and as for periods you can find them in modern, French Provincial, Victorian, contemporary, Italian and Spanish. Decorative details have been carefully worked out and cover selections are rich.

Today's hide-a-beds or sofa beds or convertible beds are much more at home in the living room in their new elegance, than they are in the den.

Extra Seats

Hassocks are eye-deceiving these days. Many of them have the "furniture look." Others look fragile but are everything but that because they are actually durable storage pieces that double as extra seating units.

FITS ANY HOME DECOR

The newest musical instrument that blends well with home furnishings is the low-cost spinet organ in mahogany cabinetry styled to go with casual or elegant furniture. Made by Hammond, the spinet has many features found on the company's more expensive models. This organ is shown at Hammond Organ Studios of Long Beach, 2188 Lakewood Blvd.

Give Your Bedrooms Styling

Since they are usually "last on the list" of decorating plans—when time, ideas and even budgets are running low—bedrooms tend to have an unimaginative, all-the-same look that can strike a discordant note in an otherwise harmonious home decor.

Despite the fact that all bedrooms inevitably have the same basic furnishings — for isn't this true of living and dining rooms as well?—each one should, and can, have its own individual style. With a fresh approach towards bedroom furnishings, you can plan a beautiful, comfortable and distinctive room that is a pleasure to live in and a pride to show off.

DISCARD THE OLD decorating formulas which call for "matched suites" of bedroom furniture. Look instead for well-designed pieces which combine without matching, for a more interesting room. Try the new look of a shapely painted headboard, and top it with an asymmetrical arrangement of three-dimensional wall plaques instead of the conventional pair of framed prints. Latest wall accessories include several charming floral-spray designs, with graceful lines that make them especially appropriate in a bedroom. The variety of styles and sizes, available in a choice of white, gold or walnut finishes, offers the raw material from which to assemble a highly individual wall arrangement to suit your taste, and your room, to perfection.

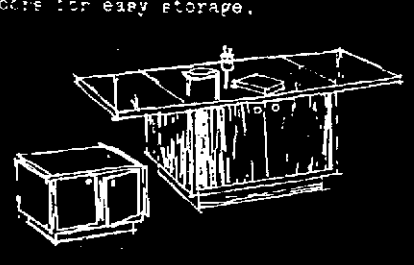

For an eyecatching change-of-pace, break with the tradition of placing a mirror over the dresser—instead, frame a tall mirror-panel and use it as a striking headboard, letting it reflect an attractive pair of sconces or arrangement of artificial flowers which decorate the wall above the dresser.

* * * *

TV Recliners Are Offered

Half a dozen styles of high-legged TV recliners were introduced at the Winter Market at the Los Angeles Home Furnishings Mart by a famed furniture manufacturer and many Southern California dealers ordered them for their stores.

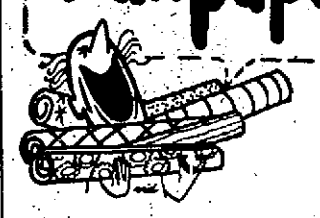

The chairs, which reflect contemporary and transitional design, have a lighter, more sculptured look than the regular line of this manufacturer's recliners. They have been added to the Viscount group put out by the company and which is composed only of rockers, thereby filling out this collection

BRINGS TOUCH OF MEDITERRANEAN

This luxurious quilted three-piece curved sectional sofa is representative of the new Mediterranean feeling so prominent in 1963 furniture fashions. It combines the feling of, and can be used with, Italian provincial . . . French provincial . . . Spanish . . . and transitional styles. It's just one of the many new 1963 showings to be found at the big downtown Leo Shulz "Acre of Furniture," Seventh Street and Long Beach Boulevard.

There's New Look in Luxurious Living

Luxurious living has come of age.

A new sophistication in furniture designs is evident in a duet of Lane collections for the bedroom and dining room.

Each of these new furniture collections portrays the look of luxury defined in their own distinctive styles.

The new "Venetian" bedroom ensemble combines contemporary craftsmanship with Italian artistry. Individually, the "Venetian" pieces have a smart decorator look; collectively, they create a romantic atmosphere in the decor.

"VENETIAN" is offered in a choice of brushed, painted finishes. Antique white, French grey or charcoal provide a delicate background for custom-carved designs of flutes and garlands in antique gold. The gold is repeated on the deep, bold mouldings framing doors and drawers. Handsome carvings in water lily patterns form the drawer pulls.

Two handsome pieces—a richly carved mirror and an open work headboard—are artfully fashioned in gold leaf.

Disability Payments

When you get hurt and can't work!

ACCIDENT INSURANCE

Only 50¢ A MONTH

Provided as a Reader Service of The Independent Press-Telegram

HERE IS WHAT YOU CAN COLLECT
in accordance with policy terms

MINOR ACCIDENTS	When there is no disability, policy covers your doctor bill expense up to $15.00 (limit $3.00 per visit); plus X-ray expense up to $10.00.
DISABLING ACCIDENTS Include HOSPITAL EXPENSE	For most accidents at home, at work, at play, etc. Disability Benefits up to $120.00 at $30.00 per month; X-ray expenses up to $10.00; Ambulance expenses up to $10.00; PLUS Hospital Benefits to $300.00 at $5.00 per day. Maximum total $440.00. For Auto and Pedestrian Accidents; maximum total increased to $620.00; for other Specified Travel Accidents, maximum $920.00.
FATAL ACCIDENTS	$500.00 for most accidents at home, at work, at play, etc. $1,000.00 for Auto, Pedestrian, certain Specified Travel accidents. Up to $10,000.00 for other specified Travel accidents.
MONTHLY INCREASE	Important Death Benefits increase 1% each month you are insured—up to 50% maximum.
ELIGIBILITY	Issued to men, women and children between ages 1 and 79—except those who have lost both hands or feet or sight of both eyes.
LIMITATIONS	Benefits reduced one-half after 65th birthday. No reduction in benefits first year.
EXCEPTIONS	Benefits paid in accordance with terms of policy form HM 7624 UA which is renewable at option of Company. Does not cover accidents in a mine; in railroad yard or train except as fare-paying passenger; warfare; auto races; expense items paid under Compensation insurance.

It costs a whale of a lot to be laid up by an accident—any kind of accident. When the family bread-winner is hurt and can't work, his income is usually reduced or stopped entirely. Result? The family savings are drained so much that it may take years to recover from the high accident costs.

Bills for medical treatments, X-rays, hospital rooms, wheel chairs and a dozen other unexpected expenses, take a big chunk out of anyone's hard-earned savings.

This insurance is designed to help you solve the Accident Expense Problem.

this policy—at a cost of little more than a penny a day does pay the benefits shown below, for accidents at work, at home, in your automobile, on the street, and even at play.

Hundreds of claims are paid every week to men and women, like yourself, who never expected to be hurt. But they realized that, since one American in every 12 gets hurt each year, they just couldn't afford to be without this low-cost protection.

Take advantage of this great Reader Service—the personal accident insurance that brings you cash when you need it most! Send in your application today!

ACME

Mattress Factory

Growing with Long Beach Since 1932

NUMBER ONE

ACME PREFERRED OVER ALL OTHER STORES in the LONG BEACH AREA!

We take pardonable pride in announcing that Acme Mattress Factory is preferred above all other stores by the majority of persons buying bedding in Long Beach. A recent survey* (January, 1963) indicates that Acme is now number one in the preference of bedding and mattresses—surpassing every furniture store, discount house, nationally, and locally known department stores, chain stores, and factory outlets all over the greater Long Beach area.

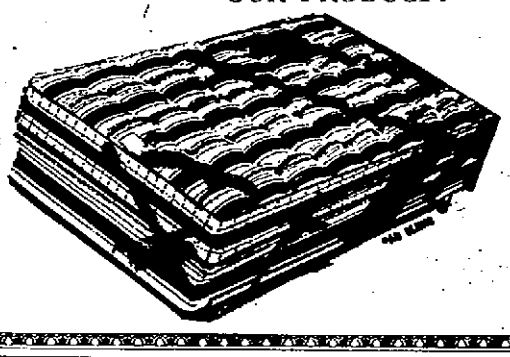

We're glad to be number one! And we'll continue to be a fighting champion, offering you the finest possible bedding for the lowest possible costs! OUR COVER

Ramona, an Indian girl who became famous in California legends, is our cover girl today in the person of Marsha Moode, 19-year-old straight A scholarship drama major at USC. Allesandro (Maurice Jara) is shown leading her into the mountains to escape the invading whites who have deprived them of their home and possessions. This is one of the many dramatic scenes that have made the "Ramona Outdoor Play"—now being staged weekends at Hemet—one of the most beautiful and heart-appealing dramas of its kind. For more about the Ramona Play, see Page 7.

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: My mother never misses your column. Would you surprise her with brief data on VAN DER LAAN?—A.D., Bellflower.

A.D.: VAN DER LAAN, old Dutch in background, was first assumed by this family from their manorial estate. Their property was named for a beautiful and outstanding landmark on the grounds, for "Van der Laan" deciphers as "from the place of the avenue of trees."

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on LIVEZEY? — L.L., Long Beach.

L.L.: LIVEZEY was adopted by this family's founder from his home village of Livesey in Lancashire, England. This locality name originated in Anglo-Saxon Britain as Leofes-haeg, meaning "beloved one's homestead." The town of Livesey was owned by this family as their manorial estate in the middle 1500s. The family shield is silver, decorated with a rampant red lion placed between three green 3-leafed rosettes.

DEAR MISS RULE: Have you the origin of MARGIOTTA?—F.S., Huntington Beach.

F.S.: MARGIOTTA is an unusual Italian surname traced to a female ancestor called Margarita meaning "The Pearl." Margarita was shortened to the nickname Margi in the Middle Ages. To this was added a further nickname ending "-otta."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain EDWARDS. — H.H., Long Beach.

H.E.: EDWARDS, an English surname, is from an ancestor baptized Ead-Weard, or "prosperous guardian." A long line of English kings named Edward gave impetus to the use of the name. The main family shield has a gold rampant lion on an ermine covered background. Matthew Edwards of England arrived at Massachusetts in 1637. Numerous modern Edwards lineages are descendants of his nine children.

DEAR MISS RULE: Could you give the origin of STEINER?—Mrs. D. S., Long Beach.

D. S.: STEINER, a German surname, was a verbalized term for "stone cutter," referring to a skilled artisan who shaped stone for public buildings and churches in bygone centuries. The Steiner coat-of-arms, granted in Switzerland, has a silver mountain goat poised on three green mountain peaks, as an emblem on a red shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give data on BRIGHT, BRITT and BRITE. — L. B., L. D., Long Beach; R. C., Garden Grove.

L. B., L. D., R. C.: BRIGHT and the allied surnames BRITT and BRITE are from the ancient Anglo-Saxon baptismal name Beorht, used in England over twelve centuries ago. Beorht, meaning "brilliant one," is recorded as early as A.D. 699 when Beorht, a Northumbrian nobleman, was slain by the Picts in England. The coat-of-arms of the Brights of Cheshire has three blue centered spur rowels or stars on a blue shield. The Britt shield from Devonshire is black, emblazoned with a silver horizontal stripe between three gold seashells.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like the origin of BURTON.—W. B., Bellflower.

W. B.: BURTON ancestry is from the Baron Ingenulf de Burton. He accompanied William the Conqueror when the Norman French captured England in 1066. This family resided in Leicestershire many centuries. James de Burton was granted the family shield in 1190 for services in the Crusades. The Burton shield is blue, emblazoned with a silver crescent and a pattern of silver stars. The family motto "Lux vitae" means "Light in our lives." Sir William Burton was standard bearer to King Henry VI (1422-1471). John Burton, born in England in 1608, settled in Salem, Mass., in 1636. The original name "Beorht-tun" deciphers as "brilliant one's enclosure or estate." An alternate origin, "Bertin" means "little brilliant one."

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly analyze HANEY. — J. H., Downey.

J. H.: HANEY, a euphonious surname, was brought to England by the Vikings in the early 10th century. One of their original homes in Lincolnshire was titled "Hagnaby," meaning "village of the man of the high-born race." Hagnaby was subsequently shortened to Hanney and Haney. The Haney shield is blue, emblazoned with a gold chevron between three gold rampant half-lions.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like data on AVERY and the shield.—P. S., Long Beach.

P. S.: AVERY originated as the early English warrior name Alberic meaning "noble, brilliant and rich." An Alberic is listed as a Tenant-in-chief in the 11th century English Domesday Book census. Avery's alternate meaning is "elf ruler," from "Aelf-ric." Ralph Avery, an ancestor, lived at Oxford in 1273. The family shield from Somerset is red, emblazoned with a gold stripe between three gold coins. Jacob Avery sailed from England for Virginia in 1635.

Music for Mexico

James E. Son is director of Son's Long Beach Junior Concert Band, top youth group.

By Betty Hardesty

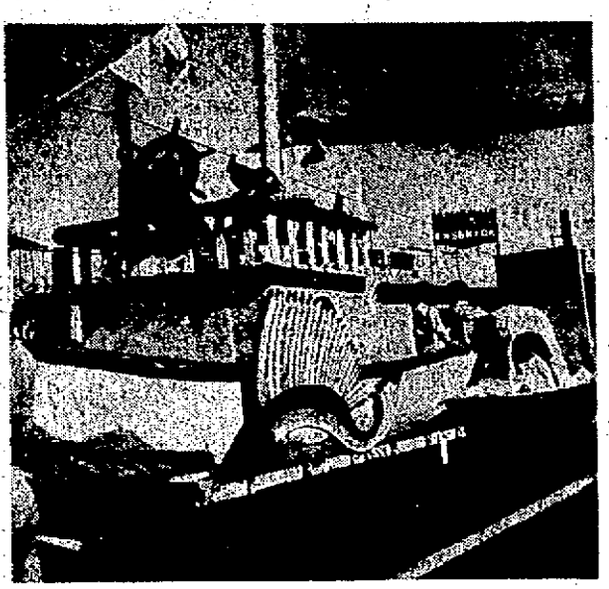

SON'S Long Beach Junior Concert Band will march in the Cinco de Mayo Parade, on May 5th, in Ensenada as a goodwill exchange sponsored by the Long Beach City Council.

During the patriotic fiesta celebrating the Mexican anniversary of the victory over the French at Puebla, the afternoon parade will feature Mexican floats, horsemen, soldiers in formation, bands and pompom girls. Tourists also will delight in observing the natives in holiday attire, venders with pushcarts, and the carnival booths and amusements set up around the plaza.

On the evening of May 4 from the park's central platform, the Long Beach Youth Band will play a special concert including "Stars and Stripes Forever," a medley of Latin-American tunes and a saxophone quartet. Director James E. Son plans programs and music, much of which he arranges, and marches in all parades. Alert and erect in his all white uniform, his 80 years invoke admiration and loyalty from all who follow him.

SON'S BAND has won 22 sweepstakes and 24 first place awards during 231 appearances, 185 of which were non-competitive. Last year the group made 45 public appearances, traveling 2500 miles. Annually, they participate in the Pasadena Rose Parade, the Los Angeles County Fair at Pomona, and Hollywood Bowl competitions as members of the Southern California Youth Band Council in which they have qualified for the "advanced" classification meet scheduled for June 8. On June 31, they march for the American Legion convention in Long Beach.

Preparations are now in quick time for the Cinco de Mayo Festival with music practice and marching drills for a benefit to raise funds for transportation to Mexico.

Float (above) is from past parade at Ensenada where Son's band will play and march as a goodwill gesture.

Inter-American Friendship: Annie White and Merrillyn Erskine assume representative pose for Cinco de Mayo fiesta in which band in which they play will appear.

A band concert will be given at 8 p.m. April 27, in the Municipal Auditorium Concert Hall.

The city council has helped this band annually, last year paying transportation bills of $750. Other donations in 1962 totaled $1,638. A monthly assessment of $2 each is required of instrumentalists and $1 for flag and pompon girls in order to support the "—mutual, non-profit organization" which proudly carries the name and seal of Long Beach.

FIVE banner-bearer girls lead the parade followed by 11 flag girls and 18 pompon pretties in costumes of aqua velveteen with cap sleeves and scalloped skirts worn full over ruffled white net petticoats. Boy and girl instrumentalists have black uniforms decorated with white braid and wear white shoes and feather plumes in their caps. Band members, aged 13 to 20, must maintain above-average grades in their schools: 11 junior and 12 senior high schools and four colleges located in Long Beach and adjacent communities. There are more on a waiting list.

Outside House Painting Now Eliminated

Another boon of the space age has been accomplished for the homeowner . . . an exterior wall coating so tough and durable that it is guaranteed to totally eliminate exterior house painting for over 10 years. This remarkable textured coating is Fiberglas FLEXON.

BEST IN NATION

Homeowners are requested not to spend a single penny on painting their residence until they hear the FLEXON STORY. This remarkable material insulates, waterproofs and beautifies, and every Fiberglas FLEXON job is factory guaranteed for 10 full years against chipping, flaking, or peeling.

FLEXON the miracle exterior wall coating is so indestructible and durable that it is absolutely guaranteed to eliminate the necessity for painting the outside walls of your home, apartment building or commercial property for 10 full years. This outstanding product when applied is approximately 20 times the thickness of ordinary paint and makes a wall surface that resists all climatic extremes.

Fiberglas, a product of Owens-Corning, brings to FLEXON its great strength its wonderful insulating properties, its resistance to time, weather, and chemical attack.

PROVEN OVER MANY YEARS

FLEXON is one of the oldest, tried and true coatings now being marketed and has been applied on thousands of homes and commercial buildings. These buildings have remained in perfect condition after more than 10 years exposure in all types of weather.

The United States Government and many large corporations such as U.S. Steel Corporation, Aluminum Corporation of America, Pacific Telephone, and Shell Oil Company, are included on the honor roll of FLEXON users.

SHOT FROM A GUN

FLEXON is applied with special heavy duty spray equipment and is actually "shot from a gun" without muss, fuss or odor. FLEXON fuses itself to the wall surface and fills holes, cracks and covers building defects.

When Michele Nelson, 12, drew her grandmother, she worked in "Grammy's" quilting hobby, as shown above.

HOBBIES

Quilts for Queens

By Irma McCall

LET THOSE who will pamper African violets, allemande right and left, or collect stamps from Samarkand. The perfect hobby for Mrs. Harry A. Smith, 274 Argonne Ave., is making quilts beautiful enough for a royal boudoir.

To help adjust to widowhood 10 years ago, Mrs. Smith looked for some absorbing new interest. While wandering through Marshall Field's one day she noticed a gay orange and white quilt, the Poppy pattern. She bought the makings and with no instruction, completed the pretty coverlet.

She was hooked!

Now she is working on her 30th quilt, as fascinated as ever.

"I put my thoughts and my prayers into the stitches," she says. "And I've taught seven other widows to make quilts. They have found contentment too."

ALTHOUGH handmade quilts are worth from $125 to $300, Mrs. Smith has never sold one, choosing to give them to close friends and relatives. The attractive Living Rose pattern brightens a bedroom of her sister-in-law, Mrs. D. W. Tripeny, with whom she lives. Nine eager granddaughters have declared, "Grammy, save Jack and Jill, Golden Eagle or Apple Blossom for me!" Grammy embroiders the moppet's name on her quilt. Grandsons? Certainly, but four tads demand their favorites. Because twin beds are popular she makes the quilts in pairs.

Asked at school to draw a picture of Grandmother, each young artist invariably pictures Grammy working with her needle.

Vivid color delights Mrs. Smith, but her favorite is pale pink. An insomniac should quickly drift to Dreamland after cuddling under the Enchanted Garden aglow with morning glories, lilacs, poppies, gladioluses and roses. Kids love Jack and Jill tumbling down the Storybook hill.

The Camellia, requiring intricate stitching, takes three months to complete. Mrs. Smith once finished a Daisy pattern in 15 days.

"MY PARENTS were Danish," she explains, "and I remember in our home in Illinois, there was a crocheted edge on everything that would take it. We used embroidered and crocheted table cloths as a matter of course. When I was 10 years old, I knitted a pair of socks for my father using four needles. If some babies are born with a silver spoon in their mouths, I must have been born with a needle."

Friends urge this gifted needlewoman to exhibit her work at the Los Angeles County Fair at Pomona and bring home stacks of blue ribbons. But serene Grammy stitches, not for glory but for the joy of creating something beautiful.

'Uncle Tom's Cabin' of the American Indian

The Return of Ramona

By Hal Wiener

Senora Moreno played by Fanchon Jennings, pleads with Ramona, heroine of the Ramona Pageant and played by Marsha Moode, to give up her Indian lover.

THE RAMONA outdoor play, inaugurating its 36th annual season Saturday and continuing this afternoon, April 27 and 28, and May 4 and 5, in Ramona Bowl in the hills above Hemet, is more than just a beautiful love story of the Indian maiden and her lover; it is the saga of a people despoiled of their birthright; a hymn of hope foreshadowing a brighter day, and a sweep of history.

The gifted pen of Helen Hunt Jackson brought the story to life more than half a century ago. She followed the factual outline but supplied the missing links with her sensitive imagination.

The period of her novel centered around 1850, but the incidents on which she based this story actually took place around 1870.

THE NOVEL was written to show the injustices heaped upon the California Indians by the invading white men.

It became known as the "Uncle Tom's Cabin" of the American Indian. Though the play is well known to many thousands who have enjoyed the spectacle in the Ramona Bowl during the last 35 years, it may be well to recap the story line of this fascinating return to California of the Spanish era, when the state was young and just emerging into a period of greatness.

The play is told in episodic form. Act I shows the unhappy time at the rancho of Senora Moreno. Felipe, her only son, is critically ill, and Juan Canito, overseer of the rancho, is helpless with a broken leg. Father Salvedierra, aged padre, is about to leave, after what must be his last trip.

In Episode II, happier times seem to have arrived. Felipe is recovered, Alessandro, in charge of the workers, has the work of the rancho well in hand, and Juan Canito tells Alessandro that Ramona, whom Allessandro loves, is really part Indian. Ramona discovers Marguerita, flirtatious maid servant, attempting to win the attention of Alessandro. She reveals her own feelings for the Indian, by her concern over this discovery.

THE SENORA, who has never really been fond of Ramona, attempts to break up this romance.

In Episode III, a fiesta takes place at the rancho to celebrate Felipe's recovery. Ramona tells Allessandro of the senora's unkindness to her. In an emotional moment he declares his love for her, and they embrace. The senora discovers them. In a rage, she sends Alessandro from the rancho, and tells Ramona she will be sent to a convent unless she gives up her Indian lover. She forces her son Felipe into agreement with her plan.

The opening of Act II finds Alessandro telling Ramona that his home at Temecula has been destroyed and his father killed by desperados. Although, he has returned to say farewell, Ramona, who knows about her Indian blood, insists that he take her with him to live among his own people. He consents, and the two lovers depart together from the rancho.

The next scene is two years later. Ramona and Alessandro have settled

Play's theme is mistreatment of Indians by whites. Here, Ed Heyton (Ben Mapes) offers Ramona and Alessandro (Maurice Jara) a small sum for land.

With her husband dead, Ramona returns to rancho and Felipe, played by Bill Rose, asks her to wed him over objections of the Senora, his mother.

The Curfew Will Ring Tonight

Juvenile pair gets a quick going-over and questioning by police officers in this posed photo demonstrating procedures used in checking youths found on streets after curfew in many Southland cities.

By Don Maddock

CURFEW will ring tonight, as it does every night, for thousands of area young people.

Long Beach, Wilmington, San Pedro, Lakewood, Bellflower, Norwalk, Santa Fe Springs and La Mirada—to mention only a few—have ordinances designed to keep boys and girls under age 18 from loitering late at night in autos or afoot.

Enforcement ranges from strict to spotty.

Orange County and its cities have similar laws and the county, unlike Los Angeles County, prosecutes parents who let their children become chronic violators.

Sgt. Robert J. Bumgartner, sheriff's juvenile officer, terms the curfew "great stuff." It's enforced, only when juveniles are on the streets without good reason.

"Going to and from activities, and stopping for chow, is legitimate and we don't enforce the curfew then," Bumgartner said.

—Staff Photos by Dick Tolbert

Capt. Paul Lansdowne of Long Beach police juvenile division explains the curfew.

HE ADDED THAT a movement is under way for Orange County and all its cities to standardize their curfews, as to the hour, conditions and enforcement. Some cities, such as San Juan Capistrano, have a 9:30 p. m. deadline although most observe 10 p. m.

Almost every Southland community has an ordinance which parallels that of Long Beach:

"No person under the age of 18 years shall loiter about any public place, as defined in this chapter, between the hour of 10 o'clock p. m. and the time of sunrise of the following day when not accompanied by his parent or legal guardian having legal custody and control of such person, or spouse of such person over 21 years of age."

"PUBLIC PLACE" includes any street, park, pier, beach, restaurant, cafe, theater, store, building, playground, school ground recreational area or other place to which the public is invited or has access, or any place open to public view.

The key word in each ordinance is "loiter." Each law is designed to curb serious crime, not to put unreasonable controls on the youthful citizen.

"Our ordinance assists both us and parents," Capt. Paul Landsdowne of the Long Beach Juvenile Division said.

"It very definitely cuts the amount of crime."

Since runaway children from many states head to Southern California, curfew ordinances have another important effect here.

"It's the only method we have to pick them off the streets quickly," Capt. Landsdowne stated.

MOST PARENTS appreciate availability of the law as a weapon to control their children, the juvenile authority said.

"It gives the parent an extra crutch to hold children in restraint—to meet the pressure the kids apply to stay out late," he reported.

"It works, too. I know from personal experience," parent William Mooney, the Long Beach police chief, added.

Loitering was the primary charge filed against 533 juveniles in Long Beach last year. The total included 116 girls.

All but 32 were handled in the police department's Juvenile Division through counseling and guidance, and return to their parents.

Twenty-eight delinquency petitions were requested through the probation department to Juvenile Court. Four were released to other agencies.

JUVENILE COURT action was sought only when the child had a long record of brushes with the law.

A State Penal Code section enacted in 1961 gives police a lever over recalcitrant parents. It provides for a fine of up to $1,000 and/or a year in jail for persons convicted of contributing to the delinquency of a minor—and that includes loitering.

The section rarely is used. Most apprehended loiterers are not repeat offenders, and parents of one-timers are not prosecuted.

However, each parent summoned to police headquarters to pick up his or her child is warned of the possibility of prosecution. Each also receives a copy of the anti-loitering ordinance, and signs a paper admitting awareness of the responsibilities imposed by it.

Kids on their way home from a party, dance, sports event or other legitimate activity are not bothered. They also can stop for refreshments.

"It's okay to stop at a drive-in, but not to stay," Capt. Landsdowne explained.

"It's their actions that count, not simply the hour of the night. They can be out quite late at night.

CAR CRUISING is loitering. If a police officer sees an auto pass the same point several times, its youthful occupants are likely to find themselves in custody.

"We've been encouraging good curfew arrests," Capt. Harry Labrow, Los Angeles Harbor Division commander, said. "They have a significant effect on our crime picture.

"Loitering always leads to more serious things—using and pushing pills (dangerous drugs), burglaries and robberies. We've seen it happen many times."

Capt. Labrow and Juvenile Sgt. Earl Johansen pointed to eight curfew arrests made the preceding night. The eight boys involved were found driving longshoremen's jitneys around a Wilmington dock area.

IN LINE WITH Harbor Division policy, the youths were held in the new headquarters on the Wilmington-San Pedro Road until their parents arrived to claim them, and were cited to return to the Juvenile Division the next day. They then were counseled and released.

"Juveniles hanging out late at night are the ones involved in our major crimes," Sgt. Johansen echoed Capt. Labrow. "You get them off the streets and you cut down crime."

The sergeant stressed that loitering is not confined to children from low-income families or minority groups.

Lt. Albert Natividad of the Norwalk sheriff's office admitted that deputies don't cite as many curfew violators as "some people would like."

He used the term "selective enforcement" to explain office policy.

"We will check when a problem area is brought to our attention," Lt. Natividad said. "La Mirada recently asked for strict enforcement, and our crews were briefed accordingly, but there hadn't been too much pressure elsewhere.

"Even there, if a kid seems to be walking a straight course, he'll be stopped and questioned

Change of Pace at Long Beach
Festival of Fun and Fashion

Fashions Go to the Dogs!

By Vera Williams

WHAT WILL the well-dressed pooch, chimpanzee and orangutan wear this spring and summer?

Sun suits, sports outfits, surfer coats, car coats, business apparel, black ties and tails, and of course, maternity outfits.

There will be quite a lot of mink trim on appropriate costumes, and collars and harness will sparkle with jewels.

Styles for pets as well as styles for men, women and children will be displayed at the 11th annual Festival of Fun and Fashion—"The World's Largest Fashion Show"—at 8 p. m. Wednesday in the Long Beach Arena.

Pets owned by Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Keener, 1165 E. Pacific Coast Hwy., will model the smart fashions. And they also will show smart hair styles for pets: their hair will be styled by Nancy Gildea, no less.

HANUM, AN Afghan hound who is in a delicate condition (frankly, she expects puppies May 16) will wear a Gay 90s maternity outfit, gold velvet with black fringe. Sharon Marlo, TV and movie actress, who will appear on the stage with Hanum, also will wear a Gay 90s costume.

Nappy, a cafe au lait (coffee with cream) poodle, will wear a gray wool cocktail jacket, with a mink belt and mink trim on the collar, and a gray felt hat with a flower.

Jacques, black miniature poodle, will be nautically attired in a blue sailor suit with a blue tam.

Chester, a chimp, will wear formal black tie and tails. And plans call for Sharon Marlo, accompanying him, to wear a silver lame gown.

THAT GETS US to Gus, the orangutan. Gus has a big fat belly and it's a little hard to find a costume that will fit him. Probably he will appear at the fashion show in jeans and a T-shirt.

Chester, a five-year veteran of stage and screen, played in "Five Weeks in a Balloon," "Girls a Poppin'" and "Black Zoo." He has been on the Art Linkletter, and Groucho Marx shows. He is back from New York where he made 141 personal appearances. For the record, Mayor Robert Wagner met him at the airport with a band—which is more than Mayor Wagner ever did for you or me.

Chester is quite a pin-up boy, too. His picture will appear on a record number of 1964 and 1965 calendars.

Gus also gets around. He has been in movies and TV, and last November Tau Kappa Epsilon at Long Beach State College ran him for Suave-Man-About-the-Campus honors. He was introduced as Rudy Farquhard, an anthropology major. Gus might have been elected, too, if he hadn't been disqualified because he hadn't attended classes. It is whispered that next fall a pledge will be assigned to attend classes in his name, and Gus will run again.

MISS MARLO, the blonde who will accompany the animals on stage, appeared in "Ladies' Man" and "Cinderfella" with Jerry Lewis; "Mad, Mad World"; "Girls, Girls, Girls" with Elvis Presley, and "State Fair" with Pat Boone. She has been in 52 TV shows, including the Steve Allen Show, the Al Jarvis Show, "Death Valley Days," "Have Gun, Will Travel" and "Wagon Train."

Pets and their fashions will be only part of the Festival of Fun and Fashion, presented by Downtown Long Beach Associates with Long Beach Naval Shipyard Employes Assn.

Long Beach and Hollywood models will show the latest swimwear, summer, marina and baby doll fashions. Pamela Mason, hostess on her own TV and radio shows, will comment. Models will include Stanny Van Baer, Miss IBC of 1962.

A STAR-STUDDED, 250-member cast will present a variety show. Entertainers — hold your breath!—will include Jonathan Winters, Jayne Mansfield, Jane Powell, Vivian Duncan (the Eva part of the Duncan Sisters), Bobby Burgess and Barbara Boylan of the Lawrence Welk show; James Bradley Jr., 4-year-old drummer prodigy; Calls Ballroom Dancers, and the Gala Lads, international barbershop quartet

LIBRARY WEEK SLEUTHING REVEALS

Reading Is a Personal Thing

By Roberta Nichols

IT WAS 1936 the Depression was supposedly dragging itself to a weary end. In Long Beach auto sales and construction were on the upswing. But in Ohio a young mother was hospitalized. Diagnosis: Malnutrition. She had consistently given most of the family's relief foods to three small sons. California was wondering if it should guard its borders against an influx of drouth area refugees.

It was in 1936 that the United States refused to dip the flag or give a Nazi salute to Chancellor Hitler at the Berlin Olympics parade. As if they had not suffered enough already, people partook liberally of Little Orphan Annie's daily newspaper martyrdom. For glamour there was Jean Harlow at local theaters. But that cost money.

Big news downtown was that the old Carnegie Library in Lincoln Park was being repaired and enlarged with Federal aid. It had been badly damaged during the earthquake. Meanwhile, Long Beach residents were reading as they had never read before. For some it had always been a way of life. Others were discovering books for the first time and laying the foundation for future years of reading pleasure. Library books were free in a time of little money.

When the tense year was over, the library made a survey to discover what books were most popular with patrons, and in 1937 the Press-Telegram printed a partial list.

AMONG THE most often mentioned were two biographies: Victor G. Heiser's "An American Doctor's Odyssey," and journalist Negley Farson's "The Way of a Transgressor." Far in front was the novel about which people said, "The part of Rhett Butler must have been written for Clark Gable." But they also shook their heads. Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind" would be a long expensive production, no doubt with an increase in admission, and without the lure of free dishes.

So, Long Beach readers turned to other books. Mrs. Schuyler Coffin enjoyed George Santayana's "The Last Puritan," Webb Miller's "I Found No Peace," and Clifford Odet's "Three Plays." In 1962, she enjoyed "Final Verdict," by Adela Rogers St. John, and Byron Eshelman's "Death Row Chaplain," which she thinks everyone should read.

Neither of these titles dealing with lawyers and the law appears on the current list of Elsie Farris, local attorney. She enjoyed "Island," by Aldous Huxley and the rereading of "The Rich Nations and the Poor Nations," by Barbara Ward Jackson, and "Philosophy of Civilization," by Albert Schweitzer. Back in 1936 her favorites were "The Art Spirit," by Robert Henri; "Diaghileff," by Arnold Haskell, and R. H. Sampson's "The Murder of My Aunt."

TWO PROMINENT educators have continued interests manifest at the first survey. At that time, Dr. Harvey Franklin agreed with "The Nation" that I. J. Singer's "The Brothers Ashkenazi" was the finest novel of Jewish life yet published in the English language. This year he thinks so much of "Landmarks of a People," edited by Bernard Postall for Samuel Abramson that he has presented a copy to the Main Library.

In the original survey, librarians had their say, too. Earl Davis had just reread Adam Smith's "Wealth of Nations" and saw in it possibilities for the solution of many of the day's economic problems. Now retired, Davis leaves economics for another generation, devoting his time to painting and to writing genealogical books, among them "Descendants of George and Elizabeth Hobson (1707-1957)." Concentrating on history, he recommends: "The American Heritage's Book of the Pioneer Spirit."

Fay Tunison and Nora Hacker shared enthusiasm for John Gunther's "Inside Europe." Although retired, both former librarians keep up with current books. Miss Tunison particularly liked "The Agony and the Ecstasy," by Irving Stone and "The Affair," by Sir Charles Snow. Miss Hacker lists the humorous "Don't Go Away Mad," by Joseph Hayes, Glenway Westcott's "Images of Truths," and Stuart Cloete's "West with the Sun."

ANOTHER ADMIRER of the Cloete book is Harry Buffum, who confesses to reading more blueprints and trade magazines than anything else these days. However, he considers "Seven Days in May" by Fletcher Knebel to be a reading "find." In 1916, he enjoyed Barry Benefield's "Valiant is the Word for Carrie," and "Gone with the Wind."

The late Judge Walter Desmond, long a member of the Library Book Committee and an indefatigable worker for adequate library facilities reported in the survey that he found his best reading in James Hilton's "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," Walter Edmonds' "Drums Along the Mohawk," and Virginia Woolfe's "The Common Reader." Queried this year, his son, Gerald Desmond, indicated preference for "My Life in Court," by Louis Nizer, "The Making of the President," by H. T. White, an Ian Fleming's mystery, "Diamonds Are Forever."

SOUTHLAND HOMES

Double-Deck Living

There were changes made when Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Griffin took over a two-story house on Appian Way and converted it to their plan for better living. Right, a view of the living area, showing contemporary theme with touches of antique. Above, right, a view of the exterior of the home.

Breaching a wall opened the stairway, provided the view above from the front entry. Lightness, space and opportunity for decorative ideas were obtained by this move.

Looking down from the top of stairs, view at right shows a tiny, tea-for-two alcove at the left front of living room. A circular glass table and two chairs set the area.

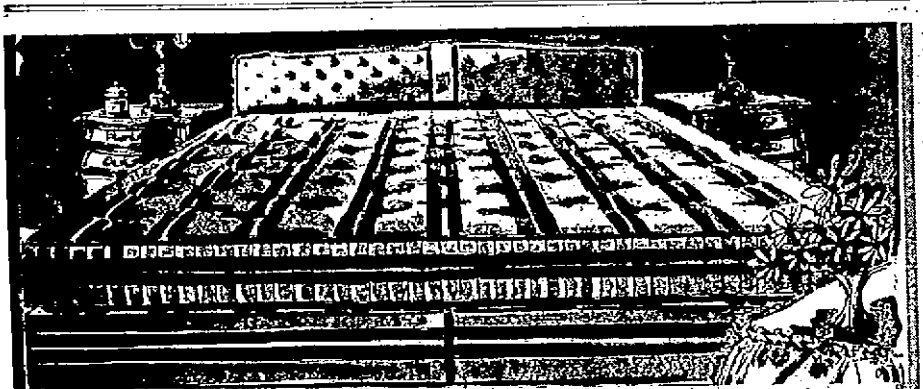

—Photos by Joe Risinger

By Stella George

ABOUT A YEAR AGO, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Griffin purchased a new, two-story waterfront home located at 5327 Appian Way. The downstairs area included a high, beamed-ceiling living room with floor-to-ceiling glass in the front; a dining area; kitchen, bedroom (or den) and bath. Upstairs there were two bedrooms and a bath.

Within a short time, the Griffins had a large master bedroom suite built on what was originally a spacious sun deck. They also made another structural and decorative change in the interior by having the wall removed above the stairway, landing, thus opening the entire stairway area.

The interior decorating, executed by the very artistic Mrs.

Griffin, is smooth contemporary, with an antique accent here and there. A curved, avocado-toned coach faces a streamlined table which is in front of a high Palo Verde stone fireplace. An heirloom Victorian sofa across the room adds charm and individuality to the decor.

A SMALL alcove on one side of the fireplace, facing the water, adds interest and space to the room. Here Mrs. Griffin placed a tiny round glass table and two chairs, an inviting setting for an occasional tea-for-two.

The dining area is straight ahead of the entry with the open kitchen beyond. The round dining table is teakwood with three hanging lamps of brilliant hues above. Through the sheer floor-to-ceiling white drapes the patio is faintly visible. An antique, 79-year-old chair attracts attention because of its "modern" lines. A saucy color accent on the chair is a bright orange pillow.

THE KITCHEN is small, but is so expertly designed that work area and cupboard space are comparable to or better than many in custom-built homes. The cupboards blend well with the table in the dining room, and the entire refinishing job was done by the lady of the house, the versatile Mrs. Griffin.

The downstairs den serves for TV and a dining room. With a bath nearby, it can be transformed easily into a guest room when need be.

Two small boys occupy one upstairs bedroom. The second bedroom is a study for Griffin and also a second guest room. The new master bedroom is deluxe, attractive, and comfortable.

New Picture-Dictionary for the Home Gardener

Imaginative and instructive, a gardening reference book comes to hand in new form in "A Picture Dictionary for the Home Gardener", by Andree Vilas Grabe (Hill and Wang, $4.95). More than 275 plants are illustrated and the volume is indexed to 887 plants. Lead-off pages under a section titled "New Ways to Garden," describe soil, planting and transplanting, propagation by means of division, offsets, cuttings and ground layering, and plant care. The average amateur gardener, perhaps turning to this avocation for the first time, has many questions. Here is a book with many answers in both picture and text.

ARCHITECT'S Sketchbook

Service center that's attractive and useful.

By Bill Meyerriecks

USEFUL and attractive, a Hospitality Serv-Center should make a hit with the the lady of the house. And it's easy to construct from a plan.

The Serv-Center is a compact place to prepare a quick snack for the family in the playroom or for guests in the living room. It can provide a utility counter and storage in the kitchen as well.

The Serv-Center consists of three sections for storage and a dropdown front for service. It hooks easily to any wall by means of an independent, mounted hang-strip.

The left side section, consisting of four snug drawers, is planned for guest items such as napkins, coasters, silver and other utensils, as well as for playing cards, chips and score pads.

The wide middle section, with the cut-back shelf, holds glasses, cups and plates and still leaves room (at the cut-back area) for several large bottles or the coffee-maker. The open area third section at the right houses an ice bucket nicely. The front of the middle and third section drops down on steady hinges, offering a fine work-and-serve shelf or ample room for a buffet setting.

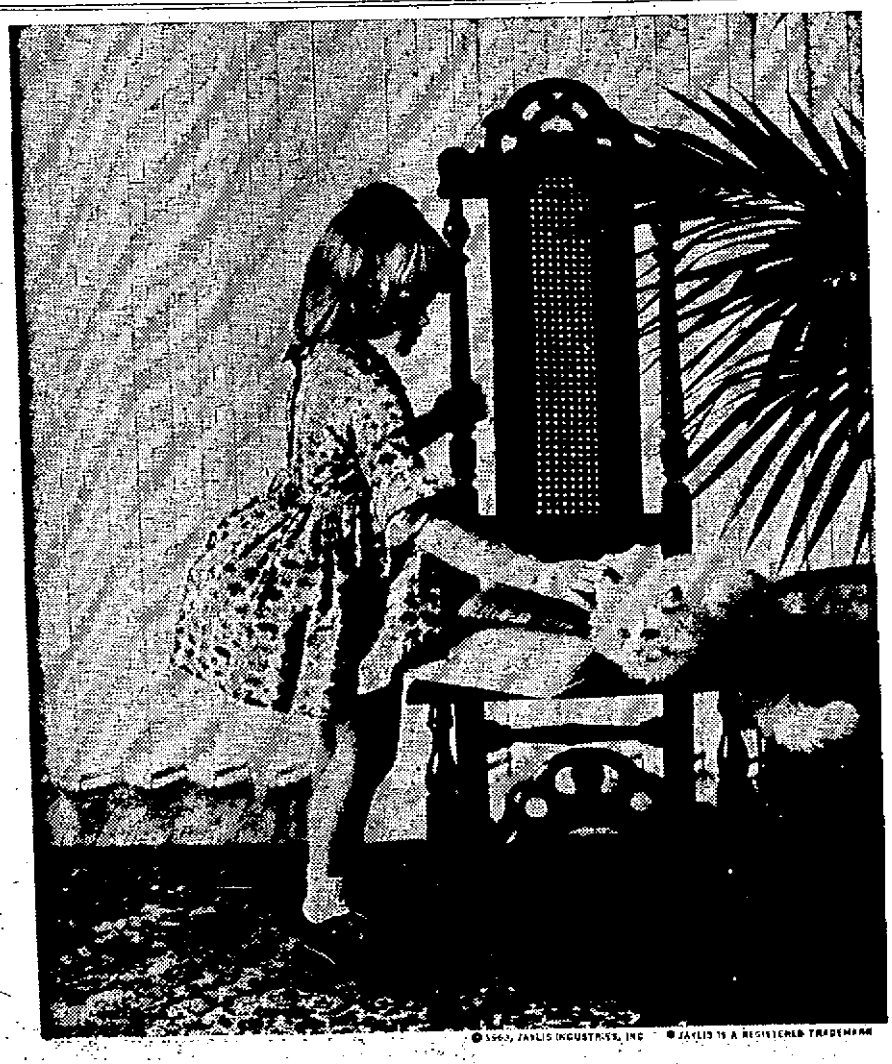

The Serv-Center was designed for construction with stock lumber sizes of clear shelving or with hardwood. Detailed plans for construction, exact parts sizes, a lumber list and general finishing notes are included in Serv-Center Plan S-102, for which send 50 cents with name and address to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

Special for the Hi-Fi

Dry sink for hi-fi is shown by Jewell Peterson of NBC-TV.

ESPECIALLY designed to house a hi-fi unit, the dry sink illustrated above is a popular item of furniture on the modern scene. Fitted with an additional speaker in another part of the room, it can be used for stereo. There is space for a speaker, record player and tuner. The unit could also be used for storage of various items or as a home bar. Construction is easy with an illustrated pattern that offers a list of materials, mostly plywood. To obtain Dry Sink Pattern No. 307, send $1 in currency, check or money order with name and address to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., PO Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif.

Space Age 'Eyes' Spy on Mars

—NASA-Caltech Photos

Goldstone antenna, 85 feet in diameter, bounces radar signals off Mars during short periods planet is near.

By Aubrey B. Haines

SCIENTISTS at California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory are making Buck Rogers come to life. Whereas a generation ago his interplanetary flights seemed fictional, they now appear fast becoming scientific possibilities. Today, Cal Tech scientists are bouncing radar signals off Mars.

Contact was first made in late January by JPL's Deep Space Instrumentation Facility. Original analysis indicates that Mars has rough and smooth areas much like the earth and the moon. Two similar experiments to learn more about Venus by radar echoes were conducted from this DSIF station. The Mars experiment was much more difficult, for Mars at closest approach is two and one-half times farther from earth than Venus. Half the size, it rotates faster, thus blurring the return signal.

Such experiments precede plans by JPL to send a spacecraft past Mars for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in 1965. "We anticipate that during the Mariner's encounter with Mars two years hence there will be communications with the spacecraft by the DSIF and radar contact with the planet simultaneously," the scientists say.

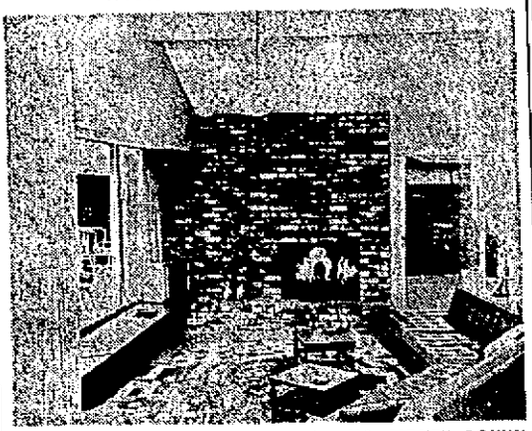

THE VENUS experiment informed scientists that the planet may be rotating slowly in a direction opposite from that of other planets. "Since Venus is constantly surrounded by a dense blanket of clouds, its direction of rotation cannot be determined by direct observation," the scientists says. "Radar penetrates clouds."

Since America currently has special scientific interest in Mars, this planet was chosen as a radar target. It is

Sweetened whipped cream, dairy sour cream, a delicate cream filling—all combine tastily with peaches, summer's bounty. Cooked in tempting desserts or served fresh sliced, peaches take on extra goodness when complemented with dairy products.

Peaches and Cream

By Mildred K. Flanary

Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

IT'S A PEACH of a season for "peachy" desserts. It's time, too, to mate peaches with dairy foods.

In fact, peaches and dairy foods are so versatile they can be featured at every meal and between meals, too.

Today, however, we're concentrating on desserts, those which adapt nicely to buffet service. For instance this Peach Plum Flan—it's a cross between a pie and a tart—baked in a 9-inch pie shell will serve 6 to 8 people. Or—should you prefer fresh sliced peaches, give your guests a choice of toppings.

Peach-Plum Flan

FILLING: Yield: 2½ cups.

⅔ cup sugar
¼ cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
2 egg yolks, beaten
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla

In saucepan mix together thoroughly sugar, flour and salt. Gradually blend in milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils. Boil 1 minute; remove from heat. Stir small amount of hot mixture into egg yolks. Blend egg yolk mixture into hot mixture. Bring just to boiling point. Stir in butter and vanilla. Cool slightly. Pour into cooled, baked 9-inch flan or pie shell. Refrigerate. Serves 6 to 8.

TOPPING: Yield: 1 cup.

¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon water
1 cup (4) diced red plums
½ teaspoon lemon juice
2 fresh peaches, peeled and sliced, OR 1 12-ounce package frozen sliced peaches, thawed and drained

In small covered saucepan, bring sugar and water to boil. Add plums; cook uncovered to thickened pulp. Stir in lemon juice; sieve and cool. Arrange sliced peaches on top of cooled filling. Top with plum mixture.

For use with fresh sliced peaches:

Orange Sour Cream Topping

¼ cup confectioners sugar
2 tablespoons orange juice
¼ teaspoon grated orange rind
1 cup dairy sour cream

Gently fold sugar, orange juice and rind into sour cream. Chill. Serve over sliced fresh peaches. Yield: 1¼ cups.

Topping De Menthe

3 tablespoons mint jelly
1 cup whipping cream, whipped
Toasted coconut (optional)

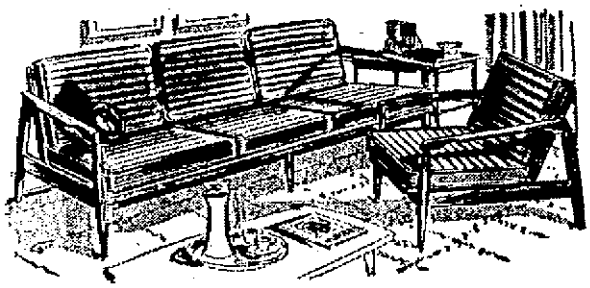

Break up jelly with fork. Lightly fold into whipped cream. Serve over fresh sliced peaches. Top with toasted coconut, if desired. Yield: 2 cups.

Lemon Fluff Topping

3 egg yolks
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup lemon juice
1 cup whipping cream, whipped

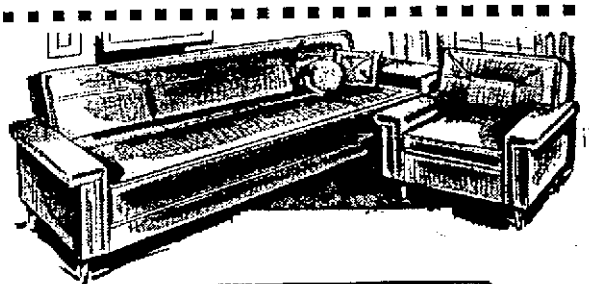

Beat egg yolks. Add sugar gradually; beat until thick and light. Stir in lemon juice. In small heavy saucepan, cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until smooth and thick. Chill. Lightly fold into whipped cream. Yield: 2½ cups.

GRADE CARD

Who's to Know IQ?

By Harry Karns
Education Research Associates

QUESTION: Should a student's scores on IQ, aptitude, and achievement tests be made available to his parents?

ANSWER: Some educators offer persuasive reasons why test scores should not be released. They say, for example, that misinterpretation and misuse of such scores by parents can work to the detriment of the child.

Yet, who has a better right to know such scores? The parents are responsible for the child, and the parents pay the taxes which support the schools in which the tests are taken.

Consider this: A boy graduates from high school and applies for admission to a special college. His regular class grades from high school indicate acceptance, but the college rejects him for failure to meet admission requirements. These requirements, it turns out, relate to aptitude and achievement scores. The parents, however, never were given the facts which would have helped them plan more realistically. Net result: lost time and a serious jolt to the boy's confidence.

That some may misinterpret or misuse test information is not sufficient reason for withholding from all parents facts which will aid them in planning their child's educational future.

Yes, score should be made available.

QUESTION: Is there any relationship between TV watching and academic achievement?

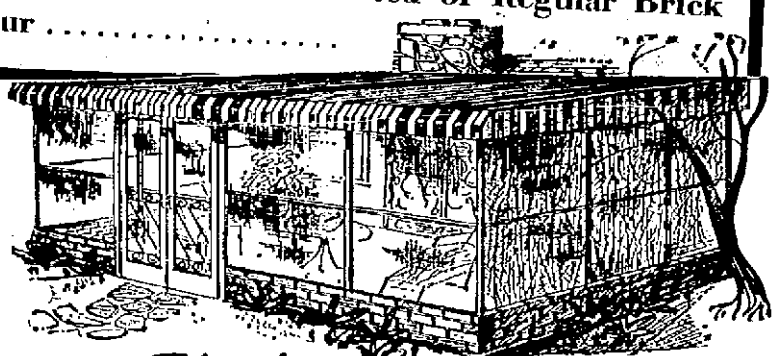

ANSWER: Educators suspect there is.

A recent study of 54 students, selected from gifted and retarded classes, showed that the retarded students watched TV about 28 hours more each week than the gifted students did.

If some of the retarded students had seen fewer TV shows and more book pages, they might not have been retarded.

MEDICINE AND YOU

New Risk: Whiskers in Space

By Ben Zinser
Southland Magazine Medical-Science Writer

SPACE MEDICINE researchers are concerned over shaving problems of astronauts.

A way has to be found to collect whiskers. Whiskers floating about a weightless cabin would pose a hazard.

Floating whiskers, researchers say, would be far worse than the crumbs that pestered Astronaut Scott Carpenter when he was eating crumbly biscuits.

SCIENtists are leaving no stone unturned in the search for the mechanisms involved in the formation of fatty deposits in blood vessels.

Dr. Raymond D. Pruitt of Baylor University College of Medicine, Houston, reports that one researcher is studying the deposition of sand bars in rivers, hoping to gain insight in the matter of fat deposition. Another is studying the caking of oil in pipelines.

SPOILING a child may set him on the road to alcoholism, says Dr. Marvin A. Block, chairman of the American Medical Association's Committee on Alcoholism.

Most alcoholism in America is the result of attempting to escape the harsh facts of reality, he says. Thus it's dangerous for a child to be taught that the world is a rosy, pleasant place devoid of responsibility.

A MARKED increase in leukemia and a probable increase in thyroid cancer have been observed in the Japanese survivors of atomic bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki nearly 18 years ago.

However, Dr. Stuart C. Finch, former chief of medicine for the Atomic Bomb Casualty Commission, says a study of 70,000 pregnancies shows no increase in malformations or other birth defects in children of bomb survivors.

A SOLUTION or ointment of the drug IDU can shorten the duration of cold sores, three British doctors report in British Medical Journal.

Cold sores healed within two to five days in 13 cases, the report says. The lesions were on the eyelid, upper lip or cheek. In nine of these patients the usual duration of the cold sores was two to three weeks.

Dr. S. P. Hall-Smith and associates say the drug brought relief of symptoms and resolution of eruption within 24 to 72 hours.

MEN WHO develop cancer of the floor of the mouth also have a marked tendency to suffer from cirrhosis of the liver, a researcher has found.

Dr. Andrew Z. Keller of the Public Health Research Institute of the City of New York reports on a survey of 2,177 male patients treated for oral cancers in VA hospitals throughout the country.

The study, he says, shows "a genuine association" between cirrhosis and cancer of the floor of the mouth.

BCG, the TB vaccine, has been able to immunize rats against leprosy, a British researcher has found—and the substance may have a similar action in man, according to Medical Tribune. . . . A new drug called Beta-Chlor is effective in calming the disturbed senile patient, reports Current Therapeutic Research. . . . Chipmunks and squirrels are being illegally sold by pet stores in the unincorporated areas of Los Angeles County, reports the County Health Department. Marvin Marker's Junior Concert Band will salute the 75th Long Beach Diamond Jubilee. (Long Beach was incorporated 75 years ago and the Jubilee is to continue all year.)

Dick Dale and his Del Tones will play for dancing after the show. The first 1,000 young persons who show student body cards at the festival will receive new Dick Dale records.

The Festival will be presented on a 40x40-foot center stage in the 12,000-seat Arena. As background for the one-night extravaganza, the Arena floor will be turned into a garden of flowers and plants. Even the animals will like that.

ANTIQUES

Marble in the Parlor

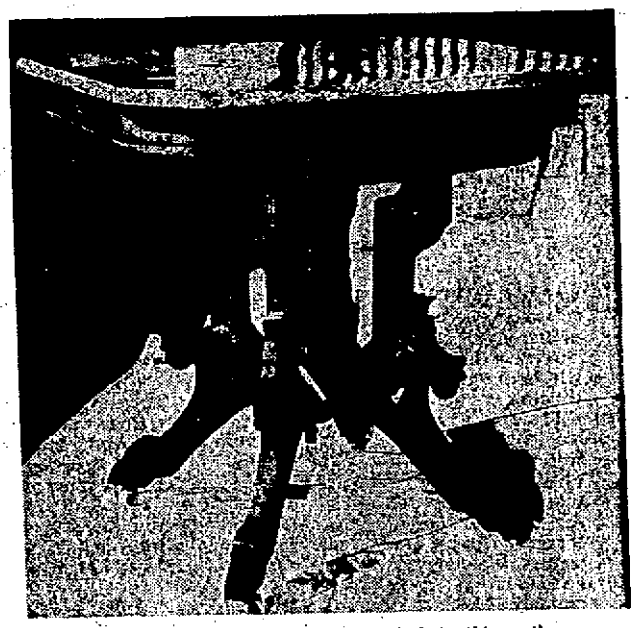

By Helen L. Gillum

REVIVAL of interest in things Victorian during the past decade has resulted in many an ancient, discarded article being salvaged from garage or dusty attic, to enjoy new prestige in the modern home.

Likewise, the person who has cherished and preserved 19th century items for years because they once belonged to a beloved relative, is pleased to find that the spool-turned "whatnot" in the corner, or the curlicued glass high-button-shoe vase atop the TV set, is not so "old-fashioned," after all. Many such antiques have increased in value. In many cases, their original function is being rediscovered and enjoyed all over again by delighted modern day homemakers.

OF COURSE, certain fusty gadgets like snuff graters, "bog shoes" and "jumble guns" serve more in curiosity and conversation roles than in ornamental or useful capacities. Although it is remarkable to what practical purposes even such oddities as these are sometimes put by the confirmed antique

A pleasing relic from mid-Victorian times, a marble-topped parlor table, occupies an attractive spot beside a large window in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Gorton, 1906 Rogers St. A family heirloom, it once belonged to Mrs. Gorton's great-aunt. Not collectors in the true sense of the word, the Gortons treasure the piece mainly for its sentimental value and its worth as an occasional table in their living room.

Reminiscent of a mid-Victorian period is this antique table with marble top, heirloom of Long Beach couple.

THE MAHOGANY table is topped with an octagonal marble slab, 20x27 inches in size. The marble, a beautiful blend of grays and browns, is practically without blemish. Elaborate, hand-carved scrolls and curves compose the legs and lower section of the table. Age has enriched the smooth dark finish, which is original and in fine condition. All four legs are mounted on their original porcelain casters, which in themselves are a rarity today.

With a lace cloth and a trailing green vine, perhaps the old family Bible resting on the marble surface, pieces like this help develop the warm, homey atmosphere desired by collectors and non-collectors alike.

Going to Israel?

IF YOU are one of the almost 100,000 persons expected to visit Israel this year, check a new set of long-playing 33⅓ rpm records called "Listen and Learn Modern Hebrew" which can give you a needed working knowledge of the language.

With the records is a manual containing a complete record text. Topics discussed include native foods and drinks, drugs and accessories, road signs, public notices and so on, all arranged according to the tourists needs, and cover situations which the traveler is likely to encounter in Israel. The set is issued by Dover Publications, 180 Varick St., New York 14, N.Y., at $5.95 per set.

Courtroom Gladiator

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

ELECTION of William Travers Jerome as district attorney of New York City in a fusion-reform victory over Tammany Hall in 1900 launched him on a free-swinging cleanup of sin and corruption and the prosecution of a succession of spectacular criminal cases.

"COURTROOM WARRIOR" by Richard O'Connor (Little, Brown, $5.95) is an absorbing X-ray of wide-open New York at the turn of the century, with its vice reports in the Tenderloin and Bowery, political racketeers and big-shot gamblers, as well as the biography of their unrelenting and fiery nemesis.

Jerome prosecuted Harry K. Thaw twice for the murder of Stanford White, got Thaw committed as criminally insane and kept him there. He convicted Abe Hummel, underworld mouthpiece; Dick Canfield, "prince of gamblers," Col. William Mann, operator of the blackmailing scandal sheet, "Town Topics"; the ice trust and others.

He failed, in two hung-jury trials, to convict "Floradora Girl" Nan Patterson of the "murder in a hansom cab" of her married paramour, and lost battles against the insurance rackets and street railway. Throughout, he ran the risk of personal disgrace because of his own clandestine love affair.

But his courage, ingenuity and honesty placed him forever among the giants of the legal battlefields.

"A CORNER OF CHICAGO" by Robert Hardy Andrews (Little, Brown & Co., $5.95) is the rollicking memoirs of a midwestern newspaperman who created the "soap opera" and many of America's famous radio serials and who helped launch the careers of literary giants such as James T. Farrell and MacKinlay Kantor.

Andrews was the 21-year-old city editor of the Minneapolis Journal when he was hired to edit a literary weekly for the Chicago Daily News. There he worked with a part-time poet named Carl Sandburg and published submissions by Farrell, Kantor and others.

Awesomely prolific, Andrews did special feature writing for The News and created and wrote seven radio shows including "Ma Perkins," "Just Plain Bill," "The Romance of Helen Trent" and "Jack Armstrong, The All-American Boy."

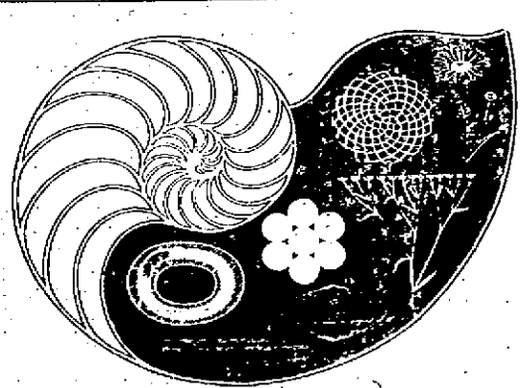

Still at the "mill" (typewriter), Andrews today writes for many of television's leading drama shows.

More than an autobiography of a wild and vivid time, his recollections of Chicago in the 1920s and '30s are an important addendum to social history.

STILL ANOTHER warning for the world to wake up before The Bomb destroys us all comes from Robert Goldston in his tense novel, "THE SHORE DIMLY SEEN" (Random House, $3.95).

A luxury yacht, crossing the Atlantic with seven passengers and a skeleton crew, broken radio and confused destination, is almost overrun by a mysterious destroyer squadron, then encounters a Polaris submarine and lifeboat of burned bodies.

The realization that rockets to end civilization may have been launched sets off dramatic events and clashes between divergent philosophies aboard the yacht. But the situation and material in Goldston's message are not new.

TALK TO ME IN ALGEBRA? This jacket design is from Frank Land's new book, "THE LANGUAGE OF MATHEMATICS," an illustrated discussion of modern mathematics (Doubleday, $4.95). The author is professor of education at the University of Hull, in England.

125 Million Miles in 11 Minutes

also available for radar experimentation at intervals of only 26 months. "Mars is much more difficult to investigate by radar than is Mercury," scientists say. "Mercury can be investigated every four months.

"We conducted the Mars experiment 12 hours a day. However, early in March the earth moved out of radar range of the red planet. At closest approach, which occurred at midnight Feb. 2, the signals required eleven and one-tenth minutes to make the 125,000,000-mile round trip."

RESPONSIBLE for conducting the experiments are Walter K. Victor, chief of communications system research section, and Robertson Stevens, chief of communications elements research section at JPL.

"The reflected signals are analyzed for strength and for the extent to which they have been distorted by Mars," Victor claims. "These clues can tell scientists something about a planet's surface material; its roughness and the rate of rotation. From first analysis it seems that Mars is a better radar reflector than the moon but not as good as Venus."

As the earth turns, Mars looms on the eastern horizon as a yellowish star and shines for about 12 hours nightly. During this time the dish-shaped radar equipment is aimed at the planet with the help of a computer driven by a punched-paper tape and a telescopic television camera. A continuous signal is sent for 11 minutes. The transmitter is then turned off, and the receiver is turned on to await the echo. This cycle is repeated as long as Mars can be seen.

While Mount Wilson telescope took these photos of Mars, Caltech scientists probed the planet with radar echoes.

THOUGH THE effect of magnifying the power of the transmitter is the equivalent of 25 billion watts, only about one watt is intercepted by Mars. Of this only a small amount is reflected from the surface. By the time that the signal returns, only about one-billionth of one-trillionth of a watt can be intercepted by the radar equipment.

"An important part of the experiment is the variations in strength of the echo," says Dr. R. Goldstein, a principal scientist in the experiment. "From this we may understand better some surface characteristics and weather conditions on Mars seen through optical telescopes."

Mars has been known to man since before the beginning of recorded history. The fourth planet from the sun, it has an average distance of 141,500,000 miles. Forty-two hundred miles in diameter, it is a little over half the diameter of the earth. Because its seasons are much like those of the earth, astronomers believe that the moderate temperature range might provide some kind of life.

MARS MAKES a complete orbit of the sun in 687 days. The earth approaches inferior conjunction with Mars every 26 months. Mars has two moons, Deimos, 12,500 miles distant, and Phobos, which is a mere 3,700 miles away.

Experiments are conducted at the Goldstone Tracking Station in the Mojave Desert. Someone has assumed that if such messages cost money like telephone calls, JPL's communications bill would likely make the national debt seem inconsequential.

Recipe of the Week

HAM and eggplant are combined in a recipe that wins $5 this week for Mrs. Frank C. Woods, 16118 Bellflower Blvd., Bellflower. The recipe:

Ham and Baked Eggplant

1 lemon
1 cup water
1 large eggplant
⅓ cup minced onion
¼ cup minced green pepper
1 egg beaten
1½ cups diced cooked ham
3 tblsps. butter
⅓ cup grated sharp cheese
½ cup buttered bread crumbs

Combine lemon juice with water. Peel eggplant, dip in lemon water and dice and dip again. Rinse in cold water. Parboil diced eggplant about 10 minutes. Saute onion, green pepper and ham in butter then add eggplant and egg. Mix well. Put mixture in well buttered 1-quart casserole. Combine cheese and buttered crumbs, sprinkle over top. Bake at 350 degree oven for 50 minutes. Serves 4.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address, to: Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

Catalina Opens Privateer Days

Catalina Island's Privateer Days open Friday, winds up Sunday with a giant treasure hunt.

CATALINA ISLAND'S first big event of 1963 will be its Privateer Days celebration scheduled Friday, Saturday and Sunday in Avalon.

The three-day weekend, jam-packed with entertainment for the entire family, will include a beauty contest to select a Privateer Days Queen of 1963, a fish fry, a dinghy and boat parade in Avalon Harbor, a Torch Light parade, and a colorful Privateer Days Ball to be held Saturday night in Avalon's Casino Ballroom.

A special event has also been set to commemorate the annual return of the Flying Fish to Catalina, and a giant treasure hunt held Sunday morning on the beach at Avalon Bay will terminate festivities.

MASTER of ceremonies for the three-day program will be radio announcer Carl Bailey, Catalina Island's "Mr. Big," whose lean 6-foot, 10-inch frame and cordial personality have made him a familiar, well-liked figure to island visitors over the years.

Theme of the Privateer Days was selected to evoke memories of early American history, when privately-owned sloops proudly flying the new Stars and Stripes were commissioned by the government to sail off-shore waters in protection of the infant republic. All those participating in the weekend celebration are expected to wear costumes typical of Revolutionary Days privateermen. Prizes will be awarded to the best costumes.

ALL OF AVALON'S comfortable hostelries are already taking reservations for the Privateer Days, and the island's restaurants, quaint shops and famed tourist attractions, including the glass-bottomed boat cruises, speedboat tours, motor trips of the island, visits to the Bird Farm, will operate in high gear.

Every type of transportation will be available to Privateer Days visitors, including air travel via Channel Airlines and Avalon Air Transport, whose planes leave from Long Beach Municipal Airport; by sea aboard the Magic Isle, a spacious excursion ship whose berth is at Navy Landing in Long Beach Harbor, and by speedboats carrying the flag of the Island Boat Service, which docks at the foot of Avalon Blvd. in Wilmington.

Additionally, hundreds of voyagers to the three-day celebration are expected to converge on the island aboard privately-owned craft. Mooring facilities are ready and Avalon's lovely crescent bay is expected to be filled with vessels of every size and description.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH DELAPLANE

"What do we do with two boys (10 and 12) with four or five days in New York City?"

PICK UP these two paperbacks at your bookstore: "New York On The House," a Doubleday publication at $1.25. Gives you all the things you can do for free in New York. (There are college plays you can see for example.)

"New York, Places and Pleasures" by Kate Simon, published by Meridian Books ($1.95). Good offbeat on walks, rides, restaurants, shops.

"Where do you buy a woman's raincoat in England—a good one. Is there a tax? How much should I pay?"

AQUASCUTUM or Burberry's, both close to Piccadilly Circus, are well-known specialty for coats. There is a purchase tax — unless you leave the country. I like London Fog—for about the same. I haven't found English rainwear superior to ours.)

"What do you think of three months in Ajijic, Mexico? We have heard there is an American colony there. . ."

I HAVEN'T stayed in the town. Looked nice. Close to Guadalajara. On Lake Chapala. But the locals I saw had a kind of beard-and-beat look. And that's what I hear from people who have been there.

You could try it—it's pretty warm in summer. Then if you don't like it, try Morelia. This is a charming Mexican town about four bus hours south. Used to be the summer capital of the Spanish viceroys. The palace, Virrey de Mendoza, is now a hotel.

The town is pretty cool. Nice plaza. An American doctor runs one of the hospitals. There's no top restaurant that I found. But on summer nights, they rope off one street off the plaza. Town women come down and cook over charcoal fires and serve you at little tables set in the street. Charcoal broiled chicken, hot tortillas and a bottle of Mexican beer with the band playing in the plaza, is hard to beat.

"When it becomes possible to make reservations for the New York World's Fair, do I pay the travel agent who makes them (hotel and airline) or does the hotel and airline pay him?"

THE AGENT gets a commission on both of these. And unless he has to do something very unusual — such as making up itineraries for side trips—there shoud be no charge to you. (However, the agent can run his business according to his own ideas.)

Figures on Stewardess Figures

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

TO TAKE high fashion 39,000 feet into the sky, Oleg Cassini has designed new uniforms for the 345 stewardesses of National Airlines.

And to help him get an idea of what sort of shape the NAL gals are in, figures were complied on their figures.

That survey of stewardess "form sheets" shows that the average stewardess is not quite as tall, perhaps, as Miss International Beauty, but she has the same kind of curves.

The average National Airlines stewardess measures 35-24-36, and stands 5-feet-five, and weighs 119.4 pounds.

That's the average. An exception is the green-eyed lovely, Joanne Humphrey, who came to Long Beach last week to show off one of the Cassini creations. Joanne says she weighs 125, shapes up 36-25-36, and is five-feet-seven.

Lovely Joanne Humphrey models National Airlines uniform.

THAT'S THE CEILING on height of the stewardesses hired by National—five-feet-seven! But there wasn't any doubt about Joanne when she was interviewed. When she looked at the interviewer with her green eyes, flashed her smile, and said she was from the South in her dainty drawl—she was in!

But to get back to the figures (interesting, aren't they?) complied for Cassini: dress size, 8; shoulders, 37 inches; ankle, 7.9 inches; thigh, 19 inches; calf, 13 inches; and shoe size, seven.

More than half (55 per cent) have brown hair—including brunette, brown, dark brown, brown frosted and light brown. A fourth—25 per cent—have blonde hair, including blonde, silver blonde, ash blonde and dark blonde. Eight per cent have black hair, 4 per cent are redheads, and 2 per cent have auburn tresses.

Or so they say.

NATIONAL, unlike some other airlines, encourages stewardesses to experiment in becoming changes of hair color.

Thirty-eight per cent of these dolls have brown eyes, 29 per cent, blue; 18 per cent, hazel; and 15 per cent are lucky ones with green eyes!

Only seven of the covey confess to the need of glasses, and four wear contact lenses. One wears glasses "for heavy duty only," and one "for diving only." (That's what she said for DIVING!")

Not that it has anything to do with the way they fill their uniforms, but the survey also turned up the fact that 28 per cent of these girls speak Spanish, many fluently. Ten per cent speak French. Six per cent are trilingual. One speaks Hungarian, German and Russian, and another speaks five languages—Hungarian, Latin, Italian and German in addition to English. One can read and write Greek.

All of which speaks pretty well for the new look of NAL, wouldn't you say?

WEEKEND WANDERERS' CLUB, a Southland travel-social group, is planning trips to San Simeon and Gilman Hot Springs in May, Catalina Island in June and San Francisco in July.

The Wanderers will go on a "mystery trip" April 26-28 "somewhere in California." Members will not know where they are going until they reach their destination.

The club has offices in San Francisco, Hollywood and Anaheim.

NOVA SCOTIA CLUB of Southern California is planning a bus tour to Nova Scotia starting June 26-27. Nova Scotians and others interested in details should write to George W. McGray, 1529 Appleton St., Long Beach.

Pets from the Wild

By Eleanor Avery Price

HAVE YOU ever wished you could get more out of your vacation? . . . really get beneath the pleasure of scenery to the actual aliveness of nature?

If so, here is a book for you, "Land Alive" by Ronald N. Rood (Stephen Greene Press, $4.50). Although the scene is rural Vermont, "Land Alive" can almost be duplicated in many western outdoor settings. The author's aim is to help you find a world you only half suspect. You may learn to hear a turtle whistle, a frog hum, or an ant squeak. Birds will mean much more to you, old tree stumps will come alive, you will be trying to snorgel-ize every stream you see looking for creatures that live there.

THE STATE of California is quite lenient about letting you take home wild animals for pets, although some are protected by law, and zoos don't want them after you tire of them. Birds should remain in their native habitats, although crows are fair game as pets, and I don't think anyone would object to you adopting a small owl. The Park Dept. would be delighted to have you take ALL porcupines, for the ambling pincushions are gnawing up our forests. Rats and mice they don't need, either. Never try to adopt a fawn. A permit is required if you take a burro from the desert.

To be on the safe side, all warm-blooded pets should come from pet shops. Wild ones may be infested with worms and parasites. If you do adopt a mouse, rabbit, racoon, or squirrel, take it to your veterinarian for a check-up. Of course, leave the porkies alone. Should your dog encounter one and be wounded, a few drops of acid vinegar should be poured on the quills every five minutes for four or five times. Then wait 15 minutes and pour any oil over the quills. The quills will almost back out by themselves. (Thanks to Popular Dogs Magazine.) If Fido meets a skunk, scrub him with a bucket of water to which one cup of ammonia has been added. Repeat until you can tolerate him.

Even-tempered screech owls and barn owls can be adopted and adapted as pets. But handle them with gloves.

IN CASE you adopt a baby owl, house it in a box or cage lined with leaves or soft material. Keep it out of drafts. Hold chopped mealworms (from your pet shop) over its head to get it to open its mouth, then drop them in. The owl needs two or three meals daily. Offer milk from a medicine dropper. As the owl grows, feed some raw meat.

The owl will want to sleep daytimes, but baby owls will awaken when hungry.

Give the adult owl an outdoor cage roomy enough for it to exercise. It won't fly far if you clip its wings. Wear gloves, as the mature bird's talons are strong.

SHOWS: Today, San Gabriel Valley Kennel Club, Recreational Park, Monrovia. Next Sunday, Santa Ana Valley Kennel Club, La Palma Park, Anaheim, and California Sierra Doberman Pinscher Club Specialty, Highway 66 and Citrus Ave., Fontana.

but not brought in."

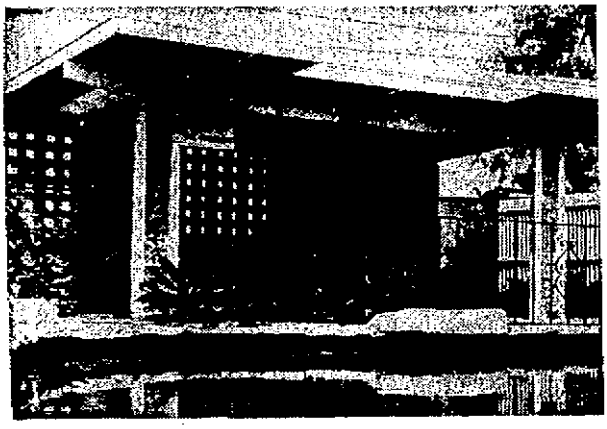

THOSE WHO are "brought in" may be held overnight in the juvenile tank, then released to their parents. Others may be freed that night, and a Juvenile Court petition filed later.

Lt. Natividad said loitering is not much of a problem in his area.

He said he and his men give many talks to parents' groups, explaining the law and enlisting support. Also, he added, school safety officers working from the Norwalk station speak to three to five classes of students daily.

The purpose is to make sure that everyone affected is aware of the applicable law, and its purposes. Authorities don't enjoy taking young people into custody, and educating them and their parents prevents misunderstandings and future trouble.

Sports Rough on Carpeting
On spring and summer weekends, when millions of indoor sportsmen anchor themselves in front of the television set to root for their favorite teams, a new threat to the life of rugs and carpets is brought about.
Television itself is not to blame as much as the inevitable refreshments and food. The drinks and food scraps which fall on the floor during the most exciting part of the games go unnoticed until it is too late.
Don't wait until the seventh inning stretch to take care of spills. They must be handled immediately.
For some of the usual spills such as alcohol, coffee, tea and soft drinks, we suggest the following remedy:
Sponge the area with lukewarm water, using clean white cloth or cleansing tissues. Repeat several times. Then mix a teaspoonful of soapless detergent with one pint of lukewarm water.
Apply the solution to the spot with an eyedropper and sponge with cloth or tissues. Blot up excess moisture. Then sponge with clean lukewarm water.
For fatty substances apply a safe dry cleaning fluid and sponge with a clean white cloth.
If the spill seems too large to handle.

Nile Lily Ready for Show

By Joe Littlefield

AGAPANTHUS, Lily of the Nile, begins bloom usually some time in May. The flower stalk topped by an umbrella-like cluster of funnel-shaped blue or white flowers, yields a striking show of blossoms in a sunny annual or perennial flower garden. The strap-like leaves add a massed green effect.

The plants respond to feeding. A cause of failure to bloom may be too much shade. In late June dig up the old clump, separate it, and set the young plants out in a sunny area. When clumps become too old the plants may not bloom.

Planted in sun and properly fed, Lily of the Nile provides an outstanding May show of blue or white bloom.

IF YOU haven't been happy with your chrysanthemums because they always grow tall and leggy, almost like vines, then here's the secret to make them grow bushy: Cut back the "mum" you want to produce lots of flowers. Cut from a foot to around eight inches above the ground. Thereafter, don't use any pruning shears on mums until they blossom and you want to cut the flowers. You don't even have to cut the flower branches. Simply snap them off where you want to. The jagged branch tear allows quicker and better water absorption into the blossoms.

After the first cutting, pinch tips out of new growth when two sets of leaves appear. Continue to pinch in this manner to within a month or so of when flower buds normally would start to form.

You'll be amazed at how bushy those plants will grow. Actually you won't have to think of staking them till the buds begin to color. If you have to stake them before then, that means you've continually used a high nitrogen fertilizer which causes leggy, soft growth. Use a balanced plant food, with less nitrogen, but more phosphoric acid.

This same feeding principle holds true with roses.

ONE TOPNOTCH rosarian also recommends the pinching method for rose canes, in a more limited application. His plan: pinch tip growth out of succulent new canes when they are about 18 inches long, forcing new branches to sprout and bear more flowers with longer stems.

In cutting flowers from established roses, count above the previous cut to third or fourth leaf or bud and remove the flower just above this point, not close enough to damage the bud, but leaving no more than a scant quarter-inch above the bud. Should the fourth bud point the wrong way for forming the rose, drop down to No. 3 bud or No. 2 if necessary.

It's a good idea to dunk indoor house plants in a tub of water to assure thorough root soaking; more important, it washes out any accumulation of alkali salts from the previous waterings.

YOU'LL HELP young annuals or perennials to grow better by top dressing the soil with manure. This keeps soil from crusting and baking.

Do not wind vine branches through fence or wire openings. This causes extra work when pruning. Tie the vine canes to the wire or support.

Thin out deciduous young fruit to help remaining fruit grow larger and better quality. Space the fruit about four inches apart.

Cut delphinium flower stalks on a downward slant and split the remainder stub. This discourages rot. Also, you'll have a secondary crop of flowers by feeding plants before they send forth much new growth.

Grow a Bit of Citrus

By John Ronson

MOST ANY Californian may grow and enjoy some of the world's finest citrus fruit right in his own back yard. And any Californian who cares about preserving a wonderful tradition should do just that, for who knows how long the big commercial orchards can withstand the threat of subdivision?

Before running out and ordering the first citrus that comes to mind, however, remember that some varieties are better adapted than others to certain areas. Southern Californians can grow most any citrus fruit they care to, if they live far enough from the coast.

The California Association of Nurserymen reminds us that edible fruit is not always the primary goal of home citrus gardening, for the trees with their crop (edible or not) have great ornamental value and are worth planting for that alone. One takes pleasure in the sight of a tubbed miniature grapefruit whether he can eat the fruit or not.

ACTUALLY the growing trend toward dwarf fruit trees in every variety has greatly extended the limits within which citrus can be grown with good chance of the fruit ripening. It is a simple matter to tuck dwarf trees in cozy pockets of warmth in the garden, where a maximum of heat is trapped to help mature the crop. You can grow a dwarf right up next to a sunny wall, for instance, where a full-size tree might well be in the way—or in a tub on the patio, where the full sized tree would be completely out of the question.

The citrus with the widest range of adaptability is the lemon, excellent crops of which can be had even in north coastal gardens. The varieties Eureka and Lisbon are standard lemons of commercial orchards and bear equally good crops in home gardens. Meyer lemon is widely adapted and bears exceptionally heavy crops—it is most commonly found in dwarf form—but it is quarantined in some counties and the gardener should always check with a local nurseryman before planting it.

LIMES ARE only slightly behind lemons in their distribution over the state. Bearss

Build a Landscape by a Plan

By Walter Finch

Beautiful roses are part of the planting of a garden, a plant that will yield interior beauty as cut flowers.

NO MAN would ever think of building a house without first having a set of plans. And by the same token, no gardener should ever consider "building" his landscape without knowing what he is doing. Yet there are gardeners by the carload who set out to do just that and the results, to say the least, are unsatisfactory.

There is the occasional natural landscaper who envisions his ultimate garden and achieves it in time without any plans. What he has done is to visualize his plan and put it down in his memory—a feat which most of us are totally incapable of doing. For better or for worse, we have to have our plan on paper.

Whether you are starting a new garden or remodeling an existing garden, take these words of caution from the California Association of Nurserymen: Plan before you plant. You'll save time, grief and money, to say nothing of gray hairs.

A plan is essential and a good plan is the best thing you can treat yourself to. The initial cost is somewhat more, but savings over thet years will more than make up for it, as noted above.

HOW DOES one go about getting the plan? Probably the best way is to seek advice from a local nurseryman about this. Some nurserymen are professional landscapers themselves and those who are not can steer you toward the right one. If you are knowledgeable in the ways of plant material and have access to some good landscape guides you can try your own hand, of course, and many suitable plans have come from such a tack.

Basically, the plan for a California garden should include the following:

First a suitable approach to the house. With new houses you can start from scratch, but with older homes you have to purge yourself of the idea that any part of the status quo must be preserved. Existing walks may seem permanent to you, but if they are poorly placed, bisecting the garden in the wrong place, then don't hesitate to rip them out and start over.

OUTDOOR living areas are the next essential, and while these are usually at the side or rear of a house, they need not be. Occasionally the outdoor living area is better placed in front and enclosed by a fence to take better advantage of exposure or shelter from prevailing wind.

Trees are an all-important factor and since they take years to reach good size, every effort should be made to preserve those already existing on the site. Occasionally, a tree is so poorly placed, however, that it blocks light or traffic and generally makes a nuisance of itself. In such cases there is nothing for it but to relegate it to the wood pile.

A good lawn is probably the most pleasurable part of a landscape, and site permitting, it should be carefully planned. Some sites slope too much to accommodate a lawn, but wherever possible, one should be included.

IN THE MATTER of plant material to fill in, around and under the patios, lawns and trees, you had best count heavily on a nurseryman's advice. Plant relationships are everything in the landscape and it is easy to place incompatible shrubs next to each other without realizing it until too late. At least, let a nurseryman check your plant selections before you start planting.

All this and more (including such niceties as garden pools, play areas for children, work areas for the amateur plantsman) should go on your plan. If you still feel competent to prepare it yourself, take pencil and paper in hand, draw your lot to scale, plot the house on it and start filling in the above essentials.

Landscaping?

One of the most handsome garden books published in many a moon—and one of the most useful—is Better Homes & Gardens "Lanscape Planning Book" (Meredith Press, $3.95).

Aimed directly at the expanding homeowner market, the new book will be in stores tomorrow to give down-to-earth assistance in creating an attractive, well-planned landscape. There are seven chapters by prominent landscape architects, and three special "Picture Portfolio" sections. Sixty-two of the 268 illustrations are in full color.

In addition, it contains regional planting lists, including the Far West, based on plant hardiness; a section giving special attention to the cultivation and care of lawns; and eight pages (16 sides) of "Pencil Cloth," a special architect's paper for use in preparing landscape plans.

Fuchsia Society

Ferns will be the topic of Alice Martin in a talk before members of North Long Beach branch, California National Fuchsia Society, at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Houghton Park Clubhouse, 6301 Myrtle Ave. Plant table and refreshments are planned. Visitors are welcome.

Tips on Gardening

Gardening tips for the week . . . Deep watering is essential for most garden plants. Certain shallow-rooted shrubs such as camellias and azaleas should not be soaked. Water more frequently, less deeply.

Spray gladiolus plants as they grow to ward off possible infestation of thrips.

Plant tuberous begonia seedlings this month. Transplant sprouted begonia tubers to pots and/or the garden when they have some three inches of top growth. Remember, the blooms face the same direction as leaves point.

Plant fuchsias this month. Pinch out the new growth to make plants bushy.

Feed your lawn once a month and it will be like the one "down the street" that you envy.

Bits of typical California are dwarf citrus trees that can find a place in almost any Southland garden and patio.

Talk on Ferns

Members of North Long Beach branch, American Begonia Society, will hear a talk on ferns by Alberta Logue at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Community Room, Community Saving and Loan Association building, 3901 Atlantic Ave. Refreshments will be served. Guests are welcome.

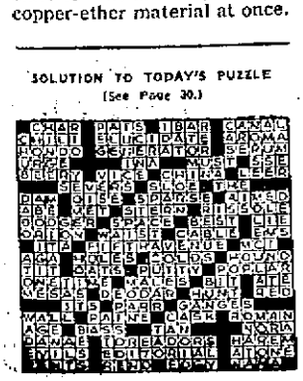

By Dorothy Jonson

April is, a busy month in your garden. Many plants can be set out this month, and if you are planning on planting zinnias or tomatoes later, when we have warm nights as well as warm days, this is a good time to start preparing the soil for them.

When you buy plants in flats for transplanting remember that the more robust looking plants are not always the best ones. The smaller, weaker seedlings are often the ones capable of bearing large, double blossoms. Nature seems to purposely hold back the early growth of these plants because they are destined to produce the most bloom and color. So don't discard the smaller plants thinking they are weaklings.

Disinfecting the soil with a copper-ether material before you set out the plants will insure their safety for quite some time against soil insects and diseases. And if plants you have previously set out start to wilt and die, use this copper-ether material at once.

SOLUTION TO TODAY'S PUZZLE
(See Page 30.)

seedless lime has the widest adaptability, but many gardeners prefer the smaller Mexican limes and where frost is not an annual threat, they can be planted. In colder areas, stick to Bearss.

Of the oranges, Washington or Robertson Navels are the standard winter cropping varieties, while Valencia is the spring-summer favorites.

Grapefruit is for the hottest areas only, unless you want the trees for decoration. The best grapefruit comes from the Imperial and Coachella valley areas and some good fruit is grown in some other parts of Southern California, it is only in rare, protected gardens of the Central Valley that grapefruit is successfully grown. In coastal areas, it is for looks only. Marsh is the most popular variety.

Mandarins and Kumquats are exotic citrus types which grow well wherever oranges do well. Kumquats, in addition to their use when eaten fresh, also make wonderful preserves, the little oblong fruits being preserved whole and served with roasts and fowl. For this reason they need not be completely ripe, thus they may well be grown in areas where oranges are marginal. No harm trying them, anyway, since they are always good to look at on the tree.

"Now our dichondra lawn is beautiful and weedfree—thanks to BONUS"®T.M.

Similar success can be yours—just read these letters

Hangs up glove. "After fighting crabgrass for 12 years, spending a small fortune on killers, sprays, 'sure-fire' cures, endless hours of weed pulling — BONUS® FOR DICHONDRA has given me almost 100% control and made my lawn a velvety weedfree carpet of green." H.S. Northridge, Calif

Well-dubbed. "My lawn was infested with a weed which, for want of a better name, I dubbed 'whisker weed'. Despaired of ever licking it. Applied BONUS in March, again in May as per directions. Happy to say weeds already 90% gone." MRS H.J.T.
(The more common name is annual bluegrass.)

Gripe. Disappointed. Put BONUS on three weeks ago. Oxalis every bit as evident — maybe even more so." H.J.S. San Diego
(Patience. As directions explain, complete control of mature weeds takes 5-6 weeks at least. If not satisfied then, money back.)

Revenge at last. "My dichondra lawn now looks so great I get misty-eyed just gazing at it! Revenge on crabgrass after all those years of bloody battle." P.O. Los Angeles

Receiving. "Just applied second application of BONUS FOR DICHONDRA. Now really getting compliments on our lawn." D.D. Long Beach

Darned disappointed. "Bought your BONUS to kill oxalis 'or money back.' Darned if we haven't got just as much." J.E.H. Sacramento
(Weed proved to be spotted spurge. No practical selective chemical method yet discovered — even by Scotts — for removing spurge or unwanted bermuda grass).

California's own magazine reports "We've seen product's effectiveness in home garden test plots in Arcadia, Pasadena, Sacramento. The manufacturer of new BONUS sought out dichondra lawns that appeared hopelessly gone to weeds and applied treatment. One or two years later, treated portions were almost 100% dichondra, where untreated portions look as bad as ever."

BONUS is easy to use

You've got so much in your favor now. BONUS not only can go right to work eliminating established weeds—oxalis, chickweed, annual bluegrass, clover — it can stop crabgrass before it starts.

While new BONUS is "weeding" your lawn, the fertilizer in it simultaneously feeds your dichondra. It greens, begins to thicken.

BONUS is odorless. Never attracts flies, fleas, gnats or vermin. Quickly, easily applied. Simply fill a Scotts Spreader with the clean granules and walk your lawn. The two-in-one job of weeding and feeding takes maybe half an hour for the typical dichondra lawn.

Actually you don't risk even a thin dime. For, as any Scotts dealer will tell you, YOU must be content with what BONUS FOR DICHONDRA does for you — or your money back.

Scotts. THE LAWN PEOPLE

This week end would be a fine time to spread BONUS

Why that extra weight may not be fat!
Pre-menstrual "water logging" can add from 2 to 7 pounds to your weight. If every month your weight goes up, you feel stuffy and bloated, you are most likely suffering from pre-menstrual water logging. Your body takes on extra water that puts pressure on delicate tissues causing headaches and nervous irritability. That's when the new medical discovery Pamprin helps your body to adjust to your period by gently relieving it of extra water and weight. It also relieves headaches and cramps during your period. Pamprin contains no hormones, narcotics or harmful sedatives. It is a combination of medically proved ingredients that have helped thousands of women get wonderfully effective relief. Get Pamprin at your druggist!

To every woman who uses vinegar for that certain "intimate" problem...
For the fastidious woman, science offers a special formula for personal feminine hygiene. Instead of vinegar (acetic acid) or harsh germicides, modern women suggest a new powder expressly for douching. It's called V.A. Powder—gentle, effective, pleasantly scented...and wonderful to use.
When mixed with water, each V.A. Packette makes exactly the right strength of a soothing, refreshing douche. It gently soothes, cleanses delicate tissues—can leave you poised, confident, sure.
Instead of old-fashioned vinegar or germicides, try new pleasantly-scented V.A. Powder. Available at all drug counters in convenient "packettes"—each one pre-measured to take the doubt out of feminine hygiene.

Ramona

among the Indians and they are happy and prosperous. An Indian fiesta is held in honor of the christening of their baby girl.

ACT III opens with the invading Spanish, dispossessing them of their land and driving them from their home.

With the help of Aunt Ri, Ramona and Alessandro find peace and comfort again. But tragedy strikes swiftly as their child falls ill and dies. Grief over his child and fear for his wife's safety unhinge the mind of Alessandro, and he leads her away into the far recesses of the mountains.

Living in poverty, Ramona is constantly in dread that her husband will get into trouble with the white man. One day her fears come true, because he has taken another man's horse by mistake during a period of mental illness. Alessandro is shot down without warning.

Meanwhile, back at the rancho, the senora has died. Felipe and the entire household gather in front of the old home, ready to leave for Mexico. The young Spaniard, always secretly in love with Ramona, speaks sorrowfully of the tragedy which has befallen her. He then announces the good news that she has at last been persuaded to meet them on the trail and accompany them to their new home in Mexico, where everything will be done to bring her happiness.

IN THE FINAL scenes, Felipe leads his people away from the rancho, as they go they sing a song of farewell, and the aging Juan Canito, with a sad and heavy heart, looks for all time the great doors of the old ranch house.

For this 36th annual presentation, the Ramona Pageant Association has engaged lovely 19-year-old Marsha Moode, a straight "A" drama major student of USC, for the role of Ramona. This marks her first appearance in the play. Her leading man, Maurice Jara, is a veteran of 13 years in the role of Alessandro. The part of Juan Canito is played by Watson Gilmore Jr., a deputy sheriff of Riverside County. He has played this role for several years, and enjoys getting into the make-up of elderly Juan, playing a character part with a flair for comedy. The role of Senora Moreno is also played by a veteran of the production, Franchon Jennings. Felipe, this year, is played for the first time by Bill Rose.

ROSE BASS
Happy 8th Anniversary

WHEN JACK and Rose Bass celebrate an anniversary, they want everybody to join in the fun and good fellowship.

So that's why there'll be special treats for the diners this Wednesday evening at their superb restaurant, Jack's Corsican Room, 5430 E. Second St., Naples. Jack and Rose will mark their eighth anniversary as owners of the Corsican by including marvelous Emerald Dry wine with all dinners. The guests will also receive slices from a large anniversary cake topped with tall red candles.

Actually, every evening is a fun evening at Jack's. Rose, recently returned from a three-week visit with relatives in Baltimore, is a unique hostess with the knack of making everyone feel comfortable and appreciated. Jack is an equally personable host—but he's also much more. His knowledge of cooking is what really makes the Corsican Room hum, the guests praising his cuisine again and again as they return for more and more.

Serving dinners daily and Sunday from 4 p.m. on, the Corsican features extraordinary prime rib au jus, charcoal-broiled steaks, Australian lobster tails and numerous delectable continental dishes. All are served with superior soup, large salad, baked potato, beverage and dessert. The prime rib ($4) is so good that people constantly go out of their way to thank Jack and Rose for keeping its quality consistently high. The continental dishes (from $2.75) are magnificent originals, such as chicken cooked in wine, chicken cacciatore, stuffed cabbage rolls, beef goulash, beef burgundy, shrimp in cheddar sauce and veal scaloppine Marsala.

The Corsican Room is closed Mondays.

BERT'S EYE VIEW

TV Experiment Pays Off for Quizmaster

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

The heat from the TV lights was about 145 degrees and the small, baking room made Dennis James feel like the chicken centerpiece in a hot oven.

It was 1938 and television was in the experimental form. James was a $50-per-week part of that experiment.

"I spent more than that $50 lunching people who appeared on my variety show," he said.

"My friends said I was crazy.

"But looking back, I know it was the best $50 I ever got in my life."

His salary has changed somewhat from that period. James' annual income currently is in the six-figure column—and not far from the seventh.

He hosts the daily "Beat the Odds" show on KTLA (channel 5), is a panelist on NBC-TV's (channel 4) "Your First Impression" and makes several daily radio appearances.

Excepting a three-year stint in the Army, he hasn't been off the air for a week.

JAMES WAS a radio disc jockey in 1938 when he agreed to participate in Dr. Allen B. DuMont's first experimental TV station in New York.

About 300 people had TV receivers at that time.

As a result of that pioneer TV participation, James has almost 300 "firsts" to his credit. Among them:

First TV game-show host, quiz-show, variety show with guest stars, sportscaster, commercial announcer, director, producer, program packager, remote telecaster and first network television star.

In 1948, when he was competing with comedian Milton Berle for the honor, James won the first Critics Circle Award as the most outstanding personality.

One of the main reasons he was chosen was for his "outstanding" performance as a wrestling announcer.

"I WOULD call the whole match in poetry," said James. "For example:

"They're out of the ring,
"But they'll be back.
"And when they do,
"Two heads will crack."

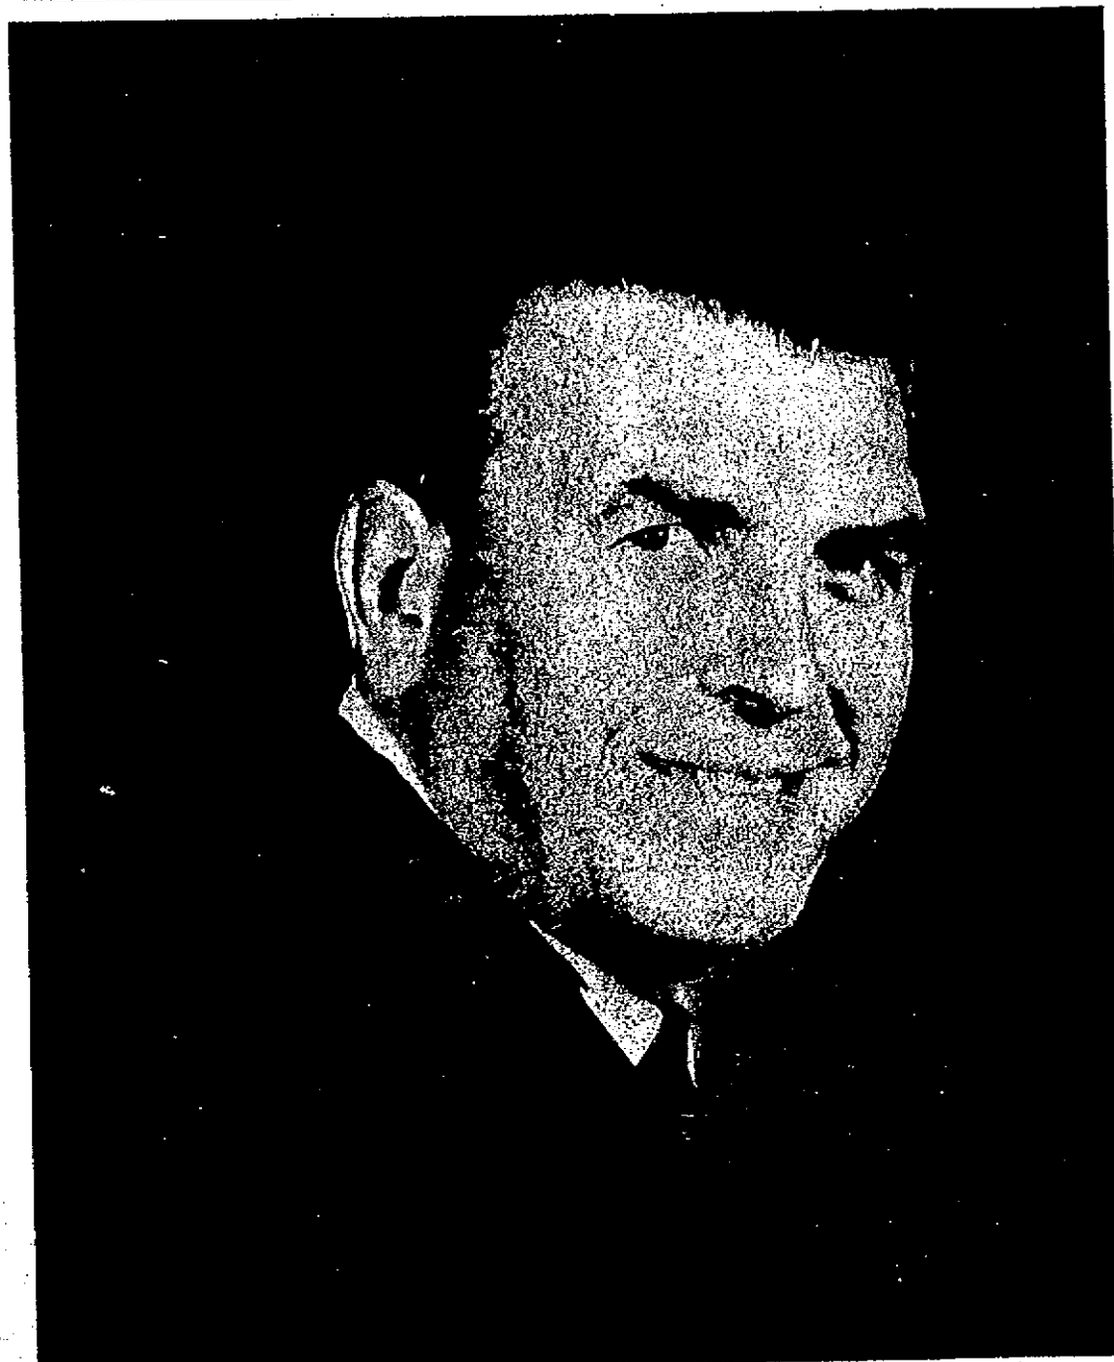

Game shows—not wrestling—are still James' first TV love.

"Financially, they've put him in a position where he makes much more than a dramatic star unless I was a Cary Grant." It has enabled him to take dramatic roles "for kicks."

James enjoys the "spontaneity" of being on a quiz show.

He gets a "great measure of satisfaction" when a contestant loosens up

Repeats $, Repeats $, Repeats $

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

R-E-S-I-D-U-A-L-S spell M-O-N-E-Y.

To repeat it another way, reruns mean re-payments for any television actor who might merely exclaim "Ow!" during the course of a gang-busting video shoot-out.

If it took five days to get that "ow" down on tape, the actor with the one-word speaking role has received a minimum of $350 for his monosyllabic verbal pain.

And it is an "ow" that can possibly turn into wow, wow, wow, wow, wow."

The one-worded actor, after the original "ow" has aired, is eligible for percentage payments—residuals—five more times.

The percentage, starting with 35 per cent of his original salary for the first repeat, can add up to 140 per cent. And 140 per cent of "ow" is $490.

Supposing the actor has more than one word in his vocabulary. Supposing he's the third lead in a 29-sequence series and earns a minimum salary of $500 per five-day week.

Mr. Third lead has the same 140 per cent residual eligibility and for each repeat of all of the 29 sequences.

* * * *

SOUND lucrative?

Maybe, but it's just pennies compared to the dollars up for grab in making TV commercials.

The TV entertainment actor's residuals end when a program has been aired six times—and very few hit the tube that often.

The actor in a TV commercial, even if he's only an off-stage voice, gets a percentage payment every time the blurb is aired ad infinitum ad nauseum.

To illustrate, a relatively unknown model about a year back filmed a couple of brief shampoo commercials.

MARY MARTIN
$25,000 a Re-Run

DENNIS WEAVER
Worth a Million

The model is still relatively unknown—but not to her banker. So far she has deposited $30,000.

The amount of payment for repeating a commercial varies with whether it's done on a program basis or a spot announcement or done nationally or regionally.

But no matter how it's done or where it's done, for every single time it hits the air, there is a residual payment made to the participating actor—or shampooer.

* * * *

IN ADDITION there is a great demand for "special" or "trick" voices in the making of commercials. The possessor of one of these voices can negotiate for a higher initial fee and subsequently higher returns.

"Special" voices can bring fees ranging from $30,000 to $200,000.

Herschel Bernardi, who formerly played the detective lieutenant in the "Peter Gunn" series, is an example of a special voice.

Maybe there's no outward resemblance to "Charley the Tuna," but Herschel and Charley are one and the same.

"That Little Old Winemaker" is the voice of Jim Backus who also is Mr. Magoo and played the husband in the "I Married Joan" series.

Both probably could spend all their acting time making TV commercials. There's no doubt they would earn more money.

But both prefer entertainment acting to the "more money" and they're typical, in that respect, to most video actors.

Most entertainment video actors, if they had the choice, would prefer higher salaries without residuals.

* * * *

FOR WHILE residuals may spell "money," it's only sometimes. Residual rights are worthless if a program is never repeated.

Bigger-name actors sometimes have the choice.

Earl Holliman, for example, currently is starring in "Wide Country." He has no residual rights, but he does receive a salary of approximately $5,000 a week.

He earned considerably less than half that sum when he starred in the defunct "Cafe de Paris" series. The series flopped and there was no great demand to repeat it—and subsequently, few residual payments.

With the "Paris" flop experience in mind, Holliman nixed residual rights and contracted for the larger outright salary, instead.

It's an industry fact that there is an 80 per cent "death rate" for TV series in their first year.

And you can't pay the milkman with residual rights when they don't spell repeat money.

* * * *

SHIRLEY "Hazel" Booth gave up her residual rights. Instead, she took a 25 per cent partnership interest with Screen Gems in her highly rated show.

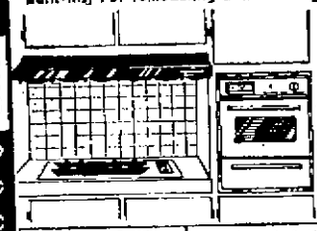

Mary Martin has a deal where she gets $25,000 every time "Peter Pan" is annually repeated.

To pacify Dennis "Chester" Weaver of "Gunsmoke," his residual rights to the half-hour segments were purchased at an estimated million dollars, payments to be spread over a 10-year period.

He doesn't anticipate any difficulty paying his milkman.

Sports Today

BASEBALL, 9:45 a.m., ch. 8 (San Diego), as the Cardinals and Phillies meet again at Connie Mack Stadium.

BASEBALL, 11 a.m., ch. 10 (San Diego), with the Redlegs and Pirates at Pitsburgh's Forbes Field.

NBA FINALS, 5 p.m., ch. 9, as the Lakers meet the Celtics in their fifth game in best-of-7 series, at Boston Gardens.

Lakewood Parade

Lakewood's 17th annual Pan American Festival Parade will be aired for 90 minutes today (Sunday) on channel 11 starting at 6 p.m. The four-division parade, including 17 bands, was scheduled to be taped earlier this afternoon for the evening telecast.

SPECIAL

THE VATICAN—Last week's color tour of the Holy See and the people who make it work, from choir boy, firemen and postman to His Holiness Pope John XXIII, is repeated at 12:30 p.m., ch. 7, as West Coast viewers get make-up for last week's interruption by phone company switching error.

FOR WHICH WE STAND—The 2-part presentation of the 6,000-mi. field trip of 12 L.A. 6th graders to Washington last April, which won for KNXT the 1962 Freedoms Foundation award, is rebroadcast at 3 p.m., today and next Sunday, on ch. 2. Art Linkletter is host-narrator, with Tex Ritter reciting the American Creed and the Pledge of Allegiance during opening and closing credits. The youngsters visit historic landmarks, talk with Vice President Johnson and Congressional leaders.

PAN-AMERICAN PARADE—The 5-division parade climaxing Lakewood's 17th annual festival festivities gets a 90-min. screening at 6 p.m., ch. 11. Bill Welsh will describe the bands, drill teams, floats, equestrian units, military units and Latin-American dignitaries taking part.

AMERICAN LANDMARK: Lexington-Concord—Fredric March is off-camera narrator for a color chronicle of a routine garrison mission by British troops that touched off the American Revolution. Original musical score by Jacques Belasco symbolizes the action as no living person appears, but the camera seems to participate in the events at the Old North Church, Boston Common, Ephrian Hartwell's Tavern and other historical sites, during the 8:30 p.m., ch. 4, special.

SHOW OF WEEK—Intimate documentary, filmed in the Boston area, tells the dramatic, real-life story of the intense personal relationship between a parole officer and a young paroled convict, at 10 p.m., ch. 4. Filmed as it actually happened, Joseph McCormick, field parole officer for the Massachusetts Parole Board, tries to convince one of the 85 parolees in his jurisdiction to trust another person, and get help from this source. Actor Waller Matthau is narrator.

Television Movie Tips

SUNDAY

THE SNAKE PIT—9 a.m., ch. 11. Olivia DeHavilland, Celeste Holm, Mark Stevens (1949). Brutal adaptation of the best selling book about life in an overcrowded mental hospital.
best selling book about life in an overcrowded mental hospital.

A WOMAN'S VENGEANCE 11 a.m., ch. 4. Charles Boyer, Ann Blythe, Jessica Tandy (1948). Absorbing drama by Aldous Huxley of married man having an affair with a younger woman who is placed on trial when his wife is found to have been poisoned.

ARMORED COMMAND — 7:30 p.m., ch. 9. Howard Keel, Tina Louise, Jack Carson, Keenan Wynn, Earl Holliman, Marty Ingels (1961). First run. Seemingly shy and innocent German girl is left wounded by the Nazis to infiltrate the American lines and gain Allied friendship.

THE HOODLUM PRIEST—8 p.m., ch. 7. Don Murray, Larry Gates, Keir Dullea (1961). Jesuit priest devotes his life to the rehabilitation of ex-convicts. With this film, ABC movies begin summer-long repeats.

MONDAY

BARBARIAN & THE GEISHA—7:30 p.m., in color, ch. 4. John Wayne, Eiko Ando, So Yamamura, Sam Jaffe (1958). First run. First accredited U.S. diplomatic representative to Japan arrives in the port city of Shimoda (1856), but is ordered to leave by the local governor. John Huston directed

JANET LEIGH witnesses a murder during the 1954 movie "Rogue Cop" on channel 11 at 8 p.m. Friday.

MR. DEEDS GOES TO TOWN—11:30 p.m., ch. 2. Gary Cooper, Jean Arthur (1936). Frank Capra's comedy masterpiece about a country boy who inherits $20,000,000 and runs up against some New York con artists.

SATURDAY

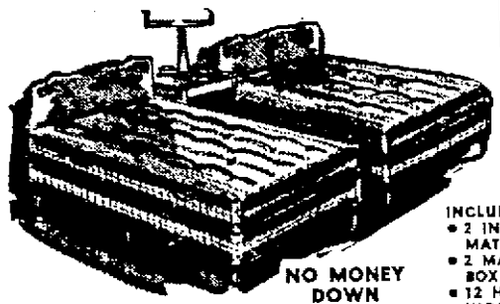

THREE COINS IN THE FOUNTAIN—9 p.m., in color, ch. 4. Clifton Webb, Dorothy McGuire, Louis Jourdan, Jean Peters, Rossano Brazzi, Maggie McNamara (1954). Two-Oscar-winning film about three young American secretaries who lose their hearts while working in Rome.

EARL OF CHICAGO — 10 p.m., ch. 11. Robert Montgomery, Edward Arnold (1939). Plenty of fun in this story of a Chicago beer baron who becomes an English lord

COME FILL THE CUP — 11:10 a.m., ch. 9. James Cagney, Raymond Massey, Phyllis Thaxter, James Gleason, Gig Young, Sheldon Leonard (1951). Cagney is excellent as an alcoholic ex-newspaper reporter

SPECIAL

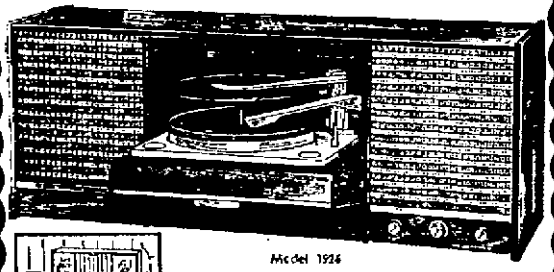

DAVID BRINKLEY—A visit to Brighton, Great Britain's counterpart of Atlantic City, and a feature on foreign television commercials are topics for the color "Journal," at 10 p.m., ch. 4. Latter include commercials for Italian motor scooters (with all sounds made by a man who does sound effects with his mouth), British gasoline and French girdles. Brinkley says the controlling undergarment is treated with neither "circumspection" nor "hesitancy."

GREAT CONVERSATIONS—Host Robert M. Hutchins discusses "education in a democracy" with guest Franklin Murphy, chancellor of UCLA, at 10:30 p.m., in color, ch. 4. The two discuss controls and equality of opportunity.

Sports Today

BOXING from Hollywood, 8:30 p.m., ch. 13, with bantamweights Eddie Santos vs. Manny Liston.

SPECIAL

CHET HUNTLEY — "Little Moscow," a study in miniature of Communism's strength in Italy, is telecast at 10:30 p.m., ch. 4. Film report by Irving R. Levine focuses on Genazzano, 30 miles from Rome and heavily Catholic, a community which consistently elects a Communist mayor and council.

CLOSE-UP!—"Portrait of a Country Editor" pays tribute to the thousands of newspapers which serve the rural communities of America, at 10:30 p.m., ch. 7. Revealing picture of grass-roots journalism focuses on the tiny town of Calhoun, Ky., home of the McLean County News, and its editor-publisher Landon Wills.

Instruct Quiz Show Contestants

"and comes to life" on one of his programs.

James admits that some "loosening up" efforts are made with contestants before the show airs.

"Even the Barrymores had directors," he said. "So why not give a contestant some instructions so he won't be flat.

"There is no harm in telling a person to show animation."

* * * *

THE INSTRUCTIONS do not include answers to a quiz.

However, prospective contestants are tested in advance of being accepted.

"Who in the world knows the answer to everything?" rhetorically asked James. "A certain man is an expert in a certain field. We must find out where the knowledge of our contestant is above average.

"If not, you could ask five people a two-letter word beginning with 'a' and ending with 't' and four would fail to answer."

SUZANNE STORRS falls in love with "Maverick" at 9 p.m. today (Sunday) on channel 9.

OVER HALF A CENTURY

It's a real honor for an automobile man to be on the staff at Glenn E. Thomas Co. The highest standards must be met by any salesman selected to represent this firm, with its 55-year history of integrity and fair dealings. And this year Thomas has increased its margin of leadership . . . thanks partly to the tremendous sales success of the 1963 Dodge/Dart, priced at Thomas as low as $2105 . . . and carrying the industry's first 5-Year/50,000-Mile Warranty! I look forward to demonstrating this great car for you soon.

★ SPECIAL

TODAY — Buster Keaton, now 68, is special guest as the entire two-hour 7 a.m., ch. 4, show is devoted to his career. "Today" regulars will be dressed in typical Hollywood outfits of early movie days, and a special outdoor set will boast movie cameras, open cars and other props of 1911. Keaton will tell how his "little man" differed from Chaplin's "little tramp," and join in viewing some of his silent films, including the first one he made, "The Butcher Boy" (1917), with Fatty Arbuckle.

LAS FLORISTAS — The annual Floral Headdress Ball, observing its silver anniversary, gets its first local color-cast (other years have been B&W) when it is shown at 8:30 p.m., ch. 4, live from the International Ballroom of the BevHilton. Tom Frandsen and Mona Freeman will describe the gowns and floral headdresses worn by the 12 mannequins. Proceeds from the charity ball go to a pre-school clinic on the campus of USC.

Pan and Fan Mail

I am writing in defense of TV ratings—to at least some extent.

The ratings have knocked out "Combat" and, after viewing a recent program, I concur.

Imagine writing a script in which a battle-line American sergeant dances with a French girl, who is mentally unbalanced, in the middle of a German mortar barrage.

To picture our fighting men as being that disgustingly stupid prompted me to protest also to the American Legion.

John C. Bladen, Long Beach

Perhaps the sergeant only excelled at dancing and was afraid of being mortarfied elsewhere.

* * * *

I am very unhappy about the TV timing of the Wednesday night shows.

The three best shows of the entire week come on at 10 p. m., "The 11th Hour," "The U. S. Steel Hour" and "Naked City."

I hate to miss any of them and I can only see one.

Please, can't the timing be changed?

Mrs. Mary L. Edwards, Lakewood

You'll have no problem next season, Mrs. Edwards. "Naked City" and "U.S. Steel Hour" won't be back.

Q. I would like to know if the present Pope, John XXIII, was ever accused by the Vatican of holding heretical views. If so, when?—K.T., Scranton, Pa.

A. The Pope was never accused. Back at the turn of the century when he was Mgr. Angelo Roncalli, secretary to the Bishop of Bergamo, a radical friend of his and fellow priest, Ernesto Buonaiuti, was defrocked by the Holy Office. It was then thought that Mgr. Roncalli might have been "contaminated" by his friend, and the Bishop of Bergamo was asked to keep an eye on him. The Pope is fond of telling this story, frequently in a humorous vein, to groups of visiting young priests.

Q. Is it true that Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain has the world's greatest art collection?—H. Knudsen, Ann Arbor, Mich.

A. Certainly one of the greatest, much of which will be reproduced in a book to be published shortly, The Queen and the Arts.

Q. What is Edmund Purdom doing now that Linda Christian is playing the field?—Judy Knowles, Ft. Worth, Texas.

A. Purdom has been dating Sara Leighton, 26, a portrait painter in London.

Q. How tall is Bobby Kennedy? I understand he wears lifts in his shoes so that he can be taller than she?—J.T., Salem, Mass.

A. Robert Kennedy is 5 feet 10, does not wear lifts in his shoes.

Q. Is it true that Nasser's United Arab Republic stands ready to finance all anti-Semitic organizations? — R.T.P., St. Paul, Minn.

A. No, although many such organizations do contact the UAR for financial help. For example, John Tyndall, leader of the British Nazi movement, asked the UAR for $45,000, but Nasser refused to have anything to do with him.

Q. I've been told frequently that English knighthoods and peerages are for sale. Please comment.—G.L., Durham, N.C.

A. Formerly, but no longer. During the reign of King George V and the premiership of Lloyd George, a knighthood cost $50,000, a baronetcy $150,000, a peerage $250,000 and up.

Q. Who performed the plastic surgery on Ingrid Bergman? — Jane Smart, Seattle, Wash.

A. Miss Bergman has never had plastic surgery performed.

Q. For 30 years Jack Benny has used two jokes: his age, supposedly 39, and his stinginess. When will he take a new tack?—Charles David, Newark, N.J.

A. Benny, 69, believes in leaving well enough alone.

Q. Are Louella Parsons and Jimmy McHugh married? Also, which McHugh was married to Eddie Cantor's daughter?—Dorothy Bishop, Boston, Mass.

A. Songwriter Jimmy McHugh and columnist Louella Parsons are not married. It was Mr. McHugh's son who was once married to Eddie Cantor's daughter.

Q. Is it true that Garry Moore earns $45,000 per week?—T. Young, Rye, N.Y.

A. Yes, Moore is the highest-paid performer on TV and radio.

Q. Will Defense Secretary McNamara reveal how many servicemen we have in Vietnam and how much it is costing us there?—Frank Haggen, Las Vegas, Nev.

A. We have 12,000 servicemen in Vietnam. It costs us $200,000,000 to support them. In addition we are spending $400,000,000 a year to support the bankrupt Ngo Dinh Diem government.

Q. I have read that a campaign is under way in Greece to discredit the monarchy. Is this correct?—Fred Sikouris, Los Angeles, Calif.

A. King Paul and Queen Frederika have become quite unpopular in Athens for several reasons: (1) the Queen is considered the power behind the Greek throne; (2) she is German-born; (3) she is accused of meddling in politics; (4) it was she who insisted on payment from public funds of a $300,000 dowry to Don Juan Carlos of Spain when he married her daughter, Princess Sophia; (5) the Queen is estranged from her mother, who continues publicly to criticize her.

Q. Princess Soraya has been signed to a film contract in Italy. Can she act? Does she have any acting experience? —Robert Neville, Tulsa, Okla.

A. Soraya has had no professional acting experience, but such experience is no prerequisite for film work.

Q. Did President Kennedy and Adlai Stevenson attend the same school?—F.P., Pelham, N.Y.

A. At different times each attended Choate, a preparatory school in Wallingford, Conn.

TEENAGERS: WHY THEY DRIVE THAT WAY

by LLOYD SHEARER

THE MOST DANGEROUS PEOPLE in America today are male teenagers.

Here are some figures released by the FBI which are guaranteed to curl your hair and shatter the most sophisticated composure:

Teenagers in the 15-19 age bracket comprise 7.4 per cent of the U.S. population. Yet in 1961 the group under the age of 18 was involved in 59 per cent of the auto thefts, 48 per cent of the larcenies, 17 per cent of the forcible rapes, 12 per cent of the aggravated assaults and 8 per cent of the murders. Nice kids!

The year 1962 closed with a 7 per cent national increase in serious crime and an almost correlative increase in teenage involvement. The FBI estimates, for example, that last year our teenagers committed 65 per cent of the nation's 348,000 auto thefts.

Teenagers are most dangerous to themselves and to the public as automobile drivers.

Approximately 38,000 persons in this country are killed annually in car accidents. Insurance companies point out that the under-20 driver, totaling less than 8 per cent of all drivers, is involved in more than 11 per cent of these fatalities and 14 per cent of all motor vehicle smashups.

The teenage driver has an accident involvement rate 2½ times the average rate of adult drivers. Two out of every five teenagers are involved in traffic accidents, and each year it's a different two out of five. Collision and liability insurance premiums for male teenagers cost two to three times more than what their parents pay.

Behind the Wheel

What happens to the average teenager when he enters an automobile and gets behind the wheel? Does he suddenly become power-drunk? Does he lose his sense of reality? Does he regard the auto as an escape mechanism, a sublimation device designed to release him from care, worry, duty and responsibility?

Take three recent cases from the files of insurance companies. In Los Angeles an 18-year-old driver, a senior in high school with good grades, a boy from a respectable family, ran a red light, hit an elderly man and his wife in a pedestrian crosswalk. He killed the man, sent the wife to the hospital with irreparable brain damage.

When asked why he was speeding and hadn't swerved to avoid the couple, the 18-year-old said: "I just don't know. I was so damn mad at my girl friend for dating someone else... I got into my car that night and felt I just had to take it out on someone."

In Kentucky one dark night last year a tan convertible sped along the highway west from Lexington. It careened madly around curves, raced along at 80 miles an hour. Trying to pass a slow-moving truck uphill, it sideswiped one car, forced another coming in the opposite direction off the road. Caught by police, the 17-year-old driver was asked to explain his speeding. "To tell you the truth," he confessed, "I had just washed my car down and wanted to dry it off in the night air."

Battered high school senior waits to be removed from car after accident in which 3 were killed, 6 others injured.

In Plattsburg, N.Y., a few weeks ago, two teenagers, Ed Fontaine, 18, of Laconia, N.H., and Joe MacKay, 17, of New York City, killed an auto salesman so they could joyride in a white convertible he was selling.

Parents comfort themselves by thinking that the foregoing cases are not typical, that only a relative handful of hot-rodders get involved in serious accidents. It's not true. Each year 3,000,000 teenagers reach driving age—we now have 13,000,000 of such age in this country—and each year their record gets worse. J. Edgar Hoover says that if something isn't done to prevent teenagers from stealing cars, "some 96,000 youths will be arrested for auto thefts in 1970." Auto insurers say that if teenagers don't drive more carefully, the insurance rates on them will eventually become so astronomical as to price them out of driving until they reach age 25.

Highway commissions, insurance companies, police departments can provide the traffic researcher with the most detailed casualty data: (1) Saturday is the most dangerous driving day; (2) most car accidents occur between the hours of 4 and 8 P.M.; (3) almost 85 per cent of accidents causing death and injury result from excessive speed, driving on the wrong side of the road and failure to yield the right of way; (4) the majority of vehicles involved in accidents are in good condition.

But what these sources cannot detail is the psychology of the driver, particularly the teenage driver, who apparently has more psychological problems, more faulty personality traits, more incorrect attitudes than people in any other age bracket.

The crux of the matter is that to the average teenager a car is more than a means of transportation. It is a status symbol, a love nest, a bar, a meeting place, a device through which he can project hostility and aggression.

Period of Adjustment

Adolescence is a period of insecurity, inferiority, awkwardness, doubt, uncertainty and social adjustment—all of which are challenging and disturbing.

To the insecure teenager the practice of showing off to impress people is psychologically important. One device he prefers is the automobile.

A 16-year-old who killed his girl friend in an auto crash told the following story to an insurance adjuster: "I asked Ellen to go to the show with me on Saturday night. One of those foreign French pictures was playing, something about a piano player. The fellas who'd seen it said it was tough. Ellen said the movie was 'for adults only' and not to mention the name of the picture to her folks, and besides, she was sure they wouldn't let us in.

"I told her to leave it to me. I honestly thought I could talk our way in. I look older than I am, I'm more than 6-feet-1, and she's 15, but she looks older, too. And I've talked my way in before, so I told her not to worry.

"Anyway, I picked her up at her house and we drove over to the show, and the cashier wouldn't sell me any tickets. She asked to see my driver's license or some other proof of age. And I told her I didn't have any proof, and she said I'd have to talk to the manager. And all the time Ellen was pulling on my sleeve, saying, 'Let's go, Tom. Let's go. We'll see some other show.' But I wouldn't give up, and I tried to bluff it through with the manager. But no soap. So we got back into the car. And I was feeling awful. I mean awful. And then Ellen said something about not being able to fool all the people all the time, and it just got me so goddam mad.

"I mean she made me feel so small that I started to take the corners on two wheels. It frightened her, and I don't honestly know whether I was doing it to punish her or to compensate or to show off. I guess it was a combination of all three. But I was getting madder all the time, and out at Manchester I just yanked the wheel and took the corner on one wheel.

After classes many students at this Nassau County (N.Y.) high school pick up cars at school lot. Despite strict education and control methods, U.S. teenage accident rate soars.

The car plowed off, and I could see that pole—and then I heard her scream. After that I woke up here in the hospital."

The boy to whom this happened was supposedly a level-headed honor student. He had completed his driver education course in a California junior high with a top rating. In the eight months he'd had his driver's license, he had received no tickets. He knows a good deal about the mechanics of a car. His reflexes and reaction time are excellent. Wherein did he fail, and wherein did society fail him?

"You know," he now sadly says, "they taught me everything in school about driving except the most important thing—never drive when you're angry."

Dr. Paul Landis, sociology professor at Washington State and the author of many books on young people, has collected more than a thousand autobiographies of teenagers. According to these youngsters their number-one problem is "inferiority feelings" and the various ways in which they try to compensate for these feelings.

A Car of His Own

What the typical 16-year-old boy in this country wants most is a car of his own. To him this represents, among other things, the status of independence. Given a car of his own, he feels he no longer has to depend on his parents. He is truly on the road to manhood. Behind the wheel, he occupies a position of true equality. He is just as good as his parents, his teachers, all his elders.

Listen to this 16-year-old Texan who ran down a little Mexican girl and crippled her for life:

"My folks are separated, and my mom works and so do I, so I don't see her very much. When I do, we don't get along so well. She says I spend everything I make riding around in my old jalopy. I don't get on too well in school, either. The teachers are always bawlin' me out 'cause I don't do my homework. But I don't have the time. I'm also shy, and I don't talk so well. I guess I've got a vocabulary problem. Just can't seem to find the right words.

"That's why I don't get on so well with the girls. I just can't shoot 'em a line the way other guys do. But I'll tell you one thing, man. When I'm in that souped-up jalopy of mine, I'm just as good as my mom. I'm just as good as those teachers. And those girls, when I scoot up and burn rubber, they stop and stare. I get some attention with my jalopy. About that Gonzales kid—it wasn't my fault. She came running out after her doll. Her kid brother threw it in the street. I jammed my brakes, but that rubber wouldn't hold."

'They Thought I Was Chicken'

A teenager in Westchester County, N.Y., tried to explain to his parents why he'd been racing at 85 miles an hour on the Merritt Parkway when the state troopers caught up with him.

"I didn't want to go that fast," he declared. "But Larry and Frank were with me, and they asked what was the fastest I'd ever gone. I was only doing 50 at the time, and I could just feel that they thought I was chicken. They never said anything, but I could sense it. And then when I hit 60 and 70 they were all smiling, and I felt admired and exhilarated, so I just pressed down on the accelerator and got it up to 80, then 85. Then it started to quiver, I mean the whole engine, and I ran off the soft shoulder."

Today's American teenager feels he must have a car, or else, as he pithily puts it, "I just don't belong." As the new symbol of conformity, the automobile has affected the teenager's scholastic ability: the high school student who uses his car the most usually ends up with the worst grades. It has affected his sex life and his drinking habits. "Today," says Juvenile Officer Robert Burke, "teenagers drink more alcohol than ever before because they've got more money and more cars." But these problems are subsidiary to the major one of preserving life and limb.

How do we go about turning our teenagers into better drivers? Tougher law enforcement, stricter parental control, padded instrument panels, speed governors, seat belts, stricter licensing requirements, stiffer penalities for violation, drag strips for racers—"so they can get the speed out of their system"—required courses in driver education—all of these remedies have been recommended and many tried. But still the accident rate among youthful drivers is more than twice as high as the average adult rate, and still the severity of their accidents is much greater, and still, according to a poll conducted by Allstate Insurance with 30 high schools in the U.S. and Canada "most of the youngsters—not just a few—are involved in accidents."

Is there any answer, any solution? Possibly this: every teenager should be taught that behind 80 to 90 per cent of all car accidents lies a fault in the driver's personality traits or attitude. Teenagers must be taught about themselves, so that they will understand their strengths and weaknesses, their problems and predicaments.

Not a Crutch

Driver education must go far beyond teaching the mere mechanical operation of a car. Teachers who give such courses, and these courses should be mandatory in all 50 states, must be qualified to explain the teenager to himself so that he does not use his car as a psychological crutch. To conquer his bad driving record, the teenager must first learn what he has to control and conquer in himself. Inferiority feelings, daydreaming, sex problems, independence, understanding parents—these are all parts of driver education which have been neglected by parents and educators.

The result: death and disaster on the highways. Unless these decrease, there may be no alternative but to raise the basic licensing age from 16 to 18—perhaps even to 21. ■

Pierre Salinger

The cigar-smoking press secretary has the second-toughest job in the White House

by JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON, D.C.

PRESIDENTIAL PRESS SECRETARY Pierre Salinger, a roly-poly fellow with a quick grin and pointed ears, appears like a misplaced, slightly mischievous pixy among the intense young men of the New Frontier. He is as easygoing as they are hard-driving. He has a haphazard disdain for the details they cram in their heads. He not only bubbles with good humor, but allows himself to be the butt of much of it.

Hitchcock Silhouette

A true member of the Kennedy cult is lean and athletic. But poor Pierre has an Alfred Hitchcock silhouette, often seems short of breath. He puffs constantly on a cigar, enveloping the prophets of physical fitness in clouds of smoke. Chosen to lead the White House 50-mile hike, he grinningly called the whole thing off after a 6-mile preliminary sent him to the dispensary with aches and blisters.

Salinger has also transformed Jim Hagerty's former taut office into a whirlpool of people, papers and palaver. As President Eisenhower's spokesman, Hagerty controlled every word that went out of the White House, conducted his press conferences like military briefings, and participated in shaping the policies he pronounced. Salinger makes no attempt to police the White House correspondents, and his ill-scheduled confrontations with them are more like coffee breaks. He also has nothing to do with policy-making, indeed is sometimes unaware what the latest policies are.

Newsmen often express dissatisfaction with Salinger and affection for him in the same breath. They grumble about his slipshod schedule, his cavalier attitude toward their queries, the errors which crop up in his press releases. But they always end up forgiving the likeable guy with the pear-shaped shadow whose job has been called the second toughest in the country.

For Salinger is on the firing line every day, sparring with some of the sharpest minds in the press corps. Hagerty had warned him that his toughest problem would be separating what can and can't be told to the press. Pierre now agrees Hagerty was right, finds the mental gymnastics sometimes trying.

"Much highly secret information crosses my desk," he explained to PARADE. "In my mind, I've got to sort out the classified from the unclassified as I ad-lib answers to questions." His worst gaffe: he announced the assassination of Dominican Dictator Rafael Trujillo before it was officially confirmed, having seen a preliminary classified report.

For all the strain, Pierre's daily bouts with the press produce some of the best repartee in town. Indeed, the transcripts of his press conferences are read for entertainment by other White House aides. Here are some typical excerpts:

On the Nassau meeting between President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan...

SALINGER: The statement will be read by both the President and the Prime Minister personally.

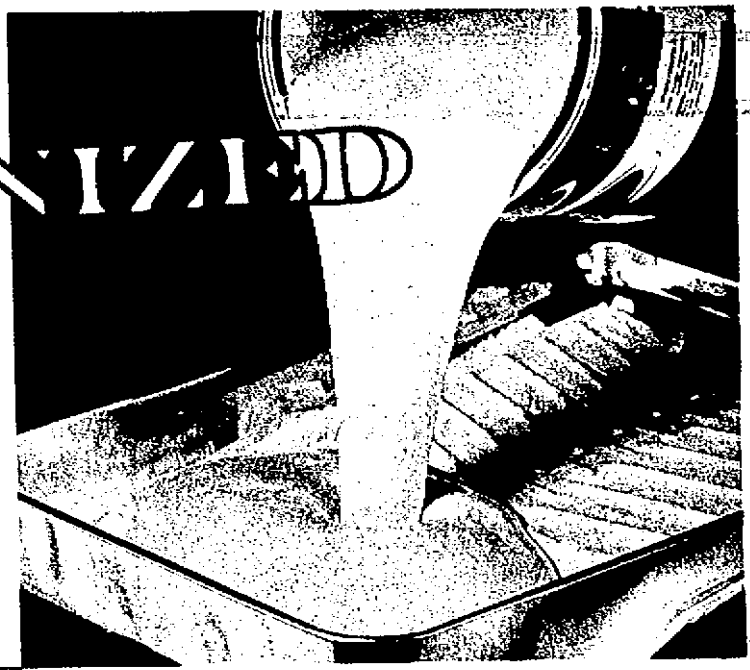

Q.: Both of them will read the same statement?

S.: They will both be together. They are not going to sing a capella.

S.: Roll out the barrel.

On Flag Day, June 14, which also happens to be Salinger's birthday...

S.: I went for years thinking those flags were out there for me.

Salinger's only serious brush with the press came in his role of managing the news during the Cuban crisis. Throughout those tense days, the White House kept a tight rein on every word released to the press. A special phone system linked the desks of Salinger, Pentagon press chief Arthur Sylvester and State Department press chief Robert Manning. When one picked up the phone, the other two phones rang, and every announcement was discussed over the hookup before being released by Sylvester.

They put out flat lies about the missile build-up in Cuba, troop dispositions, the interception of Cuba-bound ships. For this, Salinger took it on the chin from his news chums. His justification: Sometimes it is necessary to mislead the people in order to mislead the enemy.

When Pierre decides to pout about his poor publicity, he gets little sympathy from his boss. Once the President pointed out to him that, as Chief Executive, he "gets the business" from half a dozen papers every day. "One guy takes you on and you cry," Kennedy chuckled.

From the President on down, the New Frontiersmen love to rib Pierre. They tease him about his weight, his cigars, the teletype machines in his White House bathroom. When presidential aide Lee White asked the White House switchboard to connect him with "the frantic Frenchman," he was put through to Salinger without hesitation.

One time when Salinger tried to perform a public service he got only a good-natured presidential barb for his trouble. Hoping to do his bit to stem the decline in milk consumption, he drank a glass of the stuff in full view of the TV cameras. Next morning at breakfast, Kennedy remarked over the toast: "I saw you on TV yesterday. You gave milk consumption the worst setback in years." He explained drily that worry about overweight was one of the factors causing milk's decline.

Salinger first crossed paths with the Kennedys when, as a news sleuth investigating the Teamsters Union for Collier's magazine, he interviewed Robert Kennedy, then a Senate racket buster. After Collier's folded in 1956, Salinger received two job offers within 48 hours. One came from the Teamsters offering him a public relations spot, the other from the younger Kennedy inviting him to join the committee staff and bring along his Teamsters research. Pierre said yes to Kennedy. His first assignment: the ironic chore of serving a subpoena on the same Teamsters vice-president who had offered him a job.

Press conference with Pierre: Serious give-and-take sessions also produce many witty exchanges.

Later, Salinger got a chance to become press spokesman for the Democratic Advisory Committee, which included the biggest-name Democrats in the country. But Robert's brother, Sen. John F. Kennedy, asked Pierre to turn it down and work for him instead. He became Kennedy's press secretary during the 1960 presidential campaign and wound up with the appointment to his present post after the election.

The youngest presidential press secretary in history, Salinger regards himself as a "reporter for the rest of the press." Reporters are inclined to look upon him as an Administration official, helping to spread its official viewpoint. Yet as a former reporter and editor for the San Francisco Chronicle, he knows a newsman's needs. He also has made news on his own, as witness his trip to Russia last year. He not only captured the record (13 hours) for the most time spent with the Soviet Premier by a visiting American, but also became the first American ever to sleep in a Soviet Premier's bed (at Khrushchev's riverside "dacha" 20 miles from Moscow).

Beginning to Wear

Despite the hours and the pressures, Pierre's grin is waning only slightly. He told PARADE that he enjoys his job but admitted it is beginning to wear on him. After a Sunday's relaxation with his wife, Nancy Joy, and three children from an earlier marriage, he finds it increasingly difficult to bounce back.

Last year, as his Christmas present to the President, Salinger had a Thomas Jefferson letter criticizing the press of his day copied from the original and handsomely framed. Then he attached a note, saying: "To the President. Any time you feel mad at the press, just remember Jefferson got madder."

Salinger, by winning the affections of newsmen, has helped keep the President and the press on good terms. Perhaps this contagious combination of fondness and frivolity is best illustrated by the correspondents' reply to Salinger's "Good morning" at a recent press conference. In unison, they rose and shouted: "Good morning, teacher!" ■

and now... "INSTANT EXERCISE!"

Get the slimmer, stronger body you want with a fabulous new minute-a-day short-cut developed and proved out by a leading coach

GEORGIA BEAUTY

Cecilia Upton recently trimmed down her thighs in just 17 days with Dr. Salls' almost effortless minute-a-day exercises.

IMAGINE a 6-second exercise that helps keep you fit better than 24 push-ups! Or, another that's capable of doubling muscular strength in 3 weeks!

Both these "quickie" exercises are part of a fantastically simple body-building method developed by Alabama Doctor of Education, fitness expert and coach, Donald J. Salls. His own trim physique, his family's vigorous health and the nail-hard brawn of his teams are dramatic proof of the results he gets — not to mention the steady stream of reports from housewives, athletes, even school children who have discovered Dr. Salls' remarkable exercises.

Most Americans find exercise a tedious chore. Yet we all recognize the urgent personal and social needs for keeping our bodies strong, shapely and healthy. What man wouldn't take secret pride in displaying a more muscular figure? What woman doesn't long to trade in those flabby spots for a slimmer, more attractive figure?

The endless time and trouble required to get such results has been a major, if not impossible, hurdle for so many of us. But now doctors, trainers and physical educators are beginning to recommend the easy new approach to body fitness and contour control that Dr. Salls has distilled down to his wonderfully simple set of 10 exercises.

Each of Dr. Salls' exercises take only 6 seconds. All total just 1 minute per day. And you can do most of these "static exercises" almost anywhere—at work, waiting for a bus, while shaving in the morning. No special equipment is required. There's no special exertion, not even heavy breathing!

"Research shows that the right kind of exercise is much more important than how much you take," points out Dr. Salls. "And there's overwhelming evidence that his kind of exercise is the right kind. The revolutionary principle he's applying has the impressive support of such institutions as New York University as well as leading physiologists, physical educators, Olympic stars, fashion models and scores of professional athletes.

Time Magazine, Reader's Digest, newspapers and scientific journals have started to call nationwide attention to the exciting concept behind Dr. Salls' minute-a-day "static exercises." One leading university recently published a bulletin stating: "This new method brings together all the known scientific facts of strength development and body mechanics. It is scientifically proven and a very rapid way of developing super strength."

It all started when a European scientist tied down one leg of a frog in a laboratory experiment. Later inspection revealed that the tied leg grew stronger than the free leg — because of what physiologists call isometric tension. The same principle then was applied to the human body. Within days, specialized tension exercises of a few seconds duration each were found to greatly increase muscular strength, firm up flabby areas, even improve general posture. It was later established that a slimmer figure can result from tight, strong muscles as well as from weight reduction.

Then Dr. Salls perfected his set of "10 static exercises in 1 minute"— his XSXIM Program — built on this quick, almost effortless approach.

Results have been surprising. For example:

Mrs. Arland Carter, Ft. Payne housewife, reports that in 14 days Dr. Salls' exercises took ¾ of an inch off her calves, 1 inch off her thighs, 2 inches off her waist.

E. V. Newman, a supervisor of physical education in Alabama, writes that "after 3 weeks of isometric exercises one of my students increased his ability to press (lift) from 160 pounds to 240 pounds."

J. B. Hammett, a Jacksonville service station operator, states that Dr. Salls' "static exercises" have allowed him to take 3½ inches off his waistline, trim down to a youthful 30½ inch girth in less than 10 weeks.

In short, Dr. Salls offers followers of his "10 static exercises in 1 minute":

stronger, firmer muscles • slimmed down waist, thighs, calves, forearms and neck by toning and tightening muscles • better muscular coordination and endurance • stronger back • improved posture.

Results are controlled primarily by the individual's own ideas of how far he or she desires to carry body building. If a man wants to have bulging weight-lifter's arms and shoulders, he simply concentrates more on certain of Dr. Salls' exercises. If a housewife seeks a more shapely midriff, a few weeks with several of the 6-second workouts usually will bring the desired results.

Now you — and your children, too — can have stronger, slimmer, healthier bodies without either the strain or boredom of old-fashioned exercises. Dr. Salls will send a full set of his instructions, complete with illustrations, to interested readers who use the coupon on this page. Remember! These exercises are different: they take you just 6 seconds each!

MORNING STRETCH

for Dr. Salls, former Alabama football star, and his family is limited to his ten 6-second exercises. Yet this remarkably easy new routine keeps them in better condition than the tedious, old-fashioned "daily dozen."

A drunk was stumbling along the street with one foot on the sidewalk and the other in the gutter. A friend of his walked up and asked him what he was doing walking that way, and the drunk replied: "Ish that what I'm doin'? Thank God—I thought I was crippled!"

The captain of a cruiser made a decidedly bad job of docking his ship. Knowingly, he waited for the admiral's reprimand. Sure enough, within a few minutes a message was delivered to him. It stated simply, "Good."

Perplexed but relieved, the captain poured himself a drink. He was just beginning to relax when a second messenger arrived with another message: "God!"

An English lady, self-appointed supervisor of village morals, accused a workman of having reverted to drink because "with my own eyes" she had seen his wheelbarrow outside a saloon.

The man offered no defense, but that evening he placed his wheelbarrow outside her door and left it there all night.

A sedate and polished gentleman who liked to dine in an atmosphere of peace and quiet was disturbed when a loud and uncouth man sat near his table in a restaurant. Finally, after causing a great deal of commotion, the man said: "What do I have to do to get a glass of water in this dump?" To which the gentleman quietly replied, "Why don't you try setting yourself on fire?"

When O Mistress Mine was playing on Broadway, a man in Philadelphia wired a friend in New York to get him a pair of tickets for the following Saturday night. The friend did and wired: "Mistress okay for Saturday night."

The Philadelphia man read the wire and howled—for below the message were the words: "Western Union prefers not to send this type of message."

A dignified-looking, middle-aged gentleman decided to take advantage of a special sale and buy his wife a pair of nylons. After waiting about an hour on the fringe of a screaming, pushing mob of women, he plunged towards the counter with both arms flying. Suddenly a shrill voice hollered out, "Can't you act like a gentleman?"

"I've been acting like a gentleman for over an hour and it got me nowhere," he replied, still plowing toward the counter. "Now I'm going to act like a lady!"

A doctor asked his new patient if she had been to any other doctor about her complaint before coming to see him.

"No," she replied, and then added, "but I did go to see my druggist."

"Well, that shows just how much sense some people have!" he exclaimed. "And what sort of idiotic advice did your druggist give you?"

"Oh," she answered sweetly, "he told me to see you."

Plain Talk about pain relievers

An advertisement well worth reading

1. Medical research has shown that pain relievers which have claimed to be gentler to the stomach than aspirin are not gentler than Bayer® Aspirin. Bayer Aspirin, in fact, is as gentle to the stomach as the gentlest, and that includes the buffered product.

2. Medical research has also shown that pain relievers which have claimed to be stronger than aspirin are not more effective than Bayer Aspirin. Bayer is as strong as the strongest.

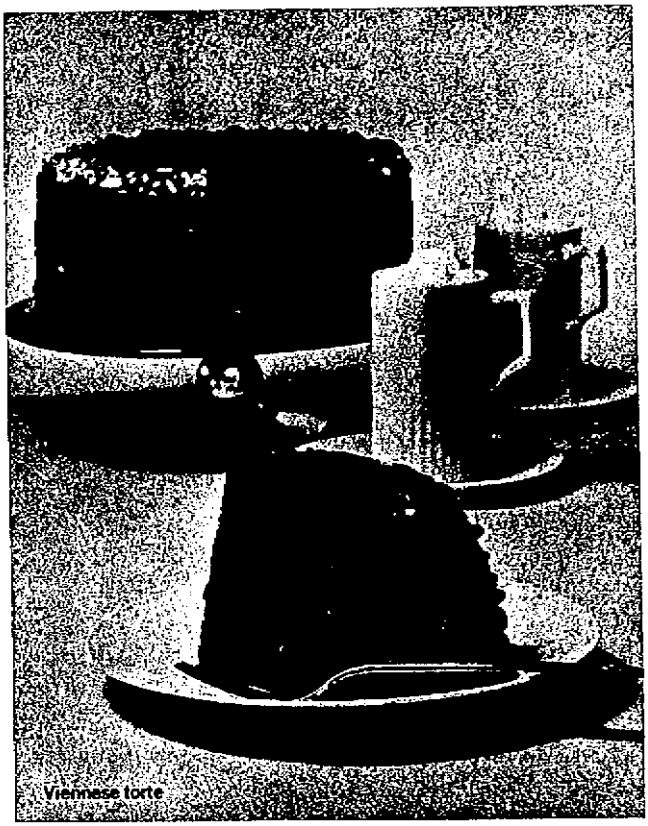

3. Medical research has shown further that the pain reliever which has claimed to work faster than aspirin is not faster than Bayer Aspirin. Bayer is as fast as the fastest.

THUS, on all three points—gentleness, strength and speed—Bayer Aspirin meets all those other products for which you pay up to 75% more.

And remember, aspirin is what doctors consistently recommend and what doctors themselves take. When the makers of Bayer Aspirin asked over four thousand doctors if they took aspirin, better than nine out of ten said, "Yes."

Is it any wonder, then, that Bayer Aspirin is used by millions more people than any other brand of pain reliever? For relief of headaches, muscular aches and pains, the pains and fever of a cold or flu... take Bayer Aspirin, the best pain reliever the world has ever known.

Viennese torte

TWO DESSERTS FOR SPRING

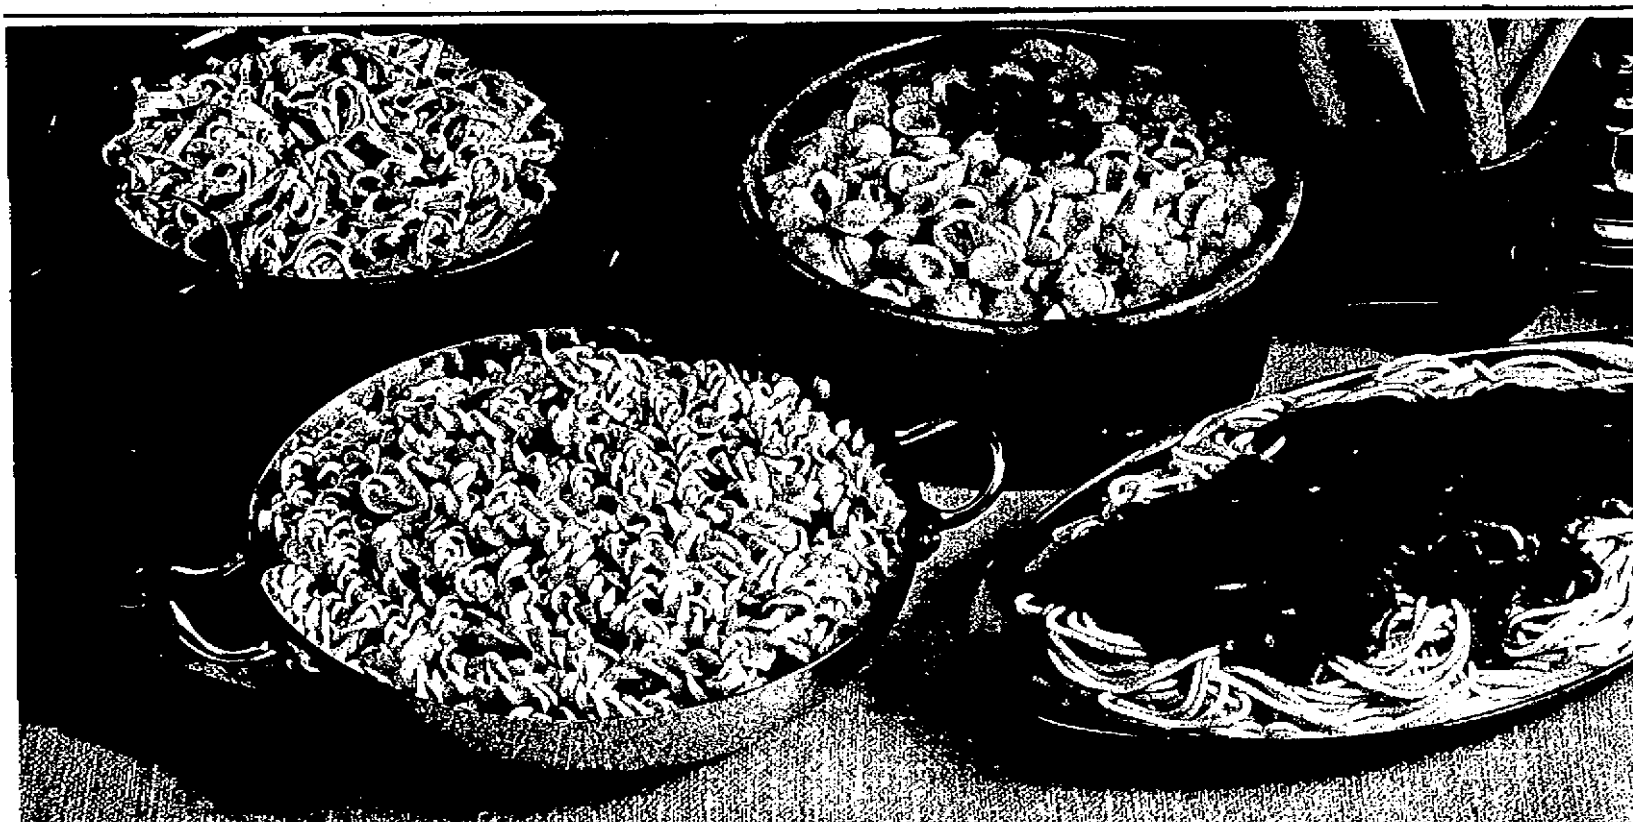

We offer you a choice of two wonderful desserts for special spring dining. One is a version of a Viennese torte made with four layers of chocolate cake, filled with apricot jam, frosted with chocolate icing and topped with a wreath of chopped almonds and pistachio nuts. Simply delicious, if you want to stop there—but don't, because equally good and very different are the pastel pink meringue shells, filled with tart lemon cream and accented with scarlet strawberry slices. You'll want to make both.

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

VIENNESE TORTE

1 pkg. chocolate cake mix
¾ cup apricot preserves
3 tablespoons boiling water
1 pkg. (6 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1 tablespoon shortening
3 tablespoons light corn syrup
2 tablespoons milk
almonds or pistachio nuts

Prepare and bake cake mix as directed on package for two 8-inch layers. Cool. Cut each layer in half crosswise to make 4 thin layers in all. Break up preserves with fork; add water; beat smooth. Spread between layers, on sides and top. Chill thoroughly. Melt chocolate and shortening over hot (not boiling) water. Remove from heat; blend in corn syrup and milk. Pour warm frosting over chilled torte; smooth with spatula. Garnish with chopped nuts. Serve with cream-topped coffee, Viennese fashion.

PASTEL MERINGUES

3 eggs, separated
⅛ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
¾ cup sugar, divided
½ cup quick strawberry-flavored mix
4 tablespoons lemon juice
1½ teaspoons grated lemon peel
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

In small bowl of electric mixer, beat egg whites on high speed with salt and cream of tartar until stiff peaks form. Combine ½ cup of the sugar and quick strawberry-flavored mix. Add 2 tablespoons at a time, beating well after each addition. Beat until very stiff. Put meringue mixture through star tube in pastry bag* to make 6 shells on foil-lined baking sheet. Bake at 250° for 1½ hours. When shells are cool, remove from foil. For the filling, beat the egg yolks in top of double boiler. Stir in remaining ¼ cup sugar, lemon juice and peel. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until thickened. Remove from heat; chill. Fold in whipped cream. Fill meringue shells. Chill 6 to 12 hours. Garnish with fresh strawberry slices, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

*Or heap into 6 rounds about 3 inches in diameter, making a 2-inch depression in the center of each.

"I Was Marked With The SIGN OF THE CROSS"

"I knelt with others in a half-circle about the altar.

"My hands were anointed with holy oil by the Bishop and wrapped carefully in new linen.

"The ancient prayers of the Church were being recited over me. The hands of the Bishop were laid upon me just as the hands of St. Peter and St. James and St. Paul were laid upon the young disciples they sent forth to labor, to teach, and to die.

"The chalice with wine and water and a small dish holding the unconsecrated bread were entrusted to me. The priestly vestments were placed upon my shoulders.

"I was being consecrated to God and to the service of souls. I was being marked with the sign of the Cross.

"I was receiving the Sacrament of the Catholic priesthood, usually referred to as Holy Orders... instituted by Christ, conferred by the Apostles, and continuing in unbroken succession nearly 2,000 years since the time of Our Lord."

Some may scoff at the solemn ceremonies that attend the Ordination of a Catholic priest, and question the good sense of a man who surrenders many of life's material pleasures for such a calling. Others may doubt that the Catholic priest possesses any Christ-given office or powers which other men do not possess.

Perhaps you have heard someone challenge the authority of the priest to forgive sins, and his power to consecrate the Body and Blood of Christ in the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass. You may have been told that you can deal directly with God and don't need a priest or any mediator other than Jesus Christ.

It is a fact that many do hold these beliefs. But can you be sure, deep down in your heart, that they are right?

Holy Scripture tells us plainly that Christ did establish a priesthood to represent Him... that He did command His Apostles to "go forth and teach all nations"... that He did say: "Whose sins you shall forgive they are forgiven them"... that at the Last Supper He set the example for an unbloody sacrifice, and said: "Do this in remembrance of Me."

God is, certainly, the ultimate source of everything. But He works through many "deputies." He uses the farmer to supply us with food... our parents, teachers, and scholars to educate us... physicians to treat our physical ills. Even in the creation of our life itself, He manifests His power through our parents. And in matters concerning the salvation of our souls, He tells us: "Hear the Church."

An interesting pamphlet, which explains the significance of the Sacrament received by all Catholic priests... explaining the priests' ideals, powers, and responsibilities ... and giving a glimpse into the life of an average Catholic priest, will be sent immediately. And nobody will call on you. Write for Pamphlet No. PS-37.

Gianna d'Angelo, soprano from Hartford, Conn., makes a pert Rosina in Barber of Seville at the Met. With her as Figaro is Frank Guarrera, veteran baritone from Philadelphia, who won Met auditions in 1948 and has been with the company ever since.

YOU CAN SING AT THE MET

by HERBERT KUPFERBERG

A 23-YEAR-OLD GIRL from Sacramento, Calif., walked out onto the stage of the Metropolitan Opera in a performance of Verdi's La Traviata one night last December. She took a deep breath, sang one line and promptly disappeared into a crowd of choristers.

It was not one of the great events in the annals of opera, and the critics took scant notice of her in their reviews next morning. But to young Janis Martin, this brief appearance in a small role was one of the milestones of a lifetime—her debut at the world-famous Metropolitan Opera House.

Miss Martin got her chance to sing at the Met by winning the top prize in the nationwide system of auditions run by the company's National Council. These auditions represent one of the main avenues that can lead a young American singer to the Met. Others include singing in European opera houses, appearing in Broadway shows, working in community and college opera productions. More young Americans than ever before are seeking careers for themselves in opera, once regarded as an exclusively European province.

Even the opera houses of Europe are staffing themselves heavily with young Americans these days. Typical of the newest crop of American stars who got to the Met by way of a sojourn abroad is a tall, slender coloratura soprano named Gianna d'Angelo. She is a native of Hartford, Conn., and her real name is Jane Angelovich.

Miss d'Angelo spent 10 years in Italy, singing in various opera houses, always hoping for a shot at the Met. She got it in 1961 when she was invited to sing the part of Gilda in Rigoletto. She won an audience ovation and unanimous critical approval.

Jess Thomas, a 6-foot-3 tenor from Rapid City, S.D., has a similar story. He got his early musical training at the University of Nebraska and at Stanford University in California, and sang briefly with the San Francisco Opera. Then in 1958 he and his wife Bettye sold their family belongings and departed for Germany.

Spectator to Soloist

The night before the Thomases left the U.S. they sat in the audience at the Met—the first time for either of them. On their next visit, the night of Dec. 11, 1962, Jess was on stage, making his triumphal debut as Walther in Wagner's Die Meistersinger.

Although many young singers believe that European experience is the surest path to prominence at the Met, there are those who have managed to make a successful career within the confines of the house. George Shirley, a 28-year-old tenor born in Indianapolis and raised in Detroit, was the winner of the Met's national auditions in 1961.

"I entered my first singing contest when I was 3 years old," says Shirley. "It was run by Block's department store in Indianapolis, and I came in second with A Gold Mine in the Sky. A little girl won it singing and dancing One, Two, Button My Shoe."

Shirley got his big break soon after joining the company when, on the second night of the 1961-62 season, another tenor became ill and was unable to go on in Mozart's Cosi Fan Tutte.

Serving as a "stand-by" or "cover" for leading artists is one of the most important functions of young performers at the Met. It can be the path to fame or frustration. Roberta Peters, who had never appeared on the Met stage, was called upon to sing the role of Zerlina in Don Giovanni on a few hours' notice—and became famous on the spot. On the other hand, there is a young Met tenor from the Midwest who has been "covering" for other, more renowned singers for five years, waiting for a break that hasn't come yet and never may. "It's like waiting for someone to die," he says. "Not that you wish anybody any hard luck, of course, but still. . . ."

Another singer who is determined to work his way up through the company without a European trip is William Walker, a handsome young baritone from Fort Worth, Tex., who thus far has sung only small roles.

"I'm aware there's a danger of becoming stuck in minor parts," Walker acknowledges. "But careers have been made in this house, and my wife and I think I have as good a chance as any. In the past I've sung on Broadway, in summer stock and in resort hotels. But opera has always been my goal, and I'm glad to be here."

Singers like Walker, Shirley and Miss Martin might never have made it to the Met were it not for the elaborate auditioning system which has been set up to sift native talent.

Contract Plus Scholarship

Aspiring singers begin with preliminary auditions and then compete in the regional finals. Regional winners are sent to New York, where they compete for the grand prize—a Met contract plus a $2,000 scholarship. Auditions are open to singers aged 19 to 35. They must be sponsored by a school, college, music club or voice teacher, but no professional experience or finished training is required, and there is no entrance fee. Last year more than 1,500 singers were heard.

Under the direction of Howard J. Hook, Jr., the Met's National Council has established 15 regional audition centers throughout the country. This year Honolulu was included for the first time. Other regional centers are Los Angeles, Seattle, Cleveland, Boston, Denver, Minneapolis, Washington, Kansas City, Chicago, San Antonio, Memphis, New Orleans, Atlanta and New York.

Although to the singers who win, these Metropolitan tournaments of song represent the path to success and to fame, the Met feels that the auditions also have value to those who don't win.

"This country," says John Gutman, assistant general manager, "has a great reservoir of talent we must tap to find the next Leontyne Prices and Richard Tuckers. But just as important, we think, is our duty to help the thousands of fine American singers who may never sing at the Met. We feel that as the leading opera company in America we can do a service to young American singers by giving them encouragement, opportunity, advice and the chance to be heard."

BRINGING UP BABY: HINTS COLLECTED  BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF FIVE

Full of GOOD things!

Yes, life is full of good things when there's a baby in the house. Smiles are unlocked more often. Dreams take on new dimensions. Hearts are enriched, horizons expanded. Like a shaft of sunlight, a baby brings brightness, warmth and beauty to a home. What better reason for dedicating a week to all beautiful babies.

Baby Week (April 27-May 4) is full of good things for your baby. This week and every week your grocer provides countless quality baby products. Why not check your favorite store and see how many wonderful baby week values are waiting for you?

Three-time winners. Gerber Strained and Junior Foods are full of good things, too. Nourishment at its best! Variety galore! Convenience for you! Each food is individually processed to preserve the utmost in nutritive values. All are notable for digestibility, so baby can get full nutritional benefits from them. Over 100 delectable choices, with the Gerber flair for flavor-finesse. For your convenience, Gerber Baby Foods are packed in Wide-Top® jars with Quick-Twist® caps and Shop-Easy labels.

Secrets of mealtime success. There's nothing quite so rewarding to mother as a baby who eats well and enjoys his food. Ways to sweeten eatin' time:

- Service with a smile makes every spoonful taste better. Rotating colors and kinds of food encourages babies to beckon for seconds.
- If baby occasionally frowns on a food, a substitute with similar food values is the answer.

Nourishment par excellence . . . that's the good word on Gerber Cereals. First, they're enriched with a special kind of iron, easily absorbed by babies. (Seven tablespoons will provide 100% of the recommended daily dietary allowance for iron.) Second, calcium and important B-vitamins are added for further nutritional benefits. Finally, they're rich in the calories babies need for energy. Five varieties to titillate an appetite.

Refreshment unlimited. Now, Gerber offers 9 juice delights, including the new Mixed Fruit Juice, a delicately exotic blend of 5 fruit juices. All are rich in vitamin C, needed for sound gums and body tissues.

I LIVE IN A HAUNTED HOUSE

BY NICK ROPER

WASHINGTON, D.C.

IF YOU HAD ASKED ME six months ago whether I believed in ghosts, I would have laughed at the idea. But that was before the Roper family moved into Halcyon House. Today, though I have yet to see a specter and am dubious of the supernatural, my answer would be a good deal less emphatic.

As for Mom, when she heard I was going to write this article, she warned: "Do be careful what you say. So far, our ghosts have been friendly. We wouldn't want to make them angry."

Dad remains staunchly skeptical. But try as he will, even he can't explain the footsteps that tread the attics and run up and down the stairs, the lights that switch on and off without human hands, doors that open and shut themselves, ash trays that mysteriously fill with water, the Riddle of the Basement, and the Strange Affair of the Fallen Mirror—not to mention the Voice in the Garden.

My 21-year-old sister Anne and the three girls who share Apartment 1214 will admit they've heard strange things, too. The girls report that every Thursday between 1 and 2 in the morning they hear measured pacing in the attic overhead. The "ghost" is always on schedule.

Our dog, big, kindly old Andy, can't express an opinion, but lately he's shown signs of nerves.

It was late last fall that my parents rented Halcyon House, a huge mansion of George Washington's day, in the old Georgetown section here. Of mellow Georgian brick, it was built in 1783 by Benjamin Stoddert, the first Secretary of the Navy. It boasts 47 rooms, 16 baths, a secret passage once reputedly used for smuggling, as well as nooks, passages, attics and a crypt. If the crypt ever contained bodies, it is empty now. But often I find Andy crouched at the door wailing.

A Voice in the Night

The terraced garden, with its ancient boxwood and majestic ivy-covered oaks, is symbolic of the age of gracious living. From this garden, at 3 A.M., my father swears that he has heard me whistling and calling, "Andy, Andy, come here!" Yet I was in my room at the time, and Andy was securely locked inside.

When we took over Halcyon House (we don't occupy all of it; the wings have become apartments), we were warned by neighbors that it was "slightly haunted." Indeed, a local newspaper reported: "Perhaps the ghost of Benjamin Stoddert is responsible for the occasional mysterious opening and shutting of doors, and one likes to think it is the ghost of a 20th-century owner, Albert Clemmons, which sometimes makes a clatter in the upper stories."

But we pooh-poohed politely.

The Ropers regard themselves as a sophisticated family. My father, George Roper, was a foreign service officer until 1953, now manages investment properties for Georgetown University. My mother Mary, my sister Anne and myself are well educated and traveled. We didn't believe in spooks, and we weren't going to be spooked.

But we may have reckoned without Ben and Bert—long since dead if not gone—and perhaps some of their other friends from among the shades.

For instance, Mom on two or three occasions, while brewing coffee in the kitchen, has heard someone running down the stairs. Convinced it was me, she poured a cup and waited. When I didn't show up, she came upstairs calling me. I was still in my room and hadn't left it.

Night after night, I have heard footsteps in the attic over my room, sometimes on the fire escape outside my French window. They pace steadily, then stop abruptly. The first time this happened, thinking it might be a prowler, I sneaked up into the attic to check. The light was on, but no one was there. The only way out of the attic was through my bedroom. I shrugged off the burning light as an electrical quirk (though the switch worked perfectly) and the footsteps as the normal creakings of an old house. But there were other experiences to come, experiences that leave me baffled.

One night, I descended down the steep basement stairs, flashlight in hand, to check on one of our three furnaces. The basement consists of three rooms, with a light bulb in each, but otherwise resembles an ancient dungeon. At the bottom of the stairs, I turned on the first light by screwing in the bulb. Then I saw light through the door of the third room.

Author squeezes through door to secret passage in Halcyon House, 180-year-old, 47-room mansion in Washington, D.C.

I thought someone had carelessly forgotten to turn off the light. But when I was about a yard from the door of the lighted room, I was suddenly filled with a blood-chilling dread and stopped in my tracks. A weird, apprehensive conviction came over me that someone was in the room, and I couldn't bring myself to take another step. Rather hoarsely I called, "Who's there?"—and at once the light went out. That was enough for me. If a voice had answered "Nobody!" I couldn't have been more convinced.

Grabbing up a stick as a weapon, I beat a hasty retreat to the stairs and yelled up for help. Dad called the police, and within a miraculous three minutes they were pounding down to the rescue. They found nobody in the far room. The light bulb and wall switch both worked perfectly. There was no way out of the room except past me. Yet no one had passed me; the light had been on; and it switched off at my shout—so help me.

Floating on Air

More hair-raising still was the night I found myself floating in mid-air. It was a Thursday night—the night on which our "ghosts" seem most active—and I had gone to bed to read. Suddenly I heard footsteps approaching down the hall. They stopped outside my door, and I waited for one of the family to enter. When nothing happened, I got up and opened the door. No one was there.

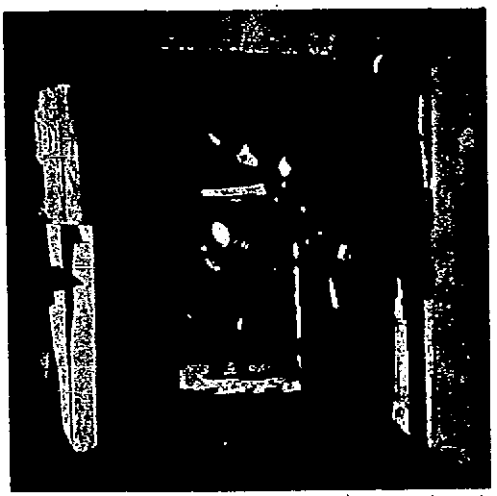

By now, I was fairly accustomed to mysterious footsteps—echoes from the apartments, I kept telling myself, though some of our walls are 30 inches thick. I went back to bed, put out the light. Then the footsteps started again, this time overhead in the attic. As usual, they stopped after a few minutes, and I dozed.

Suddenly I was awakened again by a loud clapping sound only inches from my ear. I shot bolt upright, fumbled frantically for the light switch and turned it on. The room was empty and silent, except for the pounding of my heart. It took me an hour to get to sleep again. Around 3 A.M. I was awakened again, this time by sheer terror. At least I thought I was awake; the feeling was vivid enough.

I was bitterly cold, and to my amazement I couldn't feel the bed under me! With my eyes tightly shut, and breathing heavily, I reached down and felt around. There was nothing beneath me. Then I felt myself gently lowered, and I was on the bed again.

I grabbed for the light and switched it on. The room was still and empty; my covers were stripped completely off; and my window, which had been shut when I went to bed, was wide open. I am convinced it was a nightmare. The bitter cold is easy to account for. But who opened the window? No one else in the family had been in my room, they assured me next morning.

At breakfast, Dad was pretty peeved. He said I had kept him awake until 3 A.M. playing with the dog in the garden. I told him he must have been dreaming. I knew darned well that I had been in my bed—or at least above it—at that time. Mom poured our coffee with a trembling hand. She said she had been kept awake by strange noises. Andy, who sleeps in a room off the kitchen, was still there, not outside in the garden.

Perhaps we were all dreaming.

But the Mystery of the Mirror can't be explained so easily. One evening Dad and I mounted the mirror, a beautiful old-fashioned piece, over a huge stone fireplace in one of the apartments. The apartment has only one door; all the windows are barred by grillwork; and we had the only key to the door. When we left the apartment, locking it after us, the mirror was securely hung from a strong iron spike in the wall.

Next morning, when Dad and I went to have another look at our handiwork, the mirror had apparently fallen and splintered the mantle shelf. Nothing so strange about that? But how come that the mirror, the broken mantle and the iron spike were all stacked neatly in a corner, 10 feet away? Explain that if you can.

The Mysterious 'X'

And also explain why in the center of the mirror, which was quite undamaged, was an "X" mark seemingly drawn by a black crayon. The mark had not been there the previous night. Of that I am positive, because I would have noticed it, and I remember remarking on the mirror's perfect silvery surface. I have tried to remove the mysterious "X" with all kinds of detergents, but it won't go away.

Ash trays that fill with water overnight, as ours sometimes do, could be attributed to Washington's high humidity, though I have never heard anybody else complain of this phenomenon. But the Mystery of the Mirror isn't that easily solved. Nobody—at least no body—could have entered that room after Dad and I left it.

I still won't go so far as to say there are ghosts in Halcyon House. But I will say there are some mighty queer things going on. I am reminded of the old Devonshire prayer:

From ghoulies and ghosties
And long-legged beasties,
And things that go bump in the night,
Good Lord, deliver us.

If we do have ghosts, they're friendly, playful ones. If Ben and Bert have fun romping up and down stairs, clapping hands and switching lights off and on, they haven't hurt us. And having a "haunted house" is something of a status symbol, you must admit. ■

Anne Roper often hears strange footsteps cross ceiling of apartment she and roommates share in "haunted house."

Can't live on a budget?

HOW OFTEN have you said to yourself: "It's hard enough to meet expenses let alone save money!"

You can do both—and do it within your income, claim John and Alice Flaherty, well-known writers, lecturers and counselors on family money management. Their principles of spending-and-saving, together with dozens of practical tips, have been compiled in a booklet, "How to Make the Most of Your Family's Income"—and it's yours for the asking from New York Life.

"Pay Yourself First" is the Key. There's no "trick" to proper money managing, the authors point out, but there are several fundamentals. First, "it is important that you develop a sense of appreciation for your own income level." In addition, observe the Flahertys, you must calculate on the basis of net income, and make it a rule to "pay yourself first"; that is, include a specified amount of savings, no matter how small, among your regular expenses.

It Takes Planning, Not Depriving. To help you get started, the authors offer a guide, involving only simple arithmetic, that shows you how to "calendarize" expenses systematically, regardless of your income range. However, the Flaherty plan is not a "tighten your belt" system, but flexible enough to include such items as entertainment, gifts, vacations, as well as necessities.

It is not the authors' intention to lead you into a rigid system of budgeting. Instead, their booklet helps you double-check where your money has been going and should enable you to plan better for the future. Their experience and advice should prove most valuable to your family.

Helpful Advice—Yours Free. "How to Make the Most of Your Family's Income" is yours for the asking. Call any New York Life Agent or send in the coupon for your free copy of this interesting and helpful booklet. The New York Life Agent in Your Community is a Good Man to Know.

SUMMER MANEUVERS. The biggest peacetime military maneuvers in the U.S. are scheduled to take place in the Carolinas and Georgia this summer. Approximately 1,000,000 soldiers and airmen will maneuver on 6,000,000 acres in 21 counties from July 21 to August 16.

RECORD SEQUEL. Vaughn Meader, whose First Family record album (a spoof on the Kennedys) sold 4,500,000 copies, is doing a sequel. A poll taken in Minnesota found that 53% of the people polled feel that comedy imitations of the President and his family "are in poor taste," indicating that the sequel may not do as well as the original.

BACHELORS GALORE. Great Britain has a surplus of single men, ages 15 to 45. There are 3,652,000 of these, while single girls in the same age bracket number 2,677,000. Over-all men-women figures show 23,821,000 British women as opposed to 22,448,000 men.

FASTEST RISING. Chronic lung disease is the fastest increasing cause of total disability in the U.S. at the moment. Disability payments for lung disease are now surpassed only by payments for heart disease caused by hardening of the arteries. A decade ago 23.5 deaths per 100,000 were caused by lung cancer, emphysema, bronchitis and pneumonia. Today the death rate from these diseases has leaped up to 44 per 100,000. In Massachusetts, according to Dr. Edward Gaensler at Boston University Medical Center, two out of every three persons applying for lifetime disability benefits claim "shortness of breath" as the reason for their incapacity.

TV PLOT. The TV stations throughout the country are waiting for 20th Century-Fox to launch its advertising campaign on Cleopatra, starring Elizabeth Taylor. As soon as the campaign opens, TV stations will start showing old Elizabeth Taylor movies. NBC already has several lined up for Saturday and Monday nights, when it shows old pictures.

DIAMONDS UP. De Beers Ltd., which handles approximately 80% of the world's diamond sales, has just raised the price for gem diamonds by 5%. The U.S. is the largest market for such diamonds, and the De Beers' economists have notified headquarters that the U.S. traffic can stand the price increase.

KILLERS ON THE LOOSE. Chicago has had 977 gang killings since 1929, virtually all unsolved. Crime syndicate is now reportedly bossed by Momo Salvatore Giancana.

SOVIET VISITORS. In 1962 Russia had 800,000 visitors -- 20,000 Frenchmen, 19,000 Britons, 17,000 Americans.

SLOT MACHINES. Tourists who embark at the airport in Las Vegas, Nev., where gambling is legal, may wonder to whom the airport slot machines belong. Originally they were installed by Western Airlines, which discovered that the revenue from the slot machines exceeded the revenue from passenger travel. That was more than a decade ago. The new one-armed bandits account for $190,000 a year, which goes to the county airport- $63,000 more than what the airport collects annually in landing fees.

Hundreds of Homes Burn as Fires Sweep East

HORDES FLEE FLAMES IN MAINE, N.Y., VIRGINIA

By Associated Press

Fires in a windswept, rain-shy belt from Maine to Virginia left hundreds of persons homeless Saturday and caused damage running into the millions of dollars.

Thousands fled the fire areas.

Only one person was reported killed—in New Jersey—and state officials had not confirmed that report.

Known injuries generally were minor and confined mostly to the men fighting the hundreds of blazes fanned by high winds which began to ease off in the evening.

Early assessments of the fiery toll showed over 100 houses destroyed in New Jersey, 100 buildings burned on Staten Island, N.Y., and one-half square mile of the Maine textile city of Biddeford in ashes.

The winds, acting as bellows, turned a series of grass fires into uncontrollable conflagrations on Staten Island, taxing the abilities of the New York City fire department.

After 12 hours of multiple-alarm blazes—as the wind tossed embers from one fire to start another—city officials declared the situation "pretty much under control."

About 75 Staten Island families lost their homes.

The Biddeford fire threatened to destroy the entire northern section of that Maine city before the combined efforts of 13 fire departments fought the flames to a standstill. Behind, in ashes, were nine of the ten buildings of a lumber and building-materials plant where the fire broke out, 18 tenement houses and one business building.

Mrs. Marjorie Ganong described the rapid spread of the flames: "I was getting ready to eat lunch when a man yelled, 'Get out.' I just grabbed my coat and out I went." She and her four sons managed to save only a pet cat and two freshly baked pies.

Biddeford Asst. Fire Chief Paul Garieppy estimated the damage would "well exceed" $1 million.

New Jersey's fires, concentrated mostly in shore counties, burned thousands of acres of woods and grass lands, as well as the over 100 homes and industrial sites.

Soldiers from Ft. Dix and sailors from Lakehurst Naval Air Station, with bulldozers, fought a blaze along a 10-mile front in Ocean County.

One woman, among a dozen persons trapped in the main street of a South Jersey town for five minutes, said they wet hand-

Aussie Returning Shirt 7,500 Miles

SEATTLE (AP)—An Australian farmer neared the end of a 7500-mile voyage Saturday to return a freshly-laundered shirt that kept him warm 21 years ago.

Norman Hanlin, 48, Renmark, South Australia, pledged he would return the shirt that Mark Gibson of Vancouver, B.C., had taken from his own back in a lifeboat wallowing in the Atlantic Ocean.

Hanlin's ship was torpedoed Oct. 8, 1942 en route from Buenos Aires to Liverpool. Gibson was commanding a lifeboat which picked Hanlin up as he clung to a plank.

"I was shivering from the cold and Gibson pulled off his own shirt, which was dry because he had escaped in the lifeboat. He told me to put it on."

The lifeboat survivors were picked up later in the day by a ship which was torpedoed less than 24 hours later. Another ship took them to West Africa.

"I made a vow to return that shirt someday," said Hanlin during a brief stop in Seattle. "This just seemed like a good time."

Their faces tell the difference. John F. Kennedy, carrying the weight of the presidency on his shoulders, appears grim as he speaks Saturday at Boston College Centennial Convocation at Newton, Mass. In sharp contrast is the smiling face of Richard Nixon as he addresses the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington. Jordan Mobs Force Fall of Government

Nasser's Backers in Revolt

AMMAN, Jordan (UPI)—The government of Premier Samir Rifai fell Saturday night after a day in which Jordanian troops opened fire on pro-Nasser rioters in Jerusalem and Israel moved troops up on the frontier.

(In Cairo the Middle East News Agency (MENA) quoted a Lebanese newspaper as saying King Hussein was preparing to flee Jordan in the wake of the demonstrations calling for unity with the new United Arab Republic. There was no confirmation of the report).

(The MENA report said Hussein had told his advisers he wanted "to avoid the fate" of King Faisal of Iraq who was killed in the 1958 Baghdad coup. It said he already was sending some of his family abroad, including his brother, Prince Mohammed, before fleeing himself.)

• • • •

RIFAI announced he would hand his resignation to King Hussein after he lost a vote of confidence in parliament on Jordan's approach to the newly formed United Arab Republic of Egypt, Iraq and Syria.

The army was sent into the Jordanian sector of Jerusalem after violent demonstrations there in favor of the new U.A.R. The army imposed a curfew. Rifai said the government did so only after agitators appeared carrying arms

CITES LENIN PAPER

Nikita Backs Up Concession Policy

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union Saturday published a new Lenin document to support Premier Khrushchev's tactic of mutual concessions with the West.

The document, published by the party theoretical organ Kommunist, was clearly aimed at refuting Chinese charges of Soviet appeasement.

The new issue of Kommunist published a shorthand record of Lenin's concluding remarks at a stormy debate Dec. 21, 1920, concerning his grant of concessions to foreign firms to attract foreign capital. The father of the Bolshevik revolution justified the concessions by arguing that the infant Soviet industrial economy needed foreign capital to develop.

The Communist Party organ Pravda said Lenin's move, which met stiff opposition from leftists in the party at that time, was another aspect of his peaceful coexistence policy. The Chinese and Albanians have repeatedly assailed peaceful coexistence as a heretical revision of Marxist-Leninist dogma.

Khrushchev has tried to legitimize his concept of this policy by seeking to prove that Lenin was its originator. He also has argued with the Chinese that Lenin, too, agreed to mutual concessions with capitalists.

This theme has been repeated here since Khrushchev began depicting his withdrawal of Russian rockets from Cuba last year as a mutually advantageous deal to save world peace. The Chinese have blasted Russian behavior during the Cuban crisis as appeasement. The Albanians called Khrushchev a coward and a traitor.

Pravda, in the second of two articles devoted to Khrushchev's major policies, referred to Lenin's emphasis on following the "zig-zag path of historical development" and tailoring Communist tactics to it.

"Our party has brilliantly mastered this art," it said.

7th Damp Weekend in a Row

A movement was reported under way Saturday to petition somebody to change the days of the week we use for weekends after rain fell for the seventh time on a weekend since the first of the year.

Swimmers, surfers, home gardeners and sight-seers found their plans thwarted when .09 inches of rain fell by 10 p.m. in Long Beach, with other communities reporting precipitation all over south Los Angeles County and into Orange County.

WINTER sports enthusiasts, however, if they were ready to settle for "wet snow," were happy to hear that heavy flakes were falling along Angeles Crest and generally above the 4,000 foot level in the mountains.

Rafferty Blasts Unruh's 'Politics in Education'

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—Dr. Max Rafferty, superintendent of public instruction, Saturday accused Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh of seeking "partisan political advantage" at the expense of a major educational bill before the legislature.

Educational issues, Rafferty said, should be decided for the best interests of the schools, not the best interests of a party, whether it be Democratic or Republican.

Rafferty said that Unruh, known as California's "Big Daddy" Democrat, was behind a partisan dispute in the Assembly earlier this month involving a new state program: aid for "culturally disadvantaged children."

The program was contained in a bill that originally gave Rafferty power to appoint the consultant who would direct the project, which is aimed at giving children from poor backgrounds the desire to learn. But the Assembly Ways and Means Committee amended the measure to give Gov. Edmond G. Brown the appointive power.

At the time, it was said that the consultant, whoever might appoint him, would be either a Mexican-American or a Negro, since many of the "culturally deprived" youngsters would be from those groups. Making the appointment, therefore, carried some chance of winning favor with minority-group voters.

Unruh has said that Rafferty, a Republican, is the GOP's likliest candidate for governor in 1966. In an interview at his home, Rafferty denied the assertion, noting first that it came from a Democrat and second that he is concerned only "with doing a job in the Department of Education."

Meanwhile, Unruh him-

Burglar's Victim, 77, Falls Dead

A 77-year-old ailing proprietor Mrs. Mabel Davis died, apparently of a heart attack, Saturday night, within hours after a thief entered her store three times and stole $245 on the final visit.

Mrs. Davis, owner of Davis' Market, 709 Cherry Ave., was visibly shaken by the unkempt thief, who was about 45 years old and weighed 180 pounds, police said. On the first two visits, he made small purchases and on the third lifted a money bag from below the counter when she was at the rear of the store.

Previously under treatment for a heart ailment, she collapsed at the nearby home of a friend, Philip Halvas, of 1917½ E. Seventh St., when she went there about two hours later and began to describe the incident. Halvas called an ambulance but she was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Mary's Hospital at 7:45 p.m.

His work was chosen over that appearing in scores of newspapers entered in a competition sponsored by the University of Missouri School of Journalism, National Press-Photographers' Association and the World Book Encyclopedia.

Hodgson's winning of the citation for a series of picture layouts was announced at the current meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington, D.C.

He will receive the award on May 1, during the university's 54th annual Journalism Week observance.

Hodgson, 34, joined The Independent, Press-Telegram in September 1953 and worked as a reporter and photographer before his promotion to picture editor a year ago.

He and his wife, Mary, whom he met while both were U.S. Army photographers, reside in Huntington Beach with their four children.

4 Killed as Car Hits Power Pole

Four persons were killed Saturday when an auto slammed into a power pole on Rosemead Boulevard at Gallatin Road in Pico-Rivera.

County firemen said high power lines were knocked down onto the car and into the street, and the occupants of the auto appeared to have been electrocuted. Early Sunday the victims had not been identified.

Enlisted Men Tell Uniform Preferences

THE NAVY 'JUMPER' IS JUMPED UPON

Fully 50 percent of the Navy men responding to an Independent, Press-Telegram questionnaire about how they like their uniforms said, in effect:

"Uncle Sam, you made the jacket all wrong."

An official Navy survey on reaction to uniforms is being taken among sailors at San Diego and Norfolk. Results are not expected for some time.

The I, P-T's survey was taken last week at the Naval Station here. Five hundred question forms were distributed. Since there was no requirement for filling them out and returning them only 147 came back. The Navy will probably get a better return on theirs.

Now for the results. It seems that of those filling out and returning the forms about one-third stated they did not want any change at all in the present uniforms. Most of the rest wanted only minor changes.

By far the big winner in the request for change category was the desire for a different jumper. Fully 50 percent of the change-requesters wanted either an Eisenhower jacket similar to those worn by the Army and the Air Force or a uniform patterned after the present Chief Petty Officers' uniforms.

The next most popular request, made by almost half the answers, was for a light weight blue uniform made of something besides wool. It seems the main complaints were that the present wool uniform is too warm in temperate climates and catches too much lint.

Other major complaints involved a short-sleeved shirt for summer wear and a change in the hat to make it a billed affair.

Other changes that drew a small number of requests pertained to matters of style and appearance such white uniform, white socks and shoes to go with white uniforms, a dress shirt for the jumper and elemination of neckerchiefs and in some cases the entire white uniform. A few requested a third uniform in addition to the present whites and blues.

Choicest among the comments (allowed to remain after Navy screening of the answers) were: "How about 'continental' type pants to go with the jumpers?"; "We live in a nuclear age—why dress like our ancestors?"; and from the obviously practical sailor, "Leave it as it is—they cost money."

L.A.C. Says:

And Yet He Says No Tax Increase

A State Senate Committee has voted against the Governor's income tax withholding program. But the Governor says he will not stop fighting for it. This means the plan is not necessarily dead. Since his plan would mean a 50 per cent greater payment for next year's income taxpayers, those who are interested should carefully consider what is proposed for them.

Under his proposed income tax withholding, the Governor would have taxpayers pay 50 per cent more income tax next year and 25 per cent more the following year. And yet, he insists he is not breaking his promise that there would be no new taxes assessed. Actually, he is not proposing a change in tax rates. But he is asking for a change that would cause taxpayers to pay these increases for the next two years.

Here is the way it would work. On April 15, 1964, taxpayers would pay all their taxes on 1963 incomes—but on July 1, 1964, they would start having their state income taxes withheld. Thus, at end of the year each taxpayer will have paid his normal 100 per cent tax on the preceding year, plus 50 per cent of that amount for the current year—making the total 150 per cent of his normal tax.

Then, in 1965 the taxpayer would have his tax withheld for the year. But in addition, he would have to pay for three months of 1964—a 25 per cent increase of his normal tax. Thus, in 1964 he would pay 150 per cent and in 1965 he would pay 125 per cent of normal tax. Starting with 1966 he would have all his tax withheld. But for these two years, taxpayers will pay these increased amounts.

An idea of what this means to the Governor and his budget is shown by this comparison. The personal income tax produces $300 million a year. On the above basis, the Governor proposes that taxpayers pay an additional $150 million in 1964 and an additional $75 million for 1965. Additional amounts would come from stepping up the due dates for banks and corporations. And yet, he says this is not a tax increase—just collecting taxes in advance.

State Controller Alan Cranston is opposed to the withholding tax. In particular, he points out that in New York where withholding was started in 1958, the preceding year tax was wiped out and the state got its normal amount for the year on a monthly basis. He also points out that in 1942 the federal withholding tax was started—but 75 per cent of the preceding year tax was forgiven. Other states adopted the system with 65 to 75 per cent of preceding year taxes forgiven. But, in California, the Governor suggests only 25 per cent of 1964 taxes would be saved.

The report by Cranston gives these figures very clearly. But the Governor's presentation avoids reference to the fact that taxpayers will be paying 50 per cent more state income taxes in 1964 than they would normally pay. There may be sound reasons for withholding state taxes—as are federal income taxes. That is questionable. But there is no question about the fact that the Governor's program will collect 50 per cent more taxes next year from income taxpayers—if his program is adopted.

It should be of interest to all who pay state income taxes. Their interest should be shown by writing their state assemblyman and senator. The program must be approved by them. It is an issue where the folk back home should make their views known. That is the only way they can effectively express their views on this increased tax—which the Governor says is not an increased tax.—L.A.C.

Antarctic Mountain Explorations Set

MUNICH, Germany (UPI)—Twenty German scientists and mountaineers will launch the world's first expedition to Antarctic mountain ranges, the expedition leader said here.

Dr. Karl Herligkoffer of the Munich Foreign Research Institute said he and his men will attempt to climb several 12,000-foot mountains in unexplored territory.

He said the group will leave Munich in November and charter a boat in Cape Town, South Africa, for the 3,000-mile voyage to the Antarctic.

$1-MILLION BLAZE

kerchiefs to place over their faces. "We lay in the street for about five minutes until there was enough air so we could stand up," she said.

One of the most destructive of the fires roaring through the tinderbox forests in Virginia burned over 2,500 acres in King George County. Military personnel and civilian volunteers helped in the fight.

At least nine separate brush fires, some destroying and threatening homes, plagued Long Island firemen throughout the day and night.

Staten Island called upon New Jersey for assistance, but the state was unable to respond because of its own fires. And New York City sent two fireboats to Bayonne, N.J., to battle flames in a waterfront plastics factory.

Meantime, firemen in Brooklyn fought a plant fire in which exploding oxygen tanks and wind gusts rocketed the flames to every structure in a two-block area. The plant and 10 other buildings burned down.

On Long Island, to the east of Manhattan, at least nine fires burned in several communities and rural areas, destroying several homes and causing two radio stations to break off broadcasting. Six houses and three cars were lost in the Farmingville area.

In the South Jersey community of Newtonville, a dozen persons were trapped on the main street for five terrifying minutes by flames and smoke of a forest fire.

"We couldn't breathe in my car. Our lungs felt as though they were seared," said Mrs. Corinne Olson, a free-lance reporter and photographer.

"Also we couldn't see. Ashes were so thick that we couldn't even see with the lights on."

Among those trapped were the crewmen of a fire truck, coming to town to refill its water tanks.

$8,766 Indemnity to Innocent Convict

NAGOYA, Japan (AP)—Ishimatsu Yoshida, 83, finally cleared of a half-century-old murder charge two months ago, was granted an indemnity of 3,155,600 yen ($8,766) Saturday by Nagoya's higher court.

Yoshida spent 7,889 days in prison after being convicted in 1913 of the robbery-slaying of a merchant.

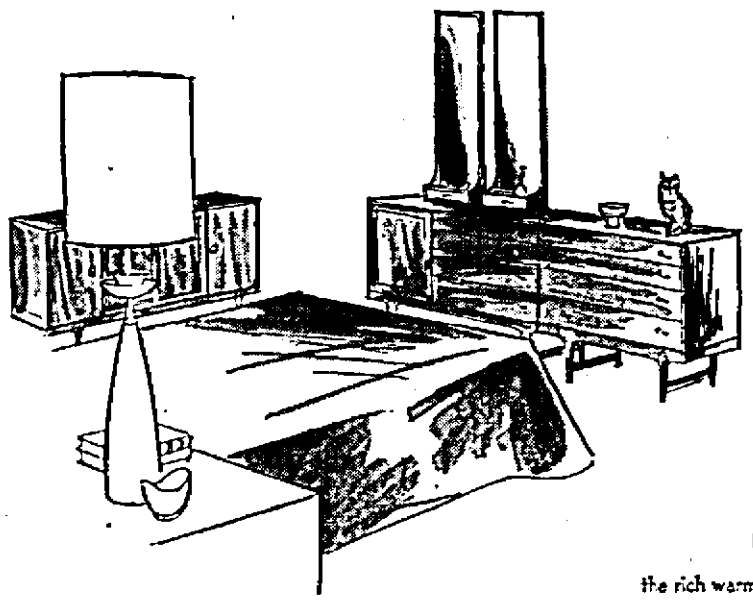

He was paroled in 1835 and began the long campaign to clear his name.

FIREMEN-DIVERS emerge from a cabin cruiser that sank after a gasoline-vapor explosion. The divers turned off a gasoline vent that was threatening further fire damage.

MAN, SONS DODGE BLAST, FIRE

A Lakewood man and his two sons escaped uninjured Saturday afternoon when an explosion shattered and sank their 32-foot cabin cruiser at a Terminal Island landing.

Gordon Gibson, 35, of 4333 Snowden Ave., said he was trying the start the gasoline engine of the Wanda B. when what apparently was an accumulation of fumes in the bilge exploded. Fire followed.

Gibson said he had put his youngest son, Gordon, 4, on the wharf a moment before the blast occurred. He and his other son, Mike, 18, jumped for the wooden finger.

The boat sank so quickly that fire had little chance to damage the $2,500 craft extensively. Gibson had bought the boat in December and had used it just once.

An engine company and a truck company, plus two fireboats from Los Angeles, responded to the alarm turned in from Fellows and Stewart boat landing at Berth 208, Los Angeles Harbor. Firemen-divers went under the craft to close a vent that was permitting gasoline to escape into the water.

President Will Visit Irish Kin

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy will go to Ireland in June—and what a contrast this will be to his only other visit to the home of his Irish forebears.

The White House announced Saturday that a stop in Ireland will be worked into the President's official journey to Italy and West Germany. Details as to when, where and how long are yet to be worked out but it's safe to assume he'll turn up in County Wexford.

It was there he went in 1947 as a fledgling congressman from Massachusetts. Then his coming was unheralded and he was a surprise visitor at the farm home of James Kennedy of Dungenstown in Southeast Ireland.

Kennedy had determined that the 32-acre farm not far from the village of New Ross was the home of Patrick Kennedy, his great-great- grandfather who emigrated to Boston in 1848.

It is regarded by the American Kennedys as the seat of the Kennedy clan.

* * * *

OVER TEA, farmer Kennedy was able to verify this and to show the young congressman the stone outbuilding which was part of the original farmhouse in which Patrick was born. They agreed they are second cousins, once removed.

The American Kennedy left the Irish Kennedy and cousin James heard nothing much about cousin John until 13 years later when the American was elected President of the United States.

But the forthcoming visit of cousin John will be no such quiet matter for the many Kennedy and the other Irish folk in County Wexford.

Kennedy went to Dungenstown while he was on a visit to an Irish castle of the Duke of Devonshire, whose son was married to Kennedy's sister Kathleen.

Kathleen died in a 1947 plane crash. Her husband was killed in World War II.

Mosk Raps Ultraright's Idea All Else Is Treason

By SHERM WILLIAMS

Attorney General Stanley Mosk Saturday said the view of right-wing extremists that those who disagree with them are traitors "is the single most dangerous notion to find expressed in contemporary life."

Mosk as addressing the conference on extremists' groups sponsored by the Los Angeles County Federation of Labor in the Ambassador Hotel.

"The right wing, or the ultraright, whichever term you choose, is traditionally regarded as monolithic," Mosk said.

* * * *

"BUT MORE careful study reveals the movement to be made up of diverse elements with diverse goals. The only major points of agreement among these elements are that they are 'patriots,' '100-percent American' and 'dedicated anti-Communists'.

"They charge those who oppose them with being 'commies,' 'pinkos,' 'comsymps' and 'dupes.'

"This presumption — that they are virtuous and that those who disagree are traitors," Mosk characterized as the most dangerous notion in American life.

"If there is to be any meaningful discussion of public policy, there must be an assumption that all participants have the public welfare in mind.

"Otherwise," Mosk said, "there can be no dialogue—only the ranting of extremists."

Mosk's address at a luncheon wrapped up the two-day conference sponsored by the labor federation. The meeting dwelled on communism Friday and switched to the ultraright extremist groups Saturday.

* * * *

EARLIER Saturday, a variety of speakers spoke on methods and motiviations of right-wing extremists.

Mosk said the right-wing extremist movement presents a true challenge.

"Although logically inconsistent, it possesses a dynamism of evangelistic fervor. Although confounded by misunderstood, misplaced and misemphasized information, it has the appeal of a simple 'answer,'" Mosk said.

King Plans Strategy in Court

BIRMINGHAM (UPI)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. — sporting an eight day growth of beard — was freed from the Birmingham jail on bond Saturday and promptly vowed to continue the desegregation drive he kicked off here 18 days ago.

King said he decided to post the $300 bond so he would be free this weekend to discuss strategy for a court appearance Monday, when he is to answer charges of contempt.

The charges were brought when King ignored a court order banning further racial demonstrations in this steel city. Although served with a copy of the order, King led a Good Friday segregation protest march that attracted nearly 1,000 shouting and singing Negroes into the downtown area.

He has been in jail ever since, and said he expects to be jailed again Monday on the contempt charges.

* * * *

KING SAID, however, that this will not affect the desegregation drive since persons "from all over the country" have agreed to come here to direct the segregation protests in his absence.

While in jail, King issued a call for nationwide picketing Saturday against five-and-dime store chains that permit segregation in their Southern stores.

The appeal won scattered acceptance.

In Los Angeles, Local 770 of the Retail Clerks Union picketed 16 variety stores with signs reading: "Please do not patronize. This company maintains integration in the North — segregation in the South."

Rafferty Assails Unruh Pressure

self is considered a possible Democratic nominee.

When the altered education bill hit the Assembly floor April 2, Republicans voted in a bloc and killed it. Only one Republican said the he was opposed to the program; the others indicated that they were against it because the change in appointive power was a Democratic slap at Rafferty.

Two days later, the measure moved through the Assembly after Democrats offered a compromise: the consultant would be appointed by the head of an advisory committee, who in turn would be appointed by the governor.

"There's not much question," Rafferty said, "the change (of appointive powers) was dictated by Mr. Unruh." He said he believed Unruh wanted the change "so his party could get the advantage of making this key appointment."

governor had nothing to do with the Democratic action. He said he was assured that Brown was "most reluctant" to accept the appointive power and had even gone so far as to ask the legislative leaders not to change the original bill.

"The two persons most embarrased by this matter," Rafferty said, "were the governor and myself."

Rafferty said that the consultant should be appointed by the superintendent of public instruction not only to keep educational matters in the hands of the education department but to prevent administrative problems.

Rafferty said that the outside appointment could result in a situation finding the consultant working in the department, accepting its help, and yet not reporting to department heads.

Furthermore, Rafferty noted, all other consultants in the department are appointed by the superintendent.

Rafferty said that Unruh's action was only part of "an increasing amount of partisan politics in education." He said that in recent speeches he had been urging listeners to write to the legislature and protest.

YOUNG KING Hussein spent much of the day at war games put on by his nation's first paratroops and was reported by an official spokesman to have told them they were the "nucleus of a new unit" for the Jordanian army.

Anti-Hussein leaflets were distributed through out the country Saturday, urging Hussein's overthrow and the establishment of Jordan as "the fourth star in the U.A.R. flag."

Students in Amman waving the new three-star U.A.R. flag were dispersed without violence and the flag confiscated by police. Troops took over to maintain order in Jerusalem.

The Jerusalem demonstrations forced security forces to open fire to control the crowds but no Jordanians were reported wounded.

Ambulances Unhindered

A labor dispute failed to curtail ambulance service in Long Beach Saturday, as a contest of will between Bowers Ambulance Service and drivers and attendants ended its second day in stalemate.

Fire Department personnel continued to stand by to provide ambulances in case Bowers' operation should falter, under an order issued by City Manager John R. Mansell.

Police officials were under instruction to contact Mansell immediately if any emergency arose in the city's ambulance contract with Bowers.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Urge Laos Policy Action by Nations

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States Saturday urged the three nations charged with policing the Laotian peace agreement to try to check the peril stemming from new Communist military operations there.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk held individual meetings Saturday with the envoys of India, Poland and Canada—the countries designated under last year's Geneva Accords to see that the pact was kept.

Earlier, President Kennedy held an hour-long meeting on Laos with his National Security Council.

Kennedy and his top military and diplomatic advisers were understood to have considered the wisdom of sending a special appeal to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev. This would have asked him to use his influence to try to halt pro-Communist Pathet Lao attacks which have violated the Geneva Accord and sent Neutralist government forces reeling in retreat in Northern Laos.

Neutralist forces withdrew to the edge of the vital Plaine Des Jarres in East-Central Laos Saturday, ahead of advancing troops of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao, military sources reported.

JFK Lauds Pope's Encyclical

NEWTON, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy said Saturday Pope John XXIII's encyclical, "Pease on Earth" in its closeness to statements of men of other faiths, "shows we are learning to talk a language of progress and peace across the barriers of sect and creed."

The President, in his first public comment on the Pope's message, said that "As a Catholic I am proud of it and as an American I have learned from it."

Kennedy spoke in his home state at a centennial convocation at Boston College.

"In its penetrating analysis of today's great problems—of social welfare and human rights—of disarmament, international order and peace—that document surely shows that on the basis of one great faith and its tradition there can be developed counsel on public affairs that is of value to all men and women of good will," he said.

Nixon Toasts the Press

WASHINGTON (AP)—Richard M. Nixon proposed a toast Saturday to working newsmen, hailing them as "the most underpaid skilled craftsmen in America."

His tribute, offered at a luncheon of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, was in sharp contrast to the bitter blast he directed at much of the press last fall after being defeated in his race for the governorship of California.

The former vice president was in a far different mood today. He told the editors, he would like "an opportunity to extend my remarks." He then went on to say that since the governor's race he has done some writing for newspapers, written a book and found that "Nothing can equal the pressure of having to meet a deadline."

"So," he said, "I speak with great respect to working reporters and editors. And I'd like to propose a toast to the working press—the most underpaid skilled craftsmen in America."

In his address to the editors, Nixon called for a "command decision" by President Kennedy to force the Soviets to abandon their beachhead in Cuba. He proposed open United States support for forces organizing to overthrow any foreign controlled government in the hemisphere and for those resisting any Red take over of a free regime.

Rockefeller, Heiress Still Silent

NEW YORK (AP)—A question of whether Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller intends to remarry—soon—was raised Saturday by the divorce of an heiress who once worked on his staff.

Both the multimillionaire Rockefeller, a possibility for next year's Republican presidential nomination, and Mrs. Margaretta (Happy) Murphy, the heiress, remained silent.

She was divorced in Sun Valley, Idaho, April 1 from Dr. James S. Murphy, an associate in virology and medicine at the Rockefeller Institute. The names of Rockefeller, 54, and Mrs. Murphy, 35, mother of four, have been linked by newspaper smart-set columnists since soon after he was divorced in March, 1962.

Chemist Classifies Sub Debris

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (UPI)—A chemist told a Naval Court of Inquiry Saturday that debris, apparently from the sunken submarine Thresher's nuclear reactor shield, was charred in "a rush of flame."

Fred L. Downs, a chemist employed at the Portsmouth naval shipyard where the Thresher was built, testified about tests he made on new debris recovered in the Atlantic where the submarine sank April 10 with a loss of 129 men.

The debris included a chunk of charred plastic about one foot square and one inch thick which Downs said was from the nuclear reactor shield of a submarine of the Thresher class. Downs said he tested the plastic for impact, tear effect and compression but was unable to determine how the edges were torn, broken or burned.

Garcia's Execution Brings Marchers

LONDON (AP)—Demonstrators marched in cities on both sides of the Atlantic Saturday to protest the Franco government's execution in Madrid of Spanish Communist Julian Grimau Garcia.

The dawn execution by firing squad less than 48 hours after his conviction of "military rebellion" was denounced by the demonstrators as the work of assassins. Shouts of "Death to Franco" were heard in such cities as Mexico City and Rome.

Canada Prisoners Riot

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (UPI)—Some 350 prisoners rioted at the federal prison here Saturday, overpowering a guard who was held with a knife at his throat for 14 hours before he was released unharmed.

A total of 200 steel-helmeted Royal Canadian Mounted Policemen, prison guards and city police lobbed a large amount of tear gas into the rioters before quelling the disturbance. The rioters set three fires.

Women's Day Meet Will Hear Dr. Lee

COSTA MESA—A professor of anthropology will speak at this year's Community Women's Day program at 10 a.m. May 1 in the auditorium at Orange Coast College.

Dr. Dorothy Lee of San Fernando Valley State College and Iowa State University, will discuss the "Role of Women in Today's Culture."

Rick Nelson, 22, and his bride, the former Kris Harmon, 18, pause at the door of St. Martin of Tours Church in the Brentwood district of Los Angeles after their wedding. Nelson is the son of Ozzie and Harriet Nelson of television. The bride is the daughter of Tom Harmon, former football star, and actress Elyse Knox.

Carriers' Future in Navy Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Navy estimate on the future of carriers and their aircraft, when the full impact of ballistic missile weapons is felt in the 1965-75 decade, will be ready for Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara by mid-May.

It is expected to project a continuing major role for the big flattops.

The study has been under way since December. More than 20 officers, headed by Vice Adm. William A. Schoech, Deputy Chief of Naval Operations for Air, have been assembling the material, with help from scores of experts.

* * * *

NAVY SOURCES said Saturday it will be ready for the May 15 deadline set by McNamara.

The broadened study ordered by McNamara does not mean he is aiming at "junking of carriers," a defense spokesman has said.

But obviously the analysis of the sea-based strike forces includes a new look at the role of carriers when ballistic missiles of the Navy and Air Force have taken over most of the strategic targeting system.

Carriers are now packaged within the "general purpose forces" under McNamara's over-all allocations of missions and roles for the military forces. This suggests their primary role has become participation with conventional forces in limited or general warfare.

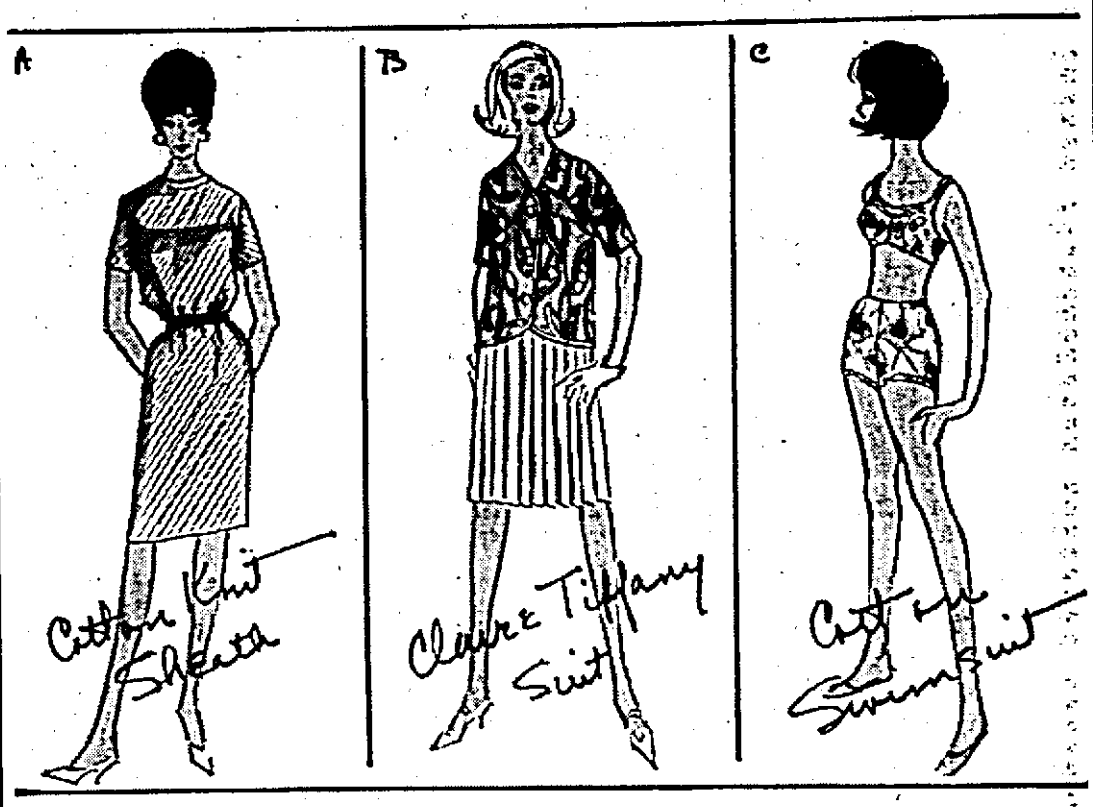

While details of the study have not been delineated, indications are that it will include a prediction of probable need for worldwide deployment of U.S. Navy flattops.

FAST-MOVING IBC SHOW PLANNED

New Pageant Concept Outlined

By BOB SANDERS

"The International Beauty Congress this year will usher in an entirely new concept of beauty pageantry that will make the rest of the so-called beauty contests look sick in comparison."

So said Wayne Dallard, executive director of the IBC this week as he unveiled the dazzling array of talent he has lined up to help him put on the show.

"We are going to convert this show from being 'just an event' into being a full-scale production," he said. "We have decided to use the revue format, as espoused by George White, Flo Ziegfield and Ken Murray, because it fits so well the talent that is inherent in our show — feminine beauty."

Dallard made these observations in announcing that Frank Allen Hubbell, the well-known radio, television and movie musical director would adapt music for the show as well as conduct the orchestra.

The music to be used in the 1963 IBC show, which will be televised on a nationwide NBC network, will utilize at least three numbers by Meredith Willson, with whom Dallard has worked in past years.

The opening of the show will be built around Willson's "American Anthem" and the closing will use Willson's "Freedom Song" in which the word "freedom" is sung in 45 different languages. Another Willson number, the "love duet" from the California Story, which Dallard produced several years ago in Hollywood Bowl and San Diego, will also be the basis for a major pageant number.

Featured Vocalist

STEPHEN PAPICH
Ballet Director

"This music ties in so strongly with the new theme of the pageant, "Beauty through Friendship," Dallard said, "that it was almost impossible not to use it."

Contacted in his Mandeville Canyon home, Willson expressed considerable elation that his music was to play such a prominent part in the new IBC show.

"I am delighted that Wayne Dallard, whom I have worked with off and on since 1950, has decided to feature some of my music in his new production," the writer of "The Music Man" said.

"The Freedom Song" which I wrote to help fill the need for greater understanding between the different races of the world is almost an obvious choice for this pageant which has a built-in potential for promoting international understanding through the comparison of international beauty," Willson added.

In addition to the appointment of Hubbell as musical director, Dallard also announced three other principals who will play major roles in the entertainment portion of the pageant.

They are Lucille Norman, gifted soprano, Stephen Kemelyan, nationally known baritone, who will carry the vocal portion of the program and Stephen Papich who will direct the dancing of the ballet presentations.

"The show will utilize more than 250 people in the cast," Dallard said, "in a closely coordinated and superbly timed production.

"We have already roughed out the opening and closing numbers and I can see where we can easily cut at least an hour from the dragging, 3½-hour programs of the past.

"This show is going to move at a fast clip with the judging integrated into the production. There will be none of the long pauses while the judges take a last look' and the audience has to wait. They will have plenty of opportunity to judge the girls while the show is going on."

Hubbell, who has been writing music for Hollywood since 1936, says he already has written two complete numbers for the show. They are "Sound the Trumpets," which will be played during the crowning of the International Beauty Queen, and "March of the Free," which will herald the first entrance of the foreign participants in the show.

Hubbell, who began his musical career as a trumpet player, says he played in an act at the old Hoyt's Theater on the Long Beach Pike way back in the early 1920s when he was only 15 years old.

"Weyland Hoyt, whose family owned the theater, played saxophone with our act," Hubbell recalls. "I wonder if he's still around."

'Rush Week' Begins for Legislators

SACRAMENTO (AP) — This is Rush Week at the Capitol as legislators hurry to beat Friday's cut-off date for unrestricted introduction of bills.

The 80 assemblymen and 40 senators already have turned in just over 3,800 bills, plus scores of resolutions and constitutional amendments.

After Friday, it will take Rules Committee approval and a two-thirds vote of either house for a bill to be introduced. Friday, therefore, is expected to be a busy day.

The week also will bring the first major floor debate of the session, and possibly the first floor action on a major, controversial measure — Gov. Brown's bill for a limited four-year suspension of the death penalty.

The Assembly has set debate on the bill as a special order of business at 10 a.m. Tuesday, with action likely. The measure is expected to squeeze out of the lower house, but appears doomed in the Senate.

The Senate Judiciary Committee goes at it again Monday night in another of a series of hearings on bills dealing with dangerous drugs.

The Assembly Education Committee is scheduled Monday to consider bills by Assemblyman John L. E. Collier, R-Los Angeles, for a pay-later tuition system for students at state colleges and the University of California, and for state payment of junior colleges for instructing certain types of students.

Wednesday, a revived and revised purity of elections bill comes before the Assembly Elections and Reapportionment Committee, which already rejected the measure once.

At Brown's suggestion, however, Assemblyman Gordon H. Winton Jr., D-Merced, amended the bill so it doesn't apply to legislators, but only to the top seven elected state officials.

Military Pay Boost Pending in House

WASHINGTON (AP)—House action is expected soon on a bill to authorize a $1.2-billion yearly increase in military pay and allowances, effective Oct. 1.

Backed by the Defense Department as a necessary step in helping the armed services recruit and retain personnel, the bill would give increases to all active and retired persons, except those with less than two years service.

Rep. Carl Vinson, D-Ga., Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, has said he hopes to bring it to a vote in the House during the first week of May.

• • • •

AS APPROVED by the Armed Services Committee 31-1, on April 9, the bill would provide varying percentage increases ranging from 5 percent for generals and admirals to 16.4 percent for first lieutenants and 16 percent for master sergeants.

Retired personnel would get an increase of 5 percent plus automatic increases in the future whenever the cost of living index rises 3 percent.

Increases in subsistence allowance for officers and ration allowances for enlisted men would also be provided, along with a new allowance, equivalent to one-third of the quarters allowance, for personnel who are not allowed to take their families with them to duty stations. The new provision is called the "family separation allowance."

• • • •

THE BIGGEST FIGHT in committee was over the retirement pay section, which Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S. C., chairman of the subcommittee that handled the original Defense Department proposals, called "the most complex and controversial part of the bill."

Rivers' subcommittee accepted the department proposal that persons who retired before June 1, 1958, be allowed to recompute their retirement pay on the basis of higher pay scales that became effective on that date, but the full committee knocked it out of the bill.

The 5 percent boost in retirement pay would provide $56,730,000 a year for the nearly 350,000 military personnel now on the retired lists. The number is growing at a rate of more than 50,000 a year and by 1980 retirement costs under existing pay scales will be more than $3 billion annually.

Insurance on Girls' Autos Up

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Insurance rates on unmarried female auto drivers under 25 have been boosted 15 per cent by two big companies because, as one spokesman said, girls "aren't as safe as we thought they were."

Rates in the same category for boys are 100 percent or more higher than those for adults. This has been the case for some time, but rates for girls had been the same as those for a husband and wife.

• • • •

A SPOKESMAN for State Farm Mutual, explaining why his company has put in the new increases, said:

"Young females aren't as reckless as young fellows, as a group, but they're just not as mature as their mothers and fathers."

Allstate has had the boost in effect almost a year. The National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters said these two firms are the only ones to increase the coverage for girls.

Spy With Pail, Mop Feared by Woman Unionist

LONDON (AP) — A woman union delegate charged Saturday that employment of outside cleaning women by government departments is a threat to security.

"What guarantee have we got that Olga the Beautiful Spy will not find access to some of our secrets—always assuming that we have some left—by means of a disguise of overalls, mops and pails?" demanded Kathleen Edwards, a delegate to a meeting of the Civil Service Union. The union represents cleaners employed directly by the various government departments.

NEGRO BOY'S APPEAL

Claims Slain Man's Son Murdered Him

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga. (UPI)—Preston Cobb Jr., the Negro youngster sentenced to death at the age of 15 for the murder of his white landlord, said Saturday the man was shot by his own son.

In an affidavit presented at the court hearting seeking a new trial, Cobb named Joseph Coleman Dumas as the murderer of his father. He said he confessed to the murder because he feared for his own life and that of his widowed mother and brothers and sisters, who lived as tenants on the Dumas farm.

Cobb, now 17, was convicted of murdering 73-year-old Frank Coleman Dumas, his white employer, in August 1961, and sentenced to die in Georgia's electric chair.

The sentence drew vigorous protests in this country and abroad while the young Negro remained in Reidsville State Prison awaiting execution.

• • • •

COBB'S CHARGE that the younger Dumas killed his father was supported by an affidavit from a truck driver who said he heard a confession from Joseph Dumas a few minutes before he died in an automobile accident.

The truck driver, Negro Willie Jackson, said he ran over to the younger Dumas, who was thrown onto the highway by the crash, and heard him say: "I've killed my father and I've killed myself."

Jackson said young Dumas repeated the phrase several times.

Donald L. Hollowell, an NAACP lawyer who has taken Cobb's case, sought a new trial on grounds that the Negro youngster did not commit the murder, but confessed only to prevent reprisals against his family.

The state attorney, George Lawrence, presented affidavits from four members of the younger Dumas' family swearing that Joseph was at his own home at the time the elder Dumas was killed.

In his statement, Cobb, who was not present at the hearing, said young Dumas pointed a pistol at him and forced him to accompany him to his father's house.

He said he and Joseph walked into the house and saw the elder Dumas reading a paper. Cobb said Joseph walked behind his father, shot him in the back of the head, and the two of them carried his body to the old man's station wagon.

• • • •

COBB SAID Joseph Dumas forced him to help remove the body and toss it into a roadside ditch a few miles from home.

Then, Cobb testified, Joseph Dumas removed some money from his father's wallet, gave him the wallet with some money left in it and told him to drive away in the station wagon and never come back.

He said Joseph Dumas threatened to harm his family if he told what he had seen.

Cobb was arrested a short time after this while driving the blood-stained vehicle. He had the elder Dumas' wallet in his pocket.

Superior Court Judge George S. Carpenter withheld a decision on granting a new trial and gave attorneys until May 4 to present further arguments.

Airline Gets 100,000 World's Fair Tickets

NEW YORK (AP)—The first 100,000 New York World's Fair tickets of a proposed million-ticket purchase by American Airlines were delivered last week.

Robrt Moses, fair president, handed the tickets to C.R. Smith, president of the airlines, at a ceremony in the Fair headquarters.

This is the largest single purchase thus far by an corporation. The tickets will be distributed throughout American's system of 52 cities and will be made available at reduced rates to the carrier's customers.

Moon-Survey Vehicle to Take Off Next Year

By LEE CRAIG
L. P-T Aerospace Editor

Sometime next year, the United States will send a spidery spacecraft across more than 238,000 miles of space to blaze a trail for manned voyages to the moon.

The 600-pound craft, dubbed "Surveyor," will be packed with instruments that will enable it to view, "feel" and even "chew" the moon's surface, transmitting its discoveries to earth.

• • • •

SEVEN Surveyors are being built by Hughes Aircraft Co. in Culver City for the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, manager of unmanned lunar exploration for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Their mission is threefold:

To provide astronauts who will land on the moon with a foreknowledge of conditions essential to their safe landing and return.

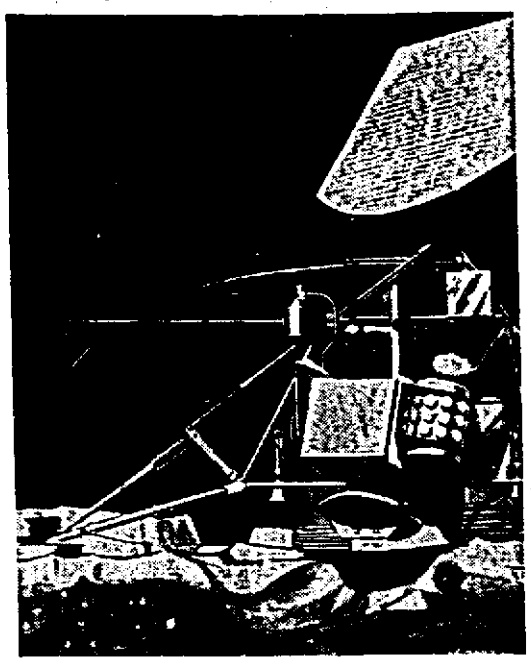

To develop techniques in control, guidance, communications and landing required for a successful manned voyage.

To obtain basic scientific data about the moon.

Each spacecraft will weigh about a ton after it is launched from the Atlantic Missile Range at Cape Canaveral.

After burnout and separation of its Atlas booster, Surveyor's second-stage Centaur engines will ignite to provide the craft's final impetus for its 66-hour, one-way journey.

About 20 hours away from the earth, after Centaur separation, Surveyor will receive orders from NASA's Deep Space Instrumentation Facility to adjust its coasting path with its liquid vernier engines so that it will intercept the moon.

THIS IS AN ARTIST'S concept of how the spacecraft Surveyor will land on the moon in order to send scientific information and television pictures to earth.

• • • •

RETROROCKET power will slow the spacecraft to about six miles an hour to ensure a gentle landing on the lunar surface as three television cameras, two pointing up, one down, send pictures to earth.

Once landed, scientific instruments will collect soil samples and make geochemical analyses, "feel" the surface to assess its physical properties and measure radiation and particle fields of the moon's atmosphere.

Surveyor will operate on the moon's surface for about a month.

Brazil-Soviets Agree on $600-Million Pact

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Brazil signed a new five-year trade agreement with the Soviet Union Friday. A Brazilian official indicated it might be expanded into an economic and technical assistance program with the Russians.

The trade agreement calls for an exchange of more than $600 million worth of goods in the next three years. Trade for this year will amount to $160 million—more than double that of last year. It will increase to $200 million next year and $225 million in 1965.

Brazil will export coffee, cacao and cotton to Russia. The Russians will send petroleum and wheat, two chief Brazilian imports, plus manufactured goods and goods of production.

• • • •

THE BRAZILIANS tacked onto the agreement a guarantee that the Russians would not resell any of the Brazilian products to other countries. There had been local newspaper reports the Russians would sell the coffee to Cuba.

Brazil began trading with the Soviet Union in 1959 on a small scale. The exchange of goods since then has amounted to about $145 million.

U.S.-Brazilian trade for 1962 alone amounted to $1.15 billion worth of goods.

But Finance Minister Francisco San Tiago Dantas gave every indication Brazil wanted to expand economic ties with the Soviet Union.

"Brazil finds in the Soviet Union a market of unforeseeable potentiality not only for coffee and other tropical products, but even for consumer goods manufactured in our country," San Tiago Dantas said.

• • • •

HE SAID at the signing ceremonies he was confident the Brazilian-Soviet economic relations would "extend to that of economic cooperation and technical assistance." He did not elaborate.

A few months back, the U.S. State Department was reported concerned about the prospects of a new Soviet-Brazilian trade agreement. Specific U.S. objections were not given, however.

Last month, after two weeks of talks, the United States agreed to a commitment of $398.5 million in loans and other financial assistance for Brazil. The U.S. aid, however, will be meted out in lumps as Brazil's shows progress against inflation.

Expect 125,000 to Visit Schools Here This Week

By ROBERT WILCOX

A record 125,000 persons are expected to visit the 77 Long Beach public schools during the 44th annual celebration of Public Schools Week, which starts Monday.

Open houses throughout the school district will feature classroom visitation, exhibits of student work, demonstrations and special programs.

Schools will be open from 7 to 9 p.m. on the following schedule:

Monday—Long Beach City College liberal arts, business and technology and general adult divisions and Nightingale and Tucker special schools.

Tuesday—All elementary schools.

Wednesday — All high schools.

Thursday—All junior high schools.

Theme for the 1963 observance is "Our Public Schools — Symbols of Freedom."

• • • •

W. ODIE WRIGHT, superintendent of schools, and Orlo Peugh, chairman of the Citizens' Public Schools Week Observance Committee, emphasized that the event is open to the general public as well as parents.

The City College open house will be highlighted by the Industrial Arts and Vocational Arts Exhibit at the Business and Technology Division. On display will be drawings and special projects in woods, metals, crafts, electronics, graphic arts and architecture.

The 53 elementary schools will present varying programs. They include music presentations, exhibits in literature, reading, mathematics, American heritage and art, and physical education demonstrations.

The open houses at the six high schools will include:

A band concert at Jordan, a rehearsal of excerpts from the musical "Carousel" at Millikan, a foreign language laboratory demonstration at Polytechnic, a "modern mathematics" lecture at Lakewood, and an art exhibit at Wilson. Dewey has scheduled an 8:15 p.m. music assembly.

Spelling bees will be conducted at three of the 14 junior high schools. Other activities include musical programs, "science fair" exhibits and physical education demonstrations.

THIRTY YEARS A NURSE

Miss Hazel (Chris) Christiansen, RN, (left) of 2001 Cedar Ave., serves a piece of cake to Mrs. Claire O'Malley, director of nursing service, during a fete celebrating Chris' 30th anniversary as a nurse at Memorial-Seaside Hospitals.

HAZEL CHRISTIANSEN

Honor Nurse Official at Memorial Hospital

There was a special affair for a very special person the other day at Memorial Hospital, 2501 Atlantic Ave.

Miss Hazel (Chris) Christiansen, R.N., was celebrating 30 years of nursing service with Memorial and Seaside Hospitals. And she has a Service Award pin with five rubies and a diamond to prove it!

A native of South Dakota, Chris was graduated from Seaside's School of Nursing in 1931. She took advanced courses in orthopedics at Shriners' Hospital, San Francisco, and advanced courses in communicable diseases at Los Angeles General Hospital.

• • • •

IN 1933 she started at Seaside Hospital, 14th and Chestnut, as a supervisor and relief night supervisor on the second floor of the A wing.

In 1941 she was promoted to the nursing office as supervisor on the late afternoon shift.

Then, in June 1960, when Seaside moved to Atlantic Ave. and became Memorial Hospital of Long Beach, she was named senior assistant director of nursing service, the same post she holds today on the 3-to-11:30 p.m. shift.

One of the most popular nurses at the hospital, Chris also is active in the hospital's investment club, the Twenty Grand Club.

Chris lives at 2001 Cedar Ave.

City College Schedules 3 Lectures

Three continuing public lectures are announced for this week by the Long Beach City College General Adult Division. The schedule:

MONDAY

Craftsmanship Today—Thomas Ferreira, "The Potter" (illustrated), 7:30 p.m., Rogers Junor High School auditorium, Monrovia Ave. and Appian Way.

WEDNESDAY

Personal Law for Women—Mary Swift Beeks, "The Law and Your Family," 10 a.m., Dewey High School auditorium, 8th and Locust Ave.

Health for Senior Citizens—Isador Pitesky, M.D., "Asthma: Allergic and Otherwise," 2 p.m., Dewey High School auditorium.

STATE SOCIETY Calendar

MONDAY

Alaska, 1029 E. Broadway, 7:30 p.m.

TUESDAY

West Virginia, 140 W. Sixth St., 6:30 p.m.

California, 208 Linden Ave., noon.

FRIDAY

Kansas, 728 Elm Ave., 6:30 p.m.

SATURDAY

Ohio, 3100 Santa Fe Ave., 6:30 p.m.

THE BUSIEST MOTHER in town during Public Schools Week could be Mrs. Virginia Newman, 6353 Cerritos Ave. She not only receives invitations to witness what's going on at the schools of her four children (from left) Martin, Long Beach City College; Bruce, Jordan High; David, Hamilton Junior High and Sharon, Grant Elementary—but she is a student herself—at Long Beach State College.

MacArthur Memorial Muralist Appointed

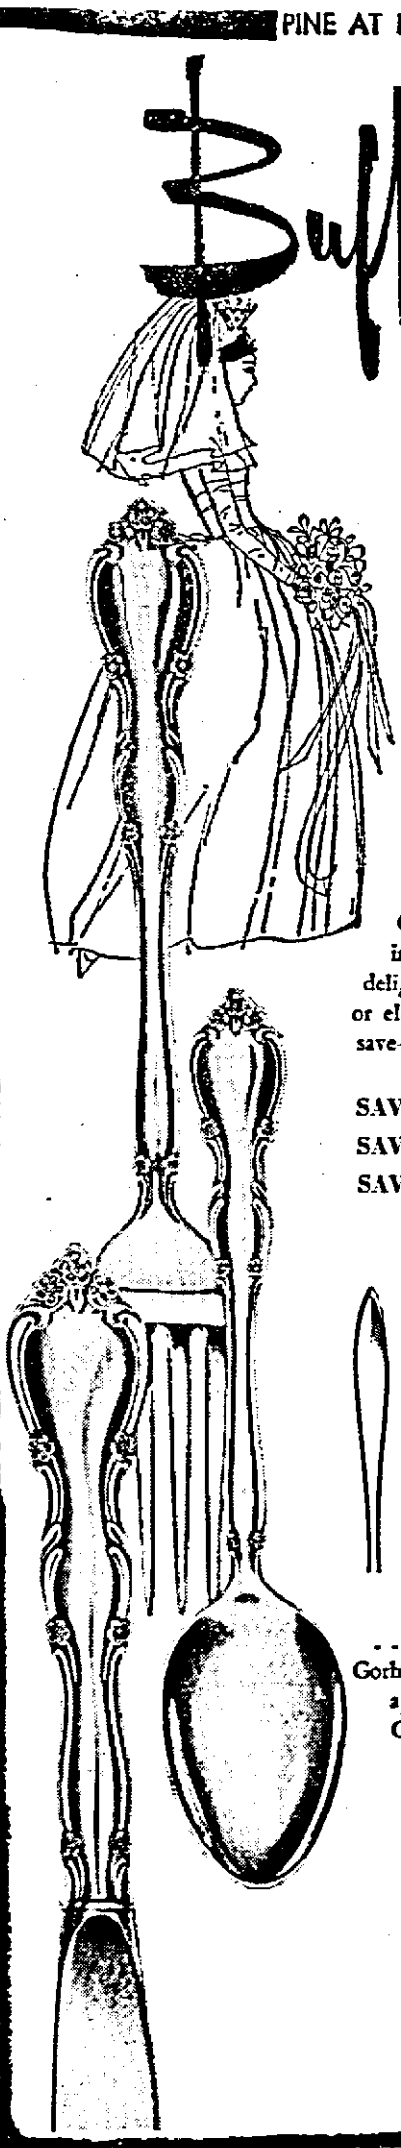

NEW YORK (UPI)—Muralist Morton A. Roberts of New York has been commissioned to do the $30,000 murals on events in the life of Gen. Douglas MacArthur for the MacArthur Memorial and Museum in Norfolk, Va.

The funds for the mural are a grant from the Edwin Austin Abbey Memorial Mural Trust Fund administered by the National Academy of Design.

Plan Model Boat Contest

BOB STRICKNEY, 13, of 3055 Eucalyptus Ave., is shown working on model of tugboat "Long Beach" which he plans to enter in model building contest held in connection with World Trade Week observance.

A contest to select the best-built model of the tug Long Beach was announced Saturday by the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce's Port Ambassadors.

The contest, part of the area observance of World Trade Week, is open to all Southern Californians of any age. Models can be custom made or assembled from commercial kits.

Applications for the contest may be obtained from the Chamber of Commerce, 121 Linden Ave., or at Pierpoint Landing.

* * * *

WINNERS in three age categories—up to 11 years; 12 to16; 17 and over—and an overall champion will receive trophies. All winners will receive four tickets for a harbor cruise on the MV Shearwater. Overall winner will be made a honorary captain of the tugboat Long Beach and be given a half-day assignment on board—without pay.

The overall winner also will receive four round trip tickets on the SS Catalina, four Dodger tickets including free parking, and a fishing rod and reel from Pierpoint Landing.

* * * *

APPLICATIONS must include the answers to 10 questions about the Port of Long Beach. Answers can be found in the Port's illustrated brochure and annual report for the fiscal year 1961-62.

Model boats must be delivered to the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce on or before 4 p.m., May 17.

5 Icing Bagpipes Adorn Wedding Cake

LONDON (UPI) — Princess Alexandra's 5-foot high, 130-pound wedding cake is decorated with five sets of icing bagpipes in her Scottish fiance's family tartan, it was announced.

The princess, who marries Angus Ogilvy in Westminster Abbey Wednesday, asked especially that the bagpipes be put around the bottom of the three-tiered cake. They are set against a background of interlaced white satin ribbon.

Tito Asks Business As Usual

WASHINGTON (AP)—Yugoslav President Tito has sent President Kennedy a letter saying Yugoslavia intends to remain independent and non-aligned in the East-West struggle, informed sources said Saturday.

Tito was said also to have called for a "normalization" of U.S. Yugoslav trade relations, now impaired by a congressional provision against most-favored-treatment of Yugoslavia.

Tito's message was brought to the White House Thursday by Yugoslavian Ambassador Veljko Micunovic, who has just returned to Washington from consultations in Belgrade. Micunovic also met with Secretary of State Dean Rusk yesterday.

The views expressed in the Tito letter were described as similar to the policies Yugoslavia has been following for some time. Though avowedly a Communist country, Yugoslavia has broken with the Soviet bloc and follows an independent foreign affairs course.

Defector Awarded Lenin Prize

MOSCOW, Sunday (AP) — Bruno Pontecorvo, famed Italian-born physicist who defected to the Soviet Union from Britain, has won a Lenin prize, Russia's highest honor, the Soviet news agency Tass announced early today.

The 60-year-old Pontecorvo, credited with helping the Russians build their atomic bomb, was a leading member of the British Harwell Nuclear Research Institute before he secretly fled to the Soviet Union in 1950.

He was recommended for the prize in February for his pioneering research with nutrinos, a microparticle of unusual properties.

THE WEEK IN REVIEW

State Department Hit Cuba Exiles' 'War Move'

By HARRY SHARPE
United Press International

The State Department, with President Kennedy's approval, cracked down last week on what it called Cuban exile attempts to drag the U.S. into war over Cuba.

It said the United States does not intend to put its foreign policy at the mercy of refugees who have been given sanctuary from Communist Premier Fidel Castro's firing squads.

* * * *

AT THE SAME time Secretary of States Dean Rusk told the American Society of Newspaper Editors the United States has made "a major commitment of force" to prevent communism from spreading from Cuba. But that, he said, does not include an invasion demanded by the exiles.

The President also addressed the editors, chiefly on domestic economic issues, but he firmly denied he had promised another invasion of Cuba. He also said U.S. handling of the Russian missile crisis last fall means "there is today more widespread assurance that both peace and freedom can prevails."

The State Department centered its fire on Dr. Jose Miro Cardona, head of the Miami-based Cuban Revolutionary Council who resigned along with seven other members after charging Kennedy with reneging on a promise to invade Cuba. He also accused the President of adopting a policy of "peaceful co-existence" with Castro.

* * * *

THE DEPARTMENT said Miro had made demands—so far reaching that they "almost certainly" would bring war—including $50 million to recruit a new invasion army and giving the council a strong voice in U.S. Cuban policy.

Miro made his accusations, most of them vaguely based, in a 10,000-word statement issued after he resigned. The document purported to recount his dealings with Mr. Kennedy after the ill-fated 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion. He said the President had "formalized" a pact calling for a new invasion.

The State Department replied indignantly that this was false, as proven by the record. It threatened to hold from the council a $2.4 million annual subsidy which is used mostly for secret purposes. It accused Miro of "gross distortion."

The department's tone indicated the President had run out of patience with some exile leaders and regarded the document as "blackmail."

* * * *

RUSK TOLD the editors that U.S. Cuban policy was aimed at preventing Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev from returning offensive weapons to Cuba; enforcing free use of international air space and waters around Cuba; "interdiction" of Cuban-based hostile forays against other Latin American countries; assurance that if Cubans erupt against Castro the United States would not allow Russia to crush the revolt like "a Hungary," and making it crystal clear that Cuba has no future in this hemisphere under communism.

He said it had been made "very clear" to Khrushchev that presence of his troops in Cuba "is not acceptable" and that in the interests of all the Americas they must "get out."

He did not answer renewed charges by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., that 17,000 Soviet troops are still on the island. The President has put the figure at no more than 13,000.

* * * *

THE STATE Department denied it had threatened to deport Miro as "a traitor" or that he and other exile leaders would be barred from Washington councils if the anti-Kennedy document were released.

Council Vice President Antonio de Varona broke with Miro over release of his allegations and set out to rebuild the exile group. U.S. officials said "it may take some time" to repair relations.

Miro Cardona took his tough attitude after the President banned as meaningless and provocative hit-and-run exile raids on Cuba and Russian ships in ports there. Kennedy hopes to bring Castro's eventual downfall through economic, political and diplomatic pressure and possible internal rebellion.

In addressing the editors, the President strongly defended his domestic spending policy and tax-cut plans as ways to build prosperity and head off recessions. He told them bluntly that if it were not for federal aid to hard-pressed state and local governments, "the federal budget today could be in balance."

* * * *

HE DECLARED that a $5 billion cut in his budget would slow the nation down and mean a million fewer jobs. He also emphatically attacked claims of the congressional economy bloc—Republicans and conservative Southern Democrats—that any tax cut must be offset by budget reductions.

He said that if the budget were reduced further it would only impose heavier burdens on states and communities. "The right way to a balanced budget is to seek first a balanced economy," he added.

The dike against steel price increases finally burst with no certainty how the President would react, nor how much it would cost consumers. But cost it will. Even the industry agreed with that. The first chain reaction occurred in construction. Aluminus Co. of America hinted it may raise prices.

* * * *

GIANT U.S. Steel and most other companies, large and small, announced price jumps on selective grades, mostly within a $4 to $7-a-ton range.

The President was disappointed though apparently reconciled. He was said to feel the companies had made a strong case for hikes and that in good conscience he was unable to block them as he did so angrily a year ago.

Eleventh-ranked Wheeling Steel nibbled a hole in the price barrier a week ago. Mr. Kennedy promptly warned the industry and the steel workers union which may now seek wage hikes, that both must use restraint. He repeated this in his speech to the editors.

Warnings came from Congress where next Tuesday a Senate committee will begin an investigation. Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., said the increases could nullify any gains Americans make through tax cuts. The auto industry foresaw 2 per cent price increases on its 1964 models. The President voiced hope they would absorb the cost instead of passing it along.

All sides agreed that the President had improved his image in the business world. U.S. Steel and other companies cited statistics to prove the price advances were warranted. The steel union can reopen its contracts with 11 companies after April 30.

News that the President's wife, Jacqueline, was expecting her third child, took Washington by storm. It had been one of the First Family's best kept secrets. Mrs. Kennedy, now 33, has long cherished the idea of having a child while her husband occupies the White House. She will be in semi-seclusion until the expected birth in August.

The U.S. Civil Rights Commission aroused Southern wrath by proposing the President withhold all federal funds—about $650 million—from Mississippi which it said was close to "a complete breakdown of law and order." The state has been involved in racial troubles. The commission accused it of "open and flagrant violation of constitutional guarantees which affront the conscience of the nation."

In Canada Prime Minister John Diefenbaker resigned, clearing the way for Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson to take over the government Monday. President Kennedy had differed sharply with Diefenbaker who opposed arming Canadian defense planes with U.S. nuclear weapons. Pearson is expected to confer with Kennedy soon after he takes office.

Beach Combing

with MALCOLM EPLEY

A FINE show of confidence in L.B.'s fire department—which we later found out was fully justified—was shown by some fellow who called on the phone Thursday at the height of a brief but dangerous fire in our press room.

The caller asked for Bill Wray, adv. plans director. The person who answered the phone said: "Mr. Wray isn't in his office. Our building is on fire."

"Oh o.k.," said the voice on the phone. "I'll call back later."

IT's not often that an event that makes reportable news occurs so close at hand to the newsroom.

So it wasn't hard to get the facts. The big issue with us for a while was whether we would have an edition the next morning to print them in.

That we did is in large measure due to the fine work of the firemen, both in quick response with plenty of good equipment and in the intelligent and responsible way they went about suppressing the blaze.

THIS fire flashed through a big ventilator duct which runs along the ceiling of the press room, within a few feet of the massive but delicate equipment that turns out the printed papers. It and the complex electrical set-up adjoining it could be quickly put out of commission by even a light dousing of water.

The firemen attacked the blaze in the duct with water, but they carefully avoided any unnecessary spraying of the liquid over the delicate equipment. The manner of their operations showed clearly the results of good training and an awareness of the fact that water can sometimes do damage comparable to that it denies a fire.

In short, the firemen put out our fire and they did it with a minimum of the damage fire-fighting can cause. Needless to say, we are all warmly appreciative, and no pun intended. We could have been a lot warmer and less appreciative. This fire, less effectively fought, could have swept the entire building.

AN interesting sidelight concerns a big clock on the wall of the press room directly under the duct that caught fire.

The heat stopped the hands of the clock at 4:31, exactly pin-pointing the time of the fire.

Started by sparks from a welding operation, the blaze could not have occurred at a more opportune time from the standpoint of our operations. The Press-Telegram night final run was just off, and several hours elapsed before the press was needed for the late evening runs of the Independent. That gave time to check everything out, clean up the mess and make necessary repairs.

It was a suspenseful period. In no business except public utilities, is regularity and continuity of operation more important than with a newspaper. In earthquake, fire or other disaster, the press always struggled determinedly to avoid missing an edition. It is the code.

IN passing out appreciative notes, I must not omit a word for the Long Beach police dept.

The traffic squad quickly set up controls on the streets around the building. Guards were placed to prevent foot or vehicle travel in the alleys where there was danger of injury to spectators and the possibility of interference with fire-fighting operations.

A couple of our own men found out how tight was this barrier. They wanted to get into the alley, presumably on some semi-official business. No amount of argument or showing of identification cards could get them by until the situation cleared.

IT did, after a while, and the fellow who wanted to talk to Bill Wray, if he called back, as promised, got his man on the phone. The building, as he had expected, did not burn down.

MUSIC, DRAMA, ARCHITECTURE INCLUDED IN MAY PROGRAM

Four Centuries' Art Festival Scheduled

Music, art, architecture, drama and literature will be "big" in Long Beach during the month of May. The occasion will be "A Four Centuries Festival," sponsored by the Long Beach Music Council and affiliated community organizations.

Included in the month-long festival will be 43 separate events ranging from concerts and drama productions to art exhibits and the fifth annual Long Beach Writers' Conference. A complete calendar of events will be published in The Independent, Press-Telegram next Sunday.

Chief organizers of the festival are the officers of the Long Beach Music Council: Dr. Gerald Daniel, chairman; Mrs. Wilma Hastings, vice chairman; William C. Boyd, treasurer; and Mrs. John McDonald, secretary.

Planners of the third annual Long Beach Music Festival selected the "four centuries" theme, covering the 17th, 18th, 19th and 20th centuries. Participating groups were either to include a work from each century on to concentrate on the music of one epoch.

GERALD DANIEL
Heads Festival Program

As a means of dramatizing to the community the wealth of cultural activities available in Long Beach, the Four Centuries Festival was then expanded to include many other events already scheduled during May.

Participating organizations include the Council of Living Theater, various art galleries, the American Institute of Architects, the Long Beach Public Library, Long Beach City College and Long Beach State College.

Opening events of the festival will be the Community Concerts presentation of violinist Gabriel Banat on May 1 and the Long Beach Civic Light Opera production of "The Desert Song" beginning May 2. Final event will be the presentation on May 31 of antiphonal choral works from four centuries by the combined choirs of City College and State College.

Between these dates there will be 15 other concerts, 14 art exhibits, the May 9-11 Writers' Conference, and a number of drama productions at community and college theaters. Stage fare will range from Shakespeare to the works of Beckett, Albee and Ionesco.

Special attention will be given during the festival to outstanding local buildings designed by Long Beach members of the American Institute of Architects. Mary A. Holmes, lecturer in art at UCLA, will be presented by the LBCC General Adult Division in a weekly series of illustrated talks on art since the 17th century.

Many events of "A Four Centuries Festival" will be open to the public without charge.

A WORLD AWAY FROM THE TEEMING CITIES

Santa Ana Mts. Wild Paradise

By PAUL WALLACE

The Los Angeles-Long Beach Metropolitan area, like floodwaters fed by the well springs of the Midwest, has spread its burgeoning population north and east across the flatlands.

The farms and citrus groves of the Los Angeles basin have been inundated in huge waves by sprawling residential tracts, industrial and commercial centers, until little open land remains on the valley floors.

From Long Beach, the surge of people has spread rapidly eastward across the orchards and truck farms of Orange County to lap against the foot of the Santa Ana Mountains.

The easily-tamed level lands swarm with people and houses and automobiles, the smells of industry and internal combustion engines and the enervating noises of this bustling society.

* * * *

BUT THERAPY for shattered, civilization-saturated nerves lies only a few minutes away.

In the Santa Ana Mountains, where the twin humps of Santiago Peak—Old Saddleback—probe nearly 6,000 feet into the sky, the land is primitive, little traveled—and uninhabited.

Small herds of deer bound through the spring-green brush and squirrels bustle under aromatic stands of bull pine. Red-tailed hawks wheel over steep canyons, bees drone lazily and tiny lizards skitter across the trail.

The area is lonely, big and spectacular. And it is accessible.

Rough, one-lane dirt fire roads curl up to Saddleback and along the backbone of the range from Black Star Canyon on the west to the Ortega Highway (State Highway 74), which runs through the mountains between Capistrano and Elsinore on the east.

* * * *

THE ROADS are opened to the public each year after the first rains decrease the fire hazard. They are left open for general use until July 1 when the fire risk again becomes too high.

The next three months, with the weather warming and the snows gone from Saddleback, is the best time of year to visit this nearby wilderness.

Anytime during the week you practically will have it to yourself. Sundays produce more traffic. But anytime the difficulty of the all-dirt fire roads that form the main arteries through the mountain area will separate the real explorers from the Sunday drivers.

The narrow trails are indescribably circuitous. Generally, the grades are not too steep.

They range from rough to very rough in places. But all are passable for a modern auto. If you have a jeep, pickup truck or motorcycle, though, you would be better off.

* * * *

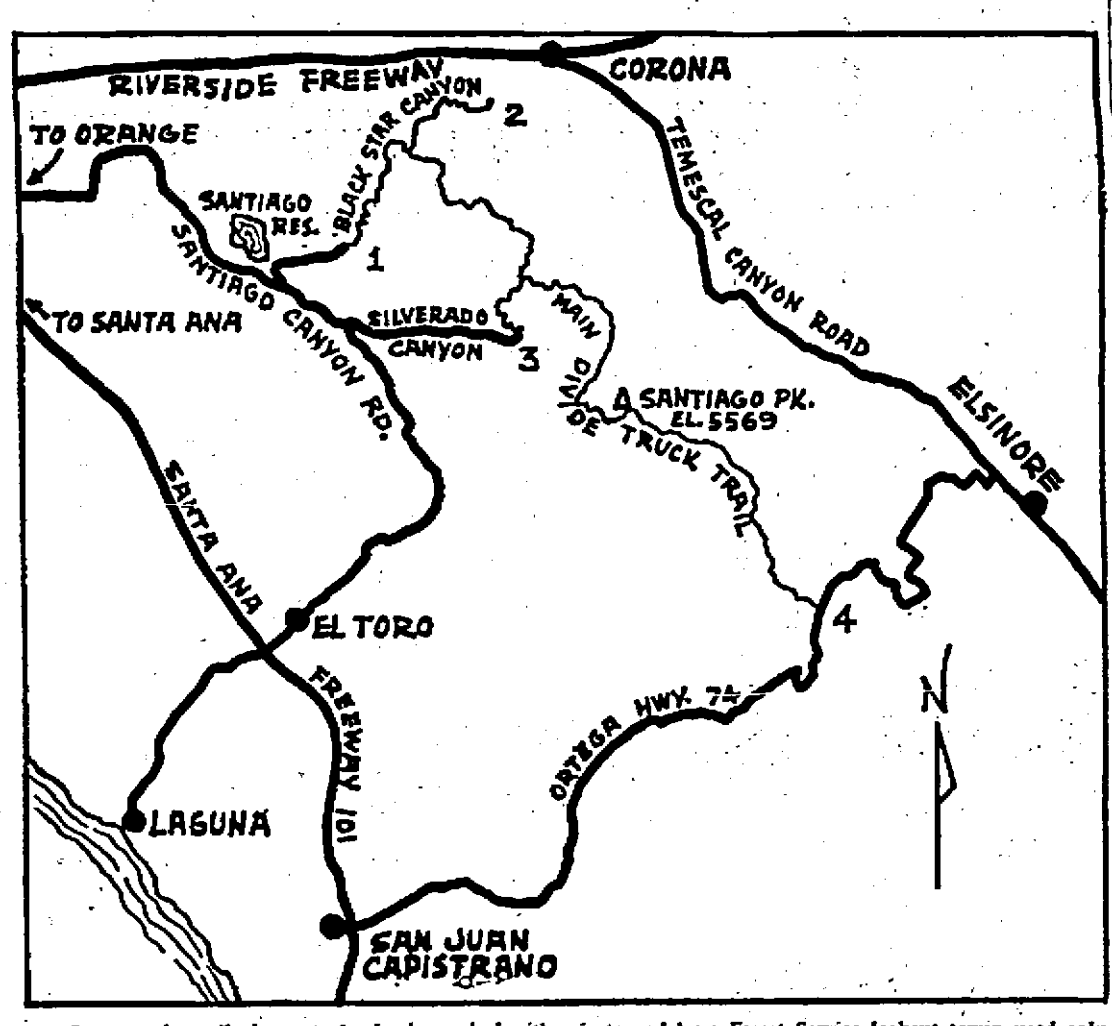

IT IS a rough drive and not easy on cars. Average speed will be 8 miles an hour.

There are turnaround spots on most of the roads about every mile. But if you meet someone, sometimes one of the cars may have to back up for some distance before they can pass.

It is advisable to have a vehicle not subject to overheating. Go in with plenty of gasoline in the tank and at least one good spare tire plus tire changing equipment. If you are going far into the mountains, the Forest Rangers recommend taking a canteen of water. Binoculars would be an additional nicety.

There are only four open gates into the Saddleback area—and one of them—behind Corona—is poorly marked and almost impossible to find from below.

The El Cariso gate leads onto the Main Divide trail Canyon Road; Black Star Canyon Road, which goes north from the intersection of Santiago Canyon and Silverado Canyon Roads; the hard-to-find gate off Chase Drive behind Corona (the other end of the Black Star Canyon route across the mountains) at the foot of the mountains' eastern slope; and the El Cariso gate on the west side of the Ortega Highway about two miles past the 2,000-foot-level road sign up the highway from Capistrano.

Once on the trail, the route is clearly marked with distances and points of interest.

The El Cariso gate leads onto the Main Divide trail which runs along the backbone of the range to connect first with the trail from the Silverado Canyon near Saddleback Peak itself, then on west to intersect with the Black Star Canyon trail.

It is about 15 miles from the Ortega Highway to Saddleback. From there down to hill to Silverado Canyon—which is the busiest route—it is another 15 miles. From Silverado Peak west along the Main Divide trail to Black Star Canyon trail, then right out the Corona gate or left to Santiago Canyon Road, it is about 18 miles.

Sightseers can always just drive in a few miles, then come back out the same way, if they don't feel up to the arduous run from one gate to another.

* * * *

A RECOMMENDED short run is in the El Cariso gate where, after three miles of unusually rough road, you come into Los Pinos Potrero—a lovely live-oak dotted mountain meadow and a delightful spot for a picnic.

The top of Saddleback, itself, is the one busy place in the whole range with its complex of antennas, relay stations and communications equipment. Its main building is topped by a Forest Service lookout tower, used only during the fire hazard season.

The view from here is inspiring from any direction, with the Southland from San Bernardino to Palos Verdes spread out at your feet.

It is a world away from the teeming valleys below. But it is a vista that must be won over 30 miles of jolting switchbacks.

Dan Ridder Heads Fair Committee

A Long Beach advisory committee for the California World's Fair, headed by Dan Ridder and numbering more than two score prominent citizens, was announced Saturday by Nelson McCook, president of the fair organization.

McCook said the committee will be kept informed on fair operations and will be asked for advice and aid in carrying out an effective program. First meeting of the group is scheduled for May 3 at the Lafayette Hotel when a full briefing will be given the members and invited ex-officio members and public officials.

RIDDER, co-publisher of The Independent, Press-Telegram, said the acceptances of committee appointments demonstrated enthusiasm for the fair in the Long Beach community and a recognition of the importance of community interest and support. "A successful fair," he said, "will bring tremendous economic and cultural benefits to Long Beach and to all of California."

Membership of the committee, which McCook said may be expanded from time to time, follows:

George L. Craig II, shipbuilding firm official; James G. Craig Jr., broker; James H. Crooker, auto firm head and president of the International Beauty Congress; Allen W. Danielson, bank vice president; Albert G. Davis, furniture company official; James E. Edmonds, mortgage company head and chairman of the Urban Re-Development Agency.

ALSO, C. L. FOWLER, petroleum firm head; Herbert Frahm, telephone company division manager; William S. Grant, former assemblyman; John W. Hancock, industrialist; Walter Haverkorst, retired bank vice president; Everett Houser, attorney and member of Water Commission; J. S. Jacobs, electrical contractor and member of Board of Education; George R. Johnson, attorney; John L. Kelley, insurance company head.

Lloyd Leedom, realtor; Gus Lueking, shoe store owner and vice president, Downtown Associates; Harold J. Lewis, jeweler; Fred Miller, superior court judge; Fonda McCook, bank president; John McKenna, hotel manager; Jackson R. McGowan, aircraft firm vice president.

ALSO, JOE SHUFF, department store manager and president of Downtown Associates; Irvin Solomon, restaurant operator and vice chairman of Armed Service Commission; Ike Sukman, department store head; George Taubman, attorney; George Trammell, attorney; Gus Walker, bank president; Odie Wright, school superintendent; Valle G. Young, department store president.

Ex-officio appointees include Congressman Craig Hosmer, Assemblymen Joseph M. Kennick and George Deukmejian, County Supervisors Burton W. Chase and Frank Bonelli and State Sen. Thomas Rees. Mayor Edwin Wade is an honorary member of the committee.

Harry Krusz, Chamber of Commerce executive vice president, will act as secretary of the committee.

Cargo Vessel Joining 7th

The Long Beach-based USS Ashtabula, commanded by Capt. J. S. Hill, left Pearl Harbor Thursday to join the Seventh Fleet on operations duty, the Pacific Service Force announced Saturday.

The Ashtabula, a Navy cargo ship, is carrying 38 drums of clothing for distribution to Korean orphans in addition to fuel oil and aviation gas.

UN Supporters Meet Tonight

A public meeting of the American Association for the United Nations will be held tonight at 7:30 p.m. in Unitarian Church, 5450 Atherton St.

Doyle's Seat Sought by Newsman

Alhambra newspaperman Hal Butler formally entered the 23rd district congressional race for the seat left vacant by the death of the late Clyde Doyle, when he filed on the Republican ticket Friday.

Butler will oppose Compton Mayor Del Clawson and former Bell Mayor Harold Bennett, both Republicans, in the race which will end in the special election on June 11. There are six Democrats also running for the office.

Forty-Niner Days on LBSC Campus

A gala Long Beach State College Spring stage revue, "Forty-Niner Days," will begin Friday at the eastside campus and feature pioneer scenes complete with "dance hall girls" and "Pete's Gulch" townsite constructed on stage.

The annual event has been extended to two days this year, ending next Saturday.

EDITORIAL

Campaign Fund Law Is Needed

THE UNTIDY AFFAIR of the Filipino lobby fund shows the need for a federal law requiring congressional candidates to make full, itemized public disclosures of money contributed to their campaigns.

If such disclosures were required, we doubt that much of the money handed out by lobbyist John A. O'Donnell to representatives and senators would have been accepted; and it is possible that the outcome of certain legislative issues might have been different.

O'DONNELL, A LOBBYIST for sugar companies and war damage claimants in the Philippines, contributed to the campaigns of 11 Democratic and three Republican representatives and six Democratic senators. He later told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that it was important to his clients that senators and representatives familiar with Philippine affairs get re-elected to office.

The largest campaign contribution went to Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, Wisconsin Democrat, who says he turned the money over to the Democratic National Committee. Rep. Zablocki is chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Subcommittee on the Far East and co-sponsor of a war claims bill passed last year. A smaller amount went to Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, Minnesota Democrat, who sponsored the war claims bill in the Senate.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, commented at the end of the hearing on the O'Donnel affair:

"I do not believe that, if the administration and the Congress had been informed of the true facts as we now know them, the legislation which was actually passed would have been enacted."

The Senator will now propose an amendment providing that the war claims be paid to the Phillippine government rather than to individuals and private companies.

That will remedy that error, but what about the question of lobby pressures?

AS SOON AS THE revelations were published, three of the Senators who received money from O'Donnell said they had had no personal knowledge of his contributions to their campaign.

On the basis of such disclaimers, one would have to conclude that Mr. O'Donnell didn't do his job very well. The legislative record, however, suggests otherwise. A citizen must be forgiven if he entertains the suspicion that somebody somewhere along the line knew where the money came from and was influenced by it.

The standard reply to charges of this sort is that political campaigns can't be run without money. True, the American politician depends upon private contributions. We are not trying to alter that. What we suggest is a federal law which:

1. Requires each candidate to assume full responsibility for the receipts and expenditures of his political campaign.

2. Requires a full public accounting at frequent intervals of those receipts and expenditures.

If such a law were passed, no representative or senator could excuse himself by saying he didn't know he had received money from certain sources; and the public would know which lobbyists are seeking to influence which congressmen.

Some states have rigid laws regulating the publicizing of campaign contributions, others very weak ones. A federal law would subject all congressmen to the same rules.

No honest lawmaker could possibly object.

We Call It an Open Primary but CDC, CRA Slam the Door

FORMER GOV. GOODWIN J. Knight thought that we were only one step removed from abolition of the direct primary in California. The task of selecting party nominees had, in practical effect, fallen to unofficial but powerful volunteer political organizations.

HOUSER

These groups, of course, are the California Democratic Council (CDC) and the California Republican Assembly (CRA). They are immune to election laws which provide tight reins on official party organizations — the state central committies of both parties.

Official groups cannot endorse one candidate over another within their own parties before a primary. In short, they are constrained by law to allow California to have an open primary in which the people decide which primary candidate becomes a general election nominee.

But the unofficial CDC and CRA are free. So they hold endorsement conventions, fact-finding meetings and come up with recommendations for each primary contest. Rejected candidates usually withdraw from the primary, recognizing the almost unanimous success that these unofficial endorsees have.

Thus, as Knight indicated, California's primary nominees are virtually selected in convention—even though unofficial—and the open primary is almost a wasted motion.

WITH EXCEPTIONS. Take 1958. CDC endorsed Stanley Mosk for attorney general. This didn't keep Robert I. McCarthy from staying in the race, but McCarthy lost. CRA endorsed Caspar Weinberger but Pat Hillings stayed in and won the primary.

The convention choices don't prohibit anybody from running. But the fact is, the non-endorsed usually lose. This big muscle has rendered the official state committees to second-rank status in which they may not fire a shot until after the primary, other than their general volley on behalf of the party name.

Bill Knowland, former U. S. Senator, said recently he has never felt "that a contested primary election needs to be fatal to a political party" if the party unites behind the winner. Recent history doesn't refute Knowland's word but it's a fair case study in disaster if the party does not unite.

Richard M. Nixon and Joseph C. Shell provided the contest for the June, 1962, Republican primary. Nixon won about two-to-one. Did the GOP then unfy, as Knowland suggests as a preventive against party fatality? It did not.

DESPITE A 3 TO 2 registration majority favoring Democrats, Republican primary candidate for governor actually outpolled Democrats by some 20,000. But in the general election, Pat Brown beat Nixon by almost 297,000 votes.

Overriding puzzle for Republicans is how to unify behind the GOP primary winner in 1964 elections. But the question for Californians in general is whether unofficial groups like CDC and CRA should keep their undisputed power to virtually name the primary victors in advance.

An obvious alternative is simply to prohibit their preprimary endorsing activity by law. Then you have a true open primary with theoretical starting-gate equality for as many candidates who choose to run.

IN SUCH AN open joust, it's conceivable that Republicans might have accepted the 1962 primary verdict with more grace. It might have eliminated some of Joe Shell's bitter "kingmaker" accusations against Nixon backers. And, in turn, it might have made a victorious unity possible.

Since this concern is not one which bothers the Democrats at the moment, a legislative Rx for good GOP health seems not likely to be sold over the counter or without prescription by internists now resident in Sacramento.

Steel Workers' Chief Stays Very Quiet in Palm Springs

WASHINGTON—One enigma in the maneuvering over steel prices is the whereabouts and silence of Dave McDonald, president of the United Steel Workers. Dave, though sometimes so histrionic that friends say he should have been in Hollywood, has not been heard from.

Real fact is that McDonald is holed up on his Palm Springs, Calif., estate, incommunicado. What happened to him remains a mystery. His associate say that he was running a 104-degree temperature and has had to recuperate. Some unkind critics say that he's suffering from the fact that he didn't get an Oscar from Hollywood. Actually, Dave has an alcohol problem and has to retire and recuperate occasionally.

Regardless of the critics, McDonald is smart to lay low at this time. Under the terms of the Steel Workers' contract, he can't open the contract until May 1 and can't call a strike until 90 days later.

McDonald was singing low regarding any wage increases prior to the skillful upward slide of prices by steel companies. Now you can write it down in a book that the union will come in for heavy demands after May 1.

MISS KAY HALLE, close friend of Winston Churchill and one of those participating in the citizenship ceremonies for him at the White House, had suggested to President Kennedy that a member of the Iroquois tribe from near Palmyra, N. Y., be invited to attend the White House ceremonies. This was because Churchill's great grandmother was one half Iroquois.

The British statesman's great grandfather, a rich planter from Williamstown, Mass., was riding through the woods of western New York when he stopped for a drink of water. A young half-Indian girl, Clarissa Wilcox, brought him water. He vowed to come back and marry her, which subsequently he did.

When her daughter, Clara Hall, married Leonard Jerome, one-fourth owner of the New York Times, it was not admitted that Clara was part Indian. A stigma was attached to such admission in those days. Today, anyone having Indian ancestry boasts of it.

The White House finally vetoed the idea of having an Iroquois present at the citizenship ceremonies, partly because there wasn't time to find a capital representative, also partly because it was feared the invitation would look corny.

UNLIKE last year, the steel industry handled its public relations with superb skill this year. Though the steel moguls pay hundreds of thousands of dollars to public relations experts, last April Roger Blough of U. S. Steel came down to break the bad steel news to Kennedy just one day before a White House press conference. This gave JFK a readymade forum, and he went to town.

This year, the steel moguls waited until the day Kennedy was about to hop off to Palm Beach. His children had already taken the plane south and he was about to embark when he got the bad news. The steel execs were playing it smart. They knew JFK was itching to get away for Easter.

GOV. PAT BROWN of California is trying to clean up the most insidious influence in every election—campaign contributions. He argues that California officials sometimes accept campaign funds from questionable donors during the heat of battle, are likely to do favors for those donors after election.

California, now the biggest state in the union, still doesn't have a law requiring that the names of individual contributors be published. In this respect, California is far behind South Dakota, New Hampshire, and many other states. All a California politician has to do is to list the lump sum of his contributions after the election is over.

"Republicans wouldn't pass a new election bill when they were in office," complains the governor, a Democrat, "and now the Democrats are in control and they won't pass it either."

CORRECTION—In recently listing the holdings of the famous Uihlein family of Wisconsin, this column erroneously listed Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. Northwestern Mutual is owned by its own policy holders, of which there are many. The late Robert Uihlein was a long-time director and the Uihlein family have policies in the company but do not own it. . . Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon has warned the White House that state and city governments are raising taxes as fast as the federal government tries to reduce them. State taxes are expected to rise $1,500,000,000 this year; city taxes $1,000,000,000. The government is trying to reduce taxes $3,000,000,000 at the same time.

No Room at Inns of Bulging Capital

L. P-T Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — This, traditionally, has been one of Washington's biggest convention weeks, and the tourist season, which began with a mere trickle of several hundred thousand the week before Easter, has now begun in force, which means that every day here resembles Tournament of Roses day in Pasadena.

This puts quite a burden on the hotels in town, one they meet with a simplicity of approach that is a delight to connoisseurs of such things, if not the tourists and convention people. They meet the crisis by overbooking their rooms with advance reservations, then fill them up on a first-come, first served basis.

This, of course, makes for a full house. The fact that it also makes for long lines of stranded travelers apparently doesn't faze anyone. They simply suggest to them that they try the hotels in Baltimore, a good hour away and about $24 away by cab.

No apologies are offered, nothing, in fact, but the cold stare they teach in hotel school.

The worst of the lot this past week has been the International Inn, one of our newest, whose architecture, design and appointments are enough to make Frank Lloyd Wright turn over in his grave, along with other architectural greats of history back to the second dynasty in ancient Egypt.

Their announcement to tired, distraught travelers in a strange city is simply: "No room at the Inn." They say, "Try Baltimore." or, "I wouldn't care if you were the President of the United States."

The only point to be made to those of you considering a trip to the capitol during our week of trial might be that you take the subject of your advance reservation up with your attorney, let him consult with the hotel's attorney, and get in on an early plane.

HAROLD WILSON, the British Labor party leader, recently visited Washington. He attracted a great deal of attention, partly because he is expected to be Britain's next Prime Minister, and partly because he has been a biting critic of U.S. policies in the past. When Wilson appeared at the Press Club for a speech, he was wearing a tie bearing the insignia of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. "Why the NATO tie?" an American asked a member of the British Embassy staff. "Just to let you blokes know that Harold considers himself still on your side." was the rejoinder.

DAVID LAWRENCE

New JFK Policy on Steel Cheering

WASHINGTON—When Mr. Kennedy in the last few days decided to acquiesce in what are called "selective" price increases in the steel industry, he took a constructive step which will do more to improve the business situation than even a tax cut could do.

LAWRENCE

Confidence on the part of the business world is a difficult thing to measure. Its absence is readily apparent, and its presence is a material factor in encouraging business planning and business expansion.

When Mr. Kennedy this time refrained from using presidential influence on the price-making machinery, he, in effect, proclaimed throughout the business world a message of encouragement. It could change the whole trend in business generally and bring the stimulus that has been lacking during the last 12 months.

But, it is often asked, will not the price increases bring inflation? The answer is to be found in examing the experience of the past with price increases. Sometimes they stick and sometimes they cannot stand up against buyer resistance. But even so, a moderate rise in the cost of materials doesn't always lead to a corresponding price increase by the users.

BUSINESSMEN HESITATE a long time before increasing prices. They want the demand for their products not to diminish but to increase. They want larger and larger volume. It is conceivable that there may be some small increases in prices by users of steel. But the test will be whether a larger volume can be attained.

As for union labor, its leaders are familiar with the "profit squeeze" and also with the high cost of strikes. It will be a year or more before there can be a determination of the extent to which the current price rise will actually increase profits of the steel companies. The outlook in the steel industry for at least a year of progress now has changed for the better.

Mental Illness, Retardation Differ

EDITOR:

In regard to Jim McCauley's article, "This State's Mental Health Program One of Best in U. S." I don't doubt that this is true. However, Mr. McCauley fails to distinguish between the mentally retarded and the mentally ill. Actually, there is an important difference between the two.

The mentally retarded are persons who were born with intelligence below normal, or who suffered permanent brain damage while small. The mentally ill are persons of normal intelligence who have become seriously disturbed or maladjusted.

Outsiders Turned Tide at Little Lake

EDITOR:

We who lost the "Battle of Little Lake" at the polls on April 16th are both shocked and stunned that a campaign of hate, slander, threats, and intimidation could win. Those of us who gave our time, money, and effort to the point of exhaustion did so to preserve our system of basic education for the sake of all children in our little district and also the rest of the nation.

It is difficult to accept the fact that we could lose to a pressure group from outside our district, namely the California Teachers Assn., who has now won control here in Little Lake, and will not stop here, but go on trying to gain control of other good school districts. Tuesday's result would indicate that they can, whenever they are willing to apply all their resources to the job.

Why are so many Americans apathetic about their right to vote and their obligation to examine honest facts before they do? It is time that all voters take a good look at our free country. We must be prepared to work and fight to preserve our freedoms.

Our children represent the future of the United States and it is our duty to help them prepare for their responsibility, that our nation, founded with Trust in God, and a belief in the dignity of the individual, will continue that way.

Paper Praised as Fair, Impartial

EDITOR:

It has been some time since I have stopped and taken the useful time of writing to my newspaper.

I wish to thank you gentlemen for printing a paper in a fair impartial manner. Although I certainly disagree at times with some views taken by your Currents of Opinion column, I find more often than not that I agree wholeheartedly with the editorial. The editorial on capital punishment of April 15, 1963, was excellent.

I enjoy reading certain columnists, particularly David Lawrence and earnestly hope you will continue printing his work.

As for sports and local news, your paper is tops especially for residents of the Los Angeles Harbor, Long Beach and Orange County areas.

Again, thank you and keep up the good work.

Thresher Tested Out of Its Depth

EDITOR:

The 129 men who have most surely perished on the U.S.S. Thresher have left us with a debt greater than the assistance we will provide to their survivors. This great debt shall not be discharged until the men responsible for the location of this test over such depths are identified and removed from authority. This culpable inefficiency on the part of those responsible must not be allowed to continue.

This test not requiring such depths, was being carried out over one and ½ mile depths that exceeded the required depth 10 times over. The 1000 foot limitations of the continental shelf and it is our duty to help in the vicinity of test surely exceeded anticipated test dives by a wide margin. Any intelligent test procedure must provide limitations, which any failure cannot be allowed to exceed. In this case, the depth to which an accident could plummet the disabled submarine, clearly exceed the operational and design limits. This precluded salvage for study in the event of failure.

In this case the great loss of life and equipment cannot provide any help in preventing future casualties to the other ships of this type. We all know there is a right way, wrong way and Navy way to do things but this is stupidity of the worst sort.

Languages in the News

By Charles C. Bates and Robert Thompson-Davis

General de Gaulle has been widely quoted in the French press as saying that the Russians, too, belong to Europe and may some day become part of a European system. Franco-Russian relations have not always been so cordial.

France has twice invaded Russia during the last 150 years, and to this day there are linguistic vestiges of the first invasion, under Napoleon I, in both French and Russian.

The Russian word shval means "a good-for-nothing," and is traceable to the French cheval, "horse." Another Russian word is for "nogoodnik" is shant rapa', which comes from the French expression (il ne) chantera pas — "he won't sing"—said with derision by soldiers of Napoleon's Grande Armee when they could not get a Russian peasant or prisoner to sing local Russian songs for their amusement.

When General Winter (General Zima') joined the Russian General Staff and the French were eventually chased all the way back to Paris by the Cossacks, a new word came into French—the well known bistro. Bistro means "quick" in Russian and Paris restaurateurs, not averse to making a few francs during the occupation, would entice the Russians into their restaurants with promises that they would be served quickly. This, the Russian word for "quick" became the word for the Frenchman's popular corner restaurant.

In modern times, another Russian word has invaded French and other languages. In French, it is le spoutnik.

Easley Tells Council-Race Aims

(Editor's Note: One in a series on the May 14 Long Beach primary election.)

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

H. M. (Red) Easley, 53, of 125 Hermosa Ave., an automobile salesman, is a candidate for Long Beach City Council in the 2nd District. Bert Bond now holds the office.

Easley said his decision to run and his campaign platform are addressed to what he considers to be practices and programs which need doing and changing, with these specifics:

He opposes autonomy for the city's Water and Harbor Departments, would have them under absolute control of the City Council and thus eliminate a "three-government situation."

Favors negotiated contracts over sealed bids with the aim of giving city business to Long Beach businessmen rather than to out-of-town firms. If sealed bids should be retained, he would favor granting local firms a percentage bidding advantage.

Advocates a close examination of why "we don't have as many ships in our port as we used to," despite our modern Navy landing, port and breakwater.

Says toilet facilities in Bixby Park are in a sorry condition, worse than the back hills of Kentucky, whereas they might be improved with a portion of oil money earmarked for park facilities.

There should be better marking of one-way streets, he says, and remedy for inadequate street signs which often are impossible to see from a driver's vantage point.

Easley is critical, also, of "buses that never run on time and fares that are too high; unkept parkways; irregular and rough patching on streets; not enough small-boat-launching facilities; hazardous, unused railroad tracks on Long Beach Boulevard; irregular sidewalks caused by tree roots and sinking; poorly supervised playgrounds; and unfair shake for this city from taxes it pays to the county.

"It's time the citizens of Long Beach look alive and take an interest in their city and not wait for someone else to do it," said Easley. "I submit they can start by electing a representative who will work in their behalf to the full extent of his ability, with honest, integrity and the desire to have Long Beach become the best city in California."

LEACH ENDORSED

Brose Leach, City Council candidate in the 9th District, announced he had received the endorsement of local 692, International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

In a talk to the local's membership, Leach expressed a need for better understanding in the City Council of "the needs and desires of the everyday working people."

He also stressed the importance of passage of Proposition A on the June 4 ballot, underwriting financing of World's Fair buildings. He said it would increase employment, especially in the construction and material-supply businesses.

Arizona's Survivors Stage Reunion Here

A memorial reunion of former officers and men who served aboard the USS Arizona, sunk at Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, was held Saturday at the Lafayette Hotel.

Samuel Rose, chief of the central office contact division of the Veteran's Administration was featured speaker.

In recounting America's progress in the two decades since the sinking of the Arizona, Rose said.

"The world has been brought into the age of the atom, the age when man finally achieved the power to blow himself off the globe or to harness this energy and create a new and better way of life for everyone.

"These two decades," the VA officer told the meeting, "ushered in more change, more lasting revolutions, on more fronts than any two decades ever before in the thousands upon thousands of years man has inhabited this earth."

Joe Keehan, of 811 Locust Ave., served as chairman for the reunion.

Chiropractors' Work as M.D. in Rehman's Clinic Told to Jurors

By BOB SCHMIDT

The conspiracy trial of Dr. Jerome Rehman will close out its seventh month this week, after surprise testimony Friday by a defense witness that he observed a chiropractor engage in medical procedures at Dr. Rehman's Avalon Clinic.

Dr. James Patrick McGrady, who worked from 1958 to 1961 for Dr. Rehman as a physician and assistant surgeon at the clinic, 535 E. 231st St., discussed the chiropractor during cross-examination by Dep. Dist. Atty. John A. Marin.

• • • •

HE TESTIFIED that there were two chiropractors working at the clinic while he was there. Asked by Marin about their functions, Dr. McGrady replied:

"Yes, well, you know, if he had a laceration, he would . . . he would clean it up, clean out the wound, put a bandage on after he sewed it up."

Several years ago, a doctor's license was suspended for permitting a chiropractor to put stitches in a patient, a representative of the district attorney's office said.

Asked what other functions he saw the chiropractor perform, Dr. McGrady answered that "he did some manipulation."

Dr. McGrady had testified earlier, under direct examination by attorney Milton Emlein, that he worked three years at Avalon Clinic, saw hundreds of patients and never was told by Dr. Rehman how to practice medicine. He said the diagnoses he made were his alone and were not influenced by Dr. Rehman.

One of the allegations against Dr. Rehman is that he performed unnecessary surgery and prescribed excessive hospitalization.

Dr. McGrady also testified that he saw Dr. Rehman perform certain operations, with which, a prosecution witness had testified, Dr. Rehman was unfamiliar. Dr. McGrady said Dr. Rehman performed the operations several years before the prosecution witness, a nurse, joined his staff.

• • • •

EARLIER, another defense witness, Dr. Irving M. Cyril, testified he never had given Dr. Rehman "instruction" in the course of an operation.

This contradicted another prosecution witness, who had testified she heard Dr. Cyril instructing Dr. Rehman on surgical techniques in an operation Dr. Rehman was performing.

Dr. Rehman and three other men are charged with conspiring to commit acts injurious to public health. Their trial, which began Sept. 26, will resume Monday at 9:30 a.m.

RED MEN STILL LOSING BATTLES

Indian Pride Balks Aid

By MARK CLUTTER

The Longknives — U.S. Cavalry — ended the last Indian wars before the turn of the century — but thousands of Indians today still are losing their personal battles with the white man's world.

They come to the big cities from reservations where hunting, fishing and a little farming still are a way of life. They bring few skills — and proud souls that often prove their undoing.

• • • •

BOB BABCOCK, manager of Indian Center, Inc., 2920 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, described the unhappy fates that overtake many of the estimated 27,000 Indians in Los Angeles County.

"When an Indian has troubles, he quits talking," Babcock said. "He withdraws into himself. He won't seek help or mix with people. His wife may be afraid to even leave the house."

People from 30 tribes seek the aid of the Indian Center, said Babcock, who is half Blackfoot. The Center provides food or clothing, if needed, gives advice, helps in obtaining legal counsel, provides social events and sells Indian arts and crafts.

• • • •

"THE PEOPLE who have the most trouble in Los Angeles area are Plains Indians," he said. "They come from states like the Dakotas, and they find adjusting to the big city very difficult. Some of them can't take it and go back. Others stay and make good."

"The children often do better than their elders. There is very little delinquency, and they usually get along well in school."

One mistake that people make in dealing with Indians results from not understanding differences between the tribes. An Indian is not just an Indian, he is a member of a culture. Each tribe has its own way of life, its own customs and ideals.

"People who want to help Indians had better understand the Indians they are helping," Babcock said. "It is important not to hurt their pride or offend their tribal customs. It is also important to find out what they need."

• • • •

HE TOLD of a mission that receives many boxes of clothes. The mission priest told him he could do more with the postage than with the clothes. These Indians simply don't need more clothes than they have.

California Indians and Navajos have the least trouble in adapting to the city, he said. The Navajos have a strong tribal government, and the Californians are mostly in good economic situations.

Liquor, contrary to popular opinion, is not a serious Indian problem.

• • • •

"ONCE IN A while drink becomes a problem for an Indian, just as it does for a white man," Babcock said. "There are a few drifters to whom it is a very serious problem."

The Indian Center is not classified as a charity because Indians do not want charity. All the personnel donate their time.

Dancing looms large on the social calendar. The adults remember the traditional dances, but the teen-agers prefer standard teen-age dancing.

—Staff Photo

TRIBAL DISTRUST of the white man and his ways—including the magic of his camera—is expressed by these scowling young Navajos in front of the family hogan. If brought to a big city, they will adapt more easily than their parents, Indian leader says.

U.S., Australia OK Agree on GI Custody

CANBERRA, Australia (AP)—Australia and the United States will sign a status of forces agreement soon to cover American servicemen working on high atmosphere and other projects, the government said.

Under the agreement, the United States will deal with its own men for offenses against U.S. laws and Australia will take over cases involving offenses against Australian laws.

Civic Beautifying Awards to Be Given

The Civic Beautification Committee of the Women's Division of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce has invited public nominations for its 1963 Community Awards.

Awards will be presented for outstanding landscaping, exterior housekeeping and architecture in the following categories of structures: industrial, business, commercial and professional buildings, churches, clubs, schools and public agencies, storage yards, lumber, brick and sand, wrecking and second hand lots, service stations, drive-ins, auto washes and parking lots, parks, golf courses and recreation areas.

The deadline for nominations is May 1. Judges will visit all buildings and lots nominated and the winners will be saluted during PAINT-UP, FIX-UP, CLEAN-UP week May 24 to May 31.

Residential buildings are excluded from the awards.

Names and addresses of firms and institutions to be considered for the awards should be sent to Civic Beautification Committee, Chamber of Commerce, 121 Linden Ave.

Nazi Hess Will Be 69 on Friday

BERLIN (AP)—Adolf Hitler's onetime deputy, Rudolf Hess, will be 69 Friday behind the bars at Spandau war crimes prison. It will be his 22nd birthday as a prisoner. He was captured in May, 1941, when he flew to Scotland.

There will be no birthday greeting and no special treatment for the former deputy fuehrer. If he continues the pattern set several years ago, it's a safe bet that he will spend the day harassing his guards.

"He is a thoroughly vicious man and always tries to get a guard or other prison worker into trouble," a knowledgeable source said recently.

"He will ask guards and warders to do things which he knows are against prison rules. Then, when one of them complies because he feels sorry for the old man, Hess reports him to an officer."

Hess refuses to receive visitors although he is allowed one 30-minute visit a month.

He is serving a life term for war crimes. The only other prisoners in Spandau, Baldur von Schirach and Albert Speer, are serving 20 years.

The prison is ruled jointly by the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France. Troops of the four nations rotate the major guard duty.

500 Church Leaders to Meet in L.B.

More than 500 leaders will attend the 21st annual national convention of the American Council of Christian Churches, to be held here Tuesday through Friday.

Headquarters for the day sessions will be the Breakers International Hotel with evening meetings set for Municipal Auditorium.

• • • •

AMONG nationally prominent churchmen who will speak are Dr. Carl McIntire, president of the International Council of Christian Churches; Dr. H. C. Slade, editor of the Gospel Witness, and Dr. Raymond F. Hamilton, president of the American Council.

The council represents some 2½ million fundamental believers.

Mister Ed Top Animal on TV

HOLLYWOOD (CNS) — Mister Ed and Big Red Saturday were named 1962's best animal television and movie actors.

The American Humane Association's 13th annual "Patsy" awards were presented to Mister Ed, a Palomino horse, for his "talking role" in the television series of the same name.

The movie winner, an Irish setter, nabbed animaldom's equivalent to the Oscar, for his role in Walt Disney's "Big Red."

Navy Reserve Base Plans Radio Show

A series of 15-minute radio variety shows is being produced by the Long Beach Naval Reserve Training Center, 4122 Orangewood Ave., Los Alamitos, for distribution among radio stations in Southern California.

The pre-taped shows will salute various cities in Los Angeles and Orange counties. Long Beach will be the subject of the first show with Mayor Edwin W. Wade featured.

Chief Journalist William Barrymore, USNR, of 1032 Cherry Ave., has been appointed by Capt. Anthony D. Christopher, commanding officer of the training center, to produce the shows. Barrymore has produced a number of radio shows for the Navy.

NAVAL RESERVE personnel and talented amateurs from this area will provide most of the talent for the shows, Barrymore said. Interviews with naval and civilian dignitaries will also be included.

The first show of the series is expected to feature an interview with Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz on American education, several numbers by the Western Avenue High School a cappella choir of Anaheim and the San Diego Naval Base band, Barrymore said.

Omarr Reads the Stars

By SYDNEY OMARR

FORECAST FOR TODAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Brighter outlook today. As pace moves to your tune. Emphasis continues on finances. But situation now turns favorable. Stress unity, family harmony, spiritual growth. Fine for quiet evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Sun ushers your sign. You are in spotlight, and could be asked opinions. Close one may confide secret. Be charming, wise and remain discreet. Dress. Highlight personal appearance.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Emphasis on hopes, wishes, ambitions, opportunity for making new friends. You could receive intuitive flash which might affect immediate future. Have faith in your own ability to tell the "real thing."

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): You are due to receive "boost" up ladder. Be appreciative. Take advantage of opportunity. Display sense of humor. Delay details. Too much excitement to attend to routine matters!

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): You may be looking too far into future. There are some present concerns which require attention. Key is preparation. Be sure you have loose ends tied. Don't trust to luck today.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Much that appears beautiful at first glance, might end up having "blemishes." Means look beyond cover. Dig deep. Be sure you know what you're getting into. Excellent day for self-analysis.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Aim for the top. Cooperate with family members. Attend church of choice. Do things to enhance standing in community. Discuss plans for self-improvement. Day to plan.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Plenty of pressure. But relief due if you are patient. Exciting day to make discoveries. Keep eyes open. Listen. Put two-and-two together. Revelation due. Be ready!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Good day for short journeys, vacation planning, get-togethers with relatives. Take initiative in efforts to mend breaks. Strive for maturity, joy which comes from giving.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Use day to "clean house." Catch up on details. Clear away clutter. Stress clarity. Find out where you stand. Answer questions concerning motives, desires, ambitions. Don't deceive yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Emphasis on willingness to take chance on your own abilities. Status quo will not do. Find out why you have been restless. Seek new directions. Spiritual counsel.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Pace slows somewhat. Be grateful! Gain strength, conserve energy. Rest, relax, plan. Be with loved ones. Express yourself, exchange ideas. Delight can be obtained from right association.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . your outstanding characteristic is ability to help others in time of "stress." You have qualities of steadiness, determination—and humor.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Opposing forces "dig in." The end of a negotiating period. Points have been made and decision is imminent.

FORECAST FOR MONDAY

ARIES (March 21 to April 19): Cycle high. Exercise initiative. Sales ability at peak. You can now perform valuable services. Have confidence. Be original, unique. Turn on Aries personal magnetism, charm!

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Pressure due to expectations of others. Take limelight in stride. Key is proper pacing. You can't please everyone. So don't try. Be sensible. Hold on to recent profits.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Friendships featured. Means inroads are being made since recent shroud of tenseness. Be cheerful, versatile. Ready to entertain visitors. Key is expression.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21): Be wary today. But not chronically sceptical. Means give others benefit of doubt. By giving in even a little, you receive much. Chance to improve position, standing. Take it!

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Chance highlights day. Good lunar aspects sparks imagination, fiery drive, creative abilities. Don't "vegetate." Read, travel, ask questions. Give time to "special person."

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Recent time spent analyzing conditions around you bears fruit. You can now understand motives of loved one. Includes family member who was recently "irritating." Get budget in order.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Don't try to "pull the wool" over eyes of the public. Be open, sincere, above-board in business and personal relations. Be truthful. Then move toward happiness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Kind of day which may make you feel everyone else is out of step! Seems the more you do, the less credit received. Key is steady pace. Credit is due—you will soon get double benefit!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): The more you strive to please, the more others may "use" or tax. Be helpful. But also insist that associates, friends, relatives carry their share of weight. Be guided by Golden Rule.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Day when strength is tested . . . strength of character, determination, willingness to back up beliefs. Be sure confident. Better to start than to linger over "old" projects.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Past promises, responsibilities, debts perk into current scene. Calm attitude. Based on quiet reflection. Wins day. Reactions of public may be difficult to gauge. Stress diplomacy.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Check possessions, opportunities for added income. Be especially considerate of family. By "broad-sliner." Flash wonderful PISCES smile. Other encouragement, suggestions. Be available.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY . . . you are extremely independent, willing and able to break from authority and experiment.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle up for Pisces, Aries, Taurus. Special word to Libra: Man's attention than you imagine . . . from sources in authority.

Self-Service Carts for Baggage in Use

NEW YORK (AP)—Fifty self-service carts — similar to supermarket carts—have been put into use in Grand Central Terminal for the convenience of railroad passengers.

"A man's job is going," a porter remarked ruefully.

The carts, introduced by the New York Central Railroad, enable passengers to move their luggage between the trains and taxicab stands. Porter service, however, still remains available.

The carts also are available to passengers arriving or departing on New Haven Railroad trains.

Pointed Shoes Back—Bunions Are, Too

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Dr. Louis W. Breck, an orthopedic surgeon of El Paso, Tex., said in San Francisco that bunions were common 25-30 years ago when women were wearing pointed toe shoes, adding:

"The incidence is increasing very rapidly today due to the renewed popularity of the pointed toes."

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Will Steel Hikes Affect Wage-Price Stability?

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The dam broke for steel price increases this week.

The plug was pulled when U.S. Steel Corp., the nation's biggest producer, joined in the selective boosts initiated eight days earlier by relatively small Wheeling Steel Corp.

Big and small companies came tumbling after and soon the move had spilled through virtually the entire industry.

No further comment came from President Kennedy, who had indicated after Wheeling's action that selective increases would be acceptable.

The boosts averaged about 3 per cent with U.S. Steel posting the smallest ones. The increases covered less than 50 per cent of production.

• • • •

MANY QUESTIONS remained to be answered in the wake of the price boosts. They included:

Will there be a rise in prices of consumer goods using steel?

Will the United Steelworkers Union harden its demands?

Will wage-price stability be affected generally?

Most steel users said they were studying the new price schedules and that it was too early to tell what might happen.

The union remained silent. It can reopen its contract for wage negotiations May 1 and would be free to strike 90 days later.

It was far too early, also, to determine the effect on a wide range of wages and prices. Kennedy has said that what he wants to avoid is an inflationary spiral.

• • • •

A STEEL industry publication, Iron Age, expressed the opinion that "demand for steel is strong enough to sustain most increases."

Frederick Kappel, chairman of American Telephone & Telegraph Co., said the steel price raise "is one of the good things that has happened to the economy. It could be a blessing in disguise."

He added that the fact "President Kennedy stayed out" may help what he sees as a new confidence about business.

While interest was centered on the cascade of price boost announcements, steel production reached the highest level in three years. Output last week totaled 2,464,000 tons, up 2.1 per cent from the previous week. The industry operated at an estimated 80 per cent of its capacity.

• • • •

MUCH OF the heavy demand came from the automobile industry, where an estimated 159,000 passenger cars came off assembly lines this week. This compares with 152,694 last week and 146,215 a year ago.

Sales continued heavy but the rate of gain over a year ago fell off somewhat. Dealers delivered 219,063 cars in the first days of April, 1 per cent above a year earlier and a record for the period. However, in the first three months of this year sales were 10 per cent above a year ago.

A move toward smoothing labor relations in the auto industry was made when Ford Motor Co. and General Motors Corp. agreed to set up joint study committees with the United Auto Workers Union to prepare for new contract negotiations next year.

• • • •

ELSEWHERE in the economy, personal income, housing starts and industrial output rose.

Personal income advanced in March to an annual rate of $452.7 billion, about $1.6 billion above February. For the first three months of this year the rate was $452.1 billion, $20.1 billion ahead of the 1962 first quarter.

The rate of housing starts last month rose to the highest in four months — 1,494,000 annually. This was 17 per cent ahead of the February level.

• • • •

TOTAL output of factories, mines and utilities reached a record in March. The Federal Reserve Board said its index of industrial production rose to 120.4 per cent of the 1957-59 average from 119.4 in February. The old record of 119.8 was set last September.

In the aerospace industry, Boeing Co. and the AFL-CIO Machinists Union agreed on a new contract, averting a strike that government sources ha dsaid would hamper the nation's space and defense programs.

Briefly around the business scene: New York Life Insurance Co. issued a $7 million policy on the life of a California business man. . . . Trading in stock of the bankrupt New Haven Railroad has been discontinued on the New York Stock Exchange. . . . A $50 million Air Force contract for rocket motors was awarded to Tiokol Chemical Co., Lockheed Propulsion Co. and Aerojet-General Corp.

MRS. AMERICA

Hope to Learn If Husbands Are Hen-Pecked

MIAMI (UPI)—Sociologists hope to learn this week whether Mrs. America candidates have hen-pecked husbands.

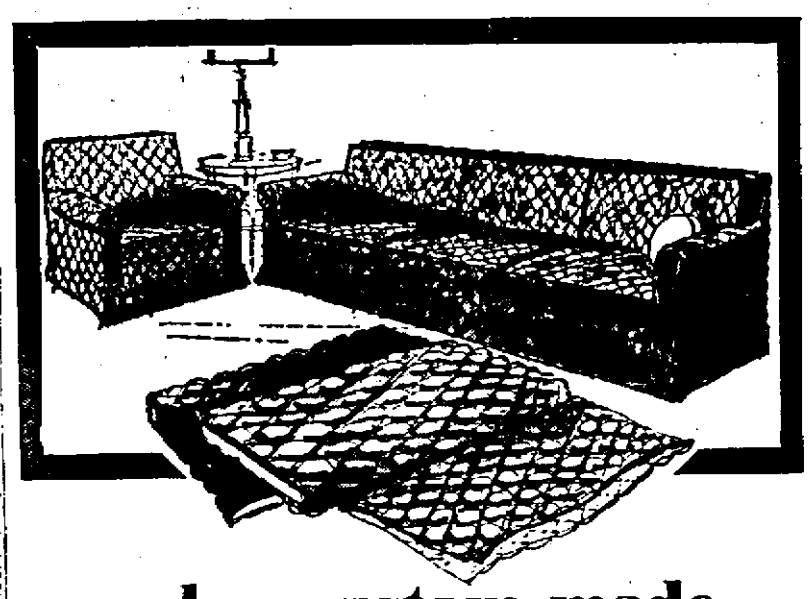

Secret ballots will be taken from the husbands of the 51 Mrs. America candidates. It is hoped they will show whether the candidates are perfect wives—as their titles proclaim them to be—or something less.

Competing in the contest, which will be decided April 27, are representatives from 50 states and the district of Columbia.

Their husbands will be asked "do you feel you are hen-pecked and why and do you mind it?" and "What do you think of your mother-in-law and father-in-law?"

The unsigned ballots will have no effect on the contest.

Computers to Do City Accounting

Long Beach's municipal accounting will be converted to automation during the next 15 months with the installation of an electronic high-speed computer system estimated to save $700,000 within seven years.

After a year's study, city officials have signed an agreement with International Business Machines Corp. for setting up the EDP (electronic data processing) system to replace punch-card tabulating machines. Although only six years old, the latter are already considered obsolete.

Cost of the installation is placed at $245,000, plus a monthly rental of $9,290. The city also has the option of purchasing the equipment within two years at a cost of $437,000.

• • • •

THE NATIONALLY-known consulting firm of Booz, Allen & Hamilton recommended the advance into automation after a study that began last April. IBM was selected as the contractor in competition with bids from five other firms.

Beginning in the summer of 1964, EDP will handle mountains of paper work such as general cost accounting, utility billing, tax bills, oil production accounting, and water-injection records. The last is expected to expand on a big scale when the offshore oil field is developed.

One major saving will come from the fact that EDP will process during one eight-hour shift a volume of work greater than now keeps three shifts busy on a round-the-clock schedule, according to Samuel M. Roberts, head of the Administrative Management Department.

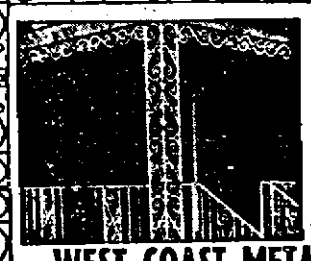

Machines now in use have a capacity of some 125 lines per minute. The new installation will print 600 lines a minute — error-proof if correctly programmed.

• • • •

THE EDP BATTERY will be installed on the second floor of the Municipal Utilities Building, where it will be operated by the commercial division of the Gas Department. One cost item is $55,000 for remodeling and air conditioning that section of the Utilities Building.

Roberts said the computer system will be the equal, from a standpoint of automated efficiency, of the most advanced in use by any local government.

Finding jobs for personnel to be displaced is not considered a problem. Opportunities for employment in this field are greater than the supply of trained operators, Roberts said.

SURFACE BARELY SCRAPED

WHERE'S OUR HONOR, ETHICS?

'Gambling Scandals to Hit All Sports'

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—"We have not scraped the surface of our gambling scandals," a prominent college athletic official said recently. "Mark my words, there will be many more of them and they will infest every sport.

"But what can we expect? We have undermined the principles of our finest young men. Our colleges stoop to the lowest, reprehensible methods to grab a star athlete. They pay him off under the table. They make him a toy god.

"The emphasis is on winning. You have to go big time, or else. So we lose all sight of ethics and codes of honor."

These words, by executive director Al Duer of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, have been echoed by such men as Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, and Judges Saul S. Streit and Joseph A. Sarafite, who dealt out sentences in 1951 and 1961 basketball scandals.

They came to roost again this week when two of the most prominent players in the National Football League—Golden Boy Paul Hornung of the champion Green Bay Packers and giant tackle Alex Karras of the Detroit Lions—were handed indefinite suspensions for betting on games.

Five other members of the Lions were fined $2,000 each for making a friendly wager on the outcome of the Green Bay-New York title game. The Detroit club was slapped with a $4,000 penalty for failing to take proper action on police charges that players were associating with unsavory characters.

This is the most widespread disciplinary action ever for the exciting gridiron sport, whose mushrooming popularity is filling vast ball parks on autumn Sunday afternoons and challenging baseball as the national pastime.

BUT PEOPLE ARE ASKING: Is this the extent of the pro football mess? Where and when will the betting scandals hit next? Can baseball, zealously guarded and almost inviolate since the "Black Sox Scandal" of 1919, be drawn again into the ugly web?

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate investigation subcommittee, taking little for granted. "We're still investigating the overall picture," he warned.

It's a broad, evasive and apparently insolvable problem.

Betting is in the nation's blood, whether it's nickels or $1,000 bills, legal or illegal.

Close to $3 billion is poured through parimutuel machines yearly at the thoroughbred and harness racing tracks, with Uncle Sam's full okay.

Weekend golf foursomes think nothing of playing two-bit or $10 Nassau. At the big golf tournaments, players are sometimes auctioned off openly in Calcutta pools, and it's easy to place a wager—for $1 or $10,000—on your favorite player with an unofficial bookie at the 19th hole.

By far the heaviest illegal betting, however, is on football games—pro and college.

The big bettors are the men who follow the pros. They consult handicappers and take their plunge on one game at a time, giving or taking points.

THIS HAS POPULARIZED THE "point spread," which has become an everyday commodity provided by a sports information service operating out of Minneapolis.

They figure the odds. The Giants, for instance, may be made 7-point favorites over Green Bay. If you bet the Giants, they must win by at least 8 points if you are to collect. If you bet Green Bay, you score on any differential, win or lose, underneath the spread.

Then there are the dime and dollar bettors—the college boys, soda jerks and office workers—who try their luck with the football cards, which flood the country in season.

These cards, with appropriate odds, offer a list of 25 or 30 games. The bettor circles four or more choices and gets a receipt. If he picks four correctly, he is paid off at the rate of 10-1. Ten out of ten choices can bring as much as 150-1.

The cards are sent to local pushers, often students on campuses, who take bets from ten cents to ten dollars or more.

It was this seemingly innocent enterprise which trapped and ruined the careers of two University of Michigan athletic stars back in 1958.

They were Tony Rio, a first string fullback, and Jack Lewis, the basketball captain, arrested with five other students for operating a ring which sold football cards on the campus. The project netted about $10,000 a week on the Michigan campus, police said.

It was the innovation of the point spread which turned college basketball into a monstrous scandal that sucked scores of the nation's finest players and most reputable teams into its clutches.

In 1951, 33 players representing seven colleges—

COLTS WIN, 9-6

Dodgers in 7th Place!

By GEORGE LEDERER

The Dodgers produced a season record of six runs Saturday, but also exceeded any previous sloppiness afield and stumbled back into seventh place.

Two of three errors by Maury Wills accounted for four unearned Houston runs as the Colts galloped to a 9-6 decision.

Only bright spot of a bleak afternoon for the Dodgers was the slugging of Frank Howard, who postponed his debut in spectacles and made his average a spectacular .447 with two singles and a double in four chances.

Howard plans to wear glasses for the first time this afternoon when the series concludes with a doubleheader. He'll continue the slow break-in process by wearing them in only one game.

* * * *

HOWARD didn't specify the game, which may be the Dodgers' best strategy of the season.

Don Nottebart, a 5-4 winner over the Dodgers at Houston, had an easier time of it Saturday, although he again failed to finish. He enjoyed a 9-3 edge going into the eighth inning.

At this juncture, the Dodgers had been restricted to five hits and one earned run. When Nottebart missed with his first two pitches to Ron Fairly with Dodgers on second and third, and one out, Don McMahon relieved and eventually restored order.

A double by John Roseboro chased home two runs after Fairly lined out and a single by Willie Davis completed the Dodgers' second three-run inning of the year. Jim Gilliam had opened the eighth with a walk and Howard followed with a double off the Houston bullpen screen.

Dodger pitching, which boasted a 1.34 earned run average going in, also failed for the first time this season. Loser Johnny Podres allowed six runs in 3⅓ innings after giving up only a half-dozen in his last 31 innings.

* * * *

PODRES also was guilty of a balk, his first in three years and the Dodgers' first this season. His successors, Ken Rowe and Jack Smith, let loose three wild pitches, two producing runs.

The Colts, who have had nine balks called against them in 11 games, finally received the benefit of one, when they broke on top, 2-0, in the third inning.

Nottebart, who helped himself with two singles, a walk and two runs scored, singled with one out in the third. Carroll Hardy followed with a double just out of Howard's reach and Nottebart scored as Johnny Temple blooped a single to right. Hardy crossed when first base umpire John Pryor detected Podres balking.

Wildness by Podres and Rowe made it possible for Houston to score four times on two singles and Wills' first error in the fourth. With one run in and two out, Podres walked Nottebart and Hardy to fill the bases.

* * * *

ROWE'S first pitch was wild, allowing J. C. Hartman to score and two runs followed when Wills muffed Temple's grounder.

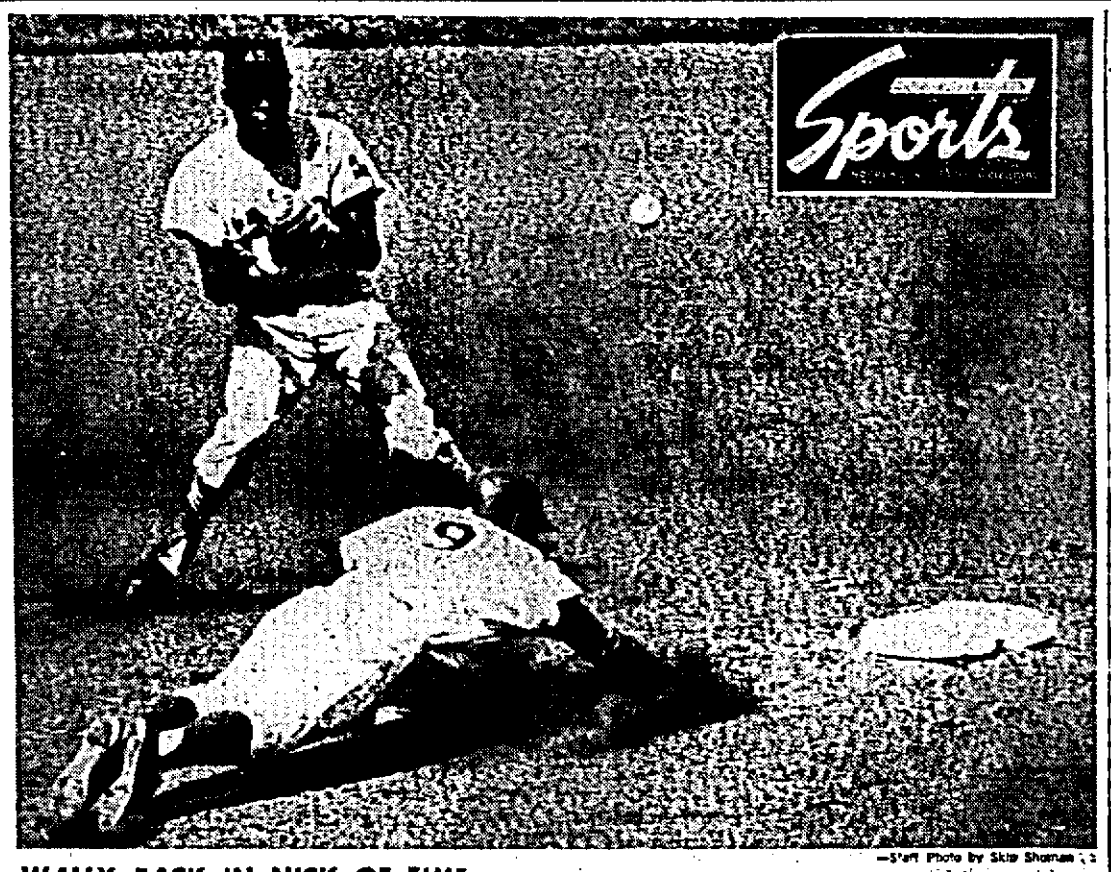

The Colts made it 8-2 in the seventh when Wills dropped Rowe's force attempt at second and rookie catcher John Bateman doubled home

Angels Nip Loss Skein

By ROSS NEWHAN
L-P-T Staff Writer

KANSAS CITY — Medical bulletins from the Muelebach Hotel indicated that flu-bedded Bill Rigney took a decided turn for the better at 6:54 (PST) Saturday night.

That was the moment the Angels snapped a three-game losing streak and an aggravating batting slump with a 7-4 victory over Kansas City's tarnished green and gold.

Del Rice was again in command and finally nailed his second victory in eight tries at the Angels' helm. The Angels did not exactly explode out of their slump, but crept out with a 13-hit attack featured by the thumping of Lee Thomas.

* * * *

MAD DOG bit off four hits, each contributing to an Angel scoring rally, as he lifted his average to .357.

Julio Navarro saved Dean Chance's first victory, but Kansas City manager Eddie Lopat may have been the Angels' real saviour. Trailing only 4-2, Lopat let rookie Dave Thies suffer through a three-run Angel ninth which put the Seraphs out of reach.

Had Lopat lifted Thies quickly, the A's would have had a chance to retain their American League lead, for they scored twice in the final frame.

Chance was not exactly awe-inspiring, but he had limited the A's to only one run when Ed Charles, Chuck Essegian and George Alusik ripped back-to-back, bases filling singles in the sixth.

That sent Rice boiling out of the dugout and brought Mel Nelson into the stew. The Angel southpaw got Haywood Sullivan on an infield pop, but when he walked Bobby Del Greco, trimming an Angel advantage to 3-2, Rice put Navarro to work.

Navarro pitched the acting manager into the genius category by retiring Dick Howser on an infield fly and Gino Cimoli via a third strike.

* * * *

THE ANGELS' favorite Puerto Rican export did not allow another hit until Howser singled in the ninth. A triple by Cimoli and Jerry Lumpe's sacrifice fly produced two runs, but by then Lopat was asking for a second chance.

The Angels put their right foot forward, scoring twice off Diego Segui in the opening round. A single by Billy Moran, L. Thomas' triple and Leon Wagner's fielder's choice put the green and gold in a 2-0 hole.

Chance yielded a run on a walk, infield out, and Siebern's single in the third, but the Angels got it back in the fifth on singles by Albie Pearson, running a hitting streak to 10 games, Moran, L. Thomas and Leon Wagner's sacrifice fly.

L. Thomas' double following Pearson's walk accounted for the fifth Angel run in the seventh, and Mad Dog's single started the tell-tale ninth's rally.

* * * *

AS THIES cast a mournful eye at the quiet bullpen, Wagner singled, Bobby Rodgers walked, Felix Torres singled and Jim Fregosi singled.

The victory was the Angels' second in six games on this trip and left the team

Dodgers Cut-Price Day Set

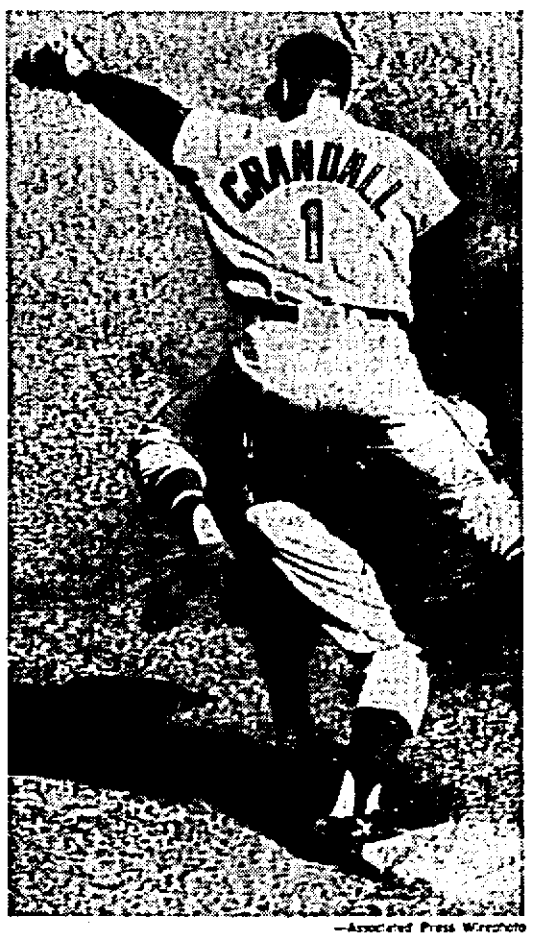

The Independent, Press-Telegram again is offering for its readers a chance to see the Dodgers for half-price . . . this time, however, Long Beach's "Two-for-One" ticket day will be Sunday, May 19, when the Dodgers engage Casey Stengel's Mets in a DOUBLEHEADER!

The reader simply has to complete the ticket blank on page two of today's sports section and enclose a check or money order for HALF the total value of the requested seats.

All applications MUST be sent directly to the Dodgers this year — NOT the Independent, Press-Telegram. (Any applications or money sent to these newspapers will be returned to the sender!)

Deadline for all "Two-for-One" requests is May 13. Tickets will be allocated first-come, first served.

The Independent, Press-Telegram also again will sponsor a batboy contest in conjunction with Long Beach Day May 19. The Dodgers will allow the winner to sit on their bench, supply him with a uniform and give him an autographed baseball.

13,668 See Jet Deck Triumph

By ERNIE MASON

Jet Deck came roaring out of the No. 10 starting post and after being bumped got into high gear to capture the Pacific Coast Quarter Horse Racing Association Derby Saturday at Los Alamitos before a crowd of 13,668, which backed the J. C. Chambers star down to 1-5 favoritism.

Jet Deck, with veteran Charles Smith up, went the 440 yard distance of the classic for quarter horses in 21.9, three-tenths of a second off the record set by Pokey Bar last year in this same Derby.

Moolah Bar, a hard-hitting filly, got up for second in the 10-horse field with Chudej's Rhoda, another filly, taking third.

Jet Deck returned $2.60, $2.40 and $2.20 to his faithful fans and picked up $12,500 of the $25,000 purse for owner Chambers of Denver. The victory gave the son of Moon Deck a total bankroll to date of $152,504. This is $10,039 short of the all-time money winning earnings for Pokey Bar.

Jet Deck still has a chance to pick up another $8,250 from the $15,000 Los Alamitos

Pierce's Legend Ruined by Cubs

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The legend of Billy Pierce's invincibility at Candlestick Park ended Saturday when Bob Buhl pitched the Chicago Cubs to a 4-0 victory over San Francisco and their veteran southpaw.

Buhl limited the explosive Giants to a pair of singles in the first eight innings before he left the game with a stiff shoulder.

The former Milwaukee Brave was replaced in the ninth by Lindy McDaniel who ended the game by fanning Willie McCovey and Orlando Cepeda after Jim Davenport had singled and reached second on a balk.

Buhl raised his season mark to 1-1 and now has a lifetime record of 15-15 against the Giants. The only hits off him were a Texas League single in the sixth inning by pinch hitter Matty Alou and another one base hit off the bat of Jose Pagan.

Pierce, who never had lost at Candlestick since the Giants acquired him from the Chicago White Sox, was going for his 15th win on home grounds. But he did not survive the fifth.

Now 1-1, Pierce was tagged for five hits and charged with all the Cub runs, one of which was unearned.

CELTS EYE CLINCHER TONIGHT

BOSTON (AP)—Boston can become the first team in pro basketball history to win five straight playoff championships by beating the Los Angeles Lakers tonight. Coach Red Auerbach says his Celtics will do just that with a combination of "hustle and Russell."

Los Angeles coach Fred Schaus concedes nothing about the game except that "this is it." By edging the Lakers 108-105 Friday night, the Celtics took a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven NBA title series.

Remarkable Bill Russell, Celtics pivotman who controlled the boards Friday night, and hot-shooting Tommy Heinsohn are the players to whom the Lakers must find better defensive answers if their playoff lives are to be extended.

The proud Bostonians expect to be doubly tough now, sensing the kill and the fulfillment of a promise to land the top prize once more for retiring captain Bob Cousy. In addition, the Celtics are anxious to prove predictions premature that the Lakers, who barely missed dethroning them last year, would do it this season.

Boston's job, as usual, will be to hold super-stars Elgin Baylor and Jerry West to a combined total of 60 points and put the defensive clamps on the rest, especially Dick Barnett, who collected 26 points in the most recent encounter.

Russell scored 22 points, including the clinchers, Friday while doing a standout job off the boards. Heinsohn had 35 points.

So far the Lakers haven't solved the riddle of how to get the ball more often from Russell, Tom Sanders and Heinsohn with their front line.

The Laker task is staggering. Only once before in NBA annals has a team been down 1-3 in games and pulled out the title.

Senators Crack Yankee Hex, 7-1

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Washington's Dave Stenhouse hurled a five-hit 7-1 victory over the New York Yankees Saturday night to break a hex the world champions have held over the Senators in their own ballpark.

Stenhouse was helped by a lusty 13-hit Senator attack that included homers by Marv Breeding and Larry Osborne and two triples and a pair of singles by Chuck Hinton.

Every Senator, including Stenhouse got at least one hit off four New York pitchers who saw duty.

It marked the first time the Yankees had lost in 11 games played in the new district of Columbia Stadium which opened last season.

The Senators found Yankee starter Bill Stafford easy pickings. Breeding whacked his first pitch of the game for a homer and one out later, Hinton tripled and Osborne homered. Another three-run Senator scoring burst drove Stafford out in the third.

Veeck Toasts (!) O'Malley

Sunday is sermon day, so today we'd like to offer a few pearls from the pulpit of Bill Veeck, who really takes apart baseball in his tremendously interesting new book, "Veeck—As In Wreck."

BILL VEECK
Book Tells All

Veeck, who hopes to return to baseball soon (but probably won't after the printing of his book), really takes off on Commissioner Ford Frick and the Yankees' Del Webb and George Weiss, in particular.

Of special interest to this corner, however, was a chapter dedicated to the Angel franchise in Los Angeles. Veeck, then with the Chicago White Sox, stood almost alone in protesting the way expansion was coming to the American League. He especially objected to the manner in which Dodger president Walter O'Malley had dictated terms to both the American League and Frick.

Some of Veek's amusing and bitter comments follow:

"Our battle ended on December 7 (a date which Roosevelt, in a flash of prescience, once characterized nicely), in a joint meeting of the two leagues presided over by Frick and his commanding officer, Walter O'Malley. O'Malley, like Gen. MacArthur, affects a cigarette holder.

"The vote was 6-2, with only Chicago and Cleveland voting against accepting O'Malley's terms for the Angels.

"Worst of all, we humiliated ourselves and downgraded our league.

"'I want you to know,' said the commissioner to the press, 'that without the complete cooperation of Mr. O'Malley, baseball would have been in one of the damndest messes ever seen.'

"It was nice to know that Frick was suitably grateful to O'Malley for being willing to accept everything that O'Malley had asked for.

"Said the cooperative Mr. O'Malley: 'The commissioner steered a straight course. If he had lost his sense of direction, we would have wound up in an awful mess.'

"I don't know about that. If the commissioner had lost his sense of direction, I have every confidence that Walter would have propped him up again and pointed the way!"

CONTINUED VEECK:

"I have to give the commissioner credit for being so alert, though. He and O'Malley made certain that Gene Autry didn't fill his saddlebags full of money and ride off into the sunset.

"As far as I know, the contract the Autry group signed with O'Malley for Chavez Ravine has never been made public. But I am not far off, I can guarantee you, in saying they will be paying him something around $1,000,000 in rental fees over the four years. In addition, O'Malley is their concessionaire, another source of profits.

"There is no doubt, pardners, who's the top gun in Los Angeles.

"It was the most brutal thing I have ever seen in my life. And yet, I have to make one reservation. Autry went into it with his eyes open.

"The Angels are going to be a financial drag on their league for, possibly the next three or four years.

"Sometimes in moments of acute depression, I find myself wondering whether Autry really outdrew all those guys with the black mustaches."

VEECK DOES GIVE O'Malley credit, as follows:

"The last thing in the world I'd do would be to disparage Walter O'Malley. He won every round in Los Angeles, just as he has won every round since he came into baseball.

"There are a lot of people in baseball ready to say he's been lucky. They say he walked into Brooklyn with a string of pennant winners, inherited from Branch Rickey; they say he was lucky to beat the field to the bonanza in Los Angeles; they say he antagonized everybody in Los Angeles unnecessarily with his moneygrubbing and he still was lucky enough to be in a position where he couldn't help but make a fortune.

"Lucky, my eye. O'Malley is smart. He's smart mostly for O'Malley, but if everybody you could say that about was put behind walls, you'd be able to gather all the unwalled people into Busch Stadium and have someone lead them in group singing."

"O'MALLEY," Veeck winds up, "couldn't stand to sit back (10 years ago) and watch the then new Milwaukee franchise rake in all that money. I had the distinct impression that O'Malley wasn't going to sell the Dodgers (then in Brooklyn) to anyone because he had already mapped out Los Angeles for himself. And that was four years before he moved.

"Well, it's easy enough to say that anyone could have made a fortune in Los Angeles. The only thing that counts is that O'Malley was the man who did it!"

End of Sunday sermon. Amen.

THE NEW YORK POINT OF VIEW

Alston on Hot Seat Again?

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—It was inevitable that the discontent, dissatisfaction and dissention among the Los Angeles Dodgers would come to light.

Insiders have known for some time that these three D's contributed as much to the Dodgers' collapse last year as did the loss of Sandy Koufax in midseason and the failure of the team to score any runs in the last 21 innings of the regular season.

The disclosure by general manager Buzzie Bavasi early this week that he had put down a player uprising emphasized what those close to the team already knew—that the club is split in half in its loyalty to manager Walter Alston.

The younger players swear by to their manager but a faction, which includes a number of veterans, believes coach Leo Durocher should be the manager. They are convinced the Dodgers would have won the pennant last year with Durocher at the helm.

These silently rebellious players have the highest admiration for Alston as a man but have little respect for his ability as a manager despite his record of three pennants and two world championships in nine years.

In acknowledging for the first time the discord on the club, Bavasi revealed it was Durocher who tipped him off to what was going on. The general manager completely exonerated Durocher from fomenting the dissension.

Bavasi, however, has been aware for some time of the strained relationship between Alston and some of the players and also between Alston and Durocher. That could have been behind his denouncement of Durocher last winter when he accused the Dodger coach and former manager of being disloyal to Alston. Bavasi also declared there no longer was room on the club for both Durocher and Alston.

Bavasi had no serious intention of firing Durocher at that time but he felt Alston, for whom he's always been a strong defender, was being made the scapegoat for the Dodger collapse. He knew, too, that Dodger owner Walter O'Malley was a strong admirer of Durocher's managerial ability.

Durocher had reason to believe he might succeed Alston this year following a secret meeting among O'Malley, Alston, the coaches and then team captain Duke Snider in St. Louis 10 days before the end of the 1962 season.

O'Malley, who never before had interfered with handling of the team, called the meeting because of his alarm over the steadily shrinking Dodger lead.

Mincing no words, O'Malley charged Alston with being too easy on the players and urged the manager to adopt a get-tough policy.

* * * *

WE'RE GOING to blow the pennant unless you light a fire under them," O'Malley reportedly warned Alston.

Alston, quietly but firmly disagreed.

"The kids are under enough pressure as it is," he said. "They need encouragement, not a tongue-lashing. They feel badly enough as it is. I don't believe we ought to do anything to aggravate them. Most of them are just kids and might blow sky high."

According to the informant, O'Malley became enraged.

"Aggravate them," he repeated. "These are not high school kids; they're professionals earning good money. I want you to ride herd on them. And if you don't want to take the responsibility, you can put the blame on me."

Alston insisted his way was the best and O'Malley finally capitulated, saying, "Okay, but if we blow the pennant, some heads will roll."

The Dodgers did lose the pennant but no heads rolled. Alston was reappointed manager and Durocher was retained as coach with an admonition that one more open clash with Alston would mean his job.

While just one blowup between Durocher and Alston was made public last year, actually there were several. At one point near the end of the season Alston accused Durocher of countermanding his hit-and-run signs to the hitters. He stripped the coach of any authority he might have had by having Greg Mulleavy relay the hit-and-take signs to the hitters.

Relations between Alston and Durocher became so strained that the coach moved his locker from the manager's private clubhouse enclosure. Durocher also switched his seat from next to that of Alston on the team bus and sat in the rear.

The conclusion is reached that the Dodgers must get off to a fast start this season. Both Bavasi and O'Malley are convinced the personnel is there to win the pennant. Anything less could cost Alston his job.

Durocher?

By mid-season, he could be manager of the Dodgers or be looking for another job.

Baltimore Orioles third baseman Brooks Robinson eludes tag by Cleveland third sacker Max Alvis in second inning of game Saturday. Robinson, who was on with a double, raced to third on a fielder's choice. Woodie Held's throw was wide and Robinson later scored on a single by Luis Aparicio.

Tigers Fall in 15 to Red Sox

BOSTON (AP) — Roman Mejias, who had gone 0-for-6, smashed a two-run double and Boston upstaged Detroit's own 15th inning rally for a wild 4-3 victory Saturday.

The 4½-hour battle tied the season's major league record for most innings.

Three singles, one of them good for a run by Chuck Schilling, and a force play preceded the winning blow by Mejias. The Cuban was hitting .081 when he belted the drive which touched off a Sox celebration on the field which made it look as if they'd just won the World Series.

* * * *

IN THE top half of the inning, the Tigers, Billy Bruton broke a 1-1 tie with a two-run, two-out single.

A wild pitch by Tiger starter Jim Bunning was the only reason Boston was in the game at all. It enabled Schilling to score in the sixth inning. Bunning went out after working 12 frames.

Friend Shackles Reds on 4 Hits

Mets Hand Spahn First Setback

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bob Friend fired a nifty four-hitter and his teammates backed him with a 10-hit attack off Joey Jay and Jim Brosnan as the Pittsburgh Pirates dumped the Cincinnati Reds Saturday.

Friend, bulwark of the Pirate pitching staff for almost a decade, limited the Reds to just one hit over the last seven innings after giving up runs in each of the first two frames. It was the second victory of the season for the big right-hander and both have been against the Reds.

The Pirates scored the winning runs in the seventh when Dick Schofield and Bob Clemente singled and Donn Clendenon walked. Bill Mazeroski's sacrifice fly to center scored Schofield and Clemente came home on Bill Virdon's single. Bob Skinner's triple and Clemente's sacrifice fly following Schofield's walk scored Pittsburgh's first two runs.

Doubles by Don Blasingame and Frank Robinson in the first and Vada Pinson's first homer of the season in the second inning brought in Red runs.

Reds manager Fred Hutchinson and the Pirates' Clemente were ejected from the game during the eighth inning arguments.

The loss was Jay's third of the year and his second against the Pirates.

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Mets extended their winning streak to two in a row Saturday, defeating Warren Spahn and the Milwaukee Braves 3-1 behind the seven-hit pitching of southpaw Alvin Jackson.

Gil Hodges drove in a run with his first hit of the season and catcher Norm Sherry, another ex-member of the Dodgers, hit his first home run as the Mets whipped the Braves for the second time in two days.

Until Friday's 5-4 triumph, the Mets had lost all eight starts from opening day and four of the defeats were at the hands of the Braves.

Jackson, making his third start of the season, did not permit more than one Brave to reach base in any inning until the eighth. He permitted two hits in each of the last two innings but pitched his way out of trouble on each occasion.

Sievers' Big Bat Helps Halt Cards

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia's Roy Sievers, back in the lineup after being sidelined with a rib injury, batted in three runs with a triple and double as the Phillies defeated St. Louis, 6-2, Saturday and ended a four-game losing streak.

Marcelino Lopez, 19-year-old rookie southpaw, scored his first major league victory although he needed help from relief ace Jack Baldschun, who pitched four shutout innings. Lefthander Ray Sadecki suffered the defeat, his first of the season.

* * * *

SADECKI courted trouble in the third inning when he walked Tony Taylor and Johnny Callison after one out. Sievers rapped a triple off the right field wall scoring two. A single by catcher Earl Averill scored Sievers and gave Lopez a 3-0 lead.

A controversial balk call helped St. Louis to a run in the fourth as George Altman doubled, went to third on the balk and scored on a sacrifice fly. The Cardinals added another in the fifth on a walk to Dick Groat and Bill White's run scoring double into the right field corner.

Johnny Callison hit a home run over the right field wall, his second of the season.

Nicholson's 5 RBI Pace Chisox

CHICAGO (AP)—Dave Nicholson drove in five runs with a triple and a grand-slam homer Saturday to propel the Chicago White Sox over the Minnesota Twins 10-7.

Nicholson's second homer of the season was lofted into the left field stands in the sixth inning and came off the first pitch served by Frank Sullivan, fifth of six Minnesota hurlers.

The Twins took a 3-0 lead in the first inning on Bob Allison's three-run homer.

But the Sox wiped it out with a pair of runs in the third on Floyd Robinson's single, Nicholson's triple and Joe Cunningham's single, and three more runs in the fourth.

ORIOLE ROOKIE STOPS TRIBE

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dave McNally, an $80,000 bonus rookie moved into Baltimore's starting rotation because of an injury to Chuck Estrada, pitched the Orioles to an 8-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians Saturday.

The 20-year-old left-hander, who hurled a two-hit shutout in his only other major league start last September, allowed seven hits and struck out nine Indians.

Cleveland's only run was tainted. Oriole right fielder Al Smith misjudged John Romano's fly ball in the second inning and it went for a triple. Romano then scored on a wild pitch by McNally.

Smith more than atoned for his fielding miscue. The veteran, obtained in a winter trade with the Chicago White Sox, cracked out three hits and drove in a run as he extended his hitting streak through all nine games played so far and increased his average to .424.

Luis Aparicio, another former White Sox player, drove in three runs with a pair of singles and upped his average to .394.

Vegas Probe Led to NFL Suspensions

There are strong indications that as late as three weeks ago, NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle would be satisfied to wind up the pro football gambling case by fining three or four players and let it go at that.

But about that time, government agents were completing the Las Vegas phase of the gambling investigation for the McClellan Senate Committee and the Justice Department.

When they turned over their findings in Washington, it is said that Attorney General Bobby Kennedy's office contacted with Rozelle, gave him additional information and then applied "indirect" pressure on him to crack down harder on the gambling players than it had first been planned.

PAUL HORNUNG
Why Did He Do It?

Before Rozelle made his public announcement last Wednesday that Paul Hornung and Alex Karras were suspended for an indefinite period and that five Detroit Lion players and coach George Wilson were hit with large fines, he called the department and informed officials of what he was doing.

Thus, his final announcement represented a compromise between Federal action and the league's own house - cleaning that at least for the time being has satisfied both sides.

However, the McClellan Committee could still break things wide open when it begins its hearings on sports gambling shortly.

On the day Rozelle announced the penalties, a four-man team of McClellan investigators, headed by general counsel Donald F. O'Donnell, returned to Las Vegas to continue the probe into Hornung's activities and possibly some other pro football stars who have not yet been mentioned publicly.

For instance, when McClellan investigators left Las Vegas three weeks ago, they indicated to local police that at least three top football stars other than Karras were involved in evidence they had found, particularly from records of several thousand telephone calls subpoenaed from the Vegas phone company.

While no names were mentioned outright at the time, the initials of the last names of three men were tossed around in Vegas circles . . . H., M. and L. Naturally, the "H" was the tip about Hornung.

As it turns out, Paul's activities were known by many players throughout the league as well as by leading bookmakers across the country. In fact, Green Bay games were taken "off the board" after the third game last season . . . the only games the bookies refused to handle. At no time were the games of the Detroit Lions taken "off the board."

The "west coast businessman" with whom Hornung admitted being associated with in placing bets on pro and college games has been identified as Barney Shapiro, Las Vegas slot machine operator. He runs the United Coin Machine Co., there.

Hornung allegedly first met him in 1956 when Paul was in San Franscico for the East-West All-Star game.

Shapiro, it is reported, was betting on both pro and college football games at that time and was in frequent telephone communication with Hornung as early as 1957 seeking his opinion on certain games.

Hornung himself has declared he didn't begin betting for himself through his "associate" until 1959. The bets ranged from $100 to $200 at first, but later reached as high as $500 a game. This continued through 1961.

Hornung claims he stopped betting on the games last season. However, this is where the evidence becomes even more damaging. The McClellan investigators are reported to have uncovered a series of at least 12 long distance telephone calls between Hornung and Shapiro the past football season. Some of the calls were placed by Shapiro to the Green Bay star, others by Hornung to the Las Vegas figure.

McClellan investigators questioned Hornung several times in recent weeks about his relationship with Shapiro and that he also admitted to making other calls to him under assumed names.

Hornung also was questioned five times by O'Donnell himself and he is said to have admitted giving certain information on the Packers, their condition, morale, etc., the past season . . . even though he says he no longer was betting.

Why did Hornung do it? That's a question that only he can answer.

According to Rozelle's announcement, Hornung didn't make much money wagering on the games . . . that his biggest profit was $1,500 in one season.

It doesn't make sense to risk a great career and business future for a few hundred dollars, especially when he has been making big money right from the start in pro football.

In fact, he made over $125,000 in 1961 from salary, endorsements, personal appearances, etc. That was his top season, but it is estimated he still collected well over $50,000 the past year despite being injured much of the time.

And although notorious in sports circles as a "high liver," he nevertheless is reported to have taken good care of his money!

BET SCANDALS REVIEWED--

including championship teams such as Kentucky, CCNY and Bradley—were accused of having a part in helping fix 86 games.

Ten years later—in 1961—the scandal erupted again. This time 39 players were involved with 24 colleges and 48 games. Jack Molinas, a onetime Ivy League star at Columbia, only this year was sentenced to 10 to 15 years as the "master fixer."

"You are a completely amoral person," Judge Joseph A. Sarafite said, in handing down the sentence. "You callously used your prestige as a former All-American basketball player to corrupt players and to defraud the public."

Few sports have been free from the gambling influences.

IN COLLEGE FOOTBALL, attempts were made to fix games involving the University of Maryland and Louisiana State game in 1952, later the Florida State-Florida and the Oregon-Michigan contests.

In each case, honest players blew the whistle and the would be fixers were arrested.

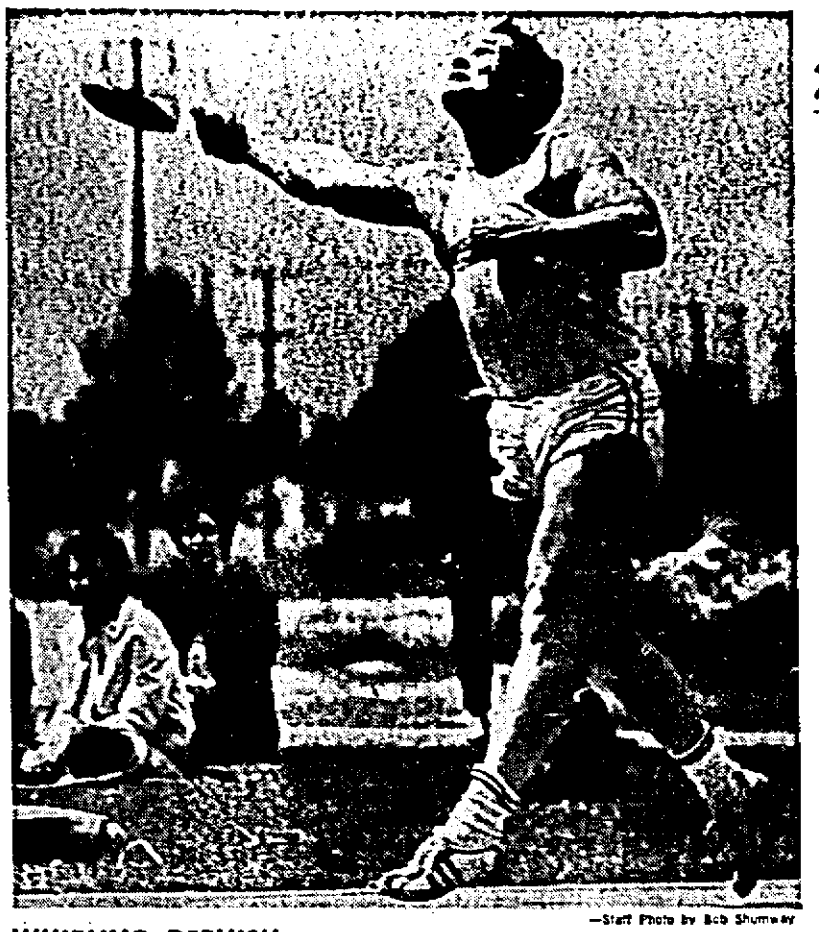

The major pro football scandal before the present one involved the New York Giants-Chicago Bears title game back in 1946. Frank Filchock and Merle Hapes reported they were offered money by Alvin J. Paris to fix the game. Both players were suspended but later reinstated.

Pro basketball has been affected. In 1948, Joe Fulks, star of the Philadelphia Warriors, swore out a warrant against a Philadelphia pool hall operator whom he charged with attempting to get him to throw games. The operator later was cleared but Pennsylvania, as a result of the case, put in a law fixing stiffer penalties for bribery attempts.

Former middleweight champion Rock Graziano admitted in 1947 he was offered $100,000 to lose a fight to Reuben Shank. The fight never was held. Rocky's license was revoked.

In baseball, five players once were suspended from the Class D Evangeline League in Louisiana for alleged links with bookies. In 1948, the National Hockey League expelled Billy Taylor, a New York Ranger, and suspended Don Gallinger of the Boston Bruins for association with known gamblers.

So no sport has a monopoly on betting scandals, and it's not just an evil of the times. As long as men are greedy and want to make an easy buck, they're bound to continue.

WHIRLING DERVISH
A mighty whirl, and Parry O'Brien twirls the discus 184 feet, 5 inches for victory at Long Beach State Saturday.

SAYS SCHMELING

Good Boxing Days Gone

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI) — The big man gestured a well-manicured hand and said: "You just can't compare today's fighters with the champions of my time. There was more skill, better know-how in the old days. We were better trained."

That was Max Schmeling talking, the man who fought his way to the world's heavyweight championship in the 1930s but is best remembered for the terrible pasting he took from Joe Louis.

Schmeling, at 57, still looks like a fighter despite his manicured nails and tailor-made suits. As half owner of a soft drink (Coca Cola) bottling plant he is a financially successful business man with 200 employes.

He talked with a United Press International reporter in his office about the death of Davey Moore and other ring fatalities. His theory is that it's the present-day state of boxing and the caliber of the men in it that explain such tragic accidents.

"Boxing has made no advances since the '30s," he said. "In fact it has been slipping ever since then. Too many of the fighters don't really know how to box, to defend themselves and to carry out a proper offense. Today's matches often turn into free-for-all style fighting.

"In my day we put the emphasis on self-defense, excellent technique, skill, brains, a quick eye. How many boxers can you really say that about today?

• • • •

"AND THEN there's a change in the whole attitude. Nowadays too many boxers have families, need to make money, need to accept fights even when they should avoid them because of their health. That helps explain Moore's case.

"They should have stopped Moore's fight much earlier, thrown in the towel after he showed signs he was not his usual self."

Schmeling doesn't think boxing should be banned as a professional sport.

"They shouldn't stop boxing just because fighters have died," he said. "People get killed in other sports. They don't stop motor racing because people get killed by the dozens."

But, in the opinion of der maxie, the fighters themselves and the people who train and manage them should do a better job.

He and Louis "today are friends," Schmeling said. "He was one of the world's truly great boxers."

DUCK SOUP FOR OREGON SPIKE CREW

EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—The powerful University of Oregon track tteam rolled over Brigham Young, 96-49, in a dual meet here Saturday, losing only two events.

John Burns won the javelin for the Ducks with a heave of 250-1; Dave Steen took the shotput with a 59-6¾ mark; the 880-yard run was won by Ray Van Asten in 1:51.5, and the Ducks made a clean sweep of the two-mile with Keith Forman winning it, 8:58.4. Clayton Steinke and Dan Tonn followed.

Mediocre marks were established in the 220 and the pole vault, Oregon's Marty Frank and Bob Watson tied in the vault at 14-3 and Dave Blunt won the 220 in 22.3.

No Compton Cup

The Compton Cup track and field meet was rained out Saturday and rescheduled for next Saturday night. Moore Leaguers will not compete at that time, however.

2 L.B. STATE RECORDS FALL

Another Dazzler for 49ers' Dee

By JOHN DIXON

The weather was irrationa and so were the marks Satur day as Long Beach State an a select group of guest tuned up for big-meet tim on the 49er field.

Polar breezes limited th athletes to polar bear time through much of the mee but when the wind slowed th runners speeded to severa achievements worthy of inter national note.

It was another good day for Jack Rose's L.B. State gladiators. They established two school records, and split the eight individual races with the 100-strong Southern California Striders.

• • • •

IN ALL, the national championship-favored Striders won nine events, Long Beach four, the Pasadena Athletic Assn. three and other competitors two. It was a non-scoring meet.

The day's outstanding effort gain was contributed by Jer Dee Andrews.

The scatback from Poly High and Long Beach City College lowered his 330-yard urdles school record from 3.7 to 36.5, only three-tenths f a second shy of the best me in the world for the vent.

Andrews led from gun to ape by an ever-increasing argin. A stiff wind, which isconcerted his balance and tep, cost him several ticks on the officials' stopwatches. He drove through two hurdles.

"I had a terrific start," Andrews recalled after the victory, "but the race didn't feel as good as last week's."

Earlier he won the 120-yard high hurdles in 14.1, spurred by a wind of illegal proportion and the constant challenge of Strider John Chaldu.

Andrews broke first but Chaldu quickly turned it into a deadheat to the midway point, from where Dee slowly inched ahead. Chaldu was credited with 14.2.

• • • •

FORMER 49er Gary Patterson turned in a blistering also-ran performance. Recently released from service, and with little race preparation, he was second in the 330s in 37.5 and fourth in the 120s in 14.3.

Long Beach's other record-breaker was Tom Hayden, who continued his weekly self-improvement program with a discus throw of 171 feet, one-half inch, bettering Frank Carl's old school record of 166-10. Venerable Parry O'Brien won the event at 184-5.

Other 49er victories were scored by Darryl Taylor and Ralph Lee.

Taylor outgunned Strider Warren Farlow in the stretch to win an intellectual 880 handily in 1:52.7, while Lee was a decisive mile victor in 4:18.7. Both winners were handicapped by severe wind gusts.

The sprints were sizzlers, but wind was a positive factor here. Strider Willie Williams won the 220 in 20.7 and shared the 100 title in 9.5 with teammate John Gilbert.

Although pole vaulting 16-4½ in practice during the week, Strider Ron Morris won at only 14-6. The Olympic Games silver medalist fouled out at 15 feet as a result of timing troubles caused by swirling winds in the stratosphere.

Next week the best in the West will compete in the Mt. San Antonio Relays.

L.B. SPIKERS STAR FOR CAL

SEATTLE — California swept past Washington, 81½-63½, as high jumper Bill French cleared 6-6½ and Dave Achibald ran the 440 in 47.7 in a track and field meet here Saturday.

French is a graduate of Jordan High in Long Beach. Another local spiker, Bill Sprague from Poly, finished second and third in two hurdle races and ran on Cal's winning relay team.

HEADIN' HOME
Strider Willie Williams lunges for finish tape in 100-yard dash as Long Beach State's Jim Richardson trails by two feet. Williams was winner in 9.5, Richardson was clocked in 9.6.

5 Kansas Relays Marks Smashed

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI)—Fred Hansen of Rice University broke the Kansas Relays pole vault record with a vault of 16 feet, ¾ inch Saturday, and Loyola of Chicago snapped Texas Southern's fantastic relays win streak.

Hansen, who two weeks ago won the Texas Relays with a 16-1 vault, catapulted over the crossbar with his fiber glass pole on the last try.

He and Gerald Pratt of Texas Southern broke the meet record earlier with 15-9 vaults. Pratt could not clear the winning height.

The old pole vault record was 15-6¼, a mark Hansen set last year. He said it was too dark to attempt a higher record.

Four other meet records fell Saturday. Texas Southern broke two Relay records. The javelin and high jump standards also were upped.

Loyola, led by little Tom O'Hara, zipped over the distance medley course in 9:54.2 to break the old meet record of 10:06.9, set by North Texas State in 1939. Southern finished second and bettered the old mark of 10:06.5.

• • • •

O'HARA, mile-leg anchor man for Loyola, took the baton 30 yards behind Texas Southern's Major Adams. The 130-pound red-haired Chicagoan passed Adams just after the three-quarter mile mark and won by almost 50 yards.

Missouri's Robin Lingle won the Glenn Cunningham Mile at 4:04.8, just missing the meet record. Ed Red of Rice cracked the javelin mark with 256-1½. Southern's records were 40.7 in the 440 relay and 3:09.2 in the mile relay.

TRACK BRIEFS

LONDON (AP)—John Uelses of the United States, history's first 16-foot pole vaulter, did not approach that height Saturday but left a United Kingdom record of 15-5 in winning his specialty at an international track meet.
The victory made it a clean sweep for the three-man U.S. squad. John Thomas of Boston won the high jump at 7-0, and John Dandridge scored a double, winning the 800 Friday night and the 440 Saturday.

SAN DIEGO—Darryl Nelson won three events and placed second in another to lead San Diego State to a 73-70 win over Los Angeles State. Brunet won the 100 in 9.7, the 220 in 22 flat, the triple jump with 46-8¼, but lost the broad jump by one inch to the Diablos' Ken Tucker who leaped 23-6½.

MADRID (AP)—Lois Garrigo, a Madrid high school student, raised the Spanish high jump record to 6-0¼. Several track coaches from Sweden have been working with Garrigo in preparation for the Olympic Games in Tokyo next year.

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI)—Cecil Edmonds, a member of the 1960 U.S. Olympic team, and Jewell Phillips of Birmingham, Ala., in the yearling decathlon of the 28th annual Kansas Relays.
Edstrom scored 7,423 points and Mulkey, trying for his sixth consecutive triumph, got 7,318 points.

JC Shot Mark Set

Don Castle of Foothill College set a national JC shotput mark of 57-8¼ Saturday in a triangular meet with San Francisco CC and the Cal Frosh.

Tribe Scares USC Spikers

PALO ALTO — Southern California won the mile relay, the final event of a rain-sogged, wind-swept dual track and field meet with Stanford Saturday, and with the victory edged the host Indians 73-72.

Thus the Indians were thwarted once again in their bid to beat the Trojans in a dual meet which now numbers 28 dating back to 1933.

Stanford had asked to postpone the meet to today but USC said it had to return to Los Angeles Saturday night. The meet then was shifted from Stanford to the nearby Foothill College field.

• • • •

IN THE shuffle, two Stanford hop, step and jump men left, thinking the meet was today.

Stanford coach Payton Jordan, who is an ex-Trojan sprinter, would say only, "It was a tough one to lose."

Going into the mile relay, Stanford led 72-68.

Yang Iron-Man Again, but Oxy Topples UCLA

UCLA's iron-man, C. K. Yang, won four events Saturday and scored 21½ points, but the Bruins were beaten by Occidental's track and field team, 74½-70½, on the strength of a mile-relay victory.

Yang, Nationalist China's finest athletic export, won the pole vault at 16 feet even and tried for a world record at 16-5½ but missed.

He also won the high hurdles and broad jump with meet marks and took the javelin throw, and ran on the winning Bruin 440-yard relay team.

Occidental's weightman, John McGrath, a 6-7, 270-pounder, set a meet and school record in the discus with a toss of 183-11½. He also won the shotput at 55-10½.

Occidental had to come from behind to win the final event — the mile relay — and sew up the meet.

49ers Fall in Twin Bill

Long Beach State's baseball team visited its country cousin Saturday afternoon, but ended up out in the cold as San Fernando handed the 49ers 7-6 and 3-0 defeats in a CCAA doubleheader.

It took the Matadors 11 innings to win the first game as SFV's hitters finally solved LBSC's pitchers. Jerry Lidman opened the fatal frame with a single, was advanced to second on a sacrifice and scored on Bob Hiegert's base hit to left.

Long Beach earned three of its six runs on home runs. Jack Bogdanovich hit a 350-foot shot over the left field wall on the first pitch of the game, and pinch-hitter Bob Cooper delivered the second over 410 feet, in the ninth inning.

• • • •

THE SECOND game was a comedy of errors, with 49er pitcher Ed Perry ending up on the short end of the laughs. Perry allowed only one hit—Gary Angello's fourth-inning single. His teammates were not nearly as brilliant, however, committing six errors.

Four of the miscues came on successive plays in the second stanza as San Fernando scored twice to cinch the game. The Matadors scored all three of their runs without the benefit of a hit.

Don Anderson was Long Beach's most productive hitter, rapping four hits in seven at-bats, one a double.

ANGEL ANGLES: Despite the splint on the little finger of his right hand, Danny Osinski threw some 10 minutes on the sideline prior to the contest. Osinski revealed there was still a great deal of pain in the finger. The splint will remain on until the Angels return home next Monday.

Kansas City coach Jimmy Dykes, a former third baseman himself, thinks the A's Ed Charles, who drove in the winning run in Friday's second game, can be one of the greats. "And I mean great," says Dykes. "Brooks Robinson is the best in the game today, but Charles has all the potential at the plate and in the field to be his equal some day soon."

The Angels depart immediately following today's game for Washington and a two-game series with the Senators. Then it's two games in Detroit and three in Baltimore before road trip No. 1 is history. Next Friday's and Sunday's games with the Orioles will be televised.

A's owner Charles O. Finley would be quick to OK a Jimenez trade. "Give us Belinsky and we'll give you Jimenez," said Finley. "Never," answered pitching coach Marv Grissom.

Kansas City's personable public relations director Jim Schaaf, who played guard for Paul Hornung at Notre Dame, was deeply shocked by Hornung's transgressions. "I'd never have believed it of Paul," said Schaaf.

Saturday's contest was Moran's 250th in the major leagues. The all-star second baseman has come a long way since the spring of 1961 when he was deeply considering quitting baseball.

49ers Rule Loop Swim Seas Again

SANTA BARBARA — Long Beach State's swimmers still rule the conference seas after they scuttled six opponents in the three-day championships which ended Saturday at UC Santa Barbara.

The 49ers won five of seven final events to finish with 136.5 points, far ahead of runner-up Cal Poly's 76.

Chuck Babcock won his third individual contest. Bill Barnett and Don Watt copped their second of the meet while Ron Malandra finished first in the 100-yard freestyle in CCAA and school record time. The LBSC foursome of Doug Will, Barry Von Hemert, Malandra and Murdock Fraser also cracked the conference 400-yard freestyle relays mark.

All in all, the 49ers finished first in 12 of 17 events.

• • • •

LONG BEACH now has captured the title two years running and three times in four tries. The 49er swimmers were coached by Jack Torney while the regular boss Jim Schultz is with the Pan-Am team.

Torney also set something of a record when he was thrown fully clothed into the pool for the third time in four years.

100-freestyle—Malandra (LB) 50.2 (CCAA and LBSC record), Fitzgerald (F), Roth (UCSB), Pilger (SF), Fraser (LB), Temerlin (F).

100-backstroke — Barnett (LB) 59.6 (CCAA and LBSC record), Rhoads (LB), Scaroni (CP), Wilde (F), Bartholomew (F), Kargas (F).

100-breaststroke — Watt (LB) 1:05.8, Gibbs (UCSB), Vogel (CP), Brooks (SF), Van Gelder (F), Szach (SD). Watt's qualifying time of 1:04.7 was CCAA and LBSC record.

1650-freestyle—McElligott (LA) 18:42.9 (CCAA record), Svendsen (CP), Mackh (LB), Marvel (CP), Von Hemert (LB), Wude (F).

100-butterfly—Babcock (LB) 55.7, Pearson (F), Wilson (CP), Heintz (CP), Kuklin (LB), Strong (F).

3-meter diving — Moxley (LA) 461.55, Dare (LA), Lichty (LA), Stone (CP), McGraw (SF), Wright (F).

400-freestyle relay — Long Beach (Will, Hemert, Malandra, Fraser) 3:23.2 (CCAA and LBSC records), UC Santa Barbara, Fresno, San Fernando, Cal Poly, San Diego St.

Final scoring: Long Beach 136.5, Cal Poly (SLO) 76, Fresno 66, L.A. State 46, UC Santa Barbara 42.5, San Fernando 29.5, San Diego St. 22.

Vike Aquas Second in Metro Meet

Long Beach City College broke two conference marks in placing second in the Metropolitan Conference swimming championships Saturday at Santa Monica City College. Los Angeles Valley captured the title with 119 points while the Vikings finished with 91.5.

Doug Evans splashed to a record in the 100-freestyle (49.9), lowering the old standard by 1.2 seconds. The 400-yard freestyle relay team of Evans, Riley Quayle, John Setmire and John Montrella swam to a 3:27.7 clocking to establish the other mark.

100-freestyle—Evans (LB), Bigger (V), Barrera (B), Montrella (LB), Setmire (LB), Schenck (V) 49.9 (Metro record, old mark 51.1 by Wacherpfenning, SMCC, 1961).

100-backstroke — Maxwell (SM), Raffaelli (V), Smeeroyk (C), Cooper (LB), Laco (C), Sutherlin (LB) 59.8.

100-breaststroke — Ashleigh (C), Wale (V), King (LB), Humphries (LB), Johnson (SM), Harrison (B) 1:05.6 (Metro record, old mark 1:06.2 by King, LBCC, 1962).

1650-freestyle—Churchill (SM), Kirkland (C), Dixon (V), Maye (B), Perry (C), Hoffman (LB) 18:20.5 (Metro record, new event).

100-butterfly—Sato (V), Friedman (SD), Sherry (EC), Pitman (LB), Perry (C), Quayle (LB) 54.2 (Ties Metro record).

400-freestyle relay—Long Beach (Evans, Quayle, Setmire, Montrella), Valley, Cerritos, Santa Monica, Bakersfield 3:27.7 (Metro record, old mark 3:28.3 by Valley, 1962).

3-meter diving—Keesling (C), Wilworth (V), Smith (LB), Bowen (C), Torvik (SD) 374.85.

Final scoring: L. A. Valley 119, Long Beach City College 91.5, Cerritos 78, Santa Monica 64.5, Bakersfield 38, El Camino 16, San Diego 7.

By KEN PIVERNETZ

The Metropolitan Conference baseball schedule was expanded to 21 games this season in an effort to do away with ties that had forced playoffs the previous three years. There should be no doubt about the 1963 champion.

Long Beach City College swept to its 14th and 15th consecutive league wins on campus Saturday at the expense of Bakersfield College to set an all-time Metro mark. The 1952 Bakersfield team won all 14 of its league games.

• • • •

JIM PARKS ran his record to 6-0 with a 8-2 first game win as Syd O'Brien went 5-for-5 and drove in four runs while Mike O'Connor made the most of an infrequent appearance by winning the second game, 6-1.

The twin losses all but eliminated Bakersfield from championship contention as its league mark dropped to 10-5. Cerritos took both of its games Saturday to keep pace at 12-2-1.

O'Brien was the whole show on offense in the first game as he hit a long 2-run triple to left-center in the seventh inning to break open what had been a tight duel between Parks and George Culver. Frank Smith brought O'Brien home with a single and Parks was able to breeze the last two innings.

O'Brien's five RBI for the day gives him 25 in the 24 games LBCC has played this season.

• • • •

O'CONNOR made his first start since March 5 in the nightcap and though touched for seven hits, he walked only one—something that couldn't be said for his counterpart, Terry Delamarter.

Delamarter couldn't find home plate with a Geiger counter as he issued 12 walks in the six innings he was around. Three LBCC runs came home in the third without a hit and it was due all to Delamarter's wildness, thanks to six free passes.

O'Conner gave up his only walk and got touched for back-to-back singles in the third, but outside of that, it was another impressive performance for a LBCC pitcher.

Bear Crew Easily Defeats L.B. State

California's varsity crew squelched Long Beach State's bid to avenge an earlier loss this season when the Golden Bears stroked to a decisive 2½-length victory Saturday in Cerritos Channel. Hosting USC finished a distant third.

The defeat for Bill Lockyer's boys was rough in more ways than one. A cabin cruiser exploded at a Terminal Island boat landing just before the race. Two fire boats kicked up such a big wake rushing to the fire that the three varsity eights were in for a bouncy ride from start to finish.

Cal grabbed an immediate lead, gained an open-water margin early and held it throughout. The Bears flashed across the finish line in 5:53.2. The 49ers were timed at 6:05.5 while the Trojans struggled home in 6:18.2.

In the junior varsity rematch, Long Beach reversed its defeat on the Oakland Estuary by edging the Bears by ¼ length. The 49ers and Cal raced neck-and-neck with LBSC finally pulling ahead at the wire. The victors were timed at 5:45 over the smooth 2,000-meter course. Cal was clocked at 5:46.6 against 6:08.3 for USC.

• • • •

SATURDAY marked the first time the Bears had rowed off their home course this season. Coach Jim Lemon said "we had a tough time beating Long Beach at 2 miles and I though the shorter distance would make them even tougher.

"But we got off to a fine start with a stroke of 36 and maintained a count of 34 throughout to win handily."

Long Beach's oarsmen started with a stroke count of 37 and finished at 35.

SIFFORD FOURTH

Charles Retains Lead at Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Bob Charles of New Zealand sank a 5-foot birdie putt on the ninth green Saturday to start the back nine of the third round of the $50,000 Houston Golf Classic with a one-stroke lead over Jack Nicklaus, the new Masters champion.

Charles and Nicklaus, playing in the same threesome, were tied as they moved onto the ninth green, but Nicklaus' first putt hung on the lip of the cup and he took a par.

Charles, with a front nine 34 after first rounds of 67 and 66, began the back nine with a 45-hole 167-eight under par for the 7,021-yard, par 35-35—70 Memorial Park course. Nicklaus had a 65-69-34—168.

Charles Sifford of Los Angeles, the first Negro to play in the 17-year-old classic, held third place with a 67-69-33—169, having shared the lead momentarily with Nicklaus after the first five holes.

Grouped at 171 were Dow Finsterwald, Tommy Aaron, the first round leader, and amateur Kermit Zarley, the National Collegiate champion from the University of Houston.

Charles began the first round with a one-stroke lead over Nicklaus and Zarley and a two-stroke lead over Sifford.

Hylton (9-0) Faces L.A. State Monday

With the best record of any collegiate baseball team in the Southland, Pepperdine sends unbeaten Jerry Hylton (9-0) against Los Angeles State Monday on the Diablo field.

Hylton, who boasts a stingy 1.26 ERA, ranks among the nation's top pitchers. The Waves currently are on a 12-game win streak; their overall record is 18-3. Gail Hopkins continues to lead the club in batting with a .413 average.

Yanks Lose Soccer Match in Pan-Am Games' Opener

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI) —Chile defeated the United States, 10-2, Saturday night in a soccer match that helped open the Pan-American Games.

Despite their opening defeat, the Yanks were expected to match their showing in the last Pan-Am games at Chicago when they won 120 of a possible 163 first places.

A special Brazilian air force group flew over the stadium as the day opened, performing daring aerial stunts. It was then hot and sunny but later the sky became overcast as 50 Brazilian boy scouts lined the track and released 200 "pigeons of peace."

While the crowd waited impatiently for the start of the ceremonies, it was entertained by a Brazilian army band. Later, two other bands joined in providing martial music.

Cuba, which decided at the last minute to send a team here, was represented by a large delegation which waved little Brazilian flags but received little applause.

INGO, LONDON CLASH TODAY

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Ingemar Johansson, former world heavyweight boxing champion, regards today's bout with Brian London as another stepping stone in his determined bid to regain the title.

Johansson's European title will not be at stake in his 15-round match with the former British Empire champion. Ingo, recently turned 30, recaptured the European crown last June 17 by knocking out Dick Richardson of Wales. He had to give up the title when he became world champion.

Fishin' Around

By DONNELL CULPEPPER

New Leader for Casting Club

The Long Beach Casting Club installed a new slate of officers Friday night, topped by one of the youngest presidents it ever elected—Don Reed, a man with a lot of drive and zoom and who has been fishin' ever since he can remember.

His legal name is Donovan L. Reed, and he's 30 years old. He prefers the Don without any other syllables. He lives with his wife, Kay, at 6821 Motz St., Paramount, and they have three children, Kathy, 10, David, 8, and Karen, 7. The entire family shares Don's interest in fishing, although Kay admits it's a bit difficult to fish and take care of three children at the same time.

DON REED
A Lot of Drive

Don recently was promoted to the office of general manager of Beach Manufacturing Company in Compton. The firm makes machine tools and aircraft components.

Going into office with Don were the following: Walter Oliver, first vice president; George Harrison, second vice president; Don McGavin, corresponding secretary; Frank Messersmith, recording secretary; Ed Caldwell, treasurer; O. T. (Rosy) Rosencrans, captain, and Dick Tague, co-captain.

There isn't a man in the group who wouldn't go fishing at the drop of a hat. And most of them are hunters, too. Even the president, who boats and paints (well, too, they say), now owns a gun and has added hunting to his hobbies.

PRIMARILY, THE CASTING CLUB was organized in 1925 by the late David R. Linder to teach young and old the art of casting flies and artificial lures, but that sort of thing leads to fishing, as every one knows, and a good caster makes a fine fisherman if he keeps at it long enough.

Once again, Ed Williams, with 1938 points, showed his heels to the casters in running away with the top casting trophy as best all-around champion.

Other winners: Master class — Frank Messersmith (1880 points), first; O. T. Rosecrans (1861), second, and Willie Waters (1840), third. H. H. (Zip) Carpenter, best distance caster. Earle Thomas, tops in beginners' class.

Marty Willans showed he is following in dad's footsteps by taking the junior championship. Special awards went to Jack Geduldig and Elmo Botkin.

Fishing prizes went this way: Allen Lowe, largest steelhead (12-1); Barney Garlick, largest rainbow (4-8) on a fly; Claude Kreider, largest brown (5-0) on a fly; Dr. Charles Nelson, largest trout (2-2) caught in California on a fly, and Vern Garten, largest land-locked trout (9-3 Dolly Varden) on a fly; Jerry Simpson, largest bass (1-12) caught on a flyrod and artificial lure with one hook.

George Harrison won special mention for a small-mouth bass (5-8) taken in Pelican Lake, Minn.

THE RETIRING PRESIDENT, Earle Thomas, who has steered the club through a most interesting year, was master of ceremonies at the annual dinner which was held at the Petroleum Club.

He took note of the Long Beach Hobby Show (May 9-12) at which the club will man a booth where fly-tying and rod-building will be the attractions.

It also was announced that the LBCC will be host to the Western Tournament of Angling and Casting Clubs June 21, 22 and 23.

The Casting Club has had a most interesting history. When David R. Linder started it almost a half-century ago, its meeting place was on any spacious lawn where men could practice flycasting.

In the years that followed, the city granted the club the right to build its own clubhouse and casting pool in Recreation Park provided certain standards were maintained.

In recent years each president has strived to get and reach a certain goal, carrying out improvements that would make the club more attractive. And that it certainly has done. The interior of the clubhouse is beautifully done and the fish mounts are in excellent taste.

A women's auxiliary, the Long Beach Women's Casting Club, also has a big hand in maintaining the club property.

DRAG BOATS AWAIT WORD ON WEATHER

A trimmed field of 50 quarter-mile drag speedboats are awaiting word from the weatherman before they take to the starting line at Marine Stadium today at noon for Long Beach Boat and Ski Club's scheduled competition.

The usual LBBSC field of more than 100 boats was cut down by elimination of lower speed classes from the race and by threats of bad weather. Today's meet is slated to pit classes from 50 mph up. Class racing normally starts at 35 mph.

In qualification trials Saturday, the former world record-holder "Golden Thing" has been clocked at speeds over 160 mph when running on alcohol fuel. Use of alcohol and other fuel addatives, however, has been banned in Marine Stadium by a recent Recreation Department ruling.

Pin Tourney Rolls Into Fifth Week

The California Woman's Bowling Assn. State Championship tournament rolled into its fifth week Friday with more than 1,000 women bowlers from every corner of the state scheduled for weekend shooting at Cal Bowl and Java Lanes.

State association president Helen Bellows presented Los Angeles bowlerette Esther Woods with a diamond medal for her 300 game in the recent L.A. Woman's City Tournament. The presentation was made during team event bowling at Java Lanes Saturday.

STABLE SURPRISES COKES IN TV BOUT

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocky, muscular Jose Stable of Cuba and New York beat top welterweight contender Curtis Cokes of Dallas Saturday night with a savage hooking attack to body and head for an upset unanimous decision in their nationally televised fight at New York's Sunnyside Arena.

There were no knockdowns during the excellent bout but Stable was penalized the eighth round for a foul for a low blow.

ROD LAVER

Pro Tennis Troupe in L.A. Friday

Tennis grand slammer Rod Laver of Australia spurted spectacularly to earn a clash with countryman Ken Rosewall Friday at the L.A. Sports Arena in the 1963 world pro championship playoffs.

Only able to break even in 18 initial tests in a six-man round-robin across the country, the 23-year-old Laver swept 15 of his last 20 frays to clinch second spot behind Rosewall. The top playoff prize is $35,000.

During the late splurge, rookie pro Laver racked up world champion Rosewall thrice and twice forced the round-robin winner to marathon tussles.

Third and fourth-place winners of the 45-match round robin were ex-American Cupper Earl Buchholz and Spain's talented stroking Andres Gimeno. They collide Friday seeking a consolation $20,000 playoff prize. Both matches will be decided by the best-of-three sets. A doubles will follow.

The three-match program will start at 8 and tickets range from $1.50 to $5, announced tour director Tony Trabert. (Ticket information may be secured by telephone GR 8-1817 or GR 7-8146.)

Arnett Seeks Ye Old Rams Golf Repeat

Jon Arnett faces a strong field of contenders Monday when he tees off as defending champion in the 12th Ye Old Rams gold tourney at Yorba Linda CC.

Tournament chairman Bob DeLaner has set tee time for 12 noon in the shotgun event and Arnett, who won the tourney over the same course last year with a 73, probably will have to lower his score if he hopes to repeat.

Among the top contenders from the current Rams' roster are quarterback Zeke Bratkowski, two-times NFL golf champion, and defensive halfback Charley Britt, a near scratch player in college.

Among other players entering are: Jim Phillips, Ollie Matson, Roy Hord and George Strugar.

Other former Ram halfbacks, three-time winner Dr. Les Horvath and four-time kingpin Jack Banta, actors Howard Keel, Bob Sterling and Jack Ging and tennis star Jack Kramer are among leader challengers.

The Rams coaching staff, head man Harland Svare and assistants Ray Wietecha, Don Heinrich, Lindon Crow and Bob Schnelker, also will compete.

SPORTS BEAT

Contracts for PGA sponsored golf tourneys prohibit gambling in the form of Calcutta pools or parimutuels, but three big name golfers said Saturday it is difficult to keep gambling off the nation's courses.

Jimmy Demaret said he bet on himself the year he won the Masters at odds of 10-1. Mike Souchak said gambling is the golfer's own business as long as he doesn't bet against himself. Jackie Burke said there is more gambling among golfing fans in Houston than in Las Vegas but said golf "is the riskiest of all sports to bet because it's so unpredictable."

• • • •

WORD out of Philadelphia Saturday said it's almost a certainty that Paul Brown will be the next owner of the Philadelphia Eagles. Those close to the source say that if Brown doesn't get the Eagles it will be the biggest upset since Detroit trounced Green Bay last Thanksgiving Day.

• • • •

VINCE LOMBARDI, head coach of the Packers, isn't looking forward with relish when the rookies start streaming into the Packer camp in less than three months. Reason: Paul Hornung, whom Lombardi says always has a psychological effect on the youngsters, as well as the veterans, will not be around. The all-pro back has been suspended indefinitely for betting.

JAPAN'S national and local governments will spend $1.712 billion to get the Tokyo area ready for the 1964 Olympics but reports are there still won't be enough hotels to accommodate the foreign visitors.

• • • •

TONY LEMA, third-ranking money winner among the touring golf pros this year, has reserved the Desert Inn honeymoon suite during the Tournament of Champions classic at Las Vegas May 2-5. Lema said he and Betty Cline, an airline stewardess, will be married April 28.

DAWN FRASER, the AP's sportswoman of 1962, said Saturday she wants to swim the 100 meters for Australia in the 1964 Olympic Games in Tokyo. "I want to be the first woman to break the minute for this race in the Olympic Games," said Dawn.

UCLA's eight-oared crew swept all three events over a 2,000-meter course at Mission Bay against San Diego State.

NOW EYES DERBY

Easy Triumph for No Robbery

NEW YORK (AP) — The Greentree Stable's unbeaten Kentucky Derby candidate, No Robbery, took command at the start and, swinging wide entering the home stretch, galloped to a 2½-length victory in the $90,800 Wood Memorial Saturday at Aqueduct.

A crowd of 58,064, the largest turnout of the New York season, backed the speedy bay son of Swaps-Bimlette down to odds-on favoritism and they weren't disappointed.

No Robbery stood off a late challenge by Patrice Jacobs' Bonjour and ran the 1 1/8 miles in 1:49 1/5. This was the fastest time since the Wood was transferred from old Jamaica to Aqueduct in 1960.

Last year, Admiral's Voyage won in 1:45 4/5.

• • • •

GEORGE D. Widener's Crewman, considered the better half of his two-horse entry, proved a bitter disappointment as he finished ninth in the field of 10 3-year-olds. His stablemate, Top Gallant, came up from last place and gained third place.

The first three all are eligible for the $125,000-added Derby at Louisville May 4.

They all carried 126 pounds.

The winner paid $3.60, $3 and $2.10. Bonjour returned $5.10 and $2.70 and Top Gallant $2.30 to show.

SAN MATEO (UPI) — On My Honor, a slop-loving gelding, put on a powerful stretch drive to win the 48th running of the $42,900 California Derby at Bay Meadows.

On My Honor came from 10 lengths back in the stretch to defeat Lak Nak in 1:54 for the mile and one-sixteenth on a slow track. The winner paid $21, $9.60 and $5.60. Lak Nak returned $18.20 and $7.60 and Olympiad King $4 to show.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — El Peco Ranch's Decidedly, last year's Kentucky Derby winner, won the $11,075 Ben Ali Handicap at Keeneland in track record time.

Carrying 121 pounds, including jockey Jimmy Nichols, Decidedly covered the 1 1/16 mile in 1:41 2/5, one-fifth second faster than the record set a week ago by Times Roman.

The winner returned $5.80 and $2.20. There was no show betting. Times Roman, the favorite, paid $2.40.

NEW YORK (AP) — Jaipur, Belmont Stakes winner and champion 3-year-old of 1962 who earned $618,926 during his career, was retired from racing Saturday by his owner, George D. Widener of Philadelphia and New York.

250 Top Rodeo Pros to Compete at LB Arena

More than 250 top national pros will compete in the giant Pacific Indoor Rodeo set for the Long Beach Arena May 3, 4 and 5.

The season's richest purse—at least $12,000—has lured such greats as Dean Oliver of Idaho, five-time world champion calf roper and currently rodeo's leading money winner; Bill Martinelli, number two man in saddle bronc riding; Harry Charters, world champ in 1959 and now fourth in money won; Pete Crump, Bob Robinson and Jim Charles, all among the best in bull riding. Sherman Sullins, number three man in steer wrestling.

Five performances are scheduled—Friday, May 3, at 8 p.m.; Saturday at 2 p.m. and 8 p.m.; Sunday, 1:30 p.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Eight-time world champion Casey Tibbs, most famous rodeo cowboy of all time, is producing the attraction and has lined up a tremendous show including a number of specialty acts. There also will be 19 outlaw animals from the national finals.

* * * *

AUGMENTING the program will be the appeal of the Long Beach Arena as the site. It will be the first time an event of this type will be staged in the grand building, and the setting is expected to be outstanding.

The animals will buck less than 10 feet from the front row with bucking chutes set up at the arena end where the broncs and bulls enter from their quarters on the beach.

One of the big jobs in preparation will be the spreading of 1,200 tons of dirt on the arena floor and the stockholding pens.

General manager Lex Connelly has insured that the event will be run smoothly by employing the same persons who set up the operation for the highly-successful National Finals Rodeo at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

Tickets for all performances are on sale at the Long Beach Arena and also at Mutual and Liberty ticket agencies.

two runs for his first major league RBI.

Smith allowed the final run via a walk, a wild pitch and a scratch hit by Carl Warwick in the eighth.

Manager Walter Alston called Wills and Wally Moon into his office for a closed-door chat after the game. "It's strictly private," was Alston's only comment.

Alston plans to start the same lineup for the first game this afternoon, making it three days in a row and another record.

Bob Miller, unscored upon in 16⅔ innings, faces Bob Bruce (0-1) in the opener. A pair of first-time starters, Pete Richert and Randy Cardinal, are matched in the nightcap.

INTER-AMERICAN HIGHWAY

Panama Trip No Picnic But There's Adventure

By DONNELL CULPEPPER
I, P-T Outdoor Editor

A 35-year-old dream comes true next Friday at Mexico City when the Inter-American Highway is formally opened to year-'round traffic. Called the economic backbone of Central America and Mexico, the highway stretches from Panama City to the United States border, where a motorist can take any number of highways to go farther north.

In fact, it is now possible to drive from Panama City to Fairbanks, Alaska (7,500 miles), if you are that adventurous. And, within possibly the next few years when the famous Darien Gap is completed south of Panama, there will be a 22,000-mile "road of sorts" from Fairbanks to the tip of South America.

Just now we are concerned with the Inter-American Highway from our own border to Panama and, before we get too far into this subject, this writer is not suggesting the present highway as the route for a family picnic or a honeymoon trip.

• • • •

THE REASON for Friday's celebration is that a caravan of buses carrying officials of all countries involved is leaving Panama City this week and will rendezvous at Mexico City for the formal event Friday.

After long, hot baths to take off the Central American dust, they'll whoop it up and then take planes to Washington, D.C., for another celebration.

It is well to wind up the whingding in Washington; the U.S. government paid at least two-thirds of the cost of the highway from our border to Panama.

Already five countries, Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua and Costa Rica have more than quadrupled mutual trade to $37 million in 10 years as a result of a highway that still is not up to first-class condition.

• • • •

THE HIGHWAY won't be completed until sometime next year when final paving is scheduled. At this writing, the best parts of the highway run through Mexico, particularly from our own border to Mexico City.

Even so, Central America's fledgling Common Market is booming because at long last the countries have a mutual transportation system.

And as that tiny Common Market rises in stature, so will grow the goodwill for the United States. At least that is what members of the Pan American Highway Congress' permanent committee predict.

The U.S. suggested the highway way back in the '20s and then Congress set aside $50,000 just to study the route.

• • • •

IN AN EFFORT to map the route and line up accomodations, a team of the Automobile Club of Southern California has just finished a 32-day trip to Panama City, where they put their two GMC carry-alls on a boat bound for Long Beach-Los Angeles Harbor. The team was comprised of David Packwood and Art Watkins, of the club's public relations staff; Bill Escherich, administrative assistant to Thomas M. Smith, director of travel services, and Howard Goetzman, supervisor of the club's touring bureau.

They undertook the trip primarily to prepare a folio of road conditions, motels, auto service facilities, plus all the problems that a motorist might encounter on such a trip — 4,500 miles from here to Panama City, via Nogales.

The trip, if you wanted to reach Panama quickly, could be made in 14 days.

• • • •

THE AUTO CLUB group found a highway fairly excellent as they traveled through Guaymas, Mazatlan, Guadalajara, Mexico City and Oaxaca, but then the going really got rough in Central America.

Even in Mexico, and particularly on the Nogales-Mexico City stretch, they listed some common road hazards—buses, pedestrians, livestock, narrow bridges, chuck holes and loose gravel on the road shoulders. As a result of their experience, they suggested no night driving on any part of the highway.

One humorous situation about buses and narrow bridges came to light when the four held their press conference.

When you are approaching a narrow bridge in Mexico, with a bus coming from the opposite direction and the bus driver turns on his headlights, for heavens sake get off the road because that driver is coming through, come hell or high water or any American driver.

• • • •

THE AUTO CLUB team also found that a caravan of 25 cars and trailers already had attempted to go through to Panama City. Some had succeeded; others had fallen by the wayside. And wouldn't you know that they were from Texas — trying to be first, I guess!

It costs about $1200 to ship a car back here from Panama. Cars being scarce in Panama, a motorist is better off to sell his car there and fly back home provided he doesn't want to make a return trip in his car.

The highway varies from sea level, where it's always humid to 11,000 feet at Cerro Buena Vista, Costa Rica (zero), and altitudes of 5,000 to 7,000 are not uncommon.

• • • •

AS ONE TRAVELS south of Mexico City the paved two-lane highway begins to give way to one lane, often unpaved and sometimes in poor condition, yet passable.

You travel through every type of terrain—arid country, farmlands, livestock ranches, along beaches, through many canyons and over mountains with real pine trees like our own in California.

Peoples of all lands are exceptionally friendly, especially if you know enough Spanish to converse with them.

• • • •

EVEN THOUGH you know Spanish well, one-dollar bills still speak very loudy in all countries south of our border. Credit cards are virtually useless, even at service stations.

Art Watkins puts it this way:

"A trip such as this requires, first, mental preparation, and second, car preparation. It is still an adventurous trip, not a family picnic. It takes a lot of time, patience and understanding.

"With some high-school Spanish that I had almost forgotten, I got along fairly well and actually increased my knowledge of the language. Bill Escherich did most of the interpreting when I and others got too mixed up."

• • • •

ALL FOUR MEN refused to recommend the highway for campers, although they admitted the Texans with their trailers did fairly well. There are no facilities for trailers and campers. To pull out beside the road or in a field is not using good logic, in their opinion.

They stayed at the best motels and hotels. The average in Mexico was $6.15 per night; $11.40 through Central American. Reason for that difference was mainly that they stayed in capital cities in Central America, where hotels of the Hilton class are common.

A couple could travel through Mexico on $26 per day (all expenses), but probably would average $37.25 per day in Central America.

Temperatures ranged from freezing to 102, and one member said he was certain it was hotter than that in their carry-alls.

• • • •

RESERVATIONS should be made for all overnight stops. In the Latin countries one never knows when there will be a special event, like a fair, bull fight or just a dance, and the hotels fill up early.

The middle of the dry season, which corresponds to the end of our own winter, is the best time to plan such a trip.

Any car can make the trip; it does not have to have special high bed. Grades are moderate everywhere.

The worst part of the highway is in Guatemala and Panama, where it may be three years before an 80-mile stretch is paved.

The road goes through all capitals except that of Honduras.

• • • •

SOME OTHER TIPS that may prove helpful to anybody planning a trip even from here to Mexico City:

Get an international automobile certificate from the Automobile Club. Also get a full passport and arrange for Mexican and Central American insurance. Ordinary insurance issued in the U.S. is of no value when accidents occur in Mexico or other countries. You can cover yourself and car for about $2.25 per day.

Prepare for long waits at borders, even though your papers are in order.

Border stations are open 24 hours a day, but an extra dollar bill is useful when you try to enter the country at siesta time or in the middle of the night.

• • • •

ONE BORDER BOSS was heard telling a tourist: "Give my man a dollar and he won't make you open up your baggage."

Such might be an exception rather than the rule. The Auto Club team had no trouble, but it had its papers in perfect shape and had made reservations all the way.

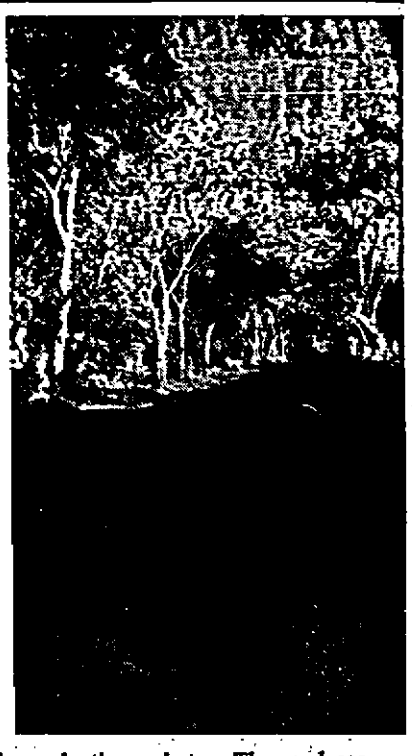

One member of the team cited a widely known fact: Women south of the border act more feminine. Shorts, stretch pants, bikinis and the like are virtually unknown.

Asked how he liked the women of the southern countries, he said: "By the time we reached the Costa Rica border, everybody in a skirt was a living doll." And all four, asked if they would like to return, said "yes" in unison.

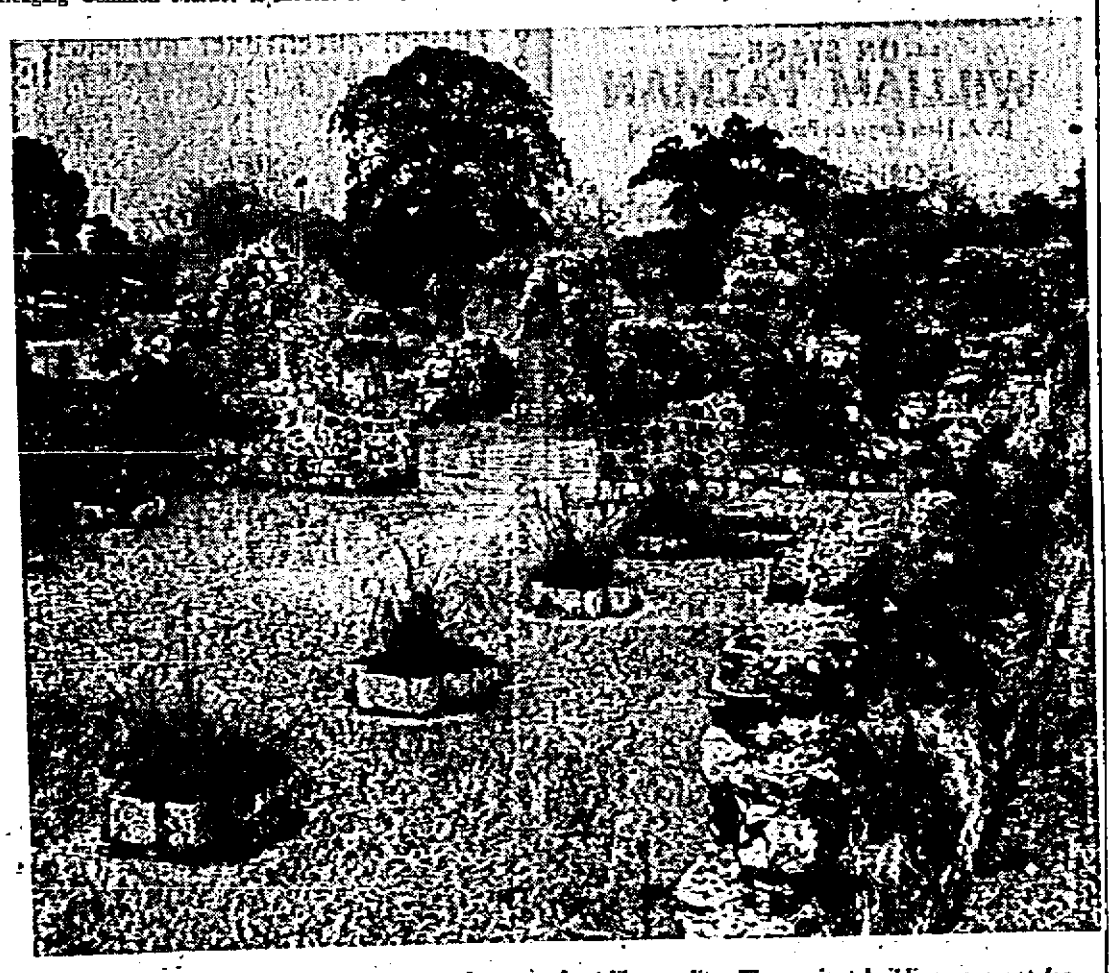

THE ROUTE OF the Inter-American Highway from Los Angeles to Panama. Sign reproduced at top shows notice of construction in Panama.

RUINS OF OLD STRUCTURES in Panama have a ghost-like quality. The ancient buildings are not far from the new Inter-American Highway.

2 Boys' Paintings Hung Upside Down

DERBY, England (UPI) —David Stocker and Gerry Smith, a pair of 4-year-old modern artists, have received apologies from the adults who hung two of their paintings upside down in a current exhibition.

Stocker painted a railway, engine and Smith a little girl. The works, however, were placed upside down and named "Petrol Pump" and "Flower Pot."

Loch Lomond to Supply Fresh Water to Scots

BALLOCH, Scotland (AP) — Loch Lomond—of the bonnie, bonnie banks—is going to be dammed up to supply a wide area of central Scotland with fresh water.

The high road to the lake will become a bit lower. Steps will be taken to insure that the low road doesn't disappear altogether in the 7-million-pound ($19.6 million) project.

The secretary of state for Scotland has given the go-ahead to a plan to put Loch Lomond on tap. It will provide up to 100 million gallons of fresh water a day for new industries all over the industrial belt of Scotland.

The natural rise and fall of the inland Loch as a result of rain and drought will be controlled by a dam across the River Leven, which runs from Loch Lomond down to the River Clyde.

The control point will have a special fish "ladder" to allow salmon up to the loch. It will also have a canal system for the passage of small craft.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

A New Musical, Berle in Stock, Gal Buys Diamond Shares, Etc.

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—The Richard Rodgers-Alan Jay Lerner musical, "I Picked a Daisy," is now definitely set to start rehearsals in October, opening around Christmas Week . . . Milton Berle's being set to do summer stock in "Top Banana" . . . Connie Francis, touring South Africa, invested in a diamond mine. (Now what do you get for a girl who REALLY has everything?) . . . Errol Flynn's Jamaisan estate is used as background in the "Dr. No" film.

CONNIE

Ex-Latin ¼ showgirl Chickie James says her campaign to "get a new image" by using her real name (Nancy James) is discouraging: "People say, 'I hear you're name is Nancy now . . . Chickie' " . . . Rip Taylor, who's been a hit on the Jackie Gleason TV'er, was a CBS usher in the same theater . . .

Laurence Harvey's a busy boy in Dublin; he's filming "Of Human Bondage" by day, editing his own production, "Ceremony," at night . . . Deborah Kerr's after the Margaret Leighton role in the screen version of "Tchin Tchin" . . .

• • • •

ANNE BANCROFT plucks a chicken onstage nightly in "Mother Courage" after each show it's raffled off to a cast member . . . Dick Kallman and Dyan Cannon of the touring "How to Succeed" are romancing offstage, too . . . Glenn Ford (whose latest is "Love Is a Ball") moved into his 500G Beverly Hills home. A visitor noted the five fireplaces and cracked: "His marshmallow bills alone would break me!"

Phil Hirsch's funny new cartoon book is entitled "The Power of Positive Drinking" . . . Renzo Cesana, the saxy "Continental" of TV, played a priest in a movie recently.

• • • •

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A fellow noted whiskey was great for his insomnia: "It doesn't put me to sleep, but it makes me perfectly happy to stay awake."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Modern wives can be divided into two classes — those who've stopped eating big meals, and those who've stopped cooking them.

EARL'S PEARL: A diplomat, we're told, is a man who, when asked his favorite color, answers: "Plaid."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: Notice on a church bulletin board: "Come to worship every Sunday, and avoid the Easter rush."

There are so many labor-saving devices on the market today (says the Silverton, O., Reporter) that a man has to work all his life to pay for them. . . That's earl, brother.

PATTY DUKE

Replaces the Shirley Temple

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Patty Duke, the first juvenile ever to win an Oscar, is getting new fame.

The non-alcoholic soft drinks served children in fancy restaurants have been called "Shirley Temples" for years.

They are now known as "Patty Dukes" in several local bistros.

He's a Late Starter

By JAMES BACON

GEORGE MONTGOMERY, at 45, is learning to act.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—After 25 years in the business, George Montgomery says he is now learning now to act.

"I came in this business green off a ranch in Montana," says the handsome Montgomery, one-time husband of Dinah Shore.

"I was put under contract at 20th Century-Fox and played leading men opposite Betty Grable and others. I was making $350 a week, more money than I knew existed.

"I even bought a ranch with it. Then one day, I was put in a movie that Vic Mature was supposed to do but couldn't.

"THE AGENT I had then said he would get me more money. He made me wait in the car while he talked with the front office. The studio was over a barrel. They didn't want to, but they had to pay me $2,750 a week. I was flabbergasted.

"But with the big increase in salary went a studio's vengeance. It was my last picture for Fox as a leading man and I wound up making low-budget cowboy movies for the next 18 years."

• • •

MONTGOMERY got rich in the cowboy field but his movies were never shown on the Bel-Air circuit. He opened a thriving furniture factory.

"All the producers in town thought I did nothing better than make funiture," he said. "They were probably right because you don't get much of a chance to learn how to act in the oaters."

A few years ago, Montgomery decided to get out of his furniture business and also the low-budget coyboy field. He went on the summer stock circuit in a number of plays such as "Two For The See Saw."

"SUDDENLY," he said, "I realized I was just learning how to act. I wish now that I had started it all 20 years ago. It's a job to go out on that stage in front of a live audience and sustain a performance.

"I've learned more in the last two years than I had learned in 20 years of moviemaking."

Montgomery, a real cowboy, isn't bemoaning his many years on Hollywood horseback. After all, Gene Autry never had a movie play on the big-town circuit and now he owns a major league baseball team, the Los Angeles Angels, plus several radio and television stations and a chain of hotels.

"But," says Montgomery, "I'm still young enough (45) in this business to start playing some good roles. I'm just a late starter."

AUDIENCE STAMPS AND CHEERS

Mehta and L.A. Artists in Great Concert Here

By RACHEL MORTON

The Long Beach audience in Concert Hall of the Municipal Auditorium Friday waxed enthusiastic over Zubin Mehta's conducting with stamping of feet and calls of "Bravo!" at the close of the concert which he conducted with the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra.

How fortunate we are to have such a very fine orchestra come right to our door for several concerts each season. May we hold fast to this golden opportunity. And how doubly fortunate are we in the privilege in hearing one of the world's greatest conductors right here in Long Beach.

The program opened with the "Overture to Khovantchina" by Moussorsky. "Moods of the Sea," would best describe Debussy's "La Mer". Beginning with the mist of early morning, one heard in the music the awakening of the surf jetting spray and spindrift and then building to a massive spilling.

• • • •

THE MUSIC of the second episode painted the shimmering sea, the restless sea, the upsurging sea. In the last movement, Debussy depicted a storm at sea that was eloquent and marvelous. The thunders rumbled and crashed, the heavens opened with torrential rains. The storms subsided, becalmed was the sea, but the waves rose and fell tempestously.

Mehta roused the orchestra to a thrilling performance.

Dvorak's "New World symphony," with its haunting melody "Goin' Home," plantation folk tunes and the stirring marching song of the Finale, to touch upon only a few of the highlights, was likewise given a magnificent performance under the conductor's great emotional direction.

YOU AND BUILDING SECURITY

Financially, home ownership makes YOU one of that great group of Americans building security through the ownership of a tangible and stable asset — a part of America itself. The fact of the matter is that the thoughtful person of today might well ask himself if he can afford NOT to buy his own home. Steadily increasing equity in a well-chosen home is one of the best forms of painless and automatic saving to provide for retirement.

In terms of personal satisfaction, YOU and every member of your family will benefit. Children will make longtime friends, feel more secure because they "belong" to a neighborhood. Their chances for healthful growth and recreation will be vastly improved. And in these assurances YOU — the parents — can take satification. Moreover, YOU will live fuller and more interesting lives as active adult members of the community.

AIR VIEW OF NORTRONICS PLANT AT ANAHEIM

Anaheim Plant Playing Key Role in Progress

By VERN ANTHONY
Southland Progress Editor

One of the first air space industries to locate in Orange County, Northrop Corporation's Anaheim facility today rates among the top bracket in prestige and accomplishments, although outranked in size.

Nortronics System Support, at 500 E. Orangethorpe Ave., occupies some 600,000 square feet of buildings on a 61-acre site.

A breakdown of personnel shows that of 4,000 employes about 5 per cent live in the Long Beach area.

• • • •

THE ANAHEIM PLANT was opened April 1, 1951. At first it manufactured precision optical material for the Army, with fewer than a thousand workers.

Today, it specializes in several important defense programs—automatic checkout test systems, ordnance and countermeasure devices, mechanical ground support equipment and optical systems.

Nortronics products played a key role not long ago in United States aerial reconnaissance activities during the Cuban crisis.

PROJECTS under contract include DATICO automatic checkout units for the Navy's Polaris fleet ballistic missiles; major components of the Army's Hawk surface-to-air missile system, and optical viewing systems for the Army. In addition, there are undisclosed "classified" projects.

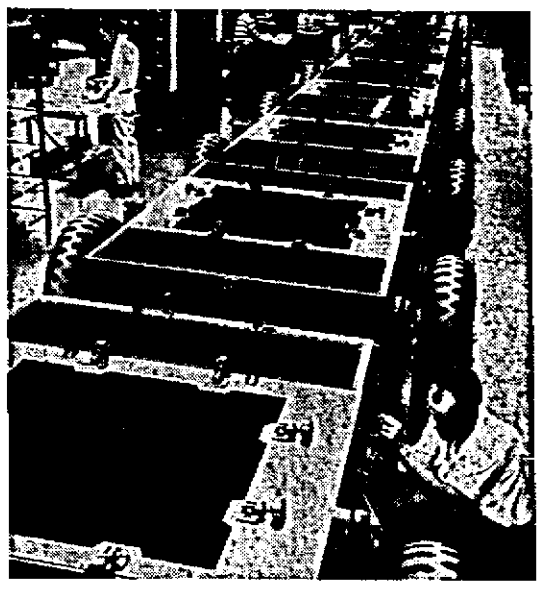

The term DATICO derives from digital automatic intelligence checkout equipment such as the Navy uses for launch-readiness tests on all nuclear submarines and for other maintenance checkout purposes.

DATICO capabilities encompass control, performance measurement, performance evaluation and recording.

LONG BEACH FIRM GROWING

C of C Spotlights Kit Co. in 'Success Profile'

By VERN ANTHONY
Southland Progress Editor

Desirous of giving recognition to growth of established firms in the Long Beach area, the Chamber of Commerce has launched a so-called "Profiles of Success" program.

Kit Manufacturing Co., a Long Beach producer of mobile homes which has expanded to a three-plant national operation in 18 years, is first industry to be spotlighted.

Candidates for "Profiles of Success" will be nominated on a monthly basis by the Chamber's Growth & Diversification subcommittee under chairmanship of Richard Caldwell, area marketing administrator for General Telephone Co. of California.

• • • •

"NEW INDUSTRY and new payrolls are always important, but we must not forget that the most significant economic growth is often that which occurs from within a community," Caldwell said the past week.

"The Kit Manufacturing Co. profile of success reflects an interesting combination of management skills and intelligent evaluation of market opportunities," he said.

It also was noted the Chamber would be alert to outstanding examples of manufacturing growth through product diversification and international trade.

• • • •

KIT MANUFACTURING now employs 200 year-round workers in the manufacture of mobilehomes for California, Nevada and Arizona dealer outlets in a 160,000 square foot plant at 1401 W. 17th St.

The company, located in Long Beach since 1947, is one of America's largest mobilehome builders.

The firm first pioneered in production of small, do-it-yourself assembly "Kits" for camper trailers, developed many of the first 20 to 40-foot trailer designs, and now even produces homes on wheels that embrace a comfortable 1,200 square feet of living space.

• • • •

KIT PRESIDENT, Dan Pocapalia, one of the company founders, reports the mobilehome industry now compreses the largest prefabricated homebuilding business in the country, producing nearly twice as many units as manufacturers of conventio-

Phone Co. to Build New L.B. Facility

Groundbreaking Friday launched General Telephone Co. into construction work on a new 'California' Central Office at 1698 California Ave.

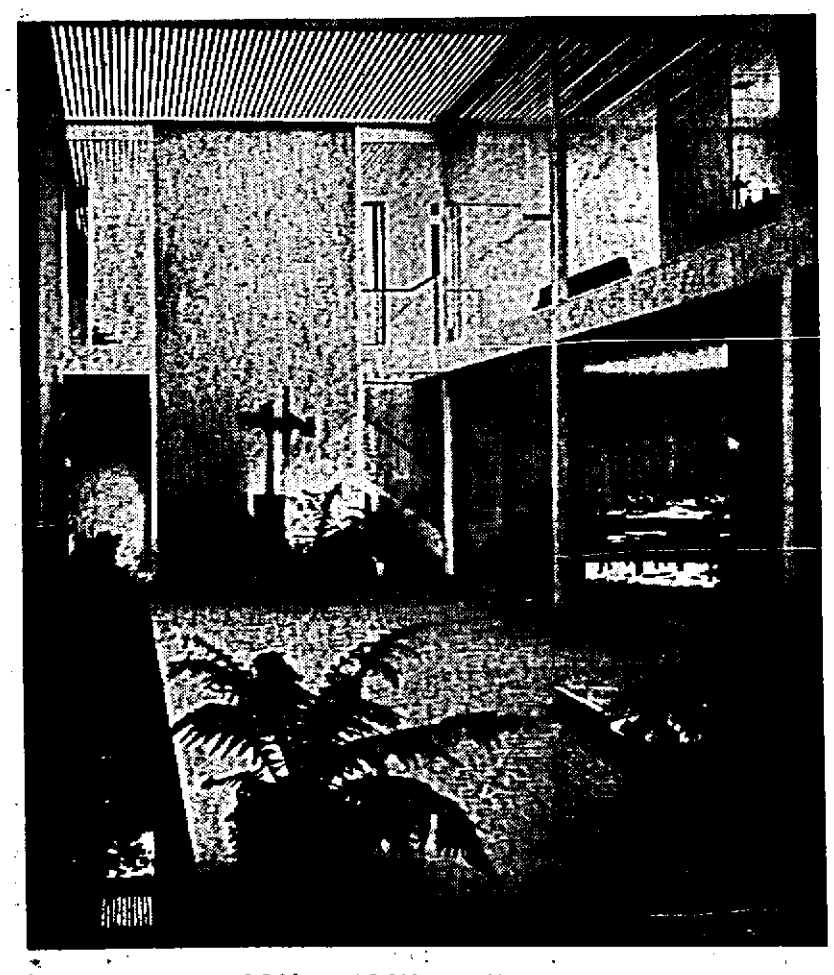

The $1,570,000 project includes initial cost of $295,000 for land and building; $1,075,000 for switching equipment in the building; and $200,000 for outside substructure and cable.

The expansion move ties in directly with anticipated growth of downtown Long Beach, expected high-rise development and the upcoming World's Fair, a company spokesman said. The new office will absorb services now handled at the 550 Elm Ave. building—permitting the latter facility to handle increased downtown business.

Long Beach Architect Firm Wins in National Competition

The Edward Frank residence at 82 Rivo Alto Canal, which was designed by Long Beach architects Killingsworth, Brady and Smith, just has been chosen for a First Honor Award in the Homes for Better Living Competition.

This national competition, held each year to select the best in American housing, is sponsored jointly by the American Institute of Architects and House and Home, Life and Time magazines. The top award given to the Frank house was for Custom Houses more than 2,000 feet in area.

The award will be presented to the architects during the A.I.A. convention at Miami in May.

Grove Students Vie in Realtor Essay Contest

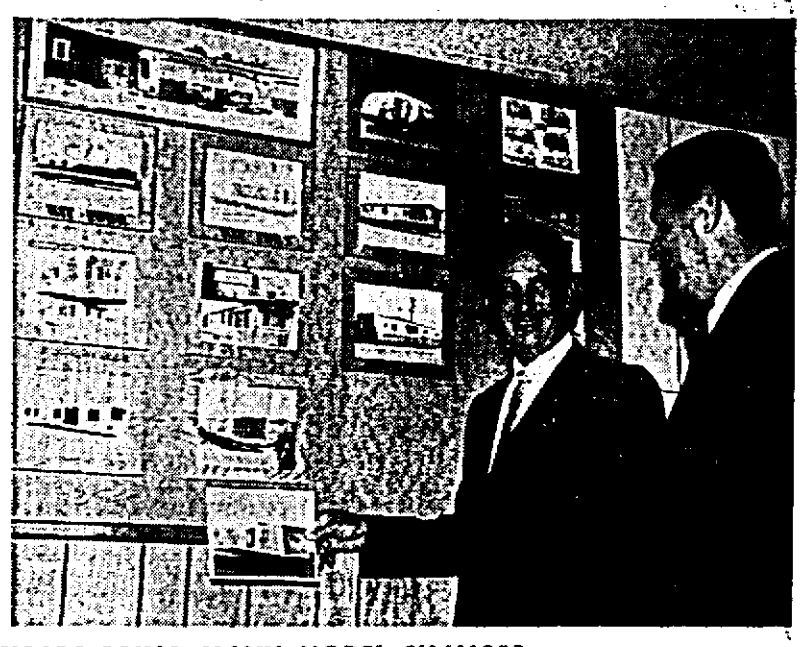

Students from the four Garden Grove District high schools — Rancho, Santiago, Bolsa Grande and Garden Grove High — are submitting entries in an essay contest under sponsorship of the local Board of Realtors.

More than 50 entrants are expected, the students writing on the subject "The Home is the Heart and Hope of the Nation," according to Mrs. Bea Rusche, essay contest chairman.

The Garden Grove winner will be announced at the Realtor Civic Day luncheon May 15, she said.

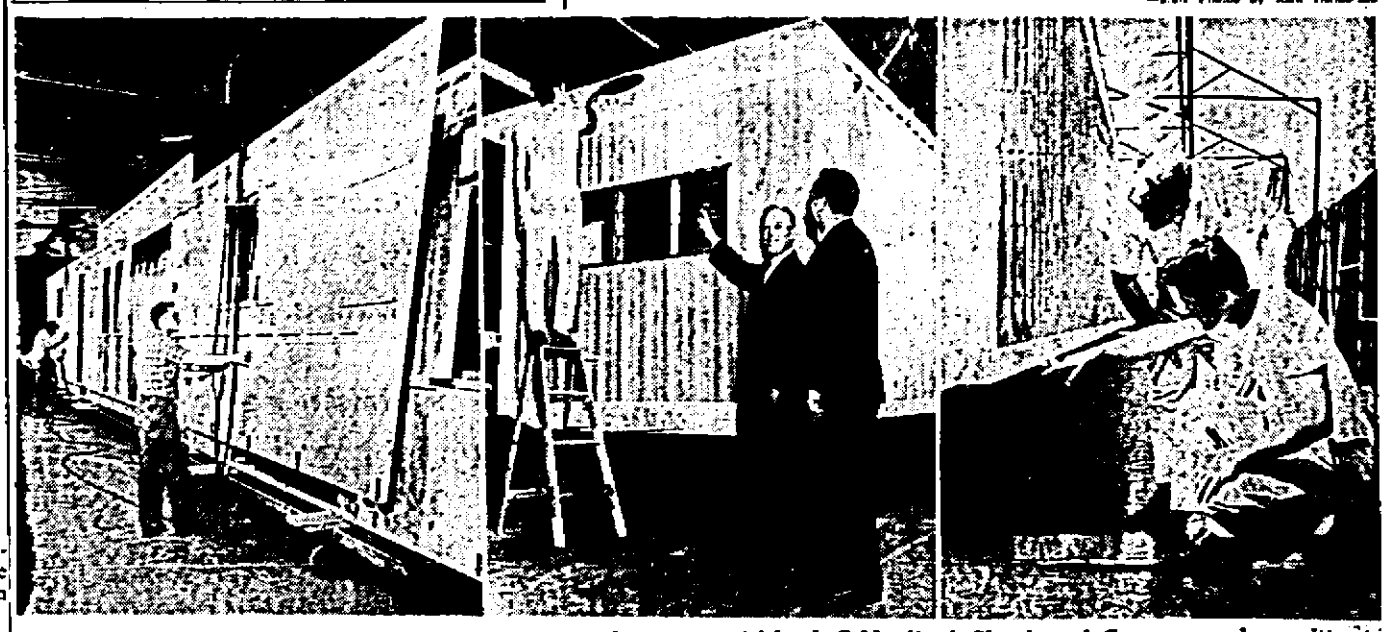

This winner then will compete against winners of other county realty board essay contests; and the countywide winner will go up against statewide competition at the state realty convention Sept. 22. This will be in Los Angeles.

Winners will receive awards as well as honors and have a chance for national recognition.

L.B. Penney Store Exec Post Filled

Appointment of Arthur S. Anderson as sales and merchandising manager of the J. C. Penney Co. store in downtown Long Beach has been announced by Warren Harper, manager.

Anderson formerly held a similar position in the San Fernando Valley store and has been with the Penney Company for 12 years, starting as a management trainee.

Born in Glendale, Anderson is 38 years old. After completing school in Glendale he spent 3½ years as a bomber pilot with the 8th Air Force in England during World War II.

Attending the University of Southern California, he was graduated in 1951 with a Bachelor of Science degree in retailing.

With his wife, Virginia, and two sons, Gary and James, Anderson plans to reestablish his home in the Long Beach area.

al prefabricated homes.

Faced with this demand, Kit management went to work early on plans to regionalize manufacturing activities in order to capture a larger share of a rapidly expanding market.

The task of long-range planning fell primarily on the shoulders of Pocapalia, secretary-treasurer Arnold J. Romeyn, manufacturing vice president V. T. Kruse and Thomas G. Fagan, vice president and national director of sales.

* * * *

IT QUICKLY was evident that the selling price of Kit's product was influenced by the cost of moving it from factory to dealer to user. Hence, the more plants, the more competitive the selling price.

In 1958, a modern fully mechanized plant was erected in Caldwell, Idaho, 25 miles from Boise. There, a trained work force of more than 100 now produces a variety of quality mobilehome products for the Pacific Northwest.

Three years later, after a comprehensive study, Kit established its third plant in McPherson, Kan. Comparable in size and work force to the Idaho operation, the Kansas facility produces for distribution in a 14-state region. The fast-moving organization also is seeking a fourth plant on the Ohio-Pennsylvania area.

* * * *

EVEN THE Long Beach plant came under the cost-conscious scrutiny of Kit management. Faced with a need to enlarge the operation, the firm came within a chassis-width of leaving Long Beach for a new location.

Fortunately, a careful appraisal revealed the greater advantages of expansion at the present location where Kit's production capability soon will reach 10 units per day.

With a functional teletype system for national interplant communication, operation of a company aeroplane from the Idaho plant, and constant attention to production techniques, Kit Manufacturing Co. of Long Beach is on the move.

Jaycees Name Boyd 'Young Man of Year'

Long Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce has named William C. (Bill) Boyd "Young Man of the Year" for outstanding contributions to community life.

Boyd, 29, received the distinguished service award at the organization's annual Gridiron Banquet from JC President Barton Smith.

The head of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce's promotion and public relations was nominated by the Long Beach Advertising Club and selected by an awards jury.

WILLIAM C. BOYD
Honored

* * * *

"BILL BOYD was selected because of his unselfish and devoted volunteer work with numerous Long Beach organizations," Smith stated, "in addition to his professional achievements with the Chamber."

Boyd was tournament director of last year's World Water Ski tournament, which provided the first network telecast of a Long Beach-produced event. He was a prime mover in the organization of "Starlight Serenade" summer symphony pops concerts, which were presented here for the first time last year and attracted large crowds to each performance.

Young Westminster Realty Board Has Fast Growth

Chartered as recently as Dec. 18, 1961, the Westminster Board of Realtors has had a 300% increase in membership, a recent drive having added 10 new brokers, 15 salesmen and 17 affiliates.

Leading the drive were Dick Nerio, board president; Providence Payne, membership chairman; and Eula Hughes, Blue Book chairman.

Herbert L. V. Coffey was acting president when the board received its charter.

The board has an active multiple listing service. Meetings are held at 8 a.m. each Thursday at El Don's Pancake House, at Beach Boulevard and Bolsa Avenue.

In addition to Nerio, other officers are vice president, Paul Anderson; second vice president, E. L. Whitson; secretary, Virginia James; treasurer, Alice Ferguson; and directors, Coffey, W. E. Jolly and Lee B. Casey.

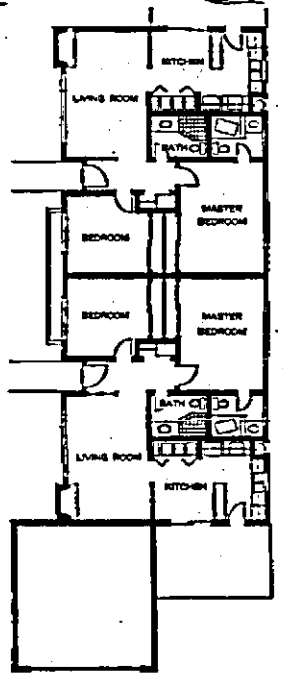

GET RESULTS
Young in age but growing fast, the Westminster Board of Realtors added 42 to its membership in a recent drive. Heading the campaign were President Dick Nerio, Providence Payne (left) and Eula Hughes.

Bellflower Area Schools Share in Emblem Use

One hundred thousand reproductions of the California State emblems in four colors have been distributed to California elementary schools by the California Real Estate Association, according to Bob Prigmore, president of the Bellflower District Board of Realtors.

Four elementary school districts in the Bellflower area are among the many who are using the reproductions, Prigmore said. Bloomfield School District, Hawaiian Gardens; Paramount Unified School District; Bellflower Unified School District and Artesia School District have secured copies for use in their elementary classes.

Study House No. 25 for Arts and Architecture Magazine, also was selected last month by the editors of Architectural Record Magazine as one of the 20 best contemporary houses in the United States in 1963. It will be published soon in a book known as the "Record Houses of 1963."

The book has received worldwide notice and at present is being published in Spain, Switzerland and Italy.

The home is located on a 45-foot lot on the Rivo Alto Canal and has many unusual features, including an entrance door 17 feet tall. All the main living areas face toward a two-story patio with a large Rosenthal sculpture.

• • • •

AS MANY visitors to the house will arrive by boat, the canal side of the home was given special attention by the architects. Entry is by stepping stones over a shallow reflecting pool. The extra-tall door was made of a honeycomb core with special sheets of seamless aluminum laminated on both sides. It has an electronic opener and opens into a high inner courtyard.

In the national competition, 10 custom-built houses, 12 garden apartments were cited for honors.

Scoring honorable mention in the class won by the Long Beach firm was Architect Pierre Koenig of Palos Verdes. Architect Carl Maston of Anaheim won honorable mention in another division.

GUIDING LIGHT of present overall operations is Thomas Victor Jones, company president although only in his early 40s.

Jones was a wartime plane engineer for the Douglas Aircraft Co. then had an air advisory capacity with the government of Brazil, where he took his bride, the daughter of actor Conrad Nagel.

Four years later, he returned to this country and joined the Rand Corp., where he authored a study showing that jet power would make massive military airlift operations feasible. His next move was to Northrop; and he has played a major role in revitalizing that company.

• • • •

JONES HAD A THEORY that Northrop could prosper by concentrating on making selected parts rather than entire systems.

For instance, Northrop built the Mercury capsule recovery system that returned Astronauts Alan Shepard and Virgil Grissom from space.

Jones' goal is to make Northrop "a master and manager of advanced technology."

In his own words:

"We are neither an aircraft company, space company, nor an electronics company. We are neither a totally prime nor subcontractor. We are all of these . . . we are an advanced technology company."

CALIFORNIA CENTRAL Office will house automatic switching equipment, including facilities for direct distance dialing, to serve 5,200 customers at first and eventually 45,000.

It will provide relief for both the Uptown and Downtown Long Beach divisions. A portion of the 5,200 customers who will be involved in the initial transfer now are served from each of these two divisions. First transfer will involve the area north of Pacific Coast Highway to Hill Street and between the flood control channel and Alamitos Avenue.

The eventual boundary for the new center will be from 7th Street to Hill and between the flood control channel and Redondo Avenue.

• • • •

THESE CHANGES will be made progressively from next year through 1979. The building itself is slated for expansion in 1968 and again in 1979 to ultimate capacity of five full units. The new center is scheduled to be in service by Oct. 4, 1964.

General Telephone has acquired the land between California and Lewis avenues and between 16th and 17th streets. Old buildings in the area have been cleared away.

The project is seen as a major improvement in the district immediately east of Poly High School. The first building will be 120x65 feet, of reinforced concrete and brick construction.

L.B. Rehabilitation Trainees Earn Way in Private Industry

Slim T. is in his early fifties, a hemiplegic. He now fabricates diamond-faced cutting wheels for a manufacturing plant in Torrance.

Pete M. is 37. He has been a quadraplegic (all four limbs affected) since a tragic driving accident at the age of 21. He is now an electronic assembler, working for an electronics firm in Hawthorne.

Beatrice L., 34, a post polio victim with leg and hip involvement, contracted that disease at the age of 7, was hospitalized for most of six years. She is now a percision electronics assembler at Northrop Aircraft Company.

• • • •

THESE ARE EXAMPLES of the 289 handicapped persons who have been graduated from Community Rehabilitation Industries—a non-profit, community sponsored industrial workshop—since its inception seven years ago next Friday.

Community Rehabilitation Industries, located at 1409-21 E. Anaheim St., was founded after 12 representatives of Long Beach health and welfare organizations met and decided that a training workshop could help bridge the gap for many between physical and mental disability and utilization of ability. Trainees pay no fees; they earn while they learn.

• • • •

JUDGE MARTIN DeVRIES, president of the board of directors, which includes 25 community and industrial leaders, emphasizes that "This project has reaped great benefit for the community.

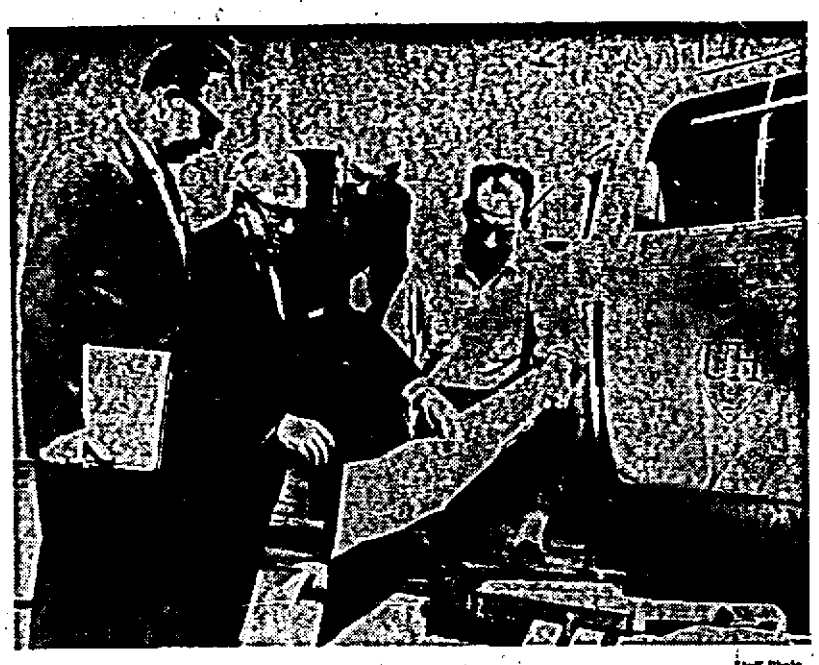

"From a strictly dollars and cents aspect, the fact that 289 graduates are now earning an average of $4,200 a year in private industry is proof enough that C.R.I. is good business."

C.R.I.'s rehabilitation function is to evaluate, train, provide paid work experience and develop employment opportunities in industry by means of sub-contract work.

• • • •

OF INTEREST is the fact that 85% of the workshop's income has had to come from its own work, contract work bid on and won on a purely competitive basis. Eight percent has come from the State Vocational Rehabilitation Service for services rendered some of their clients. The remainder has come from C.R.I.'s own Community Thrift Shop at 7th Street and Pine Avenue, and the generosity of individuals, organizations and firms.

In seven years, more than 700 persons have been trained in the C.R.I. workshop program. More than $400,000 has been paid out to production trainees in wages and more than $75,000 in income taxes withheld.

DISCUSS AIR SURVEY ROUTE
Developer Keith Smith (left), Coral B. Davis, Hubert Orton and Pilot Don Wilson talk over itinerary for helicopter survey of investment land in Long Beach and vicinity.

LOW ALTITUDE 'LOOK-SEE'

Businessmen Use 'Copter for Investment Site Survey

Recognizing the advantages of aerial recognizance, three businessmen recently made a helicopter tour of the Long Beach vicinity for a survey of land suitable for development. They were reported amazed and pleased over the results of their low-altitude study.

On the flight were Keith Smith, president of the San Sebastian Development Co. and the Wings Van and Storage Co., Long Beach; Hubert Orton, 30-year member of the Los Angeles Board of Realtors and interested in the investment field; and Coral B. Davis, affiliated with Smith and former president of the Riverside Board of Realtors.

• • • •

THEY WERE PILOTED by Don Wilson of Utility Helicopters, Inc.

Orton, past president of the Hollywood Lions Club, is a Methodist Church conference lay leader and board member of the University of Pacific, Stockton, and California Western University, San Diego. Two sons are associated with him in the building business.

Also affiliated with the San Sebastian company is George Trammell, former city attorney of Long Beach.

The San Sebastian company, located at 4290 Long Beach Blvd., is engaged in the buying and development of properties; and the helicopter survey, Davis said, was employed to gain a speedy, comprehensive look at site possibilities in the Long Beach area, South Bay area and in Orange County.

Davis said the company now controls some $3 million worth of Southland properties and plans to purchase about $5 million worth in the Long Beach and South Coast areas.

Sunkist Home Sales Nearing Sell Out

The steady sales pace being recorded at Sunkist Plaza and Springdale South in Huntington Beach has left only a handful of residences remaining for sale, reports Sy Bram, general manager for Sunkist Plaza Builders.

A radial location close to shopping, schools, employment and recreation, plus no down payment terms have been instrumental factors in the record sales, Bram added.

Terms presently allow buyers to move in for $100 minimal closing costs.

"All of these community features are particularly suited to meet the needs of growing young families," Bram said.

* * * *

AN ADDITIONAL inducement for buyers is the planned community concept that assures the prospective owner every possible convenience and service furnished almost at his doorstep.

Sunkist Plaza and Springdale South offer four basic floor plans, with over 25 variations in exterior elevations. Combinations of three and four bedrooms, plus family rooms and two baths provide for a complete flexibility of selection catering to individual taste.

These homes are all Waste King Universal equipped and feature built-in gas ranges and ovens in color, matching hoods, forced-air heat, Formica counters, natural ash cabinets, all brass hardware, aluminum and glass shower doors, aluminum sash windows, sliding wardrobe doors and generous use of luxury materials for exteriors, for shutters, etc.

ON LOTS OF 6,000 square feet and over, these homes come with fully fenced rear yards and Sunkist Plaza homes include fireplaces, the spokesman said.

Springdale South homes are priced from $16,250, while Sunkist Plaza Unit 3 are from $17,750.

From Long Beach, drive east on Garden Grove Blvd. to Golden West; right (south) on Golden West to Bolsa; right (west) on Bolsa to Springdale; right (north) on Springdale to models.

Buyers Guide to Medallion Homes

MEDALLION HOME — LIVE BETTER ELECTRICALLY

The only electrically modern homes... in every price range

The Medallion Home Award is a cornerstone for modern living—a solid basis for a home's lasting value, today and in the future. Compare the detailed electrical construction requirements for the Medallion Home Award with those for any other type of new home symbol.

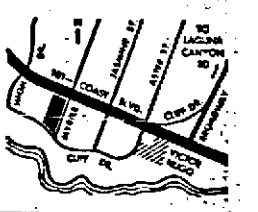

You'll discover the Medallion Home Award is one award that requires a new home to conform to specific and rigid standards that mean important values for the buyer. Here are just some of the qualifications:

1. A flameless electric kitchen equipped with major appliances, including range and oven.
2. Full "Housepower" Wiring provides capacity for at least twenty circuits, considered a minimum for modern living; large enough wires; 240-volt service for the electrical capacity every home needs.
3. Abundant lighting planned for comfort, convenience and beauty. A total-electric Gold Medallion Home gives you all these benefits plus:
4. Flameless electric home and water heating.

DINING ROOM ADJOINS PATIO

In this model of a Troy Hills Home the large dining room is separated from the patio and pool area by large sliding doors of glass. The dining areas of the homes are proving popular with home buyers.

Formal Dining Room Attracting Buyers to Homes in Troy Hills

"Growing in popularity are two Troy Hills plans which provide formal dining rooms—the '400 Plan' opening onto the terrace through sliding glass doors and the '700 Plan' with a recessed planter court and window wall which create a delightful dining atmosphere," says Jim McCarthy, vice president of The McCarthy Co., co-builders with Sant Construction of the new Fullerton home community.

Dining rooms meet the growing trend toward more frequent formal entertaining. "When the modern hostess entertains informally — perhaps around the pool—she is completely casual. But when she prefers formality and dresses in the once again fashionable long evening or hostess skirt, she also prefers candlelight and more formality of atmosphere in which to serve her guests," McCarthy said.

THE TROY HILLS "700 Plan" places the dining room next to the living room, separated by ingenious floor plan design. It is conveniently served from the separate, adjacent kitchen, which has a handy breakfast bar for snacks or children's meals.

The large recessed planter court, with a surrounding wooden grid deck, is also overlooked by window walls in the living room, and the master bedroom suite. The latter is in a wing of its own for complete adult privacy. Sliding glass doors from living room and master bedroom open onto the patio-pool area. Two other bedrooms and their full bathroom are located in the opposite wing of the dwelling.

Another popular feature of the Troy Hills "700 Plan" is the floor-to-ceiling Palos Verdes stone fierplace, which serves as a dramatic divider wall between living room and handsome slate-floored entry.

• • • •

TROY HILLS three or four bedroom, two-bath homes, with dining rooms, dining areas and family rooms, are set on a choice of level or rolling hillside lots up to 1/3 acre in size.

Homes are priced from $20,950. Buyers may trade in their present home, or reserve their favorite plan with a $100 deposit while building up to their down payment. Offered are veteran no-down-payment VA terms, FHA financing from $1200 down, conventional and Val-Vet financing.

Home Buyers Given Membership in Club

In excess of $2 million worth of sales have been reported at Harbor Estates Sea View by D. R. Colegrove, president of Dike & Colegrove, Inc., developers of the San Clemente ocean-view community.

A major factor contributing to this sales record, according to the builder, is an arrangement whereby purchasers receive from the builder a free membership in the nearby Capistrano Beach Club. This long-established, recently-remodeled club is only a few minutes drive from the devolpment and offers, in addition to excellent beach, pool, dining room and lounge facilities, a complete year-round program of family activities.

Many buyers plan on commuting to the commercial and industrial areas of northern Orange County, a short drive using the southern portion of the Santa Ana freeway.

Located in northernmost San Clemente, Harbor Estates SeaView overlooks Capistrano Beach and the Pacific.

Enclosed patios are a feature of many of the two, three, and four bedroom designs.

Prices of homes at Harbor Estates SeaView range from $22,950 to $32,000, including title to the land.

Six furnished models are open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily. To reach the development, take the Santa Ana/San Diego Freeway to the Camino Estrella turnoff, at which point signs direct motorists to the development.

$8 Million Building Program Launched

Tiara Estates Homes, Inc., Garden Grove, will start construction next week on 327 single family homes and apartment units in five Orange County locations following signing of a contract with the Southern Counties Gas Co. to utilize the Balanced Power home program, Jerry Farrow, secretary-treasurer of the building firm, announced.

The home developments are in Fountain Valley at Burchard and Heil; in two Garden Grove locations at Euclid and Chapman and Louis and Lampson, and in Anaheim at Ninth and Orangewood. The apartment complex is in Buena Park at Rostrata and Franklin. The projects will represent a valuation in excess of $8 million.

• • • •

THE FIRM'S Tiara Estates development in Fountain Valley will include 180 three and four - bedroom, two - bath homes priced from $17,990 to $21,300. The homes will be in four basic floor plans and 10 elevations. They will include family, laundry and hobby rooms, dens, a 500-square-foot premium room (in some models), central entry halls, carpeting, drapes, fencing, lawns and built-in ranges, ovens and dishwashers, according to Farrow.

The developments in Anaheim and Garden Grove (Euclid and Chapman) will contain 30 and 20 homes, respectively, with three and four-bedrooms and split level, one and one-half story and two-story elevations. They will be priced from $35,000 to $40,000.

The estates at Louis and Lampson in Garden Grove will contain 47 three, four and five-bedroom homes available in four basic floor plans and 12 elevations. They will be priced from $22,000 to $24,900.

• • • •

THE APARTMENT complex will contain 50 units in 12 one-story buildings. The units will incorporate two rooms and one bath plus built-in gas ranges and ovens in kitchens. The apartments will be available for individual unit rental, or multi-unit buildings may be purchased, Farrow said.

Sales for all of Tiara Estates Homes, Inc., developments will be handled by Farrow Realty Corp., 22-year-old Orange County organization headed by Dick Murray, director of sales.

BALANCED POWER CONTRACTED

Jerry Farrow (seated), secretary-treasurer of Tiara Estates Homes, Inc., Garden Grove, signs contract with Southern Counties Gas Co. to utilize Balanced Power home program in 327 single-family residential and apartment units the firm will start constructing. Looking on are Dick Murray (left), director of sales, Farrow Realty Corp.; M. S. Salgado, manager, Real Estate Advertising Service, the firm's ad agency; and Allan Alcott, builder representative, Southern Counties Gas Co.

Dutch Haven's Los Alamitos Homes Reported Selling Fast

Introduced to Southern California homebuyers only a short time ago, Dutch Haven's new Executive Series in Los Alamitos has rapidly become one of the Southland's fastest-selling developments, according to a spokesman for Luxury Homes, Inc., creators of award-winning Dutch Haven communities.

The Luxury Homes' official attributed the community's swift sales to several buyer-appealing factors such as location within a centrally located city experiencing tremendous growth; proximity to schools, shopping centers, employment and recreation; construction by a nationally recognized firm with an established repuation for quality and value and the inclusion of a vast number of luxury features normally unavailable at moderate prices.

• • • •

SITUATED ON Katella Avenue in Los Alamitos, the Executive Series is designed as the Epicure Line" of Dutch Haven's popular American Homes. The recently introduced series offers a wide choice of distinctive exteriors. Floor plans are created to offer maximum living area for families, as well as complete versatility and convenience.

Prices of Executive Series homes start at $19,500, with VA, No-Down, FHA and long-term conventional financing available. The homes are three and four bedrooms in size, with family room and up to three baths.

• • • •

FEATURES INCLUDE custom fireplaces with log lighters, formal dining areas, double-door entries, extra-large closets with cedar floors, built-in counter-top range and oven, Mr. and Mrs. closets, hardwood paneling, separate utility rooms, built-in dishwasher and disposal, custom lighting fixtures, and complete color coordination.

To visit the furnished models from Long Beach, go east on Willow Street (Katella Avenue) direct to the homes.

Builder Names Superintendent

C. M. (Chuck) Crumpton has been named general superintendent of the Mervin B. Johnson building company, one of Orange County's largest builders of homes, small shopping centers and apartment units. Johnson pointed out that he plans to expand into a complete general contracting firm for heavy commercial, industry, residential, high rise, tract homes, and large multiple housing projects, and Crumpton will be in charge of all the firm's building projects. The new general contracting firm will be known as Great Western Contractors, Inc.

Sunshine Homes in Fast Growing Area

Location is one of the important considerations by home purchasers today, stated Richard C. Hunsaker, president of S. V. Hunsaker & Sons, prominent southland builders and developers.

This is one reason the Huntington Beach Sunshine Homes in unit 3, have received better than average buyer acceptance, according to Hunsaker. These homes are located in one of the fastest growing areas of Orange County. Beaches, schools, shopping centers, and industrial areas are nearby.

Offering the buyer the most popular of architectural planning, built-ins, and modern materials designed for lifetime satisfaction, these attractive homes have three and four bedrooms, two full baths, family room, and large two-car garage. Huntington Beach Sunshine Homes may be purchased with no down payment and immediate occupancy is available.

• • • •

POPULAR FEATURES in these quality homes include wall-to-wall carpet, floor to ceiling folding wardrobe doors, forced-air heat, all-copper plumbing, and plenty of built-ins. The ultra-modern kitchens have built-in range and oven with hood and exhaust fan, Insinkerator disposer, vinyl tile, Formica counter tops, and natural finish cabinets.

Furnished model homes are open daily for inspection from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. and are located on Heil Ave. two blocks west of Golden West St.

Novel Floor Plan Is Proving Popular

A SHERWOOD ESTATE

Spacious Sherwood Estates homes feature extra-large "bedroom-size" closets and abundant storage space in kitchens and bathrooms. The new George D. Buccola developments are in Anaheim, Tustin, Orange, Costa Mesa and Santa Ana. Homes are priced from $29,950. Here is a view of the dining area.

Separate living quarters are featured in an unusual floor plan proving exceptionally popular at Sherwood Country Club Estates, according to Carl Gattuso, sales manager for the upper Newport Bay community. This master suite is upstairs in the split-level designed home and includes bedroom, bath, and sitting room with fireplace.

"This unique arrangement is selling particularly well to families with teenage children or those with in-laws living with them, as it provides the utmost in privacy," Gattuso explained. Located above the garage-family room area of the home and reached by its own stairway, the suite assures complete seclusion and may be used as a studio, a two-bedroom unit, or one bedroom-sitting room quarters. The downstairs portion of Plan 26 includes three large bedrooms, two baths, formal dining room and family room.

• • • • •

OTHER County Club Estates models include as many as five bedrooms and four bathrooms, all two story with family rooms and formal dining rooms. Priced from $32,500 to $34,700, the homes include full title to the property in this exclusive area which is leasehold land primarily. All-electric appliances, carpeting, and huge walk-in closets are popular features of the homes.

Furnished models are open daily and evenings at Sherwood Country Club Estates located on Santa Ana Avenue near Palisades Road, across from the Santa Ana Country Club in Costa Mesa.

Three Fashion Home Units Are Selling

A FASHION HOME

The finest of materials are used in Fashion Homes. Raised ash cabinets and vinyl tile floor in the kitchen-family room area are just two samples. Fashion Homes communities are located in Huntington Beach, Garden Grove and Westminster.

Spring is the time of the year that gladdens the heart and puts bounce into the step. It's the happiest time of the year! Or so say the poets.

"And there is nothing more fun for a family than moving into the first home they've owned; or stepping up to a bigger and better home than they now own." So says Mervin B. Johnson, builder of the three Fashion Homes developments in Huntington Beach, Westminster and Garden Grove.

"And we guarantee," he went on, "that moving into a Fashion Home is an exciting experience. Each development varies, so that home-buyers can have their choice of the many, many features they like best!"

• • • • •

FASHION HOMES in Huntington Beach have all-electric built-in kitchens, including dishwasher, with block wall fencing included at no extra cost. They are priced from $19,250.

Fashion Homes — Garden Grove, offer O'Keefe & Merritt gas built-in range and oven, with dishwasher and block wall fencing; full prices from $18,500.

Westminster's Fashion Homes contain all-electric kitchens and beautiful hardwood floors, on raised foundations, with full prices from $21,950.

All three offer no down to vets, except costs and impounds, with low FHA terms.

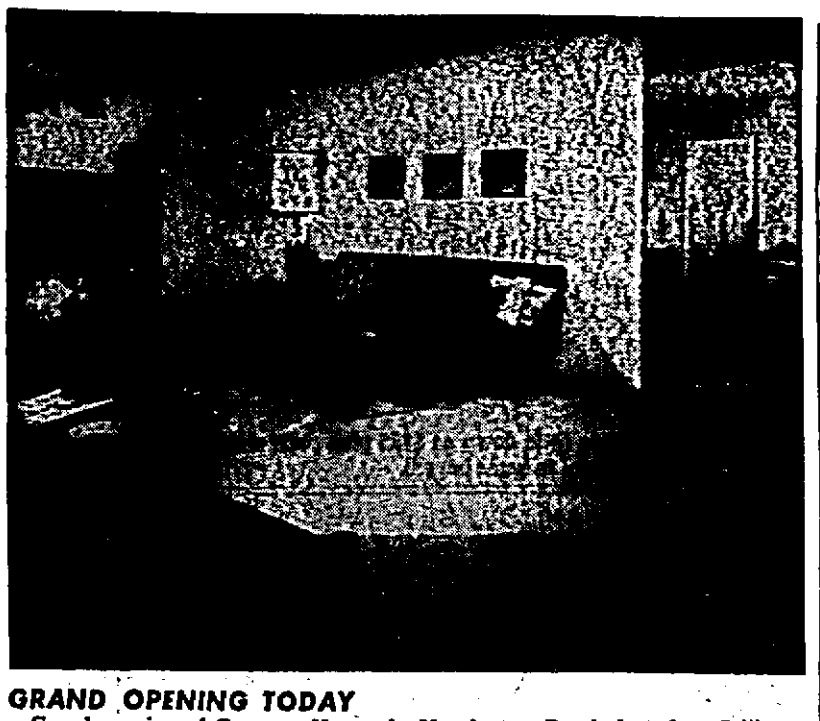

• • • •

THE THREE AND FOUR-bedroom, family room, two bath homes are conveniently located to either the San Diego or Garden Grove freeways, or both; and all three Fashion Homes communities are no more than 10 minutes from the $78 million Douglas plant in Huntington Beach, now well-under-construction.

To reach any of the three communities from the Long Beach area: drive east on Seventh St. to ½ mile east of Bolsa Chica and you're at Fashion Homes — Westminster; continue on Garden Grove Blvd. to Brookhurst St., turn south to Bolsa, left four blocks to the model homes of Fashion Homes — Garden Grove. To visit Fashion Homes — Huntington Beach, turn south from Garden Grove Blvd. on to Beach Blvd. (Hwy. 39). Continue to Sugar Avenue (1½ miles south of Westminster Blvd.), turn right two blocks to the models.

Doubling Plant Size

DOWNEY—The Yale Engineering is expanding its Downey production space by nearly 13,000 square feet, doubling its size. The firm employs 50 persons and manufactures metal and plastic screw machine products.

GRAND OPENING TODAY
Grand opening of Cameron Homes in Huntington Beach is today. Selling for less than $20,000, the homes include three bathrooms, fencing, drapes, carpets, an inside service porch, and three or four bedrooms. Down payments are from $495.

Cameron Homes in Huntington Beach, Open for Sales Today

"Supply seldom exceeds the demand, especially in the home building field; but such in a fact in the case of the three-bathroom Cameron Homes, selling for less than $20,000," so says Stanley E. Bell, builder.

"We have been building and selling feature-packed homes, with many "extras" included in the sales price for the past two years. The home buying public buy them immediately. For instance, our most recent development was 95% sold out by the end of the first week."

Grand opening of the newest Cameron Home community, located on Newland Ave. just off Beach Blvd., in Huntington Beach is today. All the homes contain three bathrooms, three or four bedrooms and a family room. Also included in the sales price are fencing, carpets, drapes, an inside service porch with ample room for dryer, washer and sewing machine, and built-in Universal gas range and oven.

• • • •

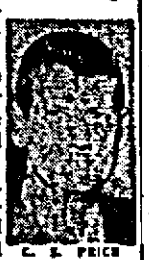

BUILDER BELL points out that these are just the principal attractions of Cameron Homes in Huntington Beach. "We have the usual things other builders include as features: forced air heating, vinyl tile floors, pullman lavatories, and so on; yet no other builder offers three bathrooms, fencing, carpets, drapes and an inside service porch for $20,000 or less.

Low move-in costs from $495 prevail, which puts Cameron Homes in Huntington Beach within the price range of just about everyone.

The decorated models are open from 11 a.m. to dark, and easily reached from the Long Beach area by taking Seventh east to Beach Blvd. (Hwy. 39). Turn south on Beach to Newman Street (¾ mile south of Warner Ave.), turn left on Newman to Cameron Homes in Huntington Beach.

Management Group to Meet

The truth will prevail at the Tuesday night meeting of the Long Beach chapter of the National Office Management Association at the Lafayette Hotel.

Reason: a lie detector expert will be principal speaker.

Carol S. Price, professor of political science and administration at Long Beach State College, will talk on "Polygraph, a New Tool for Management." He is coordinator of police science courses at the college.

A slate of nominees for new officers will be presented by Fred Nathan, nominating committee chairman.

Start 3,000 Home Development in Large Laguna Niguel Area

A spectacular $60 million Pacesetter Homes development at Laguna Niguel just south of Laguna Beach is underway following groundbreaking ceremonies during which Pacesetter president John W. Klug announced the start of construction of 3,000 homes.

Completion of the first Pacesetter Homes in the $20,000 price range is scheduled for late summer with an early June date set for the opening of models. These will be the only medium-priced homes in Laguna Niguel's 11-square mile complex of planned communities.

• • • •

THE PACESETTER homes will be architecturally designed to blend with the softly rolling Laguna Hills, and will overlook the fairways of El Niguel Country Club's championship 18-hole golf course.

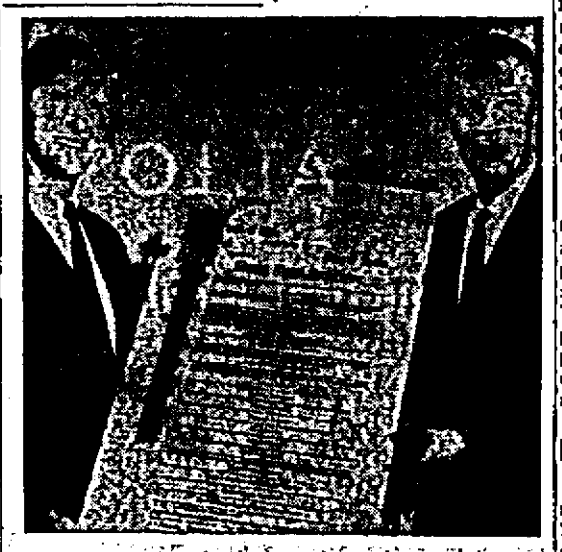

Klug's purchase of 1100 acres at Laguna Niguel last July, cited as one of the largest transactions in recent Orange County history, marked the first time any major builder had been invited to participate in this master-planned community development.

"With the opportune purchase of this vast acreage of beautiful and historic land we now have the rare opportunity to offer a blend of location and home design at a price unmatched in the entire Southern California coastal area," Klug declared.

• • • •

"THE HOMES we build here will compliment the careful and unique planning that has resulted in Laguna Niguel's being one of the best examples of master-planned land use in the Southland," he added.

The development parallels the scenic Crown Valley Parkway, a 7½ mile six-lane divided highway now under construction that will link the Santa Ana Freeway with Pacific Coast Hwy. by mid-summer.

LINKING TWO CENTURIES
John W. Klug (left), president of Pacesetter Homes, receives a historic "Chain of Title" scroll from W. H. Beck, general manager of Laguna Niguel Corp., during ceremonies launching Pacesetter's 3,000-home, $60 million development at Laguna Niguel. The scroll traces nearly two centuries of ownership of the 1,100 acres, from the King of Spain, in 1769, to Pacesetter Homes today.

Don Schug's Talbert Village made a highly successful debut last weekend with the grand opening of the first section. Located in Southwest Orange County, the quiet little city of Fountain Valley hosted unusual Easter weekend crowds, out to inspect the new unit.

The development offers 100 homes of quality construction and design, with all improvements in: Concrete driveways, landscaping with sprinklers, block wall perimeter, wall to wall carpeting, all-electric kitchen including dishwasher and washing machine, master bedroom suites with private bath, fireplaces, covered patio, large walk-in closets. The two, three and four-bedroom homes are priced from $19,250 to $19,950 with no hidden or added assessments, and a land deed to every owner. These suburban homes offer a unique feature, a "private" walkway direct to the Fountain Valley Elementary School. The children cross no outside streets.

• • • •

CIVIC LEADERS of Fountain Valley have formulated a "master plan" for organized growth, assuring economic stability and continued suburban appeal in the future. The plan includes an agricultural preserve immediately adjacent to Talbert Village, plus a fine public school system.

Bart Allan, sales coordinator of the development, said the opening is extended through this weekend. To reach Fountain Valley and Talbert Village from Santa Ana Freeway, drive South on Brookhurst or Hwy. 39 to Talbert Ave. From Brookhurst turn right and from Hwy. 39 turn left to homes.

New Downey Facility

DOWNEY — Tech-Magnetics Co. will be open for business about May 1 in new quarters here. The electronics firm will occupy 3,600 square feet of building space and expects to double its 15-man work force within a year.

Country Club Unit Home Sales Start

Sales begin today at Country Club Village, luxury duplexes, according to Lee Healy, sales agent for the project.

The development includes 20 custom-styled duplexes designed in an authentic Tahitian theme and is located near the Virginia Country Club in Long Beach.

According to Healy, a community association will be responsible for landscaping and maintenance at the development. He said that aside from the carefree living aspects, the duplex units provide an investment as well as an income-providing opportunity. A community pool is also provided for the convenience of the residents.

THE TWO-BEDROOM, two-bath units have carpets and feature Frigidaire built-ins. Priced at only $44,500, excellent financing is available.

A development of Mesa Verde Builders, the Country Club Villages sales office is located at 3615 Pacific Avenue in Long Beach. The office is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

$2.25 Billion

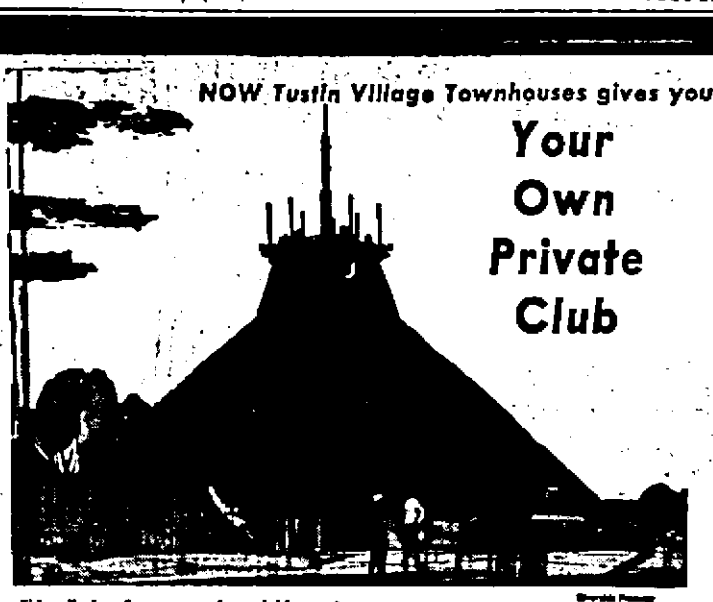

Increased leisure time and high personal income levels are credited with boosting total sales of the nation's sporting-good manufacturers this year to an annual level of $2.25 billion.

Cardinal Park Homes Nearly Sold Out Now

If sales continue at their present pace, Cardinal Park will be sold out within two weeks, states Charles W. Hester, developer of the popular Westminster subdivision.

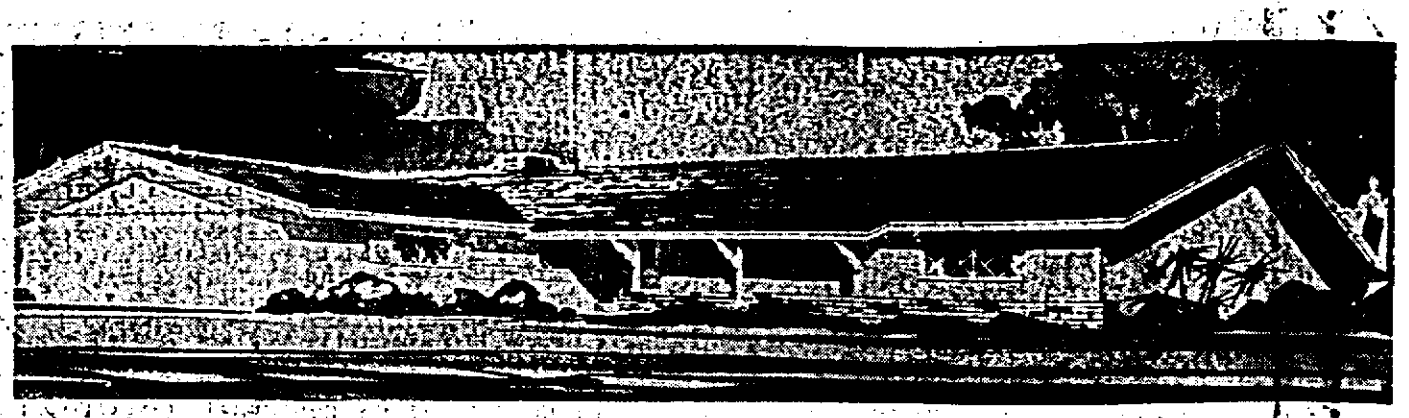

The new community of 120 one and two-story homes offers dwellings of three and four bedrooms, family rooms and two baths. Prices start at $23,900 and can be purchased with as little as $395 down plus costs and impounds.

Hester stated there were two outstanding reasons for the popularity of Cardinal Park. One is location. The homes are on Golden West St., just south of Garden Grove Blvd. close to Long Beach recreational areas and the major shopping and industrial areas of Orange County.

• • • •

THE SECOND big reason for the popularity of Cardinal Park is the completeness of its features which are included in the original sales price. Here such features as wall-to-wall carpeting, underground sprinklers in front and back, lawns and shrubs, block wall in rear and side and builtin electric range and oven are all included in the sales prices of the homes. All homes also have used brick fireplaces with mantle and ash paneling on the fireplace walls.

From Long Beach drive out Seventh St. (Garden Grove Blvd) to Golden West then right to furnished models.

LARGE HOMES PRICED FROM $23,900

Cardinal Park offers such attractive homes as this, starting at $23,900 for as little down as $395 plus costs and impounds. The location on Golden West just south of Garden Grove Boulevard has great appeal to home buyers.

Rancho Carrillo Attracts

Beamish & Diggins, Newport Beach developers, are surprised at the numbers of people who have visited Rancho Carrillo in San Juan Capistrano.

"Even on the rainy weekend, 300 people came out and two families purchased ranchos! Another recent weekend brought throngs who bought nine parcels. The demand is so much greater than last year—or than we anticipated—that we've had to put a seven-day limit on reserved ranchos," stated Beamish.

• • • •

PRICES START at $7,950 for the 3-acre sites in "the land of the Dons." Purchase transactions must be firm after the seven-day courtesy period so that other interested families may have the opportunity to buy one of the few remaining parcels.

Beamish attributed the accelerated interest to development of the community recreation area where rancho owners may bring their families to swim, picnic and relax.

Available for outright ownership for the first time, the sites are located on a portion of the old Mission Viejo Ranch, 8 milles east of San Juan Capistrano's Old Mission on the Ortega Highway.

The developers, Richard Beamish and Ronald Diggins, are also co-developers of the San Clemente Pacesetter home sub-divisions.

Home Fair Attracts Throngs

Over 1,000 prospective home buyers converge on Westminster each weekend to view Orange County's newest "showcase of beauty"—the Sol Vista International Home Fair.

Each of the five furnished models in this 565-home master planned community by Alco-Pacific Construction Co. reflect an international theme.

Exotic design features include sunken living rooms, recessed, floor-to-ceiling or raised hearth fireplaces; master bedroom-bath-dressing room suites, spacious sliding door wardrobes, Hilite aluminum windows and doors, gracious wallpaper, Robertshaw thermostat control, custom lighting fixtures.

Residences in this elegant development are priced from $22,895 to $28,250.

Display pavilion and furnished models are open daily from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the corner of Westminster Boulevard and Bolsa Chica, Westminster.

For Style-Guided Misses

The High Fashion Count D-O-W-N

By MARY ELLIS
I. P-T Fashion Editor

Countdown for the takeoff.

It works for misses, as well as missiles.

Females on all fronts complain they don't know what-to-wear-where, what the jewelry load should be, whether they should don colored gloves or plain.

Others lament they don't know what-plus-what adds up to a high fashion look.

Result: many a would-be fashion plate shows up at the Woman's Club social wearing—and carrying—everything she can find, as demonstrated by our model, top left.

ALL WRONG, say local fashion authorities.

To meet the pace of the space age, they say, a well-dressed woman should look streamlined as a jet, as uncluttered as a Hercules missile.

So to zero-in fashion-conscious femmes on how-much-of-what-to-wear-when, we've enlisted the help of local experts and have devised a workable fashion formula.

It's called the Fourteen Point System and makes simple arithmetic of achieving a total high fashion look.

The idea: After you've counted up to 14 by the formula below, it's time to start taking off.

EVERYTHING you wear— that shows—counts one point or more.

If your hat has more than one color, flowers, veil, feathers or ornaments, those add extra points. Jewelry or glasses count; also bows, straps or buckles on shoes; checks, printed fabrics or dotted designs up the total and every color counts one point.

Remember gloves, bags and wraps count, so the indoor costume should total no more than 8 or 10 points to stay within the 14-point limit when taking off for outer places.

SOME DEVIATIONS: Large-framed women should use 11 points as their perfect. Women with bright-colored hair should stay near 11 points.

A smart rule of fashion states: never wear more than three areas of color at a time, including the color of your hair.

For example, a black dress, red jacket, white gloves and hat will look more attractive on a brunette than a blonde.

Blondes should try to match the costume to the color of the hair. Then they can use two other colors.

Cocoa makes an excellent basic color for the girl with medium brown hair.

REMEMBER, the answer to high fashion, like in algebra, is equal to the sum of its parts. All must be carefully assembled to add up to a total fashion look.

Use the chart below until it becomes fashion habit. Have fun with it, too. For instance, make a clothes count of what you're wearing now (plain bathrobes, 2 points; curlers count double).

And when you go to the races, tabulate what the clothes horses are wearing. It's more fun than watching fillies in a photo finish.

FASHION ORBITS right out the window in this overdone costume for after-five which, according to our point system, totals 20-plus-plus. Shoes are wrong for costume, hat is too Zsa-Zsa, ornate necklace is too much for figured dress, earrings too much for necklace. Put them all together, it's just TOO MUCH!

Photos by Staff Photographer Bob Shumway

AFTER THE COUNTDOWN, local model Lepsa Victor of Vogue Modeling Agency is zeroed in for fashionable evening. Sans extra load of jewelry, feathered hat and sandals, her count is 10— dress 5, flower 1, shoes 1, gloves 1, earrings 2— leaving a fashionable margin for wrap and handbag.

FASHION ADDS UP to understated elegance with proper balance of accessories. Here local model Lepsa Victor of Vogue Agency wears blue linen shift (3 points) with button accent (1 point), blue headband (2), white pumps (1), white gloves (1).

The Fourteen Point System

This guide has been designed to help you educate the eye. Six to 10 points for complete costume is considered drab; 11 to 14, perfect; over 14, start the countdown—you're overdressed!

Legally Speaking—and a Lot of Other Ways, as Well!

Affair Tuesday, in California Room of the Breakers' International Hotel, was attended by scads of smart women, with or without hats as their party whims dictated, plus husbands and judges and their wives.

Honoring volunteers in the Legal Aid office operated by Lawyers Wives, "Roz" Friedman was recognized for 750 hour "labor of love" over the past four years.

Those who received certificates for 100 hours or more during this past year were Jane Began, Pat Bradbury, Flo Brooks, Rebecca Fitzmorris, Sally George, Barbara McColm, Frances Starr and Peggy Wilson. Between all 49 LW volunteers, 1,640 hours were devoted to service to the community according to Norma Wisot, president.

Incidentally, my boss, Mac Epley was a most effective guest speaker.

Fashionably legal—some do and some don't!

SHOES designed to grip a boat deck securely did their job too darn well for Tina Biby. As a result she has a broken leg—in two places!

Seems Tina and John, their daughter and son-in-law, Jody and Tom Ramsey, were enroute to Catalina out of Newport aboard their sailboat, "Madcap." Tina was preparing dinner below when they hit a big swell and the boat lurched. Well, the jar turned Tina but not those deck gripping shoes. As a result—snap, crackle, pop!

They made race-time back to shore and Hoag Memorial. "Broken Bone Biby" was adamant that they turn around, go back for the weekend—she'd be, she allowed, quite busy on her own, keeping appointments with the boys and girls in white. And she was.

Black and White Decor for Ball

PREPARATION for their forthcoming Black and White Ball on Saturday at the Pacific Coast Club involves these Symphony Juniors in a beachcombing search for driftwood and other appropriate objects to transform into glamorous decor for the party. All done up in warm garb for a chilly morning are (from left) Mmes. Robert McAllister, Katherine McNulty and John Booth.

Formula which has proved markedly successful and glamorous in the past will again be followed this year when Symphony Juniors give their White Ball on Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Pacific Coast Club.

Title of the ball derives from the elegant decor and from the fact that the women will wear either black or white gowns. The Bon Vivants orchestra will play.

Upon first entering the ballroom for their evening of dining and dancing, guests will first glimpse the stunning decor planned by Mrs. Katherine McNulty and her committee. Suspended from the ceiling will be dramatic black rattan cages filled with black and white foliage.

Each table will be centered with a large glass water in which black goldfish will be swimming. Coral, sea-fans and pampas grass, done in black and white will encircle the snifters.

Mrs. Robert Guyett is chairman for the event assisted by Mrs. Robert McNaughton, reservations; and Mrs. Stephen Dodge, invitations.

Numerous pre-dance cocktail parties are being given throughout the city. Among those entertaining are Mrs. Wallace Simmons, president of Symphony Juniors, and Mr. Simmons, Messrs. and Mmes. Robert Guyett, Courtney Trostle, LeRoy Carlisle and Lew Mahieu.

TRANSFORMATION of briny driftwood and coral into effective decor with addition of fishnet cloth and brandy snifter (in which black goldfish will be swimming) demonstrates what a little ingenuity can evolve from beach to ballroom. Admiring results are (from left) Mrs. Robert W. Guyett, Black and White Ball chairman, Mr. Guyett, Robert McNaughton and Mrs. McNaughton, 1964 ball chairman. Guyetts are in formal gown and tuxedo while McNaughtons chose cocktail dress and dark suit. Either will be appropriate for party.

IT HAS been a wonderful month—from educational to hilarious—for Bev and Dr. Dick Matlock and their children.

First, Bev and Dick went to Miami for a week's worth of medical meeting (education) while sons, Bob and Bill, batched it here (hilarious). Together the Matlocks went on to Washington and New York for awhile before Dick returned to batch with the boys (more hilarious) while Bev stayed on to rendezvous with daughter, Margie, who had been on trip of her own, and to remain for leisurely visit with Bev's dad at the Waldorf Astoria.

Grand month is now over since Beverly's return last Tuesday. Grand weather, she reports, too.

AM ALWAYS cross with myself when I've used up too many of the best adjectives. Then I'm burned out when it comes to trying to describe the true elegance —(exotic is pretty close to the right word) of Assistance League's tea Tuesday.

It was annual honoring of new provisionals and was given at the lovely home of Martha and Art Hall, Fifteen The Colonnade (the address should give you some idea!)

Peg Fairley, chairman of Life Members (the hostess group, traditionally) asked Sallie Van Dyke, as capable as they come, to serve as tea chairman. She chose a dramatic Japanese theme and was aided in decorations by Vivian Davis and Georgia Combs. The food (it's a "divil of a time" to be on a diet, let me tell thee) was under direction of Ina Reed and Myrle Clarke.

Among others doing yeoman duty were Maggie McFadyen, May Holtz and Clare Hossom.

White Shrine Will Install

Installation of Mamie Rae Speaker as worthy high priestess and Charles H. Boone as watchman of Shepherds of Nazareth White Shrine 8 will take place at 8 p.m. Monday in Palos Verdes Temple, 1120 E. Market St.

Other line officers to be installed in open ceremonies are Amelia Gilson, Walter Van Wagner, Pearl Mahaffie, Ellice Dunbar and Faye Christian.

Ada M. Lavender, general chairman and installing officer, will be assisted by Bert Mahaffie. Gladys Jordan is dining room chairman.

Mrs. Mark Kuffel New League Prexy

Taking over leadership of the Assistance League of Long Beach, Mrs. Mark Kuffel will be installed as president at the annual meeting Monday at 10 a.m. in the Supper Room of the Lafayette Hotel.

Mrs. Kuffel received her formal training in the Mid-West. She first became associated with league work in 1950 when she joined the Bookworm Auxiliary in Los Angeles, on which board she later served.

Long Beach Assistance League membership became hers in 1955. Mrs. Kuffel served on many important committees and chairmanned special league activities.

* * * *

HER CIVIC interests include board membership for three years of the Women's Auxiliary to the Los Angeles County Medical Association. She is also a member of the Downtown Opti-Mrs. and a charter member of the American Field Service in Long Beach.

Climaxing her year as president, Mrs. Don Murphy will be presiding officer and reports will be made of projects accomplished during her term.

Installation of new officers will be conducted by Mrs. George F. Paap.

They include Mmes. James Keipp president-elect; and William Ellery, Karl Ward, Vernon A. Williams, Chris Conway, David N. Eagleson, Jerome Young, Harold West and Edwin Simons.

Joining the executive officers as members of the board are Mmes. Fred B. McNair, Carlton H. Waters, Dean Gilmore, Charles Campbell, W. Odie Wright and Copeland Green.

The league will continue the philanthropic programs of service to the community which now include the operation of five girls' clubs. These clubs are financed by the Thrift Shop, managed by league members; by the sale of cookbooks and placement of gum ball machines.

The clubhouse at Fourth St. and Rosewell Ave. is owned by the league, which also supplies funds for camperships and educational scholarships.

* * * *

SPECIAL guests at the noon luncheon following the installation will include Mmes. Melvin Campbell, founder; Richard S. Castle, national president; and Lawrence Lydick, chairman of Region I.

To be welcomed into full membership following a year's training as provisionals are Mmes. Albert Beach, Kenneth Berkaw, Thomas M. Brown, Thomas Comiskey, Vern Garten, Frank Homolka, Wesley Horton, Leland Irish, Harlan Moore, James J. Nagle, Lewis F. Seapy, Walter Strawinski, Floyd Webster, William Woodard, Monroe Yunker and William Zantiny.

Southern California Phi Mus have made a date to attend "Open Book" April 28 at Pasadena Playhouse. The play, a comedy written by Hugh White and Matt Parent, will star Martha Scott and Arthur O'Connell. In the play, an unexpected family skelton emerges during homecoming in a small town.

The benefit performance is sponsored by the Southern California Council of Phi Mu. Proceeds will go to the Los Angeles Orthopedic Hospital for the Children's Division general fund. Phi Mu has contributed continuously to this project since 1933, recently furnishing two conference rooms in the children's ward.

The fraternity's social service slogan is "Service to Children." Toys for children in the pediatrics ward of Memorial Hospital is the local philanthropy.

Tickets for "Open Book" may be obtained from Mrs. E. R. Thompson, social service chairman, or any Phi Mu alumna.

Local Phi Mus and husbands planning to attend include Messrs. and Mmes. George Dotson, Gordon Fisher, James L. Frame, Edward Gray, George P. Huff, Ernest Malizia, William Riley, James Smith, E. R. Thompson, William E. Webb and Lee R. Denny.

Pi Beta Phi

Alumnae of Pi Beta Phi in the Long Beach area will meet at the Chandelier Restaurant Saturday at noon for annual Founders' Day luncheon.

Golden Arrow members, who have been initiated 50 years or more, who will be honored are Mmes. H. A. Barr, E. F. Cody, E. T. Hatfield, R. J. Leebrick, G. H. Margold, H. P. Miller, Amy Skinner and Miss Isabel Noble.

Mrs. Phillip Knox of Whittier, national collegiate vice president of Alpha Delta Pi, will speak on "Sororities in California." Mmes. Rogers Wright and J. H. Wooding are in charge of arrangements. Reservations may be made with Mrs. H. B. Crosby, 4325 Faculty Ave.

Alpha Delta Pi

Alpha Delta Pi Alumnae Association will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Perry Land, 170 La Verne Ave. Mrs. Eugene Hoffman will co-hostess.

Donald E. Leedom of E. F. Hutton Co. will speak on investments. New officers will be elected.

Youthful Dancers on Civic Show

Virginia Valodin Dance Studio of Long Beach and Torrance will be presented on the Recreation Department sponsored community program at 8 p.m. Monday in Exhibit Hall of Municipal Auditorium.

High lights will include variety numbers of tap novelties, rumba by tiny tots, Ballet in Blue, Samoan Knife Dance, Tahitian Drum Dance, Hawaiian jazz and Arabian dance. They will be performed by a troupe of 45 youngsters ranging in age from 3 to 17 years.

Carl H. Robertson leads community singing to open the program at 7:30 p.m. with Regenia Beam as accompanist. Tyo Orchestra plays for old time and square dancing with Joe Marshall as caller.

The public is welcome without charge.

Card Benefit

Funds for aid in the research of crippling diseases will be the goal of Kennyettes when they entertain at a noon luncheon and card party Thursday in the Garden Room, Third Street and Alamitos Avenue.

AMERICAN OR INTERNATIONAL? Alex Moore, Britain's top dance authority, ponders the "international style" of recently elected king and queen Mike Howey and Lynn Van Winkle (right) and the American swing dancing of prince and princess Bob Boles and Bernice Garcia. The two couples, slated to rule over the eighth annual Grand Medal Ball in Long Beach Arena April 27, are prepared to demonstrate that U. S. dancers can match footwork with all comers—in any style.

THE BRITISH ARE COMING!

Our Dancers Out to Win Newest Revolution

"Dancers in the United States are years behind the times."

This bold statement, likely to titillate the sensitive nerve ends of every red-blooded dancer in America, was made by Alex Moore, Britain's top ballroom dancemaster and author, while in Long Beach on his tour of the "colonies."

Chairman of the ballroom branch of the Imperial Society, international dance association centered in London, Moore is conducting a series of examinations leading to membership in the world-wide group.

Proclaiming the superiority of England's "international style," Moore casts a critical eye on America's dancers and seeks to interest Yankees in world standardization of the terpsichorean art. He points out the goodwill advantage of dancers from all countries stepping out on the ballroom floor in complete accord.

DISTINGUISHING the "international style" from strictly American dancing is a certain fluidity of movement and step technique that has the dancing couple gliding over the floor in a free-flowing, highly coordinated blending of music with body motion, he said.

In the international style, which encompasses the waltz, slow foxtrot, quickstep and tango, the dancer leads out with the heel rather than the toe, giving a naturalness of movement not otherwise achieved.

Moore readily concedes that Americans excel in the rhythm dances such as the cha cha and swing, and originate most of the world's dancing fads, the United States until 1960 was not represented in the world championships—the Olympic Games of the dancing field.

WHILE AMERICA may be behind in the international dance race, young Long Beach dancers, true citizens of their own "International City," are moving out to close this alleged gap as quickly as possible.

Poised and ready to demonstrate to all comers that the United States will not be left behind, members of 50 Southland dance clubs will flock to the Long Beach Arena at 7:30 p.m. April 27 for their eighth annual Grand Medal Ball. The event is open to the public and tickets will be available at the door.

Presented by Derrall and Chloe Call of Fine Arts Center, the event has grown to be probably the biggest of its kind in the country, attracting dance enthusiasts, youth authorities and civic notables from throughout the West Coast.

Exhibition dancing by club members, a presentation of trophies to more than 300 advanced members, and general dancing to the music of Manny Harmon will be featured. Ball chairman is Mrs. John Babrowski.

SPEARHEADING the attack on America's supposed dance lag will be many teen-age international style champions who have captured top honors in major competitions throughout California.

Leading these talented youths are Pat Hassey and Connie Palmer, four-time junior champions in 1962-63 competitions in Long Beach, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Ruling over the ball will be Mike Howey and Lynn Van Winkle, king and queen, and Robert Boles and Bernice Garcia, prince and princess, recently elected by the more than 9,000 members of the participating dance clubs.

Television dancing stars Bob Burgess and Barbara Boylan will headline the ball program which will be high lighted by outstanding specialty, precision and production numbers.

A FASHION FOOTNOTE adding to the international flavor of the ball, and said to be one of its most attractive aspects, are the unusual gowns worn by many of the advanced dancers.

Termed "English style" and adopted by Americans taking up the international technique, the gowns—in reality dance costumes—are distinguished by thickly ruffled petticoats of stiffened net.

At first imported from London, or made here by professional dressmakers at great cost, clever mothers of dance club members have successfully copied the originals and created their own designs. Between 50 and 100 yards of net are used to support overskirts, frequently embroidered with brilliant beading and sequins.

Pacific Guild Will Install, Give Funds

Mrs. C. W. Reams

Assuming the presidency of Pacific Hospital Guild at a luncheon Tuesday at League House will be Mrs. C. W. Reams.

Other officers to be installed: Mmes. David Lawrence, William Irwin, W. C. Osborn, William Jones, James Batcheller, Leonard McDonald and William Laufer.

Serving as installing officer will be Mrs. Ward G. DeWitt following the theme "Service." Table decor will consist of yellow topiary trees of roses.

Mrs. C. S. Smith, past president, will report on accomplishments of the guild for the past year and will present a check for $6,500 to David Lawrence, administrator of the hospital, to purchase needed equipment.

• • • •

HONORED guests are to be wives of the hospital board of directors, the Mmes. Fred San Chez, Carl Flinn, Milo Dick, Irving Litwack, John Munholland, Walter Havekorst, R. J. Carmody, P. Victor Peterson; guild founders, Mmes. Lind Albrecht, Willis Baughman, Rufus A. Davis, Gerald Houts, David Lawrence and Gus Lueking, as well as Mr. Lawrence and Mrs. Ruth Ware, staff member.

Open House on Tuesday at Centers

In observance of Public Schools Week, eight Child Care and Guidance Centers and seven Extended Day Centers will hold open house on Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m. at their respective locations.

These centers, directed by the Board of Education, are designed to assist the working family and programmed to meet the emotional, social and physical needs of children from two years through the sixth grade.

The day's activities include supervised free play, music, art, science and social living training with a noon meal, two snacks and adequate rest periods.

All Manners of Ships Are on Yon Horizon

Dear Molly Mayfield

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I went on a cruise last summer and met a great many men. But there was one who seemed to be everything that I wished for.

We talked by the hour on subjects ranging from flowers and the beauty of nature to the philosophies and ideologies of people and civilizations through the ages. Not only is he intelligent but he's sweet, understanding and possesses all the virtues that I want in a man.

By the end of summer I was completely in love with him and we've been writing regularly. My love grows stronger and I think of him constantly. He lives abroad and works on this cruise ship. I don't know whether I shall ever see him again, but I know I shall never be able to forget him.

Would it be better to stop writing or keep hoping and praying for the best?—BLESS YOU.

DEAR BLESS YOU:

You can stop writing, but never stop hoping and praying for the best. I'm sure he's just great, but I'm also sure there are a great many other men equally so.

So relax and enjoy your corresponding. But, my dear enjoy the beauty of nature with someone near and discuss the philosophies and ideologies of the ages with someone here now. It may not be the cruise ship—but your ship will come in just fine.—M. M.

• • • •

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

I am 14 years old and I have a stepfather whom I adore more than I do my real father. My stepfather has done more for me in two years than my real father ever did in a dozen.

My father told my cousin that we weren't his. We haven't heard from him or seen him since October.

I used to think I loved him, but I'm not sure any more. What do you think of a man like that? I want him to read this and maybe it will change his mind about the way he has been treating us. — UNWANTED BY FATHER.

DEAR UNWANTED:

My heart aches. You love your real father — that's plain. You want him. But know what? Step up all the adoration and admiration that you are capable of—for your stepfather. He's about to be a father—yours! —M. M.

• • • •

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

My husband has always been unfaithful. He comes home with barmaid's makeup all over his collars—when he manages to get home, that is. Then he makes up all kinds of lies about me and our neighbor men.

Sometimes I would take it to keep from tearing up the little kids. Then again I'd fight like a tiger. Finally, I filed for divorce and then he said he'd never do it again.

Here lately he's got us all scared to death. Gives us all plenty to eat but curses me and the children daily. He is jealous of every man that comes to the house. He goes wild but never lets on like he ever did a thing. And I've never been unfaithful nor have I ever wanted to be—GIVE UP?

DEAR GIVE UP:

What is there to give up except a sick man who makes himself sick with his own unfaithfulness? Charging others with similar sin began at the Garden of Eden and will probably be the pastime in hell.

If he's willing to doctor for it, wait it out. If he's not, separate. Being cursed daily is not healthy for you or for the kids.—M.M.

Films Mark Library Week

Los Altos Branch Library, 5614 Britton Drive, will make note of National Library Week with a public program at 8 p.m. Thursday.

Librarian Sally-Ruth Isenberg will introduce the program, a showing of "The Golden Fish," award-winning color film. It was produced by Jacques-Yves Cousteau, author of the book, "The Silent World," and the motion picture of the same name.

The two other films to be seen are "Glass," a humorous portrayal of glass making, and "Begone Dull Care," in which unusual designs painted directly on the film are set to jazz music.

Freak Hand Is Capper

No par contest would be complete without one freak hand and Bill Root and Barry Rossler concocted a humdinger when they prepared the hands for the Association of American Playing Card Manufacturer' intercollegiate tournament.

South has a really big hand and should be amazed to find his partner able to make a positive response to his opening two bid. He seems to be cold for 13 tricks if his partner can show the missing ace. South uses Blackwood whereupon North bids five diamonds to show that one ace.

South can now get a bidding par for either seven clubs or seven no-trump and then finds that in order to get points for playing the hand he must play at seven no-trump against a spade lead.

Par contest or no par contest South can count all the tricks he needs and then some unless all four diamonds are held in one hand against him and should try to find a play to guard against this.

* * *

THE PLAY is to win the first trick with dummy's ace of spades, then discard his ace of hearts on dummy's queen of spades.

Dinner Date

Holy Innocents Parish will sponsor a ham dinner from noon until 7 p.m. next Sunday at the parish hall, 20th Street and Pasadena Ave. Tickets may be purchased at the door, or in advance from Mrs. Doris Laing. The public is welcome.

A CRACK DICTAPHONE operator just may be equally crafty with a golf club, and local secretaries will find out next Saturday at a Playday at Hacienda Hotel in San Pedro, one of events in Secretaries Week. Wilma Conde (chairman for week) is pictured sending a long one down the fairway to surprise of Lois Knoll, seated, and Virginia Minks, chairman of speaker's bureau.

Week Fetes 'Gal Fridays'

All work and no play makes "Gal Friday" a dull girl, so in the coming week — designated by National Secretaries Association as "Secretaries Week"—there'll be everything from a playday to a breakfast given in their honor (for their bosses, too) by the Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday.

Wilma Conde will serve as local chairman for the Queen Beach Chapter, according to Rita Dugan, chapter president.

On Saturday at the Hacienda Hotel in San Pedro, the girls will replace typewriters with golf clubs, business correspondence with bridge sessions, long distance calls with a dip in the pool and Metrecal wafers with a substantial buffet luncheon. New secretaries and prospective members are particularly invited to join them. Reservations may be made with Lois Knoll, Star-Kist Foods, Terminal Island.

FROM CHICAGO, Ruth Gallinot, national president, states that, in its 12th consecutive year of nationwide observance, Secretaries Week has again been set aside for these women to reflect on the progress that has gained secretaryship recognition as a profession.

She states that their code of ethics underscores their resolve to further the interest of whatever business they follow and to exemplify loyalty and conscientiousness at all times.

Members will speak at high schools, colleges and service clubs throughout the week. Virginia Minks, chairman of the secretaries speakers bureau, will handle this phase of the week's events.

Working under Mrs. Conde is a local committee consisting of Alice Bowman, Pat Hutto, Ruth Sheffield, Lois Knoll and Verryl Sumrall.

They'll Sing 'The Desert Song'

MARY ANNE RIDOUT . . . romantic Margot Bonvalet

By ELISE EMERY

"This will be the finest production ever done of 'The Desert Song!'

"Better even than the lavish Los Angeles Civic Light Opera version!

"It's a wonderful, nostalgic show, paced for today's theater.

"The dialogue has been updated. The music and dances are in modern tempo. The comedy is contemporary.

"But the thing that has made 'Desert Song' a classic of music theater is left unchanged — the marvellous, melodious music that has enraptured audiences since 1926."

* * * *

HENRI SCANLON, director of the production which Long Beach Civic Light Opera will open Thursday in the Concert Hall, is an authority on Sigmund Romberg's musical.

The romantic show, set in the deserts of Arabia, opened simultaneously in New York and Chicago in 1926, and the next year in Los Angeles starring Perry Askim and Elvira Tanzi. The setting was contemporary then, but for the Long Beach production the time will be moved back to 1900 to take advantage of opulent costuming.

Stars will be soprano Mary Anne Ridout as Margot and Philip Haynes in the dual role of the Red Shadow and Pierre.

Scanlon has performed in seven productions and directed three. "It's my show," he says.

* * * *

HIS FIRST association was in 1939 when he sang the tenor role of Sid El Kar in a revival of the original Los Angeles production.

He toured 68 weeks, sometimes playing five shows a day.

In 1951, as director of Long Beach Singers' Workshop, he staged the light opera in the Concert Hall.

"People told me I was crazy to move from Morgan Hall where our other productions had been. They said we'd lose our shirts.

"We had a cast of 30, a six-piece orchestra and six dancers.

"We made sets of cardboard boxes. I took my own furniture from my apartment for props and slept on the floor for three weeks. We made our costumes, too.

* * * *

"HARVEY WAGGONER, now general manager of Civic Light Opera, was the first Long Beach Red Shadow. He was terrific! Betty Kimber played Margot.

"Opening night the auditorium entrance was jammed. We played three nights — all we could afford — to sold out houses. We were a smash hit. "Desert Song" got us out of the red — the first time we made any money.

IN 1956, Scanlon again directed "Desert Song" for Singers' Workshop in the Concert Hall. James Boyd and Bette Arntzen headed the cast of 60. There were six dancers, and the orchestra had grown to 12. The costumes and some of the back drops were rented. Lighting was better.

Again the show played three performances to capacity audiences.

The current production, which will run Thursday through Sunday, the following Tuesday and May 2 through 5, has a cast of 92. There is a 28-piece orchestra and — still — six dancers.

* * * *

THERE WILL BE gorgeous, professional backdrops, sophisticated color, a knock-out harem scene, elegant costumes, magnificent lighting, a large chorus.

Bill Roberts, who does the choreography, also will play the comedy lead opposite Elaine Nelson.

"Most of all, the music — The Desert Song, One Alone, Riff Song, Romance, I Want a Kiss — and all the others, modern classics," said Scanlon.

* * * *

"WE'LL HAVE ANOTHER sell-out run. Audiences can never resist that beautiful Romberg music."

Tickets may be purchased by mail or in person at the Civic Light Opera office, 518 E. Fourth St.

Six Spanish Painters Plow Furrowed Fields

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

The showing of Six Spanish Painters at Long Beach Museum of Arts, 2300 East Ocean Blvd., which continues through next Sunday, is, on the whole, very disappointing. While recent articles in national magazines have told of experimental work which is being produced in Spain, those in this exhibit plow in fields long-since furrowed.

Two characteristics prevail among this half-dozen painters with the one exception of the lone woman, Aurora Allisent. These are the use of thick black outline and, with a few exceptions, the employment of oppressively rich color.

ON THE PLUS side of the ledger, there are found here a high degree of craftsmanship in the application of pigment, strong use of compositional devices, clear and specific definitions of form and space.

The show, also entitled "Spain 1962" by the committee who originated it under the American-European Cultural Exchange Program, will please many local viewers who are unresponsive to abstract expressionism, a native-American development which has spread throughout the world. There are human figures aplenty, at tables, mending fishnets, gathered at the well. There are stunning landscapes and cozy little seacapes of harbors at sunset.

* * *

AMONG THE MORE unusual of the works are "My Son" by Jose Zorralique which is painted in a primative fashion reminiscent of Dubuffet. The influence of Dali may be felt in two works by Ricardo Fradera, "Lovers 1967" and "Woman in a Tree." Aurora Allisent paints thinly on drawing of female figures in "Air, Sea and Sun" and "Musical Composition."

For purposes of comparison, the museum has helpfully hung a selection from the Art Rental Gallery close by.

Boston Group Plays Tonight

Boston Symphony Orchestra will perform tonight at 8:30 p.m. in Shrine Auditorium under auspices of the Southern California Symphony Association.

Eric Leinsdorf will conduct. Mahler's "First Symphony" and Prokofieff's "Classical Symphony" will be featured.

MAJOR & MINOR NOTES

Merry Moments in Musical Life

By RACHEL MORTON
L. P-T Music Critic

After three consecutive Sundays of serious Major and Minor Notes columns, let's laugh a little today.

I've been thinking over some quips about music which may give my readers a bit of amusement. Once when I was about to go on the stage to sing a concert, the chairman of the occasion approached me: "Will you sing now," she said, "or shall we let them enjoy themselves a little while longer?"

At a funeral service, the church quartet in which I was the soprano sang very feelingly, "One by one they're gathering home." We did not understand the frigid reception we got until we learned that the deceased was the man's third wife!

While consulting the program of songs I was to sing at a concert in England, I was flabbergasted to read, instead of "My Lover Comes on a Ski," by Clough-Leighter, "My Liver Goes on a Spree!"

* * * *

I LOVE THE STORY of the baritone singing the prologue in a bad performance of "I Pagliacci," when hoots and yells and cries of derision greeted him. Calmly he waited until quiet was restored, then announced simply: "If you think I was bad, wait until you hear the tenor!"

A soprano of the same ilk gave a recital of operatic arias in Carmel when I lived there. The next morning the critic wrote: "Madame gave a recital of operatic arias last night. She gave her all, and it was too much!"

* * * *

THE EXIGENCIES of opera performances are often laughable. I was singing Isolde, and being a vehement actress, I grabbed the poison cup from Tristan with real dramatic fervor. Imagine my horror, in looking at my hero to discover instead of a bearded knight —a beardless youth! I had pulled off his beard with the cup!

Another performance in which I was singing Aida called for a rebuke from our impresario. "Tell Miss Morton to be more careful of her make-up in the next act," he advised my dresser. "Just now as she ran across the stage her slit skirt revealed a leg half white, and half black!"

* * * *

I HEARD Schumann-Heink, the famous German contralto, who spoke with a decided accent, announce to her audience before one of her concerts: "You will excuse, please, my singing tonight. I am a little horse, (hoarse), I have a little colt (cold)!" And when a clerk who was selling her some talcum powder inquired, "Would Madame like it scented?" she replied: "No," I take it 'mit!'"

It is related that Nellie Melba, when she was a little girl, sang a solo at a school concert. Next day she asked her little playmate how she liked her singing.

"You sing all right," said the child, "but I saw your drawers."

College Concert at Chapman

Chapman Symphony Orchestra will play its final concert of the season next Sunday at 4:30 p.m. in Chapman College Auditorium. Dr. Ralph S. Smith will conduct

Lillian Smith to Lecture

Lillian Smith, distinguished author and lecturer, will speak May 1 at 8 p.m. in First Congregational Church.

Her topic will be "The South Today Through the Eyes of a Southern White Woman."

Miss Smith is author of "Killers of the Dream," "Now is the Time," "Strange Fruit" and "Memory of a Large Christmas."

A resident of Clayton, Ga., she won the Southern Authors' Award in 1950.

Her lecture is sponsored by the church's social action committee. Tickets may be purchased at the church office or from Mrs. John F. Richard, 1044 Chestnut Ave., and Mrs. W. T. Webber, 410 W. Fifth St.

Gallery-Goers to Promenade

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

The half-dozen blocks on Los Angeles' La Cienega Boulevard between Santa Monica Boulevard and Rosewood Avenue will blossom with flowers, topiary trees and hundreds of bright banners May 5.

On that Sunday from 5 to 9 p.m., 20 galleries will present one-night-only shows for the Gallery Promenade to be staged by the Junior Art Council of Los Angeles County Museum.

Cocktail bars will be set up in six or more patios adjoining the galleries, and music will add to the festivity.

Each gallery plans an outstanding show. For example, Ankrum Gallery will show paintings by controversial author Henry ("Tropic of Cancer") Miller, with Miller himself on hand to greet promenaders.

Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres have been donated. Proceeds from silent auctions of donated work will be given to the Art Council.

All funds raised will be used for acquisitions for the new County Museum or Art now under construction in Hancock Park, and for continuation of the council's projects.

Long Beach women helping prepare for the 2,500 expected gallery-goers are Mmes. James G. Craig Jr., George R. Johnson and James Kresl. Tickets may be had from council members or by calling the County Museum in Exposition Park.

• • • •

A FIGURE DRAWING course will be offered by Long Beach Art Association in the gallery, 800 E. Ocean Blvd. at 8 p.m. Mondays and 10 a.m. Tuesdays. The last four classes will include drawing from a model. First session is slated Tuesday morning. Call the gallery for further information.

• • • •

SPECTRUM CLUB will hold its spring rendezvous Saturday and next Sunday at La Quinta, near Indio. President C. P. Wood reminds members to bring water, firewood and a shovel as there are no facilities at the camp.

• • • •

DARRELL FARBER will have a one-man show of oils, water colors, drawings and collages at Bergen's Interiors 5201 Long Beach Blvd. The exhibit will open with a reception next Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. and will run through May 20.

• • • •

ARTISTS in the southwest area of Los Angeles County are invited to enter the third annual Crestwood Art Festival to be held May 25 and 26 at Crestwood Street School in San Pedro.

Purchase awards will be offered. John Weeks, educational curator at Long Beach Museum of Art will judge the exhibition. Artists are limited to three entries each; there is no fee. Works will be received May 24 from 3 to 8 p.m. at the school, 1946 Crestwood St.

For further details contact the Crestwood Art Committee, 1947 MacArthur St., San Pedro.

• • • •

"JAPANESE Art Today," an exhibition of work by 37 Japanese painters, opens next Sunday at Westside Jewish Community Center, 5870 W. Olympic Blvd., Los Angeles.

Matao Uric, consul-general of Japan will attend the opening reception at 8 p.m. The show will continue through May 28.

• • • •

AWARDS OF $2,000 will be made in the ninth annual All-California Art Exhibit at the Laguna Beach Festival of Arts July 6 through Aug. 11.

The exhibit is intended to acquaint the expected 200,000 festival visitors with work of present day California artists.

Jurors will be Robert Brackman, painter and teacher, and Thomas M. Messer, director of the Solomon Guggenheim Museum. Six awards will be made, two each of $500, $300 and $200.

The competition is open to all living California artists. Original works in oils, water colors or other media may be submitted. Entry blanks and information may be obtained from Laguna Beach Art Association, 307 Cliff Drive, Laguna Beach.

Tickets on Sale for Schola's Pops Concert

Soprano solist Marni Nixon and folk-singer Denny Brooks will be guest artists for the fifth annual "Pops" concert of Long Beach City College Schola Cantorum next Sunday at 4 p.m. in the college auditorium.

Tickets will be available this week at the student body banker's office on the LBCC Liberal Arts Division campus, 4901 E. Carson St., or at the box office next Sunday.

Wayne B. Gard will direct the 130-voice Schola Cantorum in a variety of choral music ranging from light classics to folk songs, spirituals and musical comedy selections. Accompanist will be Helen Davenport.

• • • •

MISS NIXON will sing with the Schola in an arrangement of Victor Herbert's "Italian Street Song" and will also present several solo numbers. She has appeared as soloist with the New York Philharmonic, the Los Angeles Philharmonic and other major orchestras and has sung with the Los Angeles Guild Opera, New England Opera Company and the San Francisco Cosmopolitan Opera.

Miss Nixon has also appeared in many musical comedy roles. Her voice was dubbed in for the role of Anna acted by Deborah Kerr in the motion picture production of "The King and I."

In the folk song portion of the program, Brook will be accompanied by Robert McCandless on the string bass. Tom Westerman will be the soloist for one of the numbers from "West Side Story."

Holbrook 'Twain' at LBCC May 1

Originally scheduled for Feb. 14, Hal Holbrook will present "Mark Twain Tonight" on Wednesday, May 1, in the Long Beach City College auditorium.

There will be no advance sale for the LBCC "Evenings at Eight" program, but approximately 500 tickets will be available the night of the performance.

Holbrook interrupted his 1963 Mark Twain concert tour to appear in the current Broadway production of "Abe Lincoln in Illinois."

Symphony at LBSC

Long Beach State College Symphony Orchestra will give a concert on Wednesday in the campus theater at 8:30 p.m. There is no admission charge and the public is invited.

Dr. Bertram McGarrity will direct the 60-piece orchestra. Works by Drs. Robert E. Tyndall and Charles E. Becker, faculty members, will be given first performances.

Linda Sue Marks, 3427 E. Seventh St., will sing two Mozart arias. Fred Peters Jr., 1067 Ximeno Ave., will be clarinet soloist.

Broadway's Hit Barbecues

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
L. P-T Food Editor

Chef of the Week

His closest proximity to the water today is the fish he has hauled out of it.

However, today's Chef of the Week, Martin W. Blatt, is especially well known for his sailing ability. If ever there is danger of halyard trouble aboard a boat, you'll find Blatt among the crew.

When not afloat, Blatt is general manager of The Broadway-Long Beach, a position which he has held since January of '62.

* * * * *

THOUGH a native of Los Angeles, Blatt spent his growing-up years in Salinas. He attended grammar and high schools there, before entering Hartnell Junior College of Junior Rose Bowl fame.

Following graduation from Hartnell, he enrolled at UC, Berkeley, majoring in business education. His leadership ability manifested itself early, for he served as student body president in high school and as president of his freshman class.

World War II managed to interrupt his college career, and he joined the Navy. His whole war stint was done in San Diego in Naval communications.

* * * *

THE WAR OVER, Blatt returned to Salinas and became affiliated with United Airlines. He helped establish the first U.A. office in that city.

He was soon transferred to Oakland and made account executive and sports representative in charge of all sports travel.

Martin W. Blatt

In 1958, he went on loan to the 1960 winter Olympic Games at Squaw Valley as assistant managing director. His duties included transportation, housing and pageantry.

The Olympic Games scores all totaled, Blatt made a complete change in professions. He joined the Broadway Department Store in Los Angeles, heading up customer service. Six months as assistant store manager preceded his appointment as manager of Broadway-Long Beach in January of '62.

HE'S PROUDLY called Dad by son, Jerry, 17, and daughter, Janice, 14. They enjoy fishing, handball, and in fact, sports of all kinds. Contrary to store manager precedent, he makes his home in Long Beach.

Active in the Los Altos Business Men's Association, and the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, he's a past president of the 20-30 Club and of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Quite naturally, his recipe is for fish, and today's it's to be barbecued.

BARBECUED FISH
6 to 8 lb. albacore or yellowtail

BARBECUE SAUCE
1 pt. prepared barbecue sauce
½ lb. butter
2 tblsp. soy sauce
Dash Worcestershire
Dash Tobasco
1 medium onion, chopped fine
2 lemons sliced (peel included)

Mix ingredients in pan—bring to boil and simmer approximately 15 minutes.

Prepare boat of heavy duty aluminum foil, or two thicknesses of lighter foil. Be sure to make it large enough to fold over at top, so that no steam can escape. Place fish in "boat"—fold top securely, and barbecue about one hour. Fish should not be too close to grill. Open foil and baste several times during barbecuing procedure.

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Her Gown's Like New, Too

DEAR ABBY: We recently announced that our daughter's wedding date is June 22nd. A neighbor called and asked me what time our wedding was scheduled for. I told her we had planned it for 11:00 a.m. Then she told me HER daughter was getting married at four o'clock the same day, and would we let her use our flowers? I didn't know whether to say yes, no or what, so, like a fool, I said yes. My huband told me I ought to have my head examined. Now he wants me to call her up and tell her if she wants to use our flowers she should pay half the florist bill. Would you?—SPOKE TOO SOON

ABBY

DEAR SPOKE: The time to have suggested that your neighbor pay half the florist bill was when she asked to use your flowers. Having already said yes, it would be extremely awkward to add ifs, ands or buts.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: We live in Hawaii. Last Christmas a friend from the mainland sent us a large box of apples from Oregon. The apples were in transit for almost four weeks and arrived rotten. Apparently they had been wrapped for protection against freezing, but not against heat. We wrote and thanked our friends for the "delicious" apples. Now we are wondering if maybe we shouldn't have written them the truth. What if they send us apples again next year? —HILO FANS

DEAR FANS: By all means, write and tell your friends the truth. You would be doing them a service. Any reputable company, whose business is to ship fruit, is delighted—if not eager—to replace spoiled merchandise.

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: In my possession is a perfectly good wedding ring that has never been worn. If it would make the woman happy who wrote and complained that her husband never gave her one, I shall be glad to send it to her. The story behind it is this: A friend of my husband's broke up with his fiancee and threw the ring out of a window. My husband retrieved it and tried to persuade him to keep it, but he would have nothing to do with it. My husband is now dead and I do not know the friend's name, but I still have the ring and it might as well bring a little happiness to someone. —NORFOLK

* * * *

DEAR ABBY: Please advise "L. J." not to become discouraged about being an "unwanted child." I, too, was an unwanted child, but now I am wanted in eleven states and Mexico. Sincerely, —"BIG RED" (from Houston)

* * * *

Stop worrying. Write to Abby. For a personal reply enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Strong Foreign Trend in Home Furnishings

Californians Seek Typical American Furniture Designs

By STELLA ROACH

It will be Spanish or English—and "not as she is spoke" but as home furnishings creators express it. Out of the great Mediterranean influence of the past two years, the Spanish has taken on the greatest hold, particularly in California, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas where the Mexican-Spanish heritage is deep-rooted, loved, rich and colorful.

Then a few months ago traditional English design started coming in and is now considered high fashion, especially in the East. Earlier introductions which were adaptations of such famed names as Chippendale, Sheraton, Hepplewhite and Robert Adam were rich, dark wood tones. More recently oak stylings in the Jacobean manner are being made.

So the foreign influences continue. French and Italian reproductions range from country to court styles and here, one or the other means richness in woods, finishes, hardware and decoration. Decorative detail in wood pieces will include carving and cane, marble inlays, grill work, painted finishes and gold trim.

• • • •

ALL OF THESE things and much more are evident in the Long Beach retail stores and in 600 showrooms of the 13-story Los Angeles Home Furnishing Mart where thousands of dealers go every month to view and select new merchandise for their stores.

In California the designers and many manufacturers are pulling for design that will be typically American. Such a design would not need the term American Modern . . . it would be simply American. And this would mean contemporary at its best: Simplicity, straight lines, non-bulky look. Plenty of this type of contemporary furniture is on display.

While walnut and teak are being used by California creators of fine furniture, oak is seen all over too. Today's contemporary pieces combine traditional and modern styling and interest is added with burls, marble, cane, grill or woven work. The natural finish is still the thing.

As for shapes and forms being seen in the numerous new lines there is everything from space age buckets to medieval arches. Sawbuck tables and deacons' benches vie with bucket seats of the age of tomorrow.

• • • •

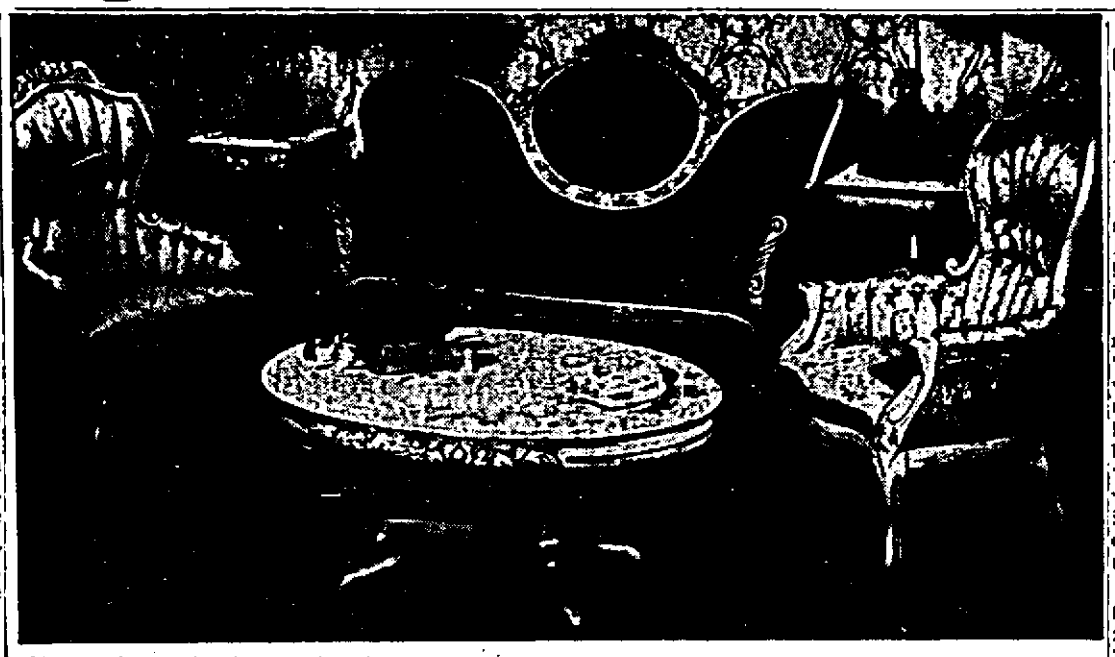

EXPOSED wood is a phrase you will hear frequently regarding contemporary upholstered furniture. Wood is actually wrapped around sofas and sleepers, sculptured for open arm chairs and used as the base for otherwise totally upholstered pieces comes up as decorative accents.

Lamp news? Lots of fashion is what's new in lamp design. But even better is the observation that lamps shown in some 100 display spaces at the Los Angeles Home Furnishings Mart have slimmed down bases, much less clutter and they are back to normal in size: no excessive height or bulk. Contemporary lamps are more formal and the new lamps go well with 18th and 19th century decor. Interesting to note many bases in the blue/white Delft look. While lamps used on tables, desks and chests have been toned down and simplified, the swag and pole lamp has become more elaborate, very period. The Oriental-Moorish, Mediterranean and even the Victorian influence are all seen in the swag lamp. Shades, as a rule, are done in natural textures such as linens and other rough-slubbed fabrics. There are also lots of prints but very little applied decoration.

• • • •

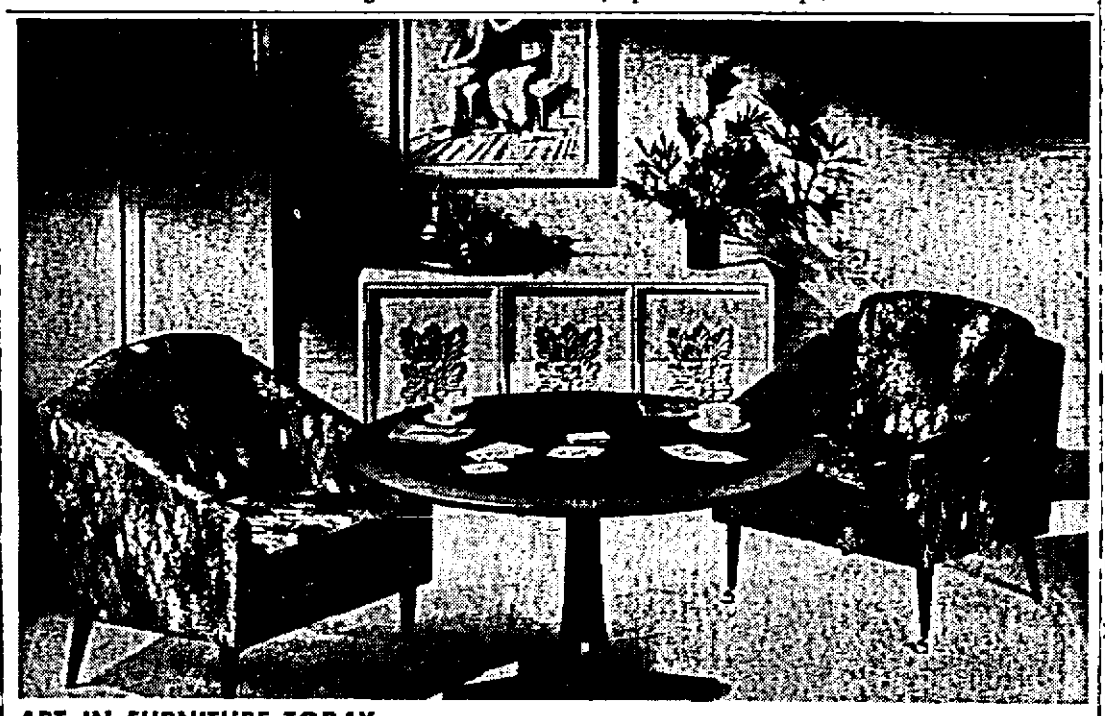

NATURE, always the greatest inspiration to all artists, is lending many of its colors to the home furnishings field. For floor covering, draperies and upholstery the earth tones of Mamma Nature are still strong: beige, sand, off whites. But also strong for these particular home goods are colors borrowed from the sea, mountains and sky: blues and greens and purples and golds. The orchard's biggest donation is olive green. This is being used everywhere and in upholstery fabrics in particular.

Other popular colors this year include orange, green, gold, yellow greens and sprightly reds. And most manufacturers and designers say that blue is getting stronger by the moment . . . partly by popular demand.

CLASSIC DESIGNS RETURN

Serenity and calm of the past is brought into the home with this heirloom Victorian styling offered at Lanes Home Furnishings, 3030 E. Pacific Coast Hwy. It is a masterpiece of reproducing the romantic period in classic design with hand-wrought elegance. Offered in mahogany, fruit wood or antique white, the sofa and chairs come in a large selection of brocades, tapestries and antique velvet.

ART IN FURNITURE TODAY

Contemporary furniture design is a form of modern art. New pieces are unusually functional and visually exciting in terms of both design and color. A good example is Kroehler's Modern Artisan Collection just being introduced. Shown is a pedestal party table and occasional chairs while in the background is a chest.

Cultural Living Is Back in Home

"The Many Uses of Leisure" was the theme for the 1963 Winter Market at the Los Angeles Home Furnishings Mart.

Eddy S. Feldman, mart managing director, observed: "For generations only the very wealthy had leisure time. Today people in the lower and middle income bracket are fast becoming the 'leisure class.' Shorter-hours week and numerous time-saving devices are among factors contributing toward more time on our hands.

"The average homemaker, for example, not only has fine appliances to take the load off housekeeping, she also has home furnishings which require less time for proper upkeep. Drip dry fabrics, man-made fabrics for carpets, plastics, wood finishes developed in recent years take little care. And of course, the new cleaning materials, waxes and polishes are the 'instant' kind nowadays. Another time saver is frozen food, packed and all ready for fast cooking. Thus Mrs. Homemaker finds herself with more and more leisure time right along with her husband. And each day something else is discovered or invented to ease the load for the average person at home, at the office or at the factory," Feldman continued.

"FOR TOO LONG, however, most of us looked at leisure time as a time for swimming and sunning, tennis and golf, bowling and skiing as well as spectator sports.

"Encouraging people to use their leisure time for cultural activity should become an important project of the home furnishings industry. For this in turn will encourage better homes and discourage juvenile delinquency and other social problems of our time

"We selected 'The Many Uses of Leisure' as our Winter Market theme to suggest that leisure time is time out for music, art, reading and study, creative hobbies such as arts and crafts, the theater, horticulture and travel as well as time out for play and sports.

"IN RECENT MONTHS there has been a reawakening toward the more cultural aspects of daily living. Take, for instance, the new awareness of art. More and more average persons are learning to appreciate famous paintings and object d'art. Hi fi has helped many others to better appreciate and understand good music," Feldman added.

"This trend also creates an innovation in cultural living expanding present homes to include rooms for these creative and cultural hobbies. Let's bring back the library and the music room to the average home. These rooms were included in homes of people of moderate means in another era of our country . . . they can be included again," Feldman concluded.

40-INCH CHAIR

This tufted upholstered 40-inch high chair is from the Lorenzo group manufactured in Gardena by the Kalpe Co. It is offered in 28 finishes and is made in various hard woods.

CONVERSATION PIECE

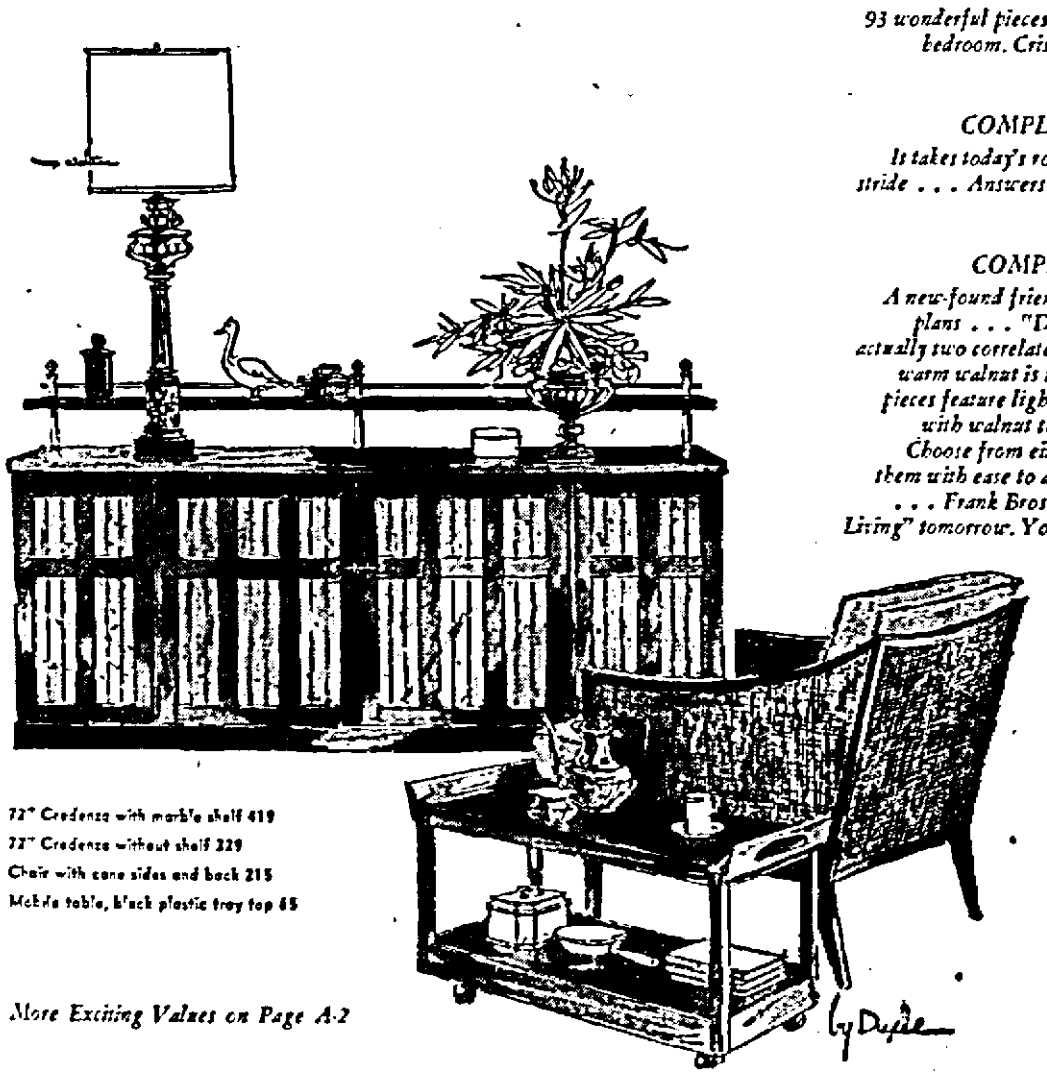

The pine sugar bin, a fixture in Pennsylvania Dutch kitchens years ago, is a conversation piece that adds warmth, charm and practicality to the 20th century living. This bin holds magazines in the living room, entertainment accessories in the recreation room or knitting in the bedroom. It's the right height for a lamp table. Bauritter offers this.

BRIGHTEN BREAKFAST

Smart sophistication for a setting to brighten breakfast, luncheon, cocktails or after-dinner coffee is provided by these graceful designs from the new "Nassau" collection introduced by Molla, Inc. The simplicity of these clean-lined pieces is enhanced by softly curved lines used in the chair-backs and sloping legs. The attractive console table-buffet combination is a boon to effortless serving.

English Decor Now Popular U.S. Vogue

Members of Parliament concerned about the Americanization of England can relax . . . England has invaded America at its very core — the home.

A current vogue in home furnishings decor is the English look. It represents a reaction to the informal or casual styles which have been predominant in the home furnishings market for the past several seasons (Mediterranean, Early American, etc.).

With every passing season, pace-setting designers predict a "look" . . . sometimes old, sometimes new, often a "forward step" and occasionally a "return to" . . .

* * * *

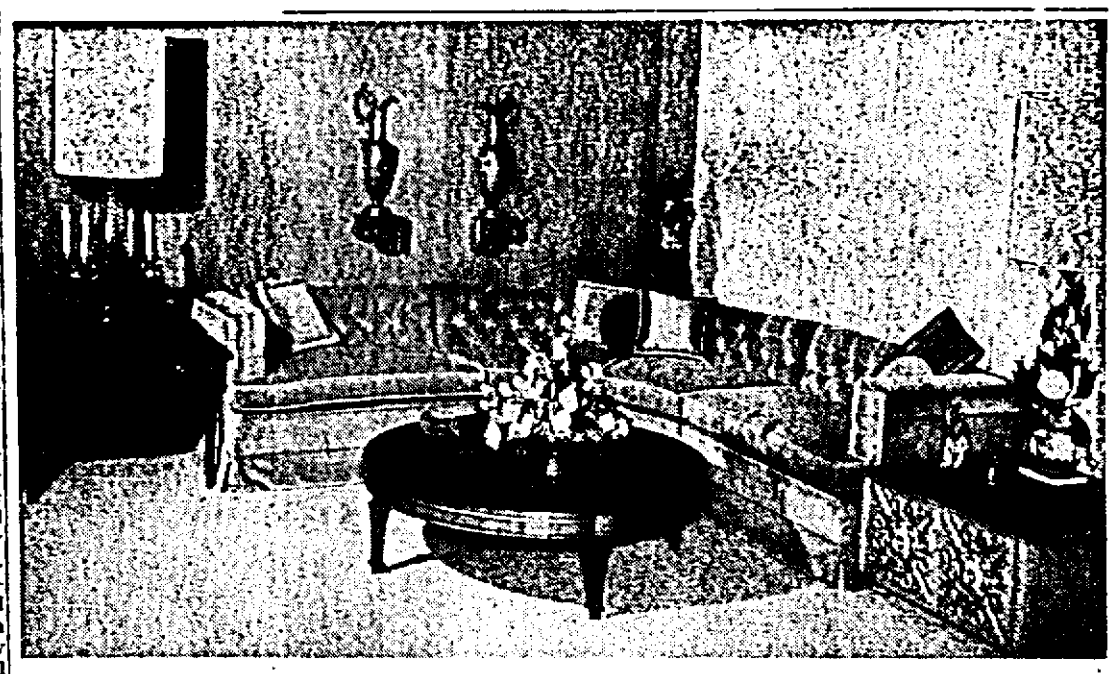

THIS SEASON it's a "return to" . . . and not an unwelcome one. We are returning to a look that is characterized by greater formality, but with a strength and verve that is missing in the more delicate and stilted formal elegance of the French periods.

The broad scope of English design in furniture permits women to express great individuality and versatility within the framework of its formality.

Though pale colors and lightly scaled furniture are synonymous with the overlapping Hepplewhite, Sheraton and Adam periods, they are balanced by the use of satinwood inlays, deep toned mahogany, walnut, and painted designs and finishes which provide the necessary latitude for creating brighter, more vivacious rooms.

* * * *

DURING THE MORE robust design periods of William & Mary, Queen Anne and Chippendale, crewel hand-embroidery added lively embellishment to the decor. Although it originated in England in the 17th century and was first used with Jacobean furniture, crewel embroidery continued to be popular until the late 18th century, because its warmth and richness was highly complementary with the aforementioned furniture styles.

MIRROR ADDS ROOM HEIGHT

A spacious room with a traditional, substantial elegance focuses attention on the magnificent "granada" sofa, beautifully long and deeply quilted. Barker Bros. decorators accented with a massive wall credenza . . . added height and light to the rowith the gilt framed oval mirror. The colors are light, the fruitwood woods are rich and elegant . . . the perfect combination for our California homes.

Texture of Carpet Important

The soft pile surface of a carpet or rug makes a unique contribution to your home—not only in comfort underfoot, but in style.

After color, texture is the most important element in establishing the "mood" of a room — cozy and informal, spacious and elegant, as the case may be.

This year there are carpets and rugs with textures for every decorating theme. From long shaggy loops for smart contemporary rooms to thick-piled carpets for elegant, traditional furnishings—the choice is varied.

* * * *

THE STYLES for 1963 reveal a new emphasis on "velvet" textures—the straight yarn cut pile which is one of the classic texture types associated with carpets and rugs.

Seen in rich colors, these plain-surface carpets underscore the most elegant, traditional rooms and provide a luxurious basis for even the most ornate furnishings.

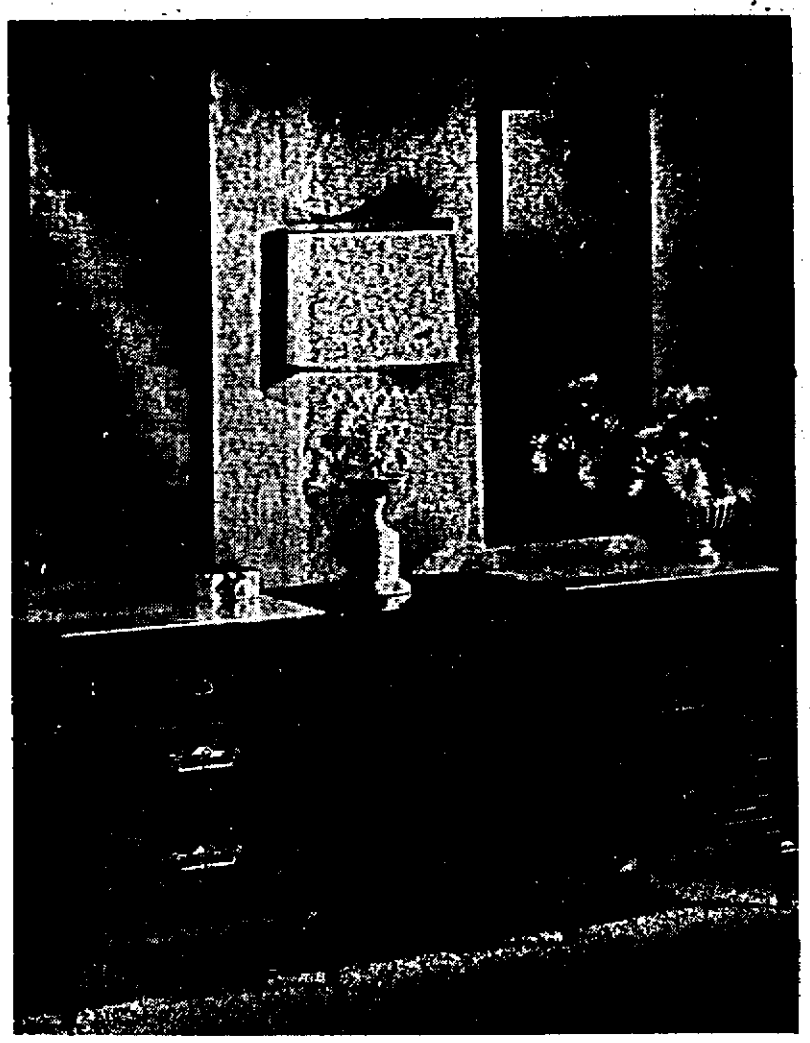

Other carpet textures for traditional settings include new versions of the familiar "sculptured" or "scroll" patterns. These textures, so familiar a generation ago, have been brought up to date and are often achieved with new construction techniques. Many of them are combinations of cut-and-looped pile, a practical as well as a beautiful version.

* * * *

FOR CONTEMPORARY rooms there are many versions of looped texture—loops arranged in a "high-low" manner, tight loops for a nubby effect, twisted loops for a frieze appearance.

Striated loops, or "ridged" textures, are often highlighted by combinations of color and are also styled for contemporary furnishings.

Texture is easy to choose in carpets and rugs, since the choice depends largely on your own preference.

RADIANT FASHION NOTE

The pristine beauty of classic form interpreted in warm-tones butternut and acacia burl is the radiant fashion note of this Thomasville Regent House of bedroom, dining room and occasional grouping featured at Aaron Shultz Furniture of Quality, 4321 Atlantic Ave.

Influence of Mexico Is Noted

The colorful heritage of Old Mexico, that has already exerted a dramatic influence on the design of modern fashions, fabrics, and decorative accessories, is now making itself felt in the field of contemporary American furniture. Brown-Saltman's exciting "Hacienda Group" provided a high light of the new home furnishings.

Designed by John Keal, who spent months south of the border absorbing local color and studying native craftsmanship and design, the new grouping is distinguished by an unusual turned-leg motif and the lavish use of marble (available in four different colors) as tops for all pieces. These include a long low coffee table; a square corner table and end table; a commode that introduces an interesting interlaced veneer on the door panels; a luxuriously scaled hexagonal coffee table and a wedge table.

ELECTRIC CANDLE . The transition of the old wax candlestick, Rembrandt presents its new antiqued brass candlestick, 19 inches tall. This lamp will retail for approximately $50.

Robert's Contemporary Furniture, 1785 Newport Blvd., in Costa Mesa, has shown unusual sales success in the two years it has been in operation by Bob Mansfield (left) and Tom Denman, who is showing a patron some of the newer fabrics. Store is well stocked with latest in contemporary pieces.

LUXURIOUS SECTIONAL HAS SWEEPING CURVE

A certain eye-catcher in your living room, this 18-foot sectional has a sweeping curve that adds to the luxurious touch it brings into the home. Offered by Long Beach Furniture, Sixth and Long Beach Boulevard, it comes in a choice of fabrics, has reversible cushions and has Shepherd casters. It is moderately priced for such a large addition to the living room.

CHAIR ACCENTS ROOM

In addition to providing the comfort that only a tall chair can, this chair adds an exciting accent to a room. While this chair has a wood frame it has the luxury of an upholstered frame by virtue of the comfortable little arm bolsters.

CANE AND HARDWOOD

The combination of hand-woven cane and fine hardwood distinguishes this rocking chair by DUX of Burlingame. The frame is available in either solid walnut or solid teak and the reversible, zippered seat cushion and neck pillow are foam rubber.

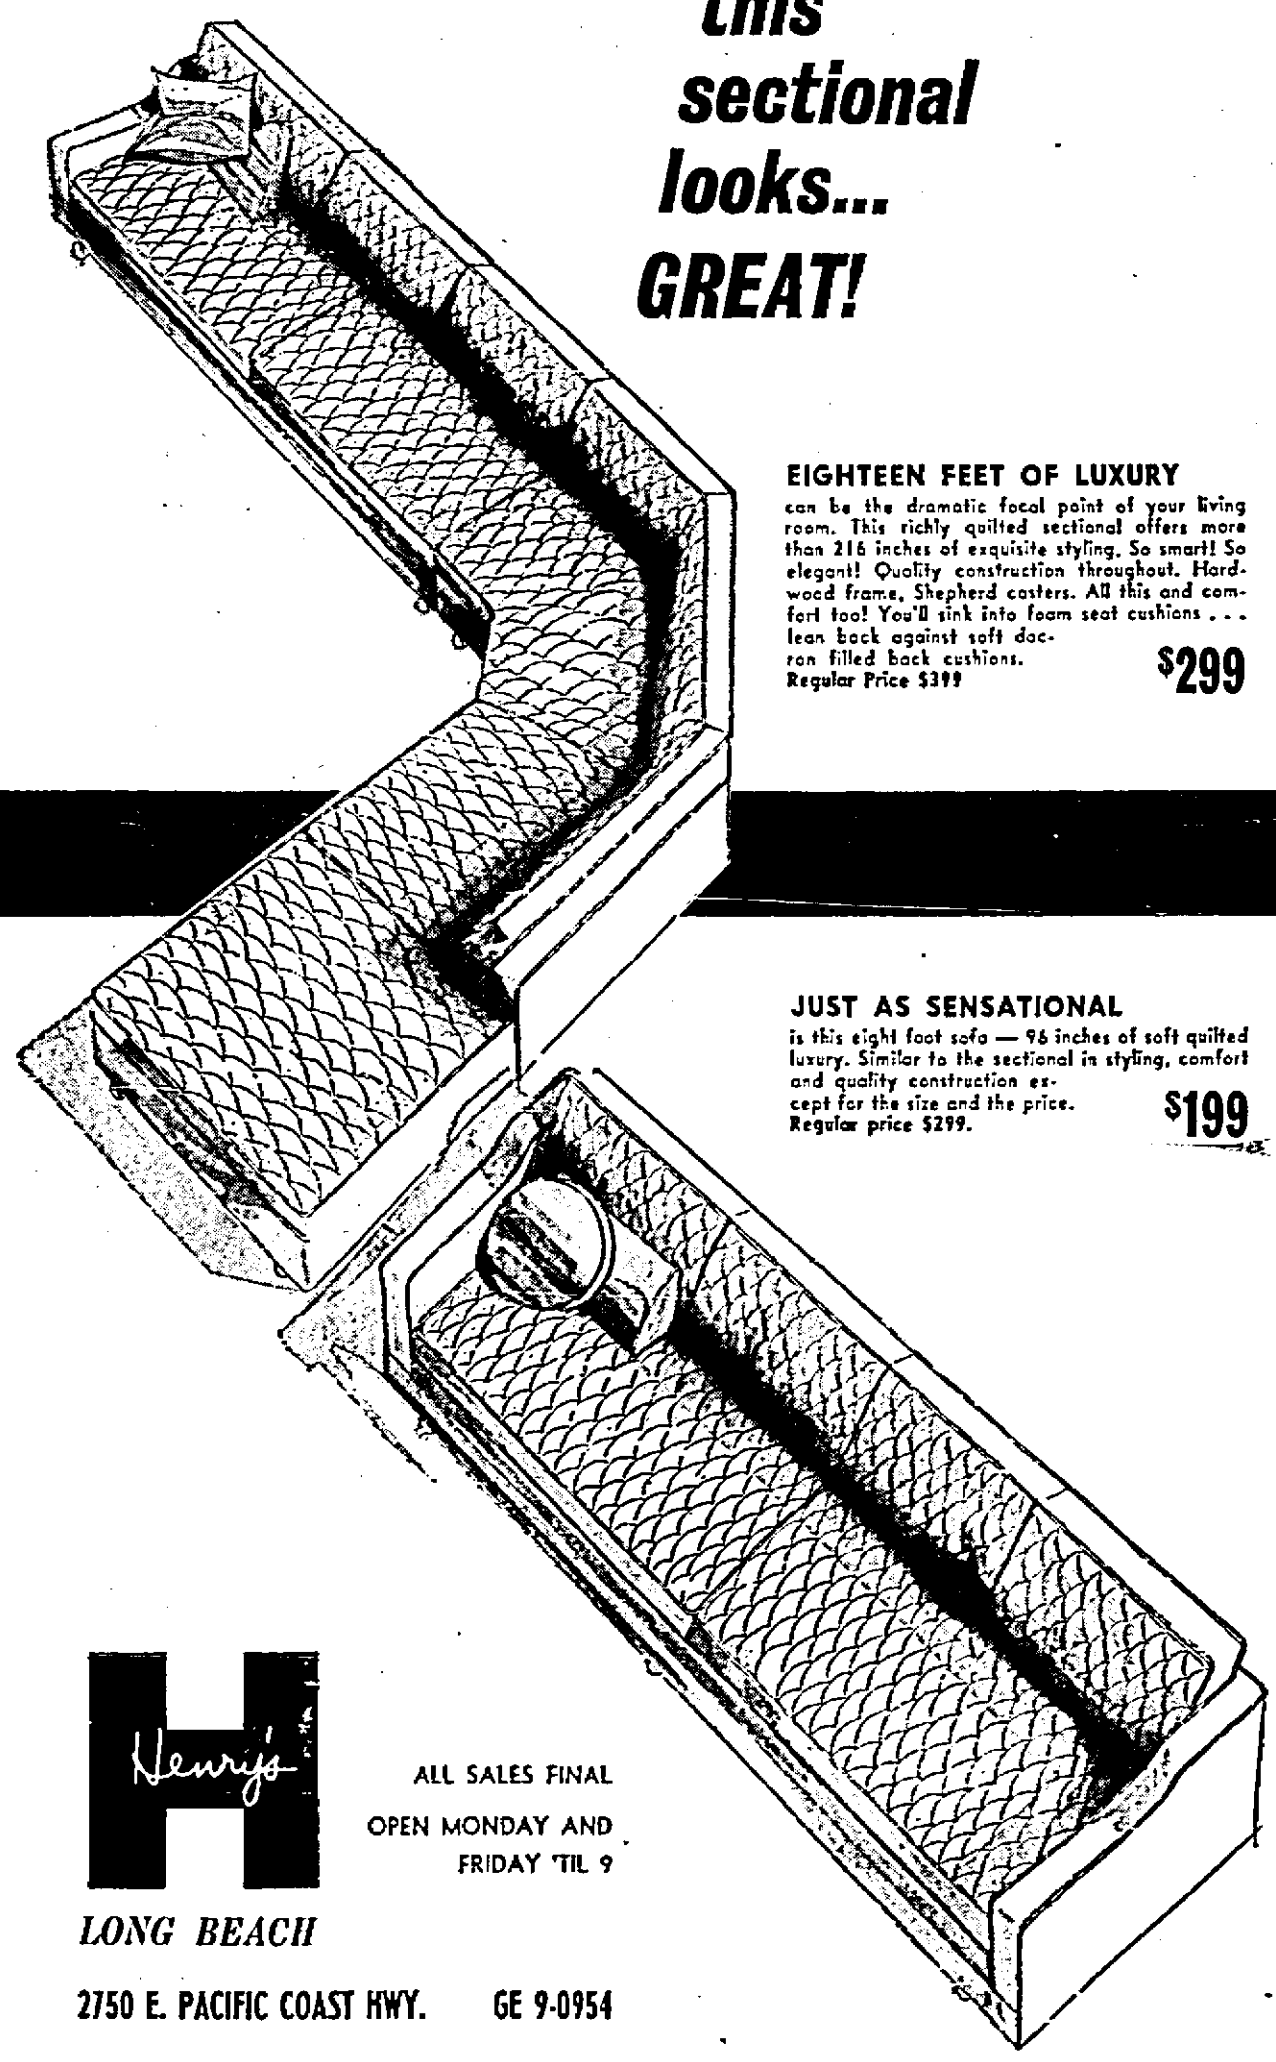

BRUNCH TABLE SET

There are two good reasons for the reappearance of the brunch table and chairs. One is, they often fit more properly than standard dining furniture, in the dining alcoves found in today's homes and apartments; plus the fact that the compatability of their low height adds a unity and continuity that makes the living room appear larger. The other reason is the new look of the family room and its wider use. Here, the brunch table becomes a game table, a snack table, a card table or even a work table.

UNUSUAL BEAUTY IN SETTING

The warm chestnut color of fine wood veneers blend with the upholstered pieces to create a grouping of unusual beauty at Davis Furniture, 1975 Long Beach Blvd. The magnificently crafted cocktail table, end table and door chest are from Henredon's Sequent grouping, exclusive with Davis in Long Beach. There is beauty in every detail as evidenced by the jewel-like effect portrayed by the door chest. The long and lovely sofa is by Marge Carson.

Textured Look Given Pillows

The big fashion news in decorator pillows is the textured look. This look is achieved by prints which resemble tweeds; by butcher linen, woven fabrics of burlap, embroidery, waffle weave corduroy. Vibrant colors continue to be used for three pillows and as for shapes, they come as boxes, knife edges in squares and rounds and oblongs. Many pillows are enhanced by the use of tassels or double flange welting.

Moderate Decor for Bathroom

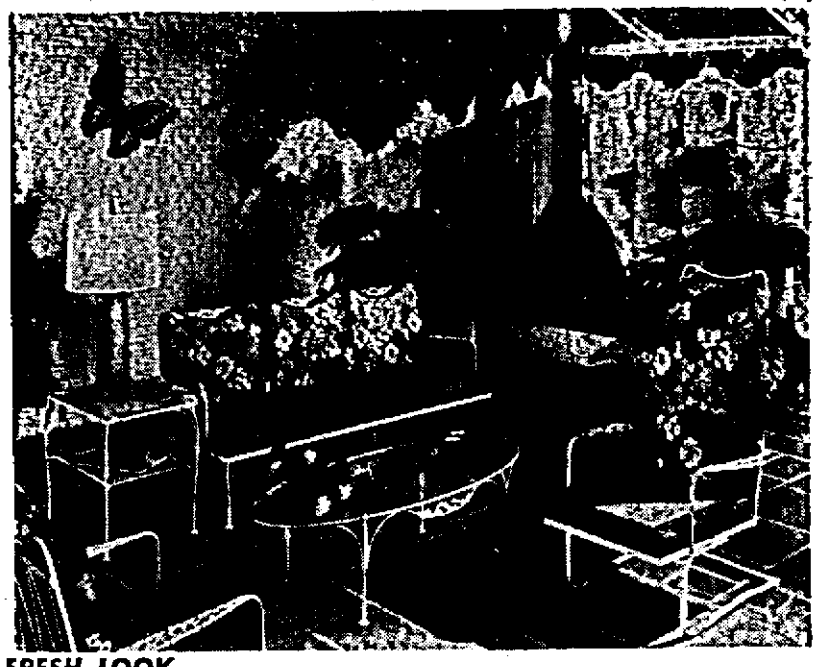

The "country look" has come into the bathroom. For two or three years the overdone elegance trend had many a bathroom over-embellished with gilded lilies, fish and other ornate decorations. This year simplicity seems to be the keynote in bathroom decor and this apparently was brought about by the introduction of the country look and the "mister" bathrooms. Femininity, of course, is still of major importance in bathroom accessories but not the frou-frou type of femininity.

* * * *

AS FOR COLOR in the bathroom emerald green is high in favor. Also the yellow greens and the brown greens; chartreuse is also coming in.

Clear blues will become more popular, according to forecasts. Since there has been an increased use of natural food finishes in bathroom cabinetry browns, beiges and mochas are other colors that will gain in popularity for this important room in the house.

Bring Outdoors Indoors With Novel Conversion of Your Den

FRESH LOOK

A bright and gracious room that retains the fresh look of summer throughout the entire year, this setting features furniture from Molla's new "Wildflower" collection, designed by Lawrence Peabody. This slim-lined design, softened by a graceful floral-spray motif, is offered in a variety of seating pieces and coordinated tables. The colorful floral-patterned fabric brings a summery note to the room.

The approach of summer brings such light hearts and pleasant thoughts, it seems a shame that this delightful season comes only once a year. How beneficial it would be if we could bring it back to cheer midwinter doldrums. With a little effort and a lot of imagination, you can convert a playroom, den or spare room into a greenhouse-like retreat that will delight family and guests as an ideal place for entertaining or just relaxing.

Select furniture that combines the light look of outdoor designs with soft upholstery geared to indoor comfort. Perfect blend of both is slim-lined fine steel pieces graced with delicate floral-spray ornaments. A variety of comfortably foam-cushioned seating pieces, coordinated with attractive serving and accessory tables, provides maximum comfort with minimum upkeep. Choose a brilliant floral upholstery fabric to set the bright color scheme for your outdoor-indoor room.

* * * *

SURROUND your basic furnishings with accessories and decorative accents that have one thing in common — the employment of designs or materials suggestive of outdoors. For example, you might use an inexpensive three-dimensional plastic wall covering in a brick pattern to cover one or more walls of the room. For the more venturesome, architectural interior materials offers a corkwood wall covering that is an expert-fooling look-alike for real tree bark. This would make a conversation-piece covering for one wall.

Flooring is no problem, with the variety of vinyl tiles now on the market in patterns simulating natural materials from brick or flagstone to straw and rush.

Not to be forgotten is the vital importance of outdoor foliage in any room that does homage to summer

You can play even the largest Hammond Organ in 30 days

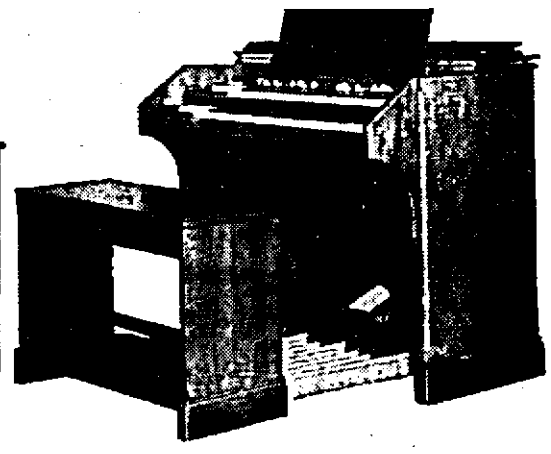

The Hammond Home Model Organ. The graceful spinet design blends into nearly any home decor. It is often the choice of professional organists because of its rich tone and many features: Harmonic Drawbars, Touch-Response Percussion, 25-Note Pedal Keyboard, Pre Set Combinations (so a mere touch changes the tone quality as you play). From $2365, F.O.B. factory. (Tone equipment extra.)

The Hammond Concert Model Organ. The most magnificent Hammond Organ of all. The vast tonal resources of this organ have made it first choice among some of the leading concert organists of the world. One important reason: It has a full 5-octave ensemble on both manual's. There are no unification devices to limit the organist's artistry. It will be your choice if you seek unlimited musical expression. From $3350, F.O.B factory. (Tonal equipment extra)

The Hammond Self-Contained Model Organ. It has an acoustically engineered tone cabinet built in, yet it takes up no more floor space than a desk. You will have all the great Hammond exclusives: Harmonic Drawbars, Touch-Response Percussion, and Reverberation (which brings you the rich, three-dimensional effect of music played in a large concert hall). Available in many styles and hand-rubbed finishes. From $2495 F.O.B. factory.

The Hammond Model G3 Organ. Beautifully colored cabinet makes it a favorite choice for home with a modern trend. An instrument with a magnificent voice, it has a wealth of features: Selective Vibrato, Touch-Response Percussion, Harmonic Drawbars, Pre-Set Combinations. FLEXIBILITY IN DESIGNS FOR HOME

In this room arrangement by Henry's Furniture, 2750 E. Pacific Coast Hwy., the 100-inch contemporary sofa is in a transitional linen fabric to play against the fine contemporary design of the white pedestal cigarette tables and the imported teak hanging wall pieces. Flexibility and designs for our times are foiled against the warmth of our heritage.

New Methods in Laying Carpet Offer Fine, Fast Installation

"What is a 'tackless' wall-to-wall carpet installation?"

"Why must there be seams in my wall-to-wall carpeting? Will these seams show after the carpet is laid?"

"How long will it take to have my carpet installed? Will it require more than a day?"

These questions are typical of those frequently asked by homemakers as they consider plans to have carpeting installed wall-to-wall in their homes. Their concern is understandable, as fine carpeting should have a topnotch installation.

• • • •

FORTUNATELY, improvements in carpet-laying techniques and tools have kept pace with the many advances in carpet manufacturing. A prime example of the progress in this field has been the widespread development of "tackless" installations.

This is a method of laying carpet by securing the carpeting to wood strips anchored to the floor adjacent to the walls. These strips contain rows of pins angled toward the wall. Following the principle of the curtain stretcher, the pins grip the back of the carpet.

The "tackless" strips are anchored to wood floors by nailing and to concrete by strong adhesives. Their use makes possible a taut, smooth installation that eliminates the need for tacks, which can become unsightly dust catchers. Tackless is currently the most popular carpet laying technique, and is widely recommended.

• • • •

THOUGH THE development of broadloom, or wide-width, carpeting has reduced the amount of seaming formerly required, seaming is still necessary today because the carpet has to be cut into sections and joined in order to cover all of the floor space. Most broadloom carpets are made in standard widths of 9-foot, 12-foot and 15-foot, and some are also available in 18-foot rolls.

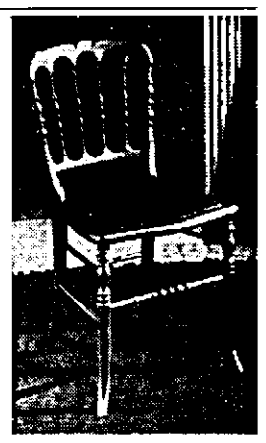

Seams could possibly be totally eliminated in a room if the widest roll-width were used. For example in a room 13 feet wide, a 15-foot wide carpet could be used. However this would entail considerably more wastage than if sections of a 12-foot carpet were used along with a few seams. Therefore the use of seams is more economical.

• • • •

MODERN SEAMING techniques have made it possible to produce inconspicuous seams that even experts cannot spot readily. Moreover, these seams are strong, so that they will not separate or become apparent after the carpeting is down months or years later.

The use of new tools and techniques developed in recent years has greatly speeded-up the carpet laying process. Today, a crew of trained mechanics can install as much as 80 square yards of carpeting in a home within a normal working day.

This means that between the hours of 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., carpeting can be completely installed in the average-size living room, dining area, hallway, stairway and two bedrooms. A housewife can rest assured that in most cases her new carpet will be laid and all the furniture put back in place before her husband returns from work.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Right Carpet Is Key to Home Decorating

Q. I have a copper-colored sofa and a moss-green chair in my living room. What do you suggest as a carpet color?

A. Since you have contrasting colors already, it would be better to choose a carpet in one of these tones, rather than introducing a third color. You might choose a carpet in a copper or moss green shade, or one blending these tones.

Q. I have a rug with a definite floral patern. Can I also use patterned draperies?

A. Probably not. Although it is sometimes possible to use two definite patterns in a room—if one is large-scale and one is small-scale, for example—it's usually best to let one pattern dominate, especially in a large area such as the floor. Your draperies, however, might have a great deal of texture interest or a muted color combination.

Q. Should my walls and carpet be the same color?

A. This isn't necessary at all. They may be different tones of the same color—generally, with the darker shade used for the carpet—or they may be related colors. It's best to avoid directly contrasting colors in these two large areas unless the room is very large.

Q. Can tweed carpets be used with traditional furniture?

A. It depends on the variation of design. Many "tweed" carpets today are subtle mixtures of color and blend beautifully with the soft lines of traditional styling. Also, traditional furniture may be fairly simple rather than ornate. A sharp "salt-and-pepper" tweed would probably not be compatible with very elaborate period furniture—but between these two extremes, there are many possibilities.

Q. Is there any one texture type in carpets especially designed for contemporary rooms?

A. No. There are many texture variations in carpets today, and very few of them are limited to one type of decor. Some textures—such as the soft curves of "scroll" or "sculptured" carpets—might suggest traditional furnishings, just as some bold textures suggest modern decor. But many other textures are adaptable to a variety of furnishings.

Willbanks Offering Largest Selection of Brand Name Rugs

Now recognized as the area's largest volume carpet dealer, Willbanks Carpet and Drapery Co., now has the largest selection of brand names at the lowest possible prices, a spokesman for the firm announced.

Today's quality carpet is lived with for years. The choice of a proper carpet is of primary importance in furnishing a home. The same is true in the selection of drapes.

Because of this importance, your selection should be made when you have:

1. A knowledge of what you are buying.
2. A confidence in the firm from whom you are buying.

Willbank's is a departure from the usual carpet specialty shop. It was founded on the premise that quality carpet, backed by expert installation, could be sold, at a minimum mark-up, in sufficient volume to be profitable. The same policy prevails on its draperies.

The extension of his premise was to operate, without frills and costly fixtures from a low-rent and thus low-overhead location in a Factory-Warehouse location at 1879 Freeman Ave., Signal Hill.

* * * * *

BY ELIMINATING high rent and other cost raising features, the company decided it could afford to pass on to its customers the substantial savings by giving more carpet and drapery value at less cost.

This new experiment in merchandising paid off in large volume sales. These large sales, in turn, allowed Willbank's to bargain from strength in dealing with carpet mills, for quality purchases, at great savings—these savings are likewise passed on to the customer.

Today, the Willbank's Co., is growing and expanding into other areas after building, in the Long Beach area, a reputation for selling, at a minimum mark-up, quality carpet and draperies expertly installed and with complete satisfaction guaranteed.

A shopper will find, on display, at the warehouse, the latest lines of carpets and drapery material in wide varieties, made by famous mills.

* * * * *

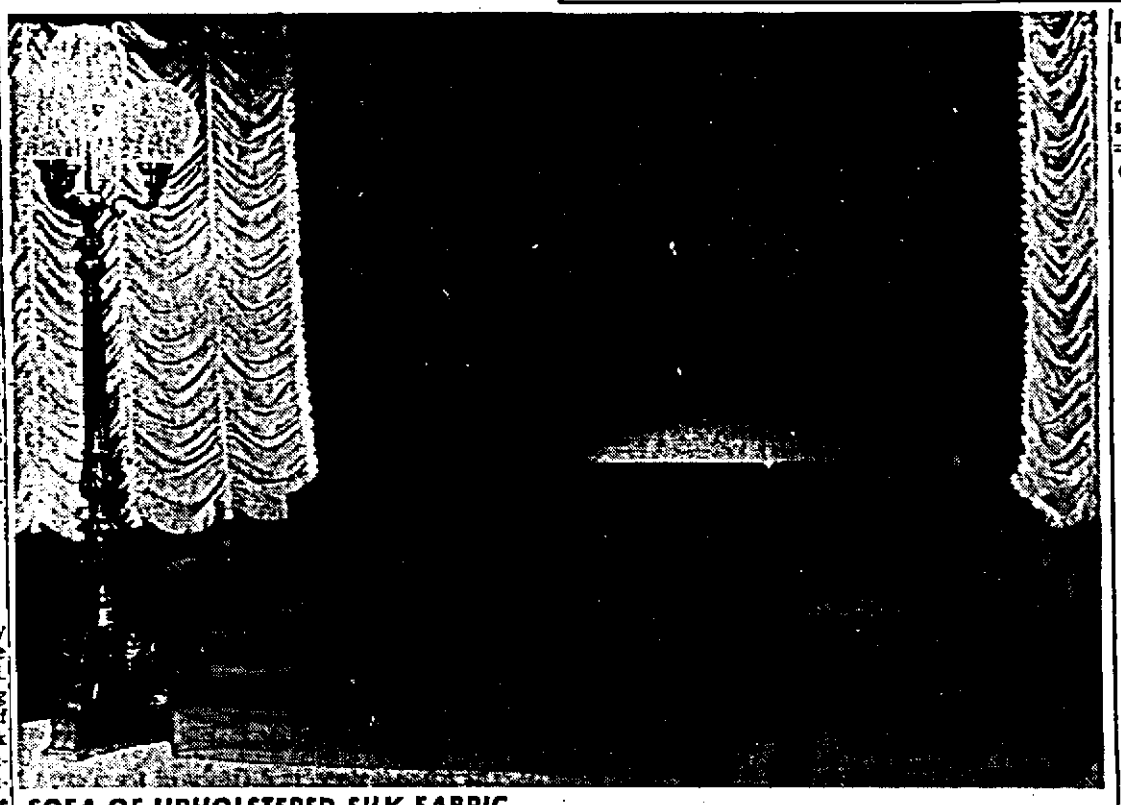

IT IS NOT the policy of the Willbank's Co. to sell you a particular carpet or certain drapery material, but rather to act as consultants—to explain the facts—to be definite in answering your questions and to assist in the selection of the best material, best suited for your needs—most in harmony with your decor and at a cost to fit your pocketbook, the spokesman explained.

You may, if it is more convenient for you, select your carpet or drapes right in your own home. Willbank's will, without obligation, send to your home a salesman, with a complete line of samples in which you are interested. Then you will see the carpet or drapes in the proper setting — make certain it matches your decor and have the entire family discuss its suitability for your needs.

Willbank's too, is justly proud, of their industry-wide reputation, for the very high quality of expertly trained, long experienced installers handle all installations, including the difficult and complex, with facilities and precision.

Crewel Embroidery Is Being Revived

An age-old art is very much back in style in the home furnishings field. Crewel embroidery is being revived and almost any of the home magazines you pick up today will have instructions or articles on it. Manufacturers of fine fabrics are using crewel embroidery for draperies, bedspreads, pillows, chair seats. It is a great hobby to take up.

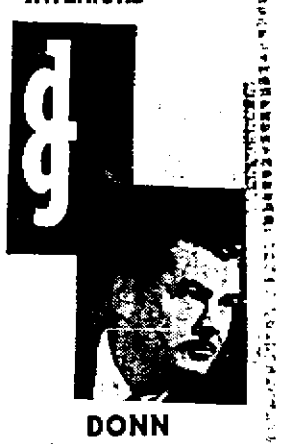

SOFA OF UPHOLSTERED SILK FABRIC
From the Lloyd's of Long Beach custom furniture shop comes this exquisite sofa, upholstered in smart silk fabrics. Lloyd's will custom build sofas in any size and in any fabric. The lamp and accessories are part of Lloyd's immense collection of the unusual. The store's at 4141 Atlantic Ave.

DOES DOUBLE DUTY
Thomas Chippendale named a table for the Earl of Pembroke, and almost 200 years later, the same piece makes a royal addition to today's home. The Pembroke table is that rare combination of both beauty and utility. This Ethan Allen version by Baumritter serves as a lamp table in the living room, and the drop leaves lift to give room for a chair-side dinner, hobbying or sewing. In the bedroom, the table is equally useful as a bedside commode.

EXPERTS IN HOME DECOR
Buffums' Department Stores not only offer the newest in styling and home decor, but they provide expert consultant advice as well. Here are John Stettler and Carl Stewart, who specialize in the field of fabric and color for homes, offering advice on drapery, carpet and upholstery harmony. They go into homes with swatches of fabric and samples of carpet to help plan new decor.

OFFERED IN NEWEST CULTURED WOOD

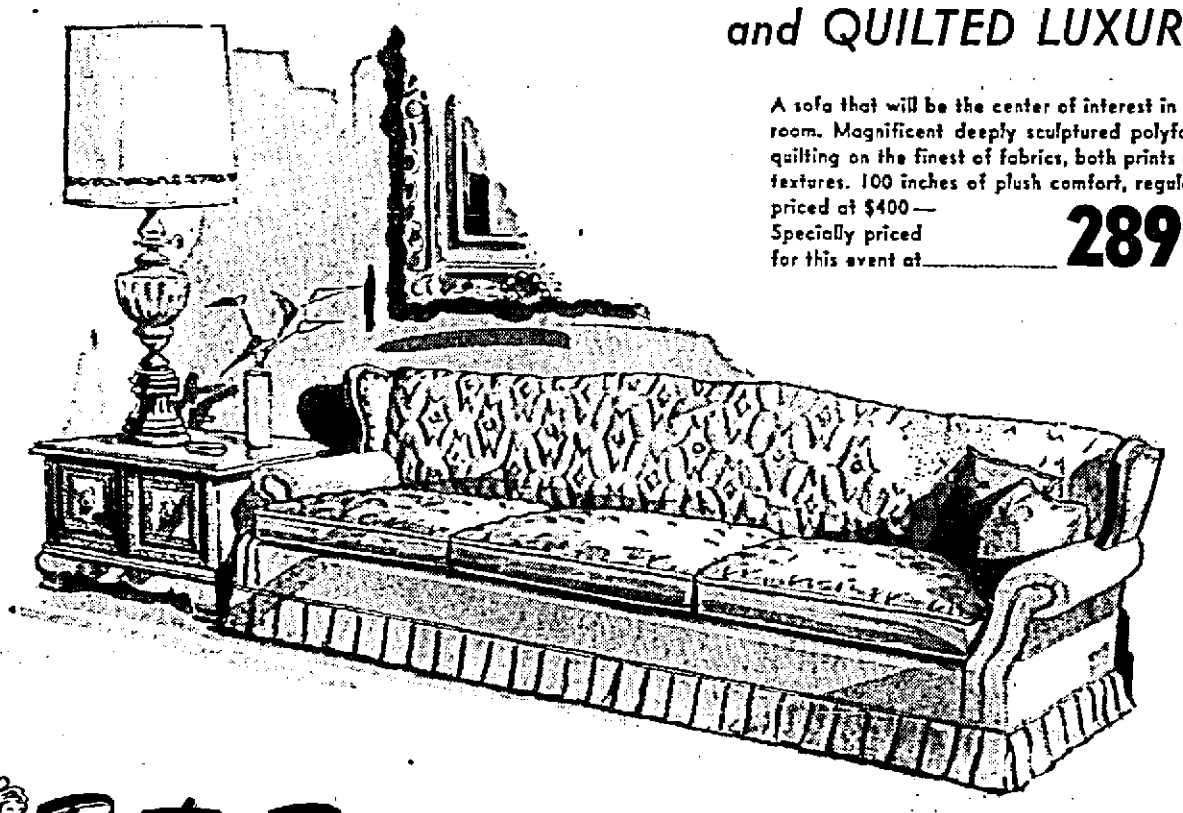

Kroehler Co. has presented some new correlations in their cultural wood program. The unusual depth and clarity of the Turrae wood has been combined with the soft moulded shape of the framed cases to achieve this transitional group. This beautiful vintage brown group includes bedroom, living room, dining room and tables and cabinets. Wells Brothers Furniture features this series at both stores, 4700 Long Beach Blvd., and 5316 E. Second St.

U-SHAPED SECTIONAL

Dale Fahrney, NSID, at Carl's Furniture, explains the advantages of the beautiful grouping of this "U" shape sectional. The sectional, transitional in design, comes in an interesting natural linen boucle. This room setting, influenced by the popular Spanish theme, is just one of the many dramatic decors found at Carl's Furniture, 1250 Pacific Coast Hwy.

Carpet Colors Cover Spectrum in Exciting Rich, Deep Tones

By WOLFE SHAYNE

Attempting to "catch the trend" on carpeting is akin to catching "which way the breezes blow." But this season, according to what can be gathered from the creators, will embody everything that nature has to offer—tranquil or stormy in tone and mood—polychrome or monotone just as nature should; an endless variety, all exciting and new.

For example take Mohawk. "Colors shall be clear, deep and rich, with emphasis on the gold and green families."

Alexander Smith declares . . . "cleaner, fresher, clearer colors . . ." Firth . . . "breath-taking color-band combinations in vibrant, exotic colorings . . . subdued versions in exquisite muted shades . . ."

* * * *

STEPHEN-LEEDOM gives . . . "emphasis on deep hues . . . strong colors . . ." And Regal is for . . . "yellow tones including hot orange and shocking pink combinations . . . yellow-greens including the olive tones . . . blue-green combination . . ."

Speaking of colors, James Lees predict a trend toward richer carpet hues. "The trend is to deep, rich blues and greens, deep russet, deep golds, avocado and moss . . . golden yellow, bronze and bitter green.

* * * *

COLOR STYLISTS at Bigelow are counting on "marigold and other members of the orange family . . . for 1963 . . . several softer shades of rose, gold and beige . . ." In fact Bigelow color stylists have made 38 color additions with what they term their "Coordimates"—a color coordinate program which offers the home owner identical, complimentary or contrasting shades in all grades and styles.

Jaeger and Branch are stressing lilacs and oranges. Hollytex meanwhile is advancing tone-on-tones—somewhat toward what they term the "modern" colors.

From Masland comes "Eye-Stoppers" or even more glaring "Eye-Poppers," to use their own coined vernaculars. They go further, proclaiming with such adjectives as "bolder" and "lusher" the startling nature of their colorations for '63 which range from emerald to crimson and gold; from pink to blue to avocado.

* * * *

AN UNUSUAL color treatment comes from Downs—"flakes of four accent colors on backgrounds of peacock blue, vale green" . . . through gold and beige and moss, among others.

Callaway prefers the . . . "deeper, more vibrant and brighter colors of sunny Spain"—which puts them on course, of course, with our Mediterranian trend in furniture design. Even in nomenclature they go Latin with such colorful designations as "Costa Brava Blue," "Fandango Flame" and "Torreador Red." So . . . "Jubilo jornado" to all those inclined in that direction.

And if these titles aren't urge enough to send you on your way, savour some of these for '63: "Cremè D'Cocoa." "Olde Linen," "Turquoise Gleem," "Bubble Beige," "Ginger Spice," "Mystic Green," "Black Coffee," "Expresso," "Ultra Violet," "Verdant Jade" and "Martini." The latter will either close the spectrum for you or open it, depending on your own capacity.

Decorator Clocks Back

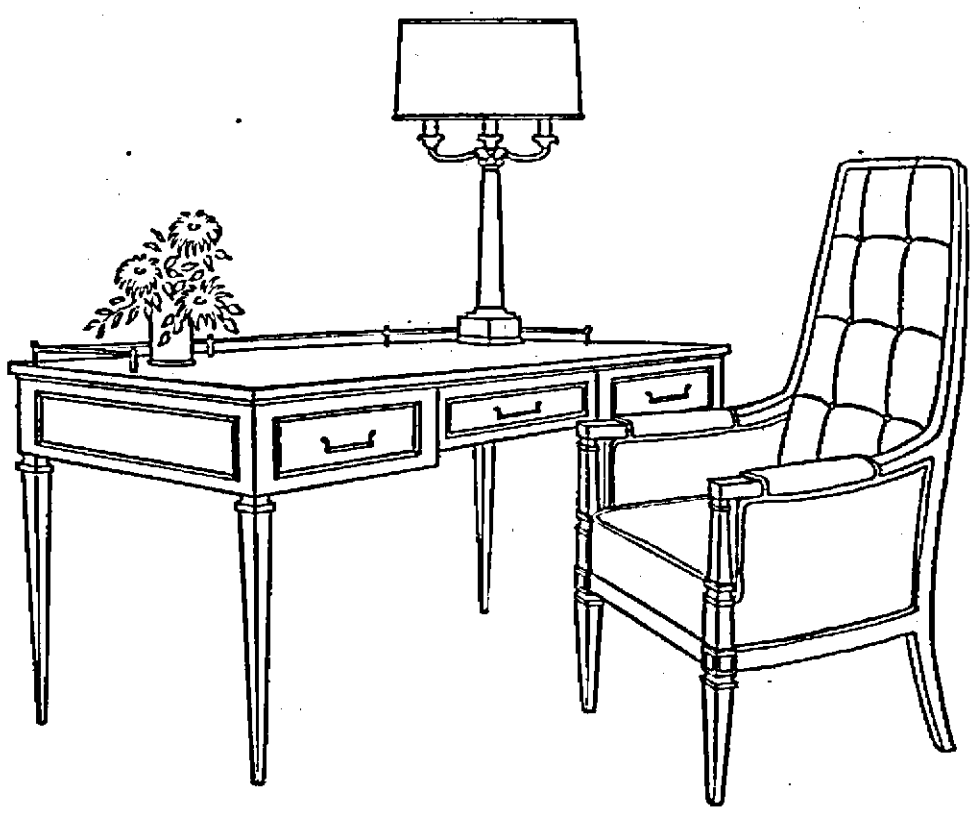

The Grandfather clock is back and with "him" are two charming additions — the Grandmother clock and the Granddaughter clock. They are known as the Decorator clocks.

The pleasant "at home" feeling generated by the petite Grandmother clocks are wonderful ways to fashion an interior. These clocks come in Early American, Contemporary and Italian Provincial. The chimes? You can have your choice: the stately Echo "Bim-Bam" chime on the half hour or the universally loved Westminster, with part of the melody on the ¼, ½ and ¾ hour. A "Big Ben" gong tolls the hour.

Two Style Trends in Rugs

Return to Elegance Is Noted

Whether your home is elegant in the traditional manner, or smartly contemporary, carpets and rugs are again proving that the "well-dressed floor" is the perfect starting point for home decor.

Carpets and rugs for 1963 reveal two definite style trends: Traditional and contemporary. There's a return to elegance in a variety of traditional patterns, rich colors and soft, thick textures. At the same time, there are crisp colors, interesting textures and patterns done in the contemporary manner.

• • • •

SEVERAL important color trends are seen throughout these varied stylings. Gold appears as the most important color family for 1963—ranging from soft, burnished bronze tones to sharp clear golds, often mixed with a related color such as orange or russet.

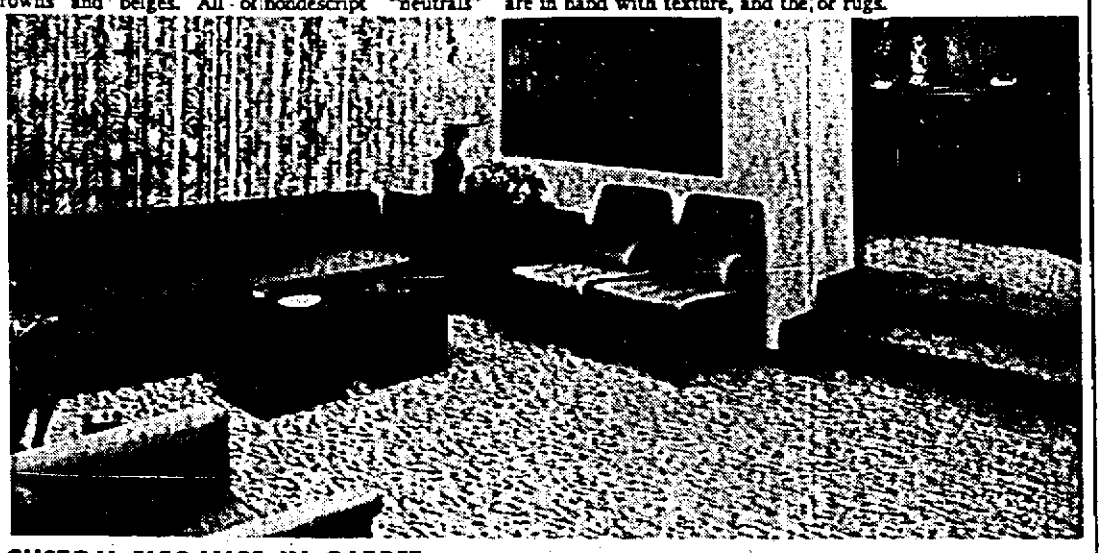

There's a tinge of gold in other color families, too — notably in the greens, with avocado, moss and bronze greens appearing in many new styles.

Sharply contrasting colors are often seen in vivid area rugs, but in carpets there is a definite trend toward subtle blends of color. Closely-related color mixtures, such as turquoise and bronze, or reds with orange, are favored over the tweeds with a definite contrast, such as black-and-white, or the "salt-and-pepper" tweedy styles.

• • • •

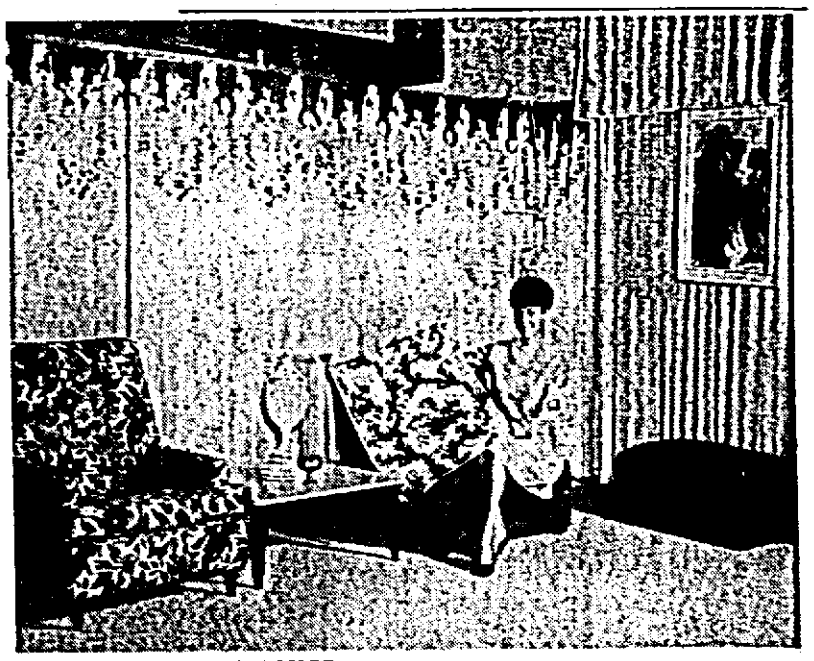

WHEN CARPETS are not done in vivid colors, they are shown in a variety of interesting "neutrals" — mixtures of black with brown or charcoal; varying mixtures of browns and beiges. All of these have a definite color "character," however. The nondescript "neutrals" are waning in popularity.

Color, of course, goes hand in hand with texture, and the two together determine the total style effect of a carpet or rugs.

CUSTOM ELEGANCE IN CARPET

The art of Wilton weaving hits a new high with the introduction of this cut and uncut all-wool carpet. The mixture of two, three or four colored yarns for special coloring effect and the slight, abstract chevron pattern impart a custom elegance to this carpet.

SHOP-AT-HOME SERVICE

Samples of carpeting, draperies, upholstering and slip covers will be taken into the home of customers by employes of the Sears Shop-at-Home Service. This permits customers to see the merchandise in the setting of their own home and then expert advice is given free on home decor.

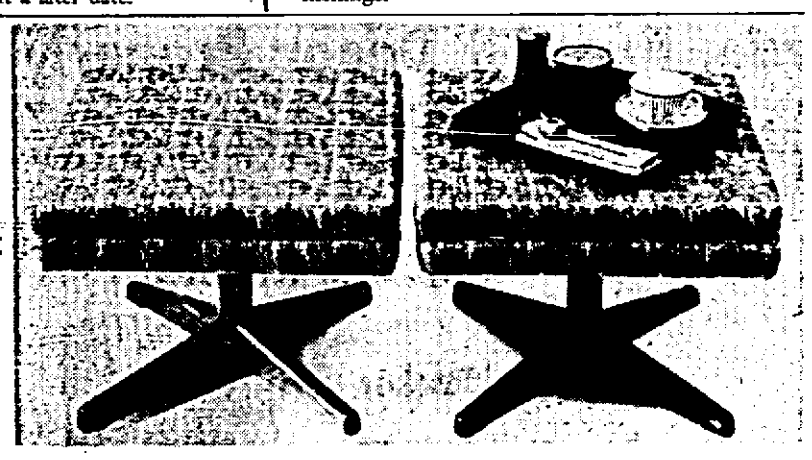

Rug Label Tells All

Read carpet labels carefully when you shop. They contain valuable information such as exact fiber content, country of origin (or where the carpet was made) and usually the color name, brand name and pattern designation. Save these for future reference in cleaning or repairing carpets, or matching pattern and color at a later date.

ADDS MUCH TO DECOR

A quality all-wool rug executed in traditional design underscores the return to elegance in interior decoration. This Masland Wilton is in a familiar pattern that will match the gracious quality of fine period reproductions or mate subtly with the genteel lines of provincial furnishings.

FOR OCCASIONAL SEATING

For use alone or in pairs as extra occasional seating, this ottoman by DUX Inc. has pedestal base available in solid walnut or solid teak. The seat is foam rubber. Sylve Stenquist designed the ottoman for use either as extra seating or as a foot rest with a chair.

Custom Order Rugs Fit Decor Properly

Would you like to have your monogrammed initials carved into the plush pile of your carpet? Or your family crest designed in the surface yarns?

These ideas, and countless others, are entirely possible today through the custom services offered by a number of leading carpet and rug manufacturers.

Custom requests are not usually based on mere whimsy, however. More and more homeowners are ordering custom rugs to find just exactly the color they want, to get a large, seamless carpet to fit a room exactly, to achieve an individual design or texture.

* * * *

CARPET MILLS today are turning out more colors, textures and styles than ever before, and in most cases this volume production includes just what a customer wants.

However, there is always the excitement of owning a "one-of-a-kind" rug, or the practical value of finding a very unusual color to fit in with existing furnishings, or having a carpet made to fit a room with an unusual shape.

Custom orders are placed through decorators or through stores offering this service. Generally, a color swatch or design sketch is sent for approval, and the custom order is completed within four to six weeks after confirmation.

The cost? Less than you might think. Many custom rugs cost no more or very little more per square yard than top-quality carpet regularly stocked in stores, and no minimum yardage is required for a custom order.

Beaded Curtains in Style Again

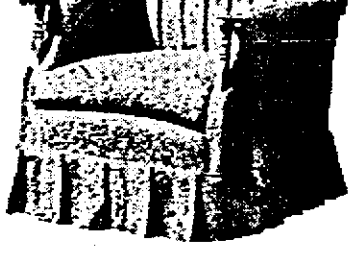

Beaded curtains are back—and you can string your own and make them as gay or as subdued as you wish. And you can use them in any room in the house. They are particularly attractive in bathrooms, dressing rooms, the kitchen and entry halls.

STORYBOOK BEAUTY IN DINETTE
Homemakers can be "empresses" with this new Corinthian collection by Daystrom in which romantic Gothic puts true storybook beauty in dinettes. Proportioned after the tower arches of Rheims Cathedral, Gothic arches are newest in dinette chairs.

Rugs Sold on Credit

Investigate sensible credit terms when you buy a carpet or rug.

Most retailers offer a variety of credit plans, from a 90-day extended charge account to two- or three-year credit for a large purchase.

For example, for just $15 a month for 36 months, you can have good-quality wall-to-wall carpeting for a heavy traffic living room, 15x20 feet. That includes the cost of padding and installation.

Costs for carpet in lower-traffic areas will be even less—as low as $1 per square yard, per month, for just 12 months.

DREAM BEDROOM IS OFFERED
French provincial in white and gold makes this appealing bedroom a dream come true at Herron's Furniture, 4134 Orange Ave. The bed is equipped with a new Sealy Posturpedic mattress. The mattress firm recently awarded many vacation trips to Las Vegas and Mrs. Gwendolyn Hoar, 1520 Park Ave., found her lucky number at Herron's and won one of the trips.

Use of Good Padding Is Very Important for Your Rug Wear

Homemakers who have finally completed their selection of new carpeting find that their next question is:

"What kind of padding should I buy?"

Though the use of good padding is vital to a completely satisfactory carpet installation, its selection is much simpler than picking out the carpet. The only factors to consider are the performance and value features.

Carpet paddings are made of a variety of materials. They include: Felted hair, or combinations of jute and hair, or all-jute; sponge rubber; foam rubber and plastic foam products.

• • • •

THE FELTED HAIR paddings have long been the most popular underlay material. They are durable, resilient and cushiony, but at the same time give firm support to the carpet, helping it to resist buckling or giving away too easily under foot pressure.

The all-hair pads are frequently recommended as they are reasonably priced and are the most durable of the felted products. The jute-hair combinations are usually lower-priced than all-hair pads, though not as durable, and are considered good buys for short-term installations. All-jute padding, though cheapest, is the least durable, and sometimes tends to mat under the carpet.

The felted paddings are made in various weights based on the number of ounces per square yard. They range from 32 ounces to 86 ounces. Normally, a 40-ounce pad will be completely adequate for most areas in a home.

• • • •

THE RUBBER PADDINGS come in a variety of thicknesses and forms. Some have a completely flat surface, while others have a rippled or indented texture.

Most rubber paddings tend to be more springy or "bouncy" than the felted underlays. Carpet installers feel that though this feature is desirable to a degree, they generally recommend those rubber and felted pads which give firmer support to foot pressure than those which dip sharply or give away too easily.

They also favor rubber paddings which feature a surface of burlap or scrim fabrics which are molded to one side. These underlays are laid with the fabric side up, which permits the carpet to stretch tautly and evenly over the padding during installation.

• • • •

IN GENERAL, the better grades of rubber paddings are priced higher than the felted carpet cushions. A good quality rubber pad will give long-term service, is mildewproof, moth-proof and non-allergenic.

Another type of padding is made of felted hair impregnated with foam rubber. This underlay combines advantages of both the felted and rubber cushions.

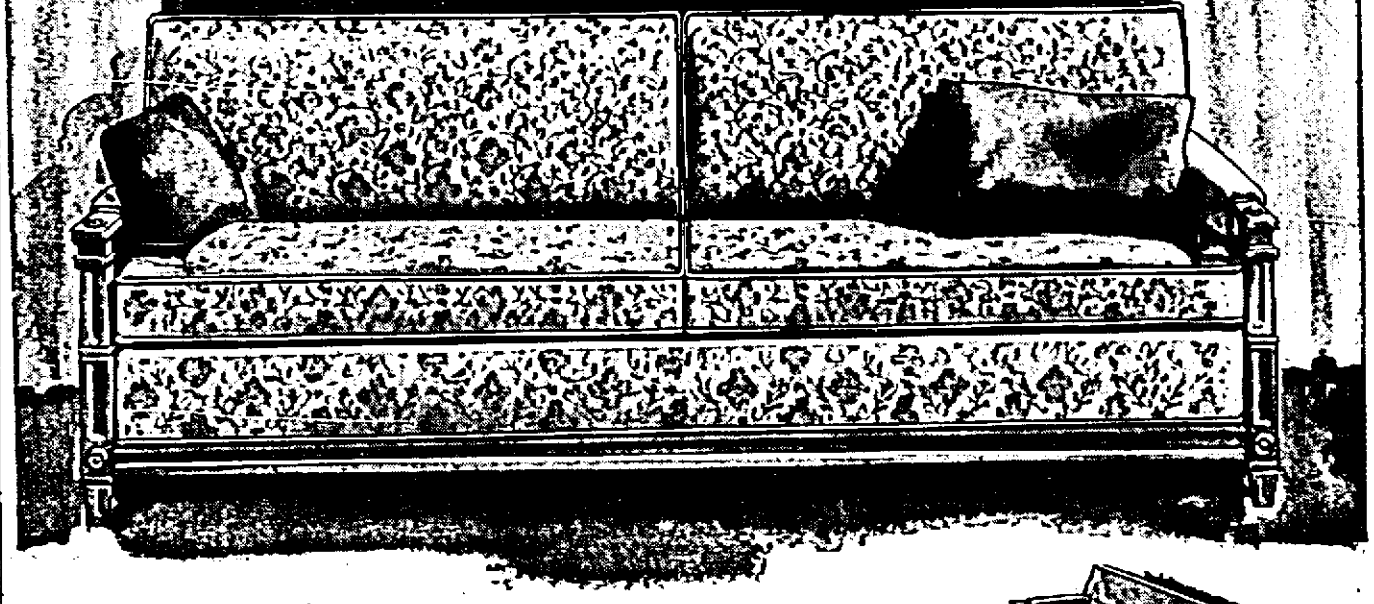

Some carpets offered today have the padding bonded to the back. While some of these carpets are good values, do not be deceived by a loosely constructed carpet that seems thicker because of the padding attached.

All carpet buyers should beware of falling into the trap of skimping on the carpet quality and attempt to compensate with a thick padding.

There's High Style for Sofa-Beds Now

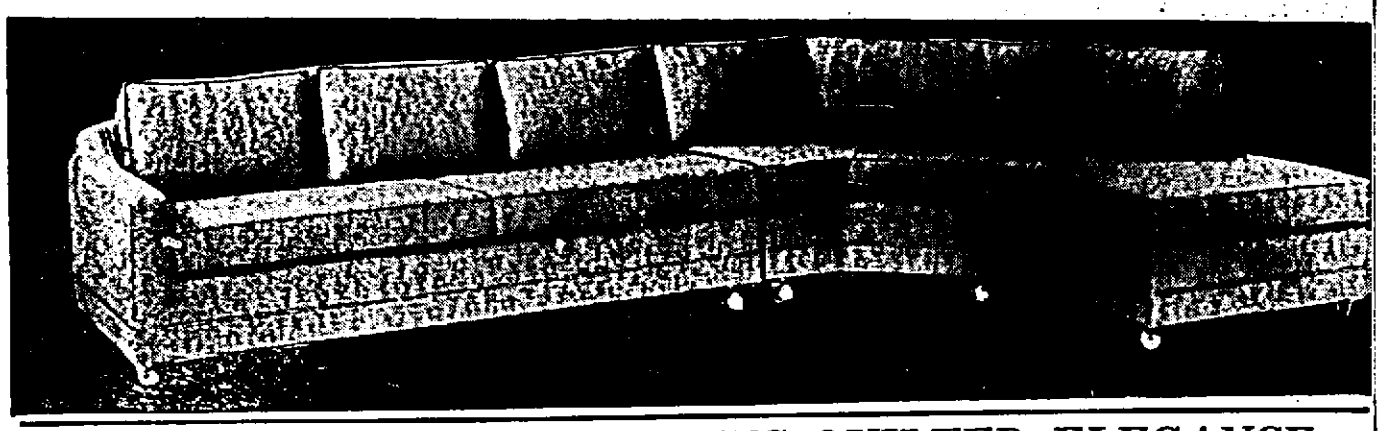

The sofa-bed, for so long designed mostly for dens, guest rooms or the youngsters' room, have come into their own as high fashion furniture this season. Many manufacturers of dual-purpose or convertible sofas who exhibit specially for furniture dealers at the Los Angeles Home Furnishings Mart have introduced some beauties recently.

Style range is broad and as for periods you can find them in modern, French Provincial, Victorian, contemporary, Italian and Spanish. Decorative details have been carefully worked out and cover selections are rich.

Today's hide-a-beds or sofa beds or convertible beds are much more at home in the living room in their new elegance, than they are in the den.

Extra Seats

Hassocks are eye-deceiving these days. Many of them have the "furniture look." Others look fragile but are everything but that because they are actually durable storage pieces that double as extra seating units.

FITS ANY HOME DECOR

The newest musical instrument that blends well with home furnishings is the low-cost spinet organ in mahogany cabinetry styled to go with casual or elegant furniture. Made by Hammond, the spinet has many features found on the company's more expensive models. This organ is shown at Hammond Organ Studios of Long Beach, 2188 Lakewood Blvd.

Give Your Bedrooms Styling

Since they are usually "last on the list" of decorating plans—when time, ideas and even budgets are running low—bedrooms tend to have an unimaginative, all-the-same look that can strike a discordant note in an otherwise harmonious home decor.

Despite the fact that all bedrooms inevitably have the same basic furnishings—for isn't this true of living and dining rooms as well?—each one should, and can, have its own individual style. With a fresh approach towards bedroom furnishings, you can plan a beautiful, comfortable and distinctive room that is a pleasure to live in and a pride to show off.

DISCARD THE OLD decorating formulas which call for "matched suites" of bedroom furniture. Look instead for well-designed pieces which combine without matching, for a more interesting room. Try the new look of a shapely painted headboard, and top it with an asymmetrical arrangement of three-dimensional wall plaques instead of the conventional pair of framed prints. Latest wall accessories include several charming floral-spray designs, with graceful lines that make them especially appropriate in a bedroom. The variety of styles and sizes, available in a choice of white, gold or walnut finishes, offers the raw material from which to assemble a highly individual wall arrangement to suit your taste, and your room, to perfection.

For an eyecatching change-of-pace, break with the tradition of placing a mirror over the dresser—instead, frame a tall mirror-panel and use it as a striking headboard, letting it reflect an attractive pair of sconces or arrangement of artificial flowers which decorate the wall above the dresser.

• • • •

COLORFUL PRINTED fabrics are replacing shy pastels in bringing a bright new look to bedroom decor. An elegant polished cotton bed-spread can provide a focal point to set the color scheme for an entire room.

SPANISH TOUCH

Reminiscent of the Old Spanish Trail Days, this 45-inch Rembrandt table lamp is a combination of wrought iron and ranch oak wood. The shade is a Spanish print in multi-tones of brown.

TV Recliners Are Offered

Half a dozen styles of high-legged TV recliners were introduced at the Winter Market at the Los Angeles Home Furnishings Mart by a famed furniture manufacturer and many Southern California dealers ordered them for their stores.

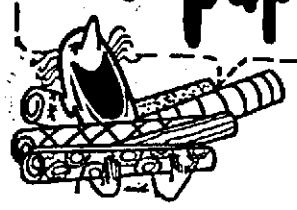

The chairs, which reflect contemporary and transitional design, have a lighter, more sculptured look than the regular line of this manufacturer's recliners. They have been added to the Viscount group put out by the company and which is composed only of rockers, thereby filling out this collection.

BRINGS TOUCH OF MEDITERRANEAN

This luxurious quilted three-piece curved sectional sofa is representative of the new Mediterranean feeling so prominent in 1963 furniture fashions. It combines the feling of, and can be used with, Italian provincial . . . French provincial . . . Spanish . . . and transitional styles. It's just one of the many new 1963 showings to be found at the big downtown Leo Shulz "Acre of Furniture," Seventh Street and Long Beach Boulevard.

There's New Look in Luxurious Living

Luxurious living has come of age.

A new sophistication in furniture designs is evident in a duet of Lane collections for the bedroom and dining room.

Each of these new furniture collections portrays the look of luxury defined in their own distinctive styles.

The new "Venetian" bedroom ensemble combines contemporary craftsmanship with Italian artistry. Individually, the "Venetian" pieces have a smart decorator look; collectively, they create a romantic atmosphere in the decor.

"VENETIAN" is offered in a choice of brushed, painted finishes. Antique white, French grey or charcoal provide a delicate background for custom-carved designs of flutes and garlands in antique gold. The gold is repeated on the deep, bold mouldings framing doors and drawers. Handsome carvings in water lily patterns form the drawer pulls.

Two handsome pieces—a richly carved mirror and an open work headboard—are artfully fashioned in gold leaf.

Disability Payments

When you get hurt and can't work!

ACCIDENT INSURANCE

Only 50¢ A MONTH

Provided as a Reader Service of Independent Press-Telegram

HERE IS WHAT YOU CAN COLLECT
In accordance with policy terms

MINOR ACCIDENTS	When there is no disability, policy covers your doctor bill expense up to $15.00 (limit $3.00 per visit); plus X-ray expense up to $10.00.
DISABLING ACCIDENTS Include HOSPITAL EXPENSE	For most accidents at home, at work, at play, etc. Disability Benefits up to $120.00 at $30.00 per month; X-ray expenses up to $10.00; Ambulance expenses up to $10.00; PLUS Hospital Benefits to $200.00 at $5.00 per day. Maximum total $440.00. For Auto and Pedestrian Accidents maximum total increased to $620.00; for other Specified Travel Accident, maximum $920.00.
FATAL ACCIDENTS	$500.00 for most accidents at home, at work, at play, etc. $1,000.00 for Auto, Pedestrian, certain Specified Travel accidents. Up to $10,000.00 for other specified Travel accidents.
MONTHLY INCREASE	Important Death Benefits increase 1% each month you are insured—up to 50% maximum.
ELIGIBILITY	Issued to men, women and children between ages 1 and 70—except those who have lost both hands or feet or sight of both eyes.
LIMITATIONS	Benefits reduced one half after 65th birthday. No reduction in benefits first year.
EXCEPTIONS	Benefits paid in accordance with terms of policy form HM 7624 UA which is renewable at option of Company. Does not cover accidents in a mine; in railroad yard or train except as fare-paying passenger; warfare; auto races; expense items paid under Compensation insurance.

It costs a whale of a lot to be laid up by an accident—any kind of accident. When the family bread-winner is hurt and can't work, his income is usually reduced or stopped entirely. Result? The family savings are drained so much that it may take years to recover from the high accident costs.

Bills for medical treatments, X-rays, hospital rooms, wheel chairs and a dozen other unexpected expenses, take a big chunk out of anyone's hard-earned savings.

This insurance is designed to help you solve the Accident Expense Problem. this policy—at a cost of little more than a penny a day does pay the benefits shown below, for accidents at work, at home, in your automobile, on the street, and even at play.

Hundreds of claims are paid every week to men and women, like yourself, who never expected to be hurt. But they realized that, since one American in every 12 gets hurt each year, they just couldn't afford to be without this low-cost protection.

On the Cover

Ramona, an Indian girl who became famous in California legends, is our cover girl today in the person of Marsha Moode, 19-year-old straight A scholarship drama major at USC. Allesandro (Maurice Jara) is shown leading her into the mountains to escape the invading whites who have deprived them of their home and possessions. This is one of the many dramatic scenes that have made the "Ramona Outdoor Play"—now being staged weekends at Hemet—one of the most beautiful and heart-appealing dramas of its kind. For more about the Ramona Play, see Page 7.

WHAT YOUR NAME MEANS

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif., for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

DEAR MISS RULE: My mother never misses your column. Would you surprise her with brief data on VAN DER LAAN?—A.D., Bellflower.

A.D.: VAN DER LAAN, old Dutch in background, was first assumed by this family from their manorial estate. Their property was named for a beautiful and outstanding landmark on the grounds, for "Van der Laan" deciphers as "from the place of the avenue of trees."

DEAR MISS RULE: What have you on LIVEZEY? — L.L., Long Beach.

L.L.: LIVEZEY was adopted by this family's founder from his home village of Livesey in Lancashire, England. This locality name originated in Anglo-Saxon Britain as Leofes-haeg, meaning "beloved one's homestead." The town of Livesey was owned by this family as their manorial estate in the middle 1500s. The family shield is silver, decorated with a rampant red lion placed between three green 3-leafed rosettes.

DEAR MISS RULE: Have you the origin of MARGIOTTA?—F.S., Huntington Beach.

F.S.: MARGIOTTA is an unusual Italian surname traced to a female ancestor called Margarita meaning "The Pearl." Margarita was shortened to the nickname Margi in the Middle Ages. To this was added a further nickname ending "-otta."

DEAR MISS RULE: Please explain EDWARDS. — H.H., Long Beach.

H.E.: EDWARDS, an English surname, is from an ancestor baptized Ead-Weard, or "prosperous guardian." A long line of English kings named Edward gave impetus to the use of the name. The main family shield has a gold rampant lion on an ermine covered background. Matthew Edwards of England arrived at Massachusetts in 1637. Numerous modern Edwards lineages are descendants of his nine children.

DEAR MISS RULE: Could you give the origin of STEINER?—Mrs. D. S., Long Beach.

D. S.: STEINER, a German surname, was a verbalized term for "stone cutter," referring to a skilled artisan who shaped stone for public buildings and churches in bygone centuries. The Steiner coat-of-arms, granted in Switzerland, has a silver mountain goat poised on three green mountain peaks, as an emblem on a red shield.

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly give data on BRIGHT, BRITT and BRITE.—L. B., L. D., Long Beach; R. C., Garden Grove.

L. B., L. D., R. C.: BRIGHT and the allied surnames BRITT and BRITE are from the ancient Anglo-Saxon baptismal name Beorht, used in England over twelve centuries ago. Beorht, meaning "brilliant one," is recorded as early as A.D. 699 when Beorht, a Northumbrian nobleman, was slain by the Picts in England. The coat-of-arms of the Brights of Cheshire has three blue centered spur rowels or stars on a blue shield. The Britt shield from Devonshire is black, emblazoned with a silver horizontal stripe between three gold seashells.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like the origin of BURTON.—W. B., Bellflower.

W. B.: BURTON ancestry is from the Baron Ingenulf de Burton. He accompanied William the Conqueror when the Norman French captured England in 1066. This family resided in Leicestershire many centuries. James de Burton was granted the family shield in 1190 for services in the Crusades. The Burton shield is blue, emblazoned with a silver crescent and a pattern of silver stars. The family motto "Lux vitae" means "Light in our lives." Sir William Burton was standard bearer to King Henry VI (1422-1471). John Burton, born in England in 1608, settled in Salem, Mass., in 1636. The original name "Beorht-tun" deciphers as "brilliant one's enclosure or estate." An alternate origin, "Bertin" means "little brilliant one."

DEAR MISS RULE: Kindly analyze HANEY.—J. H., Downey.

J. H.: HANEY, a euphonious surname, was brought to England by the Vikings in the early 10th century. One of their original homes in Lincolnshire was titled "Hagnaby," meaning "village of the man of the high-born race." Hagnaby was subsequently shortened to Hanney and Haney. The Haney shield is blue, emblazoned with a gold chevron between three gold rampant half-lions.

DEAR MISS RULE: Would like data on AVERY and the shield.—P. S., Long Beach.

P. S.: AVERY originated as the early English warrior name Alberic meaning "noble, brilliant and rich." An Alberic is listed as a Tenant-in-chief in the 11th century English Domesday Book census. Avery's alternate meaning is "elf ruler," from "Aelf-ric." Ralph Avery, an ancestor, lived at Oxford in 1273. The family shield from Somerset is red, emblazoned with a gold stripe between three gold coins. Jacob Avery sailed from England for Virginia in 1635.

Music for Mexico

James E. Son is director of Son's Long Beach Junior Concert Band, top youth group.

By Betty Hardesty

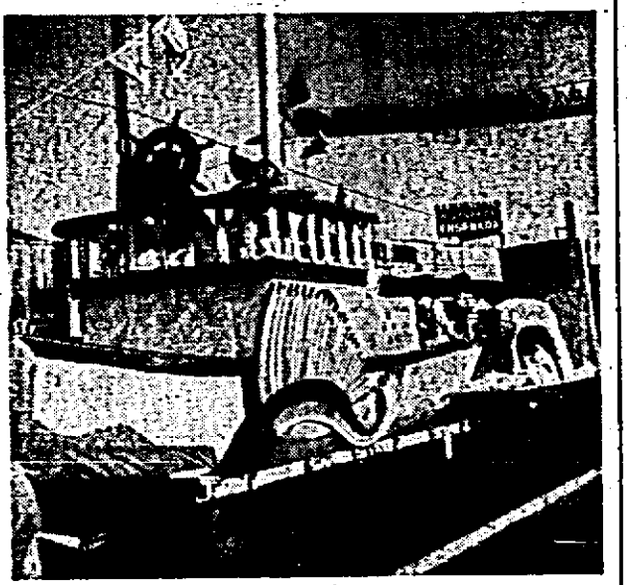

SON'S Long Beach Junior Concert Band will march in the Cinco de Mayo Parade, on May 5th, in Ensenada as a goodwill exchange sponsored by the Long Beach City Council.

During the patriotic fiesta celebrating the Mexican anniversary of the victory over the French at Puebla, the afternoon parade will feature Mexican floats, horsemen, soldiers in formation, bands and pompom girls. Tourists also will delight in observing the natives in holiday attire, venders with pushcarts, and the carnival booths and amusements set up around the plaza.

On the evening of May 4 from the park's central platform, the Long Beach Youth Band will play a special concert including "Stars and Stripes Forever," a medley of Latin-American tunes and a saxophone quartet. Director James E. Son plans programs and music, much of which he arranges, and marches in all parades. Alert and erect in his all white uniform, his 80 years invoke admiration and loyalty from all who follow him.

SON'S BAND has won 22 sweepstakes and 24 first place awards during 231 appearances, 185 of which were non-competitive. Last year the group made 45 public appearances, traveling 2500 miles. Annually, they participate in the Pasadena Rose Parade, the Los Angeles County Fair at Pomona, and Hollywood Bowl competitions as members of the Southern California Youth Band Council in which they have qualified for the "advanced" classification meet scheduled for June 8. On June 31, they march for the American Legion convention in Long Beach.

Preparations are now in quick time for the Cinco de Mayo Festival with music practice and marching drills for a benefit to raise funds for transportation to Mexico.

Float (above) is from past parade at Ensenada where Son's band will play and march as a goodwill gesture.

Inter-American Friendship: Annie White and Merrilyn Erstine assume representative pose for Cinco de Mayo fiesta in which band in which they play will appear.

A band concert will be given at 8 p.m. April 27, in the Municipal Auditorium Concert Hall.

The city council has helped this band annually, last year paying transportation bills of $750. Other donations in 1962 totaled $1,638. A monthly assessment of $2 each is required of instrumentalists and $1 for flag and pompon girls in order to support the "—mutual, non-profit organization" which proudly carries the name and seal of Long Beach.

FIVE banner-bearer girls lead the parade followed by 11 flag girls and 18 pompon pretties in costumes of aqua velveteen with cap sleeves and scalloped skirts worn full over ruffled white net petticoats. Boy and girl instrumentalists have black uniforms decorated with white braid and wear white shoes and feather plumes in their caps. Band members, aged 13 to 20, must maintain above-average grades in their schools: 11 junior and 12 senior high schools and four colleges located in Long Beach and adjacent communities. There are more on a waiting list.

Outside House Painting Now Eliminated

Another boon of the space age has been accomplished for the homeowner . . . an exterior wall coating so tough and durable that it is guaranteed to totally eliminate exterior house painting for over 10 years. This remarkable textured coating is Fiberglas FLEXON.

BEST IN NATION

Homeowners are requested not to spend a single penny on painting their residence until they hear the FLEXON STORY. This remarkable material insulates, waterproofs and beautifies, and every Fiberglas FLEXON job is factory guaranteed for 10 full years against chipping, flaking, or peeling.

FLEXON the miracle exterior wall coating is so indestructible and durable that it is absolutely guaranteed to eliminate the necessity for painting the outside walls of your home, apartment building or commercial property for 10 full years. This outstanding product when applied is approximately 20 times the thickness of ordinary paint and makes a wall surface that resists all climatic extremes.

Fiberglas, a product of Owens-Corning, brings to FLEXON its great strength its wonderful insulating properties, its resistance to time, weather, and chemical attack.

PROVEN OVER MANY YEARS

FLEXON is one of the oldest, tried and true coatings now being marketed and has been applied on thousands of homes and commercial buildings. These buildings have remained in perfect condition after more than 10 years exposure in all types of weather.

The United States Government and many large corporations such as U.S. Steel Corporation, Aluminum Corporation of America, Pacific Telephone, and Shell Oil Company, are included on the honor roll of FLEXON users.

SHOT FROM A GUN

FLEXON is applied with special heavy duty spray equipment and is actually "shot from a gun" without muss, fuss or odor. FLEXON fuses itself to the wall surface and fills holes, cracks and covers building defects.

When Michele Nelson, 12, drew her grandmother, she worked in "Grammy's" quilting hobby, as shown above.

HOBBIES

Quilts for Queens

By Irma McCall

LET THOSE who will pamper African violets, allemande right and left, or collect stamps from Samarkand. The perfect hobby for Mrs. Harry A. Smith, 274 Argonne Ave., is making quilts beautiful enough for a royal boudoir.

To help adjust to widowhood 10 years ago, Mrs. Smith looked for some absorbing new interest. While wandering through Marshall Field's one day she noticed a gay orange and while quilt, the Poppy pattern. She bought the makings and with no instruction, completed the pretty coverlet.

She was hooked!

Now she is working on her 30th quilt, as fascinated as ever.

"I put my thoughts and my prayers into the stitches," she says. "And I've taught seven other widows to make quilts. They have found contentment too."

ALTHOUGH handmade quilts are worth from $125 to $300, Mrs. Smith has never sold one, choosing to give them to close friends and relatives. The attractive Living Rose pattern brightens a bedroom of her sister-in-law, Mrs. D. W. Tripeny, with whom she lives. Nine eager granddaughters have declared, "Grammy, save Jack and Jill, Golden Eagle or Apple Blossom for me!" Grammy embroiders the moppet's name on her quilt. Grandsons? Certainly; her four tads demand their favorites. Because twin beds are popular she makes the quilts in pairs.

Asked at school to draw a picture of Grandmother, each young artist invariably pictures Grammy working with her needle.

Vivid color delights Mrs. Smith, but her favorite is pale pink. An insomniac should quickly drift to Dreamland after cuddling under the Enchanted Garden aglow with morning glories, lilacs, poppies, gladioluses and roses. Kids love Jack and Jill tumbling down the Storybook hill.

The Camellia, requiring intricate stitching, takes three months to complete. Mrs. Smith once finished a Daisy pattern in 15 days.

"MY PARENTS were Danish," she explains, "and I remember in our home in Illinois, there was a crocheted edge on everything that would take it. We used embroidered and crocheted table cloths as a matter of course. When I was 10 years old, I knitted a pair of socks for my father using four needles. If some babies are born with a silver spoon in their mouths, I must have been born with a needle."

Friends urge this gifted needlewoman to exhibit her work at the Los Angeles County Fair at Pomona and bring home stacks of blue ribbons. But serene Grammy stitches, not for glory but for the joy of creating something beautiful.

'Uncle Tom's Cabin' of the American Indian

The Return of Ramona

By Hal Wiener

Senora Moreno played by Fanchon Jennings, pleads with Ramona, heroine of the Ramona Pageant and played by Marsha Moode, to give up her Indian lover.

THE RAMONA outdoor play, inaugurating its 36th annual season Saturday and continuing this afternoon, April 27 and 28, and May 4 and 5, in Ramona Bowl in the hills above Hemet, is more than just a beautiful love story of the Indian maiden and her lover; it is the saga of a people despoiled of their birthright; a hymn of hope foreshadowing a brighter day, and a sweep of history.

The gifted pen of Helen Hunt Jackson brought the story to life more than half a century ago. She followed the factual outline but supplied the missing links with her sensitive imagination.

The period of her novel centered around 1850, but the incidents on which she based this story actually took place around 1870.

THE NOVEL was written to show the injustices heaped upon the California Indians by the invading white men.

It became known as the "Uncle Tom's Cabin" of the American Indian. Though the play is well known to many thousands who have enjoyed the spectacle in the Ramona Bowl during the last 35 years, it may be well to recap the story line of this fascinating return to California of the Spanish era, when the state was young and just emerging into a period of greatness.

The play is told in episodic form. Act I shows the unhappy time at the rancho of Senora Moreno. Felipe, her only son, is critically ill, and Juan Canito, overseer of the rancho, is helpless with a broken leg. Father Salvedierra, aged padre, is about to leave, after what must be his last trip.

In Episode II, happier times seem to have arrived. Felipe is recovered, Alessandro, in charge of the workers, has the work of the rancho well in hand, and Juan Canito tells Alessandro that Ramona, whom Alessandro loves, is really part Indian. Ramona discovers Marguerita, flirtatious maid servant, attempting to win the attention of Alessandro. She reveals her own feelings for the Indian, by her concern over this discovery.

THE SENORA, who has never really been fond of Ramona, attempts to break up this romance.

In Episode III, a fiesta takes place at the rancho to celebrate Felipe's recovery. Ramona tells Allessandro of the senora's unkindness to her. In an emotional moment he declares his love for her, and they embrace. The senora discovers them. In a rage, she sends Alessandro from the rancho, and tells Ramona she will be sent to a convent unless she gives up her Indian lover. She forces her son Felipe into agreement with her plan.

The opening of Act II finds Alessandro telling Ramona that his home at Temecula has been destroyed and his father killed by desperados. Although he has returned to say farewell, Ramona, who knows about her Indian blood, insists that he take her with him to live among his own people. He consents, and the two lovers depart together from the rancho.

The next scene is two years later. Ramona and Alessandro have settled

Play's theme is mistreatment of Indians by whites. Here, Ed Hayton (Ben Mapes) offers Ramona and Alessandro (Maurice Jara) a small sum for land.

With her husband dead, Ramona returns to rancho and Felipe, played by Bill Rose, asks her to wed him over objections of the Senora, his mother.

The Curfew Will Ring Tonight

Juvenile pair gets a quick going-over and questioning by police officers in this posed photo demonstrating procedures used in checking youths found on streets after curfew in many Southland cities.

By Don Maddock

CURFEW will ring tonight, as it does every night, for thousands of area young people.

Long Beach, Wilmington, San Pedro, Lakewood, Bellflower, Norwalk, Santa Fe Springs and La Mirada—to mention only a few—have ordinances designed to keep boys and girls under age 18 from loitering late at night in autos or afoot.

Enforcement ranges from strict to spotty.

Orange County and its cities have similar laws and the county, unlike Los Angeles County, prosecutes parents who let their children become chronic violators.

Sgt. Robert J. Bumgartner, sheriff's juvenile officer, terms the curfew "great stuff." It's enforced, only when juveniles are on the streets without good reason.

"Going to and from activities, and stopping for chow, is legitimate and we don't enforce the curfew then," Bumgartner said.

—Staff Photos by Dick Tolbert

Capt. Paul Lansdowne of Long Beach police juvenile division explains the curfew.

HE ADDED THAT a movement is under way for Orange County and all its cities to standardize their curfews, as to the hour, conditions and enforcement. Some cities, such as San Juan Capistrano, have a 9:30 p. m. deadline although most observe 10 p. m.

Almost every Southland community has an ordinance which parallels that of Long Beach:

"No person under the age of 18 years shall loiter about any public place, as defined in this chapter, between the hour of 10 o'clock p. m. and the time of sunrise of the following day when not accompanied by his parent or legal guardian having legal custody and control of such person, or spouse of such person over 21 years of age."

"PUBLIC PLACE" includes any street, park, pier, beach, restaurant, cafe, theater, store, building, playground, school ground recreational area or other place to which the public is invited or has access, or any place open to public view.

The key word in each ordinance is "loiter." Each law is designed to curb serious crime, not to put unreasonable controls on the youthful citizen.

"Our ordinance assists both us and parents," Capt. Paul Landsdowne of the Long Beach Juvenile Division said.

"It very definitely cuts the amount of crime."

Since runaway children from many states head to Southern California, curfew ordinances have another important effect here.

"It's the only method we have to pick them off the streets quickly," Capt. Landsdowne stated.

MOST PARENTS appreciate availability of the law as a weapon to control their children, the juvenile authority said.

"It gives the parent an extra crutch to hold children in restraint—to meet the pressure the kids apply to stay out late," he reported.

"It works, too. I know from personal experience," parent William Mooney, the Long Beach police chief, added.

Loitering was the primary charge filed against 533 juveniles in Long Beach last year. The total included 116 girls.

All but 32 were handled in the police department's Juvenile Division through counseling and guidance, and return to their parents.

Twenty-eight delinquency petitions were requested through the probation department to Juvenile Court. Four were released to other agencies.

JUVENILE COURT action was sought only when the child had a long record of brushes with the law.

A State Penal Code section enacted in 1961 gives police a lever over recalcitrant parents. It provides for a fine of up to $1,000 and/or a year in jail for persons convicted of contributing to the delinquency of a minor—and that includes loitering.

The section rarely is used. Most apprehended loiterers are not repeat offenders, and parents of one-timers are not prosecuted.

However, each parent summoned to police headquarters to pick up his or her child is warned of the possibility of prosecution. Each also receives a copy of the anti-loitering ordinance, and signs a paper admitting awareness of the responsibilities imposed by it.

Kids on their way home from a party, dance, sports event or other legitimate activity are not bothered. They also can stop for refreshments.

"It's okay to stop at a drive-in, but not to stay," Capt. Landsdowne explained.

"It's their actions that count, not simply the hour of the night. They can be out quite late at night.

CAR CRUISING is loitering. If a police officer sees an auto pass the same point several times, its youthful occupants are likely to find themselves in custody.

"We've been encouraging good curfew arrests," Capt. Harry Labrow, Los Angeles Harbor Division commander, said. "They have a significant effect on our crime picture.

"Loitering always leads to more serious things—using and pushing pills (dangerous drugs), burglaries and robberies. We've seen it happen many times."

Capt. Labrow and Juvenile Sgt. Earl Johansen pointed to eight curfew arrests made the preceding night. The eight boys involved were found driving longshoremen's jitneys around a Wilmington dock area.

IN LINE WITH Harbor Division policy, the youths were held in the new headquarters on the Wilmington-San Pedro Road until their parents arrived to claim them, and were cited to return to the Juvenile Division the next day. They then were counseled and released.

"Juveniles hanging out late at night are the ones involved in our major crimes," Sgt. Johansen echoed Capt. Labrow. "You get them off the streets and you cut down crime."

The sergeant stressed that loitering is not confined to children from low-income families or minority groups.

Lt. Albert Natividad of the Norwalk sheriff's office admitted that deputies don't cite as many curfew violators as "some people would like."

He used the term "selective enforcement" to explain office policy.

"We will check when a problem area is brought to our attention," Lt. Natividad said. "La Mirada recently asked for strict enforcement, and our crews were briefed accordingly, but there hadn't been too much pressure elsewhere."

"Even there, if a kid seems to be walking a straight course, he'll be stopped and questioned

Change of Pace at Long Beach Festival of Fun and Fashion

Fashions Go to the Dogs!

By Vera Williams

WHAT WILL the well-dressed pooch, chimpanzee and orangutan wear this spring and summer?

Sun suits, sports outfits, surfer coats, car coats, business apparel, black ties and tails, and of course, maternity outfits.

There will be quite a lot of mink trim on appropriate costumes, and collars and harness will sparkle with jewels.

Styles for pets as well as styles for men, women and children will be displayed at the 11th annual Festival of Fun and Fashion—"The World's Largest Fashion Show"—at 8 p. m. Wednesday in the Long Beach Arena.

Pets owned by Mr. and Mrs. Daryl Keener, 1165 E. Pacific Coast Hwy., will model the smart fashions. And they also will show smart hair styles for pets: their hair will be styled by Nancy Gildea, no less.

HANUM, AN Afghan hound who is in a delicate condition (frankly, she expects puppies May 16) will wear a Gay 90s maternity outfit, gold velvet with black fringe. Sharon Marlo, TV and movie actress, who will appear on the stage with Hanum, also will wear a Gay 90s costume.

Nappy, a cafe au lait (coffee with cream) poodle, will wear a gray wool cocktail jacket, with a mink belt and mink trim on the collar, and a gray felt hat with a flower.

Jacques, black miniature poodle, will be nautically attired in a blue sailor suit with a blue tam.

Chester, a chimp, will wear formal black tie and tails. And plans call for Sharon Marlo, accompanying him, to wear a silver lame gown.

THAT GETS US to Gus, the orangutan. Gus has a big fat belly and it's a little hard to find a costume that will fit him. Probably he will appear at the fashion show in jeans and a T-shirt.

Chester, a five-year veteran of stage and screen, played in "Five Weeks in a Balloon," "Girls a Poppin'" and "Black Zoo." He has been on the Art Linkletter, and Groucho Marx shows. He is back from New York where he made 141 personal appearances. For the record, Mayor Robert Wagner met him at the airport with a band—which is more than Mayor Wagner ever did for you or me.

Chester is quite a pin-up boy, too. His picture will appear on a record number of 1964 and 1965 calendars.

Gus also gets around. He has been in movies and TV, and last November Tau Kappa Epsilon at Long Beach State College ran him for Suave-Man-About-the-Campus honors. He was introduced as Rudy Farquhard, an anthropology major. Gus might have been elected, too, if he hadn't been disqualified because he hadn't attended classes. It is whispered that next fall a pledge will be assigned to attend classes in his name, and Gus will run again.

MISS MARLO, the blonde who will accompany the animals on stage, appeared in "Ladies' Man" and "Cinderfella" with Jerry Lewis; "Mad, Mad World"; "Girls, Girls, Girls" with Elvis Presley, and "State Fair" with Pat Boone. She has been in 52 TV shows, including the Steve Allen Show, the Al Jarvis Show, "Death Valley Days," "Have Gun, Will Travel" and "Wagon Train."

Pets and their fashions will be only part of the Festival of Fun and Fashion, presented by Downtown Long Beach Associates with Long Beach Naval Shipyard Employes Assn.

Long Beach and Hollywood models will show the latest swimwear, summer, marina and baby doll fashions. Pamela Mason, hostess on her own TV and radio shows, will comment. Models will include Stanny Van Baer, Miss IBC of 1962.

A STAR-STUDDED, 250-member cast will present a variety show. Entertainers—hold your breath!—will include Jonathan Winters, Jayne Mansfield, Jane Powell, Vivian Duncan (the Eva part of the Duncan Sisters), Bobby Burgess and Barbara Boylan of the Lawrence Welk show; James Bradley Jr., 4-year-old drummer prodigy; Calls Ballroom Dancers, and the Gala Lads, international barbershop quartet

Sharon Marlo and Gus, the orangutan (all dressed up but Sharon isn't), cuts in on the big dog fashion show act.

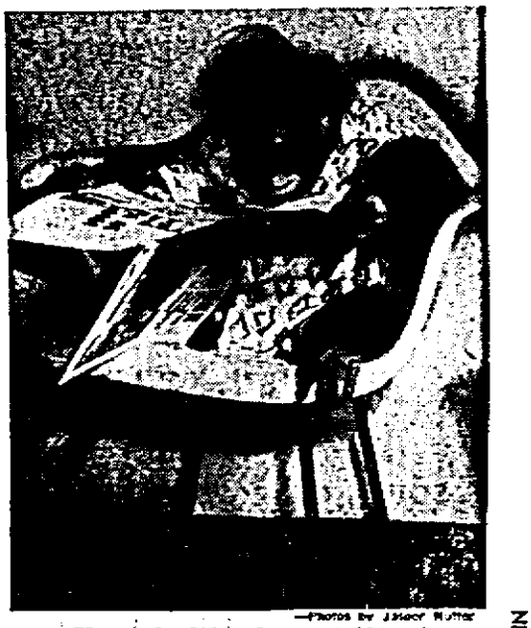

Hanum, an Afghan, models latest in raincoats and caps for dogs. Red, checked rain gear is popular for pooches.

Mrs. Jacques, miniature poodle, primps before mirror, in her mink-trimmed coat.

Nappy, cafe au lait poodle, is snug in blue and gold car coat, stylish chapero.

Chester, the Chimp does sport shirt and jeans and relaxes with a good magazine.

LIBRARY WEEK SLEUTHING REVEALS

Reading Is a Personal Thing

By Roberta Nichols

IT WAS 1936 the Depression was supposedly dragging itself to a weary end. In Long Beach auto sales and construction were on the upswing. But in Ohio a young mother was hospitalized. Diagnosis: Malnutrition. She had consistently given most of the family's relief foods to three small sons. California was wondering if it should guard its borders against an influx of drouth area refugees.

It was in 1936 that the United States refused to dip the flag or give a Nazi salute to Chancellor Hitler at the Berlin Olympics parade. As if they had not suffered enough already, people partook liberally of Little Orphan Annie's daily newspaper martyrdom. For glamour there was Jean Harlow at local theaters. But that cost money.

Big news downtown was that the old Carnegie Library in Lincoln Park was being repaired and enlarged with Federal aid. It had been badly damaged during the earthquake. Meanwhile, Long Beach residents were reading as they had never read before. For some it had always been a way of life. Others were discovering books for the first time and laying the foundation for future years of reading pleasure. Library books were free in a time of little money.

When the tense year was over, the library made a survey to discover what books were most popular with patrons, and in 1937 the Press-Telegram printed a partial list.

AMONG THE most often mentioned were two biographies: Victor G. Heiser's "An American Doctor's Odyssey," and journalist Negley Farson's "The Way of a Transgressor." Far in front was the novel about which people said, "The part of Rhett Butler must have been written for Clark Gable." But they also shook their heads. Margaret Mitchell's "Gone With the Wind" would be a long expensive production, no doubt with an increase in admission, and without the lure of free dishes.

So, Long Beach readers turned to other books. Mrs. Schuyler Coffin enjoyed George Santayana's "The Last Puritan," Webb Miller's "I Found No Peace," and Clifford Odet's "Three Plays." In 1962, she enjoyed "Final Verdict," by Adela Rogers St. John, and Byron Eshelman's "Death Row Chaplain," which she thinks everyone should read.

Neither of these titles dealing with lawyers and the law appears on the current list of Elsie Farris, local attorney. She enjoyed "Island," by Aldous Huxley and the rereading of "The Rich Nations and the Poor Nations," by Barbara Ward Jackson, and "Philosophy of Civilization," by Albert Schweitzer. Back in 1936 her favorites were "The Art Spirit," by Robert Henri; "Diaghileff," by Arnold Haskell, and R. H. Sampson's "The Murder of My Aunt."

TWO PROMINENT educators have continued interests manifest at the first survey. At that time, Dr. Harvey Franklin agreed with "The Nation" that I. J. Singer's "The Brothers Ashkenazi" was the finest novel of Jewish life yet published in the English language. This year he thinks so much of "Landmarks of a People," edited by Bernard Postall for Samuel Abramson that he has presented a copy to the Main Library.

In the original survey, librarians had their say, too. Earl Davis had just reread Adam Smith's "Wealth of Nations" and saw in it possibilities for the solution of many of the day's economic problems. Now retired, Davis leaves economics for another generation, devoting his time to painting and to writing genealogical books, among them "Descendants of George and Elizabeth Hobson (1707-1957)." Concentrating on history, he recommends: "The American Heritage's Book of the Pioneer Spirit."

Fay Tunison and Nora Hacker shared enthusiasm for John Gunther's "Inside Europe." Although retired, both former librarians keep up with current books. Miss Tunison particularly liked "The Agony and the Ecstasy," by Irving Stone and "The Affair," by Sir Charles Snow. Miss Hacker lists the humorous "Don't Go Away Mad," by Joseph Hayes, Glenway Westcott's "Images of Truths," and Stuart Cloete's "West with the Sun."

ANOTHER ADMIRER of the Cloete book is Harry Buffum, who confesses to reading more blueprints and trade magazines than anything else these days. However, he considers "Seven Days in May" by Fletcher Knebel to be a reading "find." In 1916, he enjoyed Barry Benefield's "Valiant is the Word for Carrie," and "Gone with the Wind."

The late Judge Walter Desmond, long a member of the Library Book Committee and an indefatigable worker for adequate library facilities reported in the survey that he found his best reading in James Hilton's "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," Walter Edmonds' "Drums Along the Mohawk," and Virginia Woolfe's "The Common Reader." Queried this year, his son, Gerald Desmond, indicated preference for "My Life in Court," by Louis Nizer, "The Making of the President," by H. T. White, an Ian Fleming's mystery, "Diamonds Are Forever."

SOUTHLAND HOMES

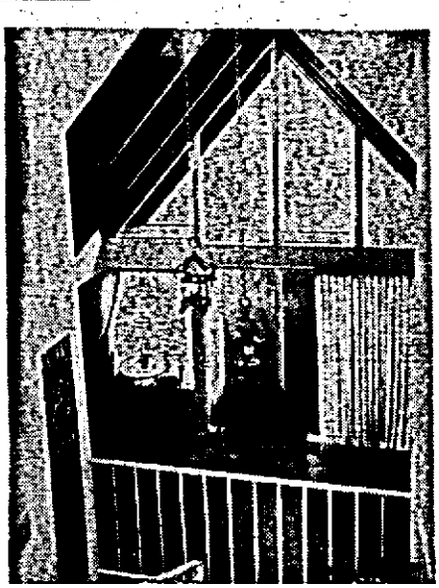

Double-Deck Living

There were changes made when Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Griffin took over a two-story house on Appian Way and converted it to their plan for better living. Right, a view of the living area, showing contemporary theme with touches of antique. Above, right, a view of the exterior of the home.

Breaching a wall opened the stairway, provided the view above from the front entry. Lightness, space and opportunity for decorative ideas were obtained by this move.

Looking down from the top of stairs, view at right shows a tiny, tea-for-two alcove at the left front of living room. A circular glass table and two chairs set the area.

By Stella George

ABOUT A YEAR AGO, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Griffin purchased a new, two-story waterfront home located at 5327 Appian Way. The downstairs area included a high, beamed-ceiling living room with floor-to-ceiling glass in the front; a dining area; kitchen, bedroom (or den) and bath. Upstairs there were two bedrooms and a bath.

Within a short time, the Griffins had a large master bedroom suite built on what was originally a spacious sun deck. They also made another structural and decorative change in the interior by having the wall removed above the stairway landing, thus opening the entire stairway area.

The interior decorating, executed by the very artistic Mrs.

Dining room arrangement shown above is a space saver. A "modern" chair at far left actually, is 79 years old.

Griffin, is smooth contemporary with an antique accent here and there. A curved, avocado-toned couch faces a streamlined table which is in front of a high Palo Verde stone fireplace. An heirloom Victorian sofa across the room adds charm and individuality to the decor.

A SMALL alcove on one side of the fireplace, facing the water, adds interest and space to the room. Here Mrs. Griffin placed a tiny round glass table and two chairs, an inviting setting for an occasional tea-for-two.

The dining area is straight ahead of the entry with the open kitchen beyond. The round dining table is teakwood with three hanging lamps of brilliant hues above. Through the sheer floor-to-ceiling white drapes the patio is faintly visible. An antique, 79-year-old chair attracts attention because of its "modern" lines. A saucy color accent on the chair is a bright orange pillow.

THE KITCHEN is small, but is so expertly designed that work area and cupboard space are comparable to or better than many in custom-built homes. The cupboards blend well with the table in the dining room, and the entire refinishing job was done by the lady of the house, the versatile Mrs. Griffin.

The downstairs den serves for TV and a dining room. With a bath nearby, it can be transformed easily into a guest room when need be.

Two small boys occupy one upstairs bedroom. The second bedroom is a study for Griffin and also a second guest room. The new master bedroom is deluxe, attractive, and comfortable.

New Picture-Dictionary for the Home Gardener

Imaginative and instructive, a gardening reference book comes to hand in new form in "A Picture Dictionary for the Home Gardener" by Andree Vilas Grabe (Hill and Wang, $4.95). More than 275 plants are illustrated and the volume is indexed to 887 plants. Lead-off pages under a section titled "New Ways to Garden," describe soil, planting and transplanting, propagation by means of division, offsets, cuttings and ground layering, and plant care. The average amateur gardener, perhaps turning to this avocation for the first time, has many questions. Here is a book with many answers in both picture and text.

ARCHITECT'S Sketchbook

Service center that's attractive and useful.

By Bill Meyerriecks

USEFUL and attractive, a Hospitality Serv-Center should make a hit with the the lady of the house. And it's easy to construct from a plan.

The Serv-Center is a compact place to prepare a quick snack for the family in the playroom or for guests in the living room. It can provide a utility counter and storage in the kitchen as well.

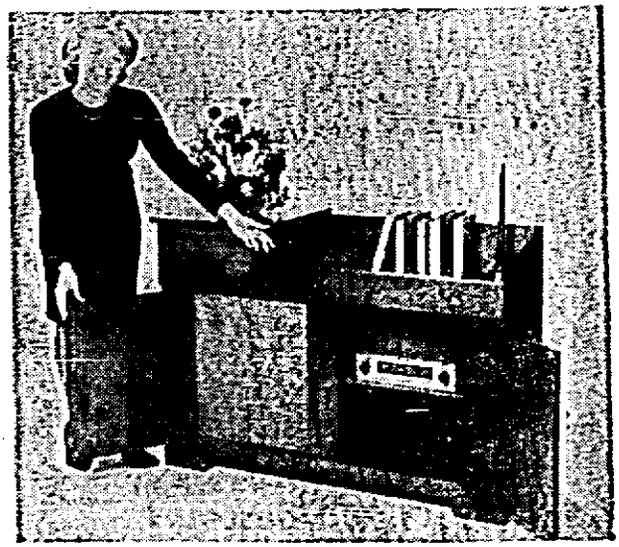

The Serv-Center consists of three sections for storage and a dropdown front for service. It hooks easily to any wall by means of an independent, mounted hang-strip.

The left side section, consisting of four snug drawers, is planned for guest items such as napkins, coasters, silver and other utensils, as well as for playing cards, chips and score pads.

The wide middle section, with the cut-back shelf, holds glasses, cups and plates and still leaves room (at the cut-back area) for several large bottles or the coffee-maker. The open area third section at the right houses an ice bucket nicely. The front of the middle and third section drops down on steady hinges, offering a fine work-and-serve shelf or ample room for a buffet setting.

The Serv-Center was designed for construction with stock lumber sizes of clear shelving or with hardwood. Detailed plans for construction, exact parts sizes, a lumber list and general finishing notes are included in Serv-Center Plan S-102, for which send 50 cents with name and address to Building Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

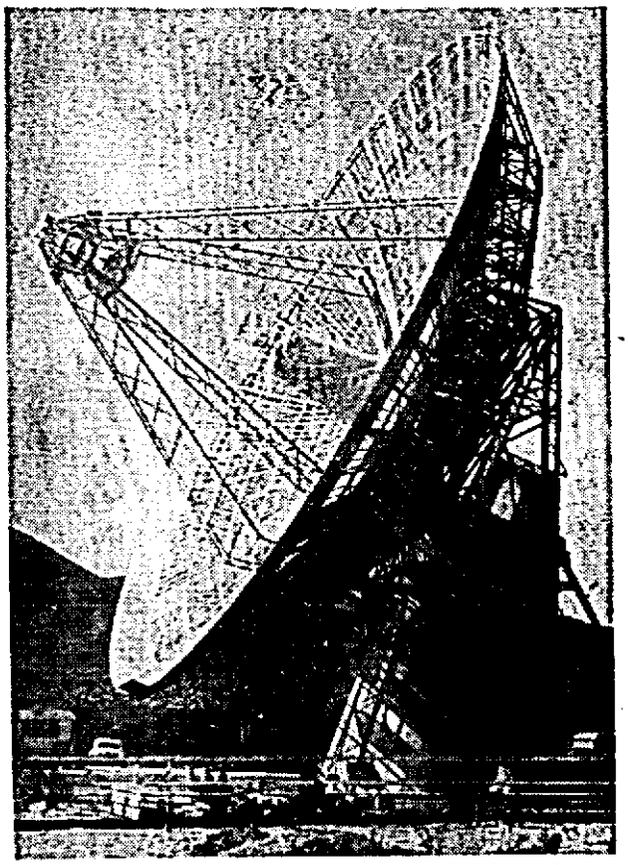

Special for the Hi-Fi

Dry sink for hi-fi is shown by Jewell Peterson of NBC-TV.

ESPECIALLY designed to house a hi-fi unit, the dry sink illustrated above is a popular item of furniture on the modern scene. Fitted with an additional speaker in another part of the room, it can be used for stereo. There is space for a speaker, record player and tuner. The unit could also be used for storage of various items or as a home bar. Construction is easy with an illustrated pattern that offers a list of materials, mostly plywood. To obtain Dry Sink Pattern No. 307, send $1 in currency, check or money order with name and address to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., PO Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif.

Space Age 'Eyes' Spy on Mars

Goldstone antenna, 85 feet in diameter, bounces radar signals off Mars during short periods planet is near.

By Aubrey B. Haines

SCIENTISTS at California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory are making Buck Rogers come to life. Whereas a generation ago his interplanetary flights seemed fictional, they now appear fast becoming scientific possibilities. Today, Cal Tech scientists are bouncing radar signals off Mars.

Contact was first made in late January by JPL's Deep Space Instrumentation Facility. Original analysis indicates that Mars has rough and smooth areas much like the earth and the moon. Two similar experiments to learn more about Venus by radar echoes were conducted from this DSIF station. The Mars experiment was much more difficult, for Mars at closest approach is two and one-half times farther from earth than Venus. Half the size, it rotates faster, thus blurring the return signal.

Such experiments precede plans by JPL to send a spacecraft past Mars for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in 1965. "We anticipate that during the Mariner's encounter with Mars two years hence there will be communications with the spacecraft by the DSIF and radar contact with the planet simultaneously," the scientists say.

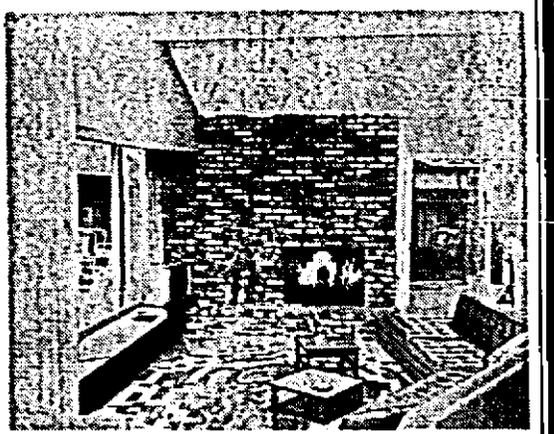

THE VENUS experiment informed scientists that the planet may be rotating slowly in a direction opposite from that of other planets. "Since Venus is constantly surrounded by a dense blanket of clouds, its direction of rotation cannot be determined by direct observation," the scientists says. "Radar penetrates clouds."

Since America currently has special scientific interest in Mars, this planet was chosen as a radar target. It is

Sweetened whipped cream, dairy sour cream, a delicate cream filling—all combine tastily with peaches, summer's bounty. Cooled in tempting desserts or served fresh sliced, peaches take on extra goodness when complemented with dairy products.

Peaches and Cream

By Mildred K. Flanary

Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

IT'S A PEACH of a season for "peachy" desserts. It's time, too, to mate peaches with dairy foods.

In fact, peaches and dairy foods are so versatile they can be featured at every meal and between meals, too.

Today, however, we're concentrating on desserts, those which adapt nicely to buffet service. For instance this Peach Plum Flan—it's a cross between a pie and a tart—baked in a 9-inch pie shell will serve 6 to 8 people. Or—should you prefer fresh sliced peaches, give your guests a choice of toppings.

Peach-Plum Flan

FILLING: Yield: 2½ cups.

⅔ cup sugar
½ cup flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk
2 egg yolks, beaten
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla

In saucepan mix together thoroughly sugar, flour and salt. Gradually blend in milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until mixture boils. Boil 1 minute; remove from heat. Stir small amount of hot mixture into egg yolks. Blend egg yolk mixture into hot mixture. Bring just to boiling point. Stir in butter and vanilla. Cool slightly. Pour into cooled, baked 9-inch flan or pie shell. Refrigerate. Serves 6 to 8.

TOPPING: Yield: 1 cup.

¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon water
1 cup (4) diced red plums
½ teaspoon lemon juice
2 fresh peaches, peeled and sliced, OR 1 12-ounce package frozen sliced peaches, thawed and drained

In small covered saucepan, bring sugar and water to boil. Add plums; cook uncovered to thickened pulp. Stir in lemon juice; sieve and cool. Arrange sliced peaches on top of cooled filling. Top with plum mixture.

For use with fresh sliced peaches:

Orange Sour Cream Topping

¼ cup confectioners sugar
2 tablespoons orange juice
¼ teaspoon grated orange rind
1 cup dairy sour cream

Gently fold sugar, orange juice and rind into sour cream. Chill. Serve over sliced fresh peaches. Yield: 1¼ cups.

Topping De Menthe

3 tablespoons mint jelly
1 cup whipping cream, whipped
Toasted coconut (optional)

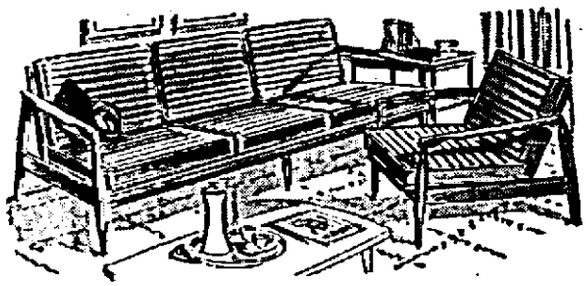

Break up jelly with fork. Lightly fold into whipped cream. Serve over fresh sliced peaches. Top with toasted coconut, if desired. Yield: 2 cups.

Lemon Fluff Topping

3 egg yolks
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup lemon juice
1 cup whipping cream, whipped

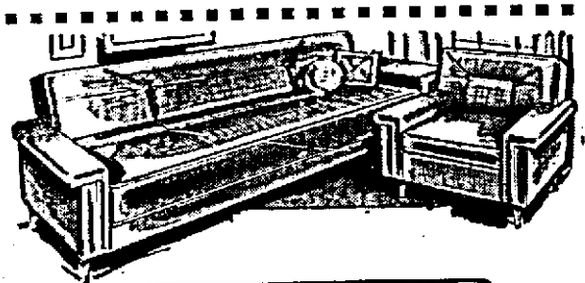

Beat egg yolks. Add sugar gradually; beat until thick and light. Stir in lemon juice. In small heavy saucepan, cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until smooth and thick. Chill. Lightly fold into whipped cream. Yield: 2½ cups.

GRADE CARD

Who's to Know IQ?

By Harry Karns
Education Research Associates

QUESTION: Should a student's scores on IQ, aptitude, and achievement tests be made available to his parents?

ANSWER: Some educators offer persuasive reasons why test scores should not be released. They say, for example, that misinterpretation and misuse of such scores by parents can work to the detriment of the child.

Yet, who has a better right to know such scores? The parents are responsible for the child, and the parents pay the taxes which support the schools in which the tests are taken.

Consider this: A boy graduates from high school and applies for admission to a special college. His regular class grades from high school indicate acceptance, but the college rejects him for failure to meet admission requirements. These requirements, it turns out, relate to aptitude and achievement scores. The parents, however, never were given the facts which would have helped them plan more realistically. Net result: lost time and a serious jolt to the boy's confidence.

That some may misinterpret or misuse test information is not sufficient reason for withholding from all parents facts which will aid them in planning their child's educational future.

Yes, score should be made available.

QUESTION: Is there any relationship between TV watching and academic achievement?

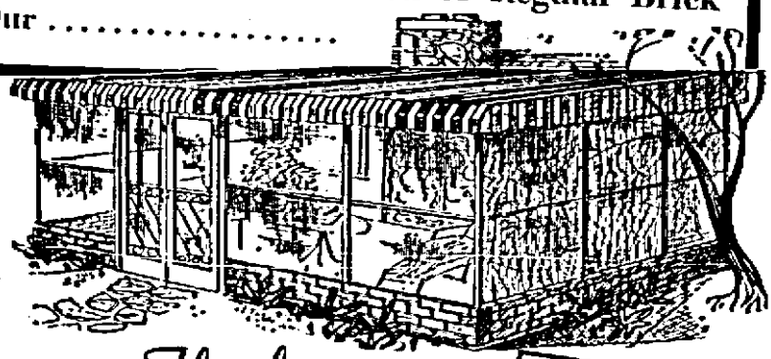

ANSWER: Educators suspect there is.

A recent study of 54 students, selected from gifted and retarded classes, showed that the retarded students watched TV about 28 hours more each week than the gifted students did.

If some of the retarded students had seen fewer TV shows and more book pages, they might not have been retarded.

MEDICINE AND YOU

New Risk: Whiskers in Space

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical Science Writer

SPACE MEDICINE researchers are concerned over shaving problems of astronauts.

A way has to be found to collect whiskers. Whiskers floating about a weightless cabin would pose a hazard.

Floating whiskers, researchers say, would be far worse than the crumbs that pestered Astronaut Scott Carpenter when he was eating crumbly biscuits.

SCIENtists are leaving no stone unturned in the search for the mechanisms involved in the formation of fatty deposits in blood vessels.

Dr. Raymond D. Pruitt of Baylor University College of Medicine, Houston, reports that one researcher is studying the deposition of sand bars in rivers, hoping to gain insight in the matter of fat deposition. Another is studying the caking of oil in pipelines.

SPOILING a child may set him on the road to alcoholism, says Dr. Marvin A. Block, chairman of the American Medical Association's Committee on Alcoholism.

Most alcoholism in America is the result of attempting to escape the harsh facts of reality, he says. Thus it's dangerous for a child to be taught that the world is a rosy, pleasant place devoid of responsibility.

A MARKED increase in leukemia and a probable increase in thyroid cancer have been observed in the Japanese survivors of atomic bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki nearly 18 years ago.

However, Dr. Stuart C. Finch, former chief of medicine for the Atomic Bomb Casualty Commission, says a study of 70,000 pregnancies shows no increase in malformations or other birth defects in children of bomb survivors.

A SOLUTION or ointment of the drug IDU can shorten the duration of cold sores, three British doctors report in British Medical Journal.

Cold sores healed within two to five days in 13 cases, the report says. The lesions were on the eyelid, upper lip or cheek. In nine of these patients the usual duration of the cold sores was two to three weeks.

Dr. S. P. Hall-Smith and associates say the drug brought relief of symptoms and resolution of eruption within 24 to 72 hours.

MEN WHO develop cancer of the floor of the mouth also have a marked tendency to suffer from cirrhosis of the liver, a researcher has found.

Dr. Andrew Z. Keller of the Public Health Research Institute of the City of New York reports on a survey of 2,177 male patients treated for oral cancers in VA hospitals throughout the country.

The study, he says, shows "a genuine association" between cirrhosis and cancer of the floor of the mouth.

CAPSULES: By supplementing their diet with a liquid food preparation called Nutrament, 62 underweight, elderly patients gained up to 18 pounds in 24 weeks, according to a report in Geriatrics. . . . Infectious croup, a common childhood respiratry ailment, occurs mainly in boys — particularly if they tend to be heavy—a researcher reports in Pediatrics. . . . BCG, the TB vaccine, has been able to immunize rats against leprosy, a British researcher has found—and the substance may have a similar action in man, according to Medical Tribune. . . . A new drug called Beta-Chlor is effective in calming the disturbed senile patient, reports Current Therapeutic Research. . . . Chipmunks and squirrels are being illegally sold by pet stores in the unincorporated areas of Los Angeles County, reports the County Health Department. Dick Dale and his Del Tones will play for dancing after the show. The first 1,000 young persons who show student body cards at the festival will receive new Dick Dale records.

The Festival will be presented on a 40x40-foot center stage in the 12,000-seat Arena. As background for the one-night extravaganza, the Arena floor will be turned into a garden of flowers and plants. Even the animals will like that.

ANTIQUES

Marble in the Parlor

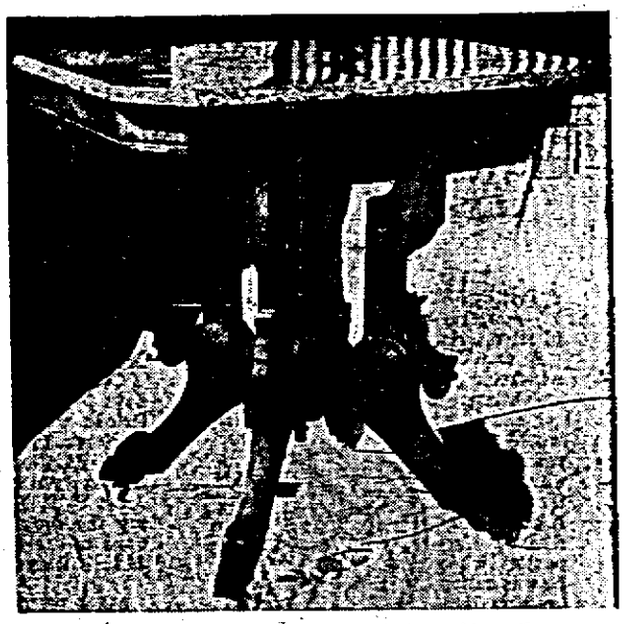

By Helen L. Gillum

REVIVAL of interest in things Victorian during the past decade has resulted in many an ancient, discarded article being salvaged from garage or dusty attic, to enjoy new prestige in the modern home.

Likewise, the person who has cherished and preserved 19th century items for years because they once belonged to a beloved relative, is pleased to find that the spool-turned "whatnot" in the corner, or the curlicued glass high-button-shoe vase atop the TV set, is not so "old-fashioned," after all. Many such antiques have increased in value. In many cases, their original function is being rediscovered and enjoyed all over again by delighted modern day homemakers.

OF COURSE, certain fusty gadgets like snuff graters, "bog shoes" and "jumble guns" serve more in curiosity and conversation roles than in ornamental or useful capacities. Although it is remarkable to what practical purposes even such oddities as these are sometimes put by the confirmed antique

A pleasing relic from mid-Victorian times, a marble-topped parlor table, occupies an attractive spot beside a large window in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Gorton, 1906 Rogers St. A family heirloom, it once belonged to Mrs. Gorton's great-aunt. Not collectors in the true sense of the word, the Gortons treasure the piece mainly for its sentimental value and its worth as an occasional table in their living room.

Reminiscent of a mid-Victorian period is this antique table with marble top, heirloom of Long Beach couple.

THE MAHOGANY table is topped with an octagonal marble slab, 20x27 inches in size. The marble, a beautiful blend of grays and browns, is practically without blemish. Elaborate, hand-carved scrolls and curves compose the legs and lower section of the table. Age has enriched the smooth dark finish, which is original and in fine condition. All four legs are mounted on their original porcelain casters, which in themselves are a rarity today.

With a lace cloth and a trailing green vine, perhaps the old family Bible resting on the marble surface, pieces like this help develop the warm, homey atmosphere desired by collectors and non-collectors alike.

Going to Israel?

IF YOU are one of the almost 100,000 persons expected to visit Israel this year, check a new set of long-playing 33⅓ rpm records called "Listen and Learn Modern Hebrew" which can give you a needed working knowledge of the language.

With the records is a manual containing a complete record text. Topics discussed include native foods and drinks, drugs and accessories, road signs, public notices and so on, all arranged according to the tourists needs, and cover situations which the traveler is likely to encounter in Israel. The set is issued by Dover Publications, 180 Varick St., New York 14, N.Y., at $5.95 per set.

Courtroom Gladiator

By Vera Williams
Southland Magazine Book Editor

ELECTION of William Travers Jerome as district attorney of New York City in a fusion-reform victory over Tammany Hall in 1900 launched him on a free-swinging cleanup of sin and corruption and the prosecution of a succession of spectacular criminal cases.

"COURTROOM WARRIOR" by Richard O'Connor (Little, Brown, $5.95) is an absorbing X-ray of wide-open New York at the turn of the century, with its vice reports in the Tenderloin and Bowery, political racketeers and big-shot gamblers, as well as the biography of their unrelenting and fiery nemesis.

Jerome prosecuted Harry K. Thaw twice for the murder of Stanford White, got Thaw committed as criminally insane and kept him there. He convicted Abe Hummel, underworld mouthpiece; Dick Canfield, "prince of gamblers," Col. William Mann, operator of the blackmailing scandal sheet, "Town Topics"; the ice trust and others.

He failed, in two hung-jury trials, to convict "Floradora Girl" Nan Patterson of the "murder in a hansom cab" of her married paramour, and lost battles against the insurance rackets and street railway. Throughout, he ran the risk of personal disgrace because of his own clandestine love affair.

But his courage, ingenuity and honesty placed him forever among the giants of the legal battlefields.

"A CORNER OF CHICAGO" by Robert Hardy Andrews (Little, Brown & Co., $5.95) is the rollicking memoirs of a midwestern newspaperman who created the "soap opera" and many of America's famous radio serials and who helped launch the careers of literary giants such as James T. Farrell and MacKinlay Kantor.

Andrews was the 21-year-old city editor of the Minneapolis Journal when he was hired to edit a literary weekly for the Chicago Daily News. There he worked with a part-time poet named Carl Sandburg and published submissions by Farrell, Kantor and others.

Awesomely prolific, Andrews did special feature writing for The News and created and wrote seven radio shows including "Ma Perkins," "Just Plain Bill," "The Romance of Helen Trent" and "Jack Armstrong, The All-American Boy."

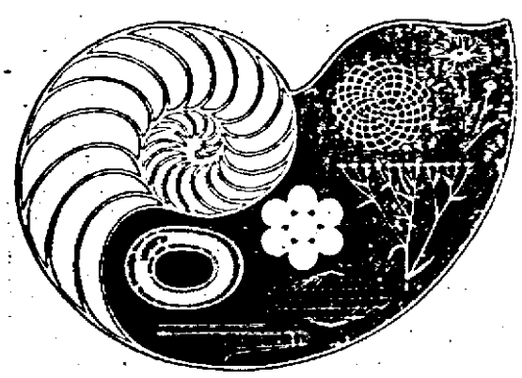

Still at the "mill" (typewriter), Andrews today writes for many of television's leading drama shows.

More than an autobiography of a wild and vivid time, his recollections of Chicago in the 1920s and '30s are an important addendum to social history.

STILL ANOTHER warning for the world to wake up before The Bomb destroys us all comes from Robert Goldston in his tense novel, "THE SHORE DIMLY SEEN" (Random House, $3.95).

A luxury yacht, crossing the Atlantic with seven passengers and a skeleton crew, broken radio and confused destination, is almost overrun by a mysterious destroyer squadron, then encounters a Polaris submarine and lifeboat of burned bodies.

The realization that rockets to end civilization may have been launched sets off dramatic events and clashes between divergent philosophies aboard the yacht. But the situation and material in Goldston's message are not new.

TALK TO ME IN ALGEBRA? This jacket design is from Frank Land's new book, "THE LANGUAGE OF MATHEMATICS," an illustrated discussion of modern mathematics (Doubleday, $4.95). The author is professor of education at the University of Hull, in England.

also available for radar experimentation at intervals of only 26 months. "Mars is much more difficult to investigate by radar than is Mercury," scientists say. "Mercury can be investigated every four months.

"We conducted the Mars experiment 12 hours a day. However, early in March the earth moved out of radar range of the red planet. At closest approach, which occurred at midnight Feb. 2, the signals required eleven and one-tenth minutes to make the 125,000,000-mile round trip."

RESPONSIBLE for conducting the experiments are Walter K. Victor, chief of communications system research section, and Robertson Stevens, chief of communications elements research section at JPL.

"The reflected signals are analyzed for strength and for the extent to which they have been distorted by Mars," Victor claims. "These clues can tell scientists something about a planet's surface material, its roughness and the rate of rotation. From first analysis it seems that Mars is a better radar reflector than the moon but not as good as Venus."

As the earth turns, Mars looms on the eastern horizon as a yellowish star and shines for about 12 hours nightly. During this time the dish-shaped radar equipment is aimed at the planet with the help of a computer driven by a punched-paper tape and a telescopic television camera. A continuous signal is sent for 11 minutes. The transmitter is then turned off, and the receiver is turned on to await the echo. This cycle is repeated as long as Mars can be seen.

While Mount Wilson telescope took these photos of Mars, Caltech scientists probed the planet with radar echoes.

THOUGH THE effect of magnifying the power of the transmitter is the equivalent of 25 billion watts, only about one watt is intercepted by Mars. Of this only a small amount is reflected from the surface. By the time that the signal returns, only about one-billionth of one-trillionth of a watt can be intercepted by the radar equipment.

"An important part of the experiment is the variations in strength of the echo," says Dr. R. Goldstein, a principal scientist in the experiment. "From this we may understand better some surface characteristics and weather conditions on Mars seen through optical telescopes."

Mars has been known to man since before the beginning of recorded history. The fourth planet from the sun, it has an average distance of 141,500,000 miles. Forty-two hundred miles in diameter, it is a little over half the diameter of the earth. Because its seasons are much like those of the earth, astronomers believe that the moderate temperature range might provide some kind of life.

MARS MAKES a complete orbit of the sun in 687 days. The earth approaches inferior conjunction with Mars every 26 months. Mars has two moons, Deimos, 12,500 miles distant, and Phobos, which is a mere 3,700 miles away.

Experiments are conducted at the Goldstone Tracking Station in the Mojave Desert. Someone has assumed that if such messages cost money like telephone calls, JPL's communications bill would likely make the national debt seem inconsequential.

Recipe of the Week

HAM and eggplant are combined in a recipe that wins $5 this week for Mrs. Frank C. Woods, 16118 Bellflower Blvd., Bellflower. The recipe:

Ham and Baked Eggplant

1 lemon
1 cup water
1 large eggplant
½ cup minced onion
¼ cup minced green pepper
1 egg beaten
1½ cups diced cooked ham
3 tblsps. butter
½ cup grated sharp cheese
½ cup buttered bread crumbs

Combine lemon juice with water. Peel eggplant, dip in lemon water and dice and dip again. Rinse in cold water. Parboil diced eggplant about 10 minutes. Saute onion, green pepper and ham in butter then add eggplant and egg. Mix well. Put mixture in well buttered 1-quart casserole. Combine cheese and buttered crumbs, sprinkle over top. Bake at 350 degree oven for 50 minutes. Serves 4.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address, to: Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach 12, Calif.

Catalina Opens Privateer Days

Catalina Island's Privateer Days open Friday, winds up Sunday with a giant treasure hunt.

CATALINA ISLAND'S first big event of 1963 will be its Privateer Days celebration scheduled Friday, Saturday and Sunday in Avalon.

The three-day weekend, jam-packed with entertainment for the entire family, will include a beauty contest to select a Privateer Days Queen of 1963, a fish fry, a dinghy and boat parade in Avalon Harbor, a Torch Light parade, and a colorful Privateer Days Ball to be held Saturday night in Avalon's Casino Ballroom.

A special event has also been set to commemorate the annual return of the Flying Fish to Catalina, and a giant treasure hunt held Sunday morning on the beach at Avalon Bay will terminate festivities.

MASTER of ceremonies for the three-day program will be radio announcer Carl Bailey, Catalina Island's "Mr. Big," whose lean 6-foot, 10-inch frame and cordial personality have made him a familiar, well-liked figure to island visitors over the years.

Theme of the Privateer Days was selected to evoke memories of early American history, when privately-owned sloops proudly flying the new Stars and Stripes were commissioned by the government to sail off-shore waters in protection of the infant republic. All those participating in the weekend celebration are expected to wear costumes typical of Revolutionary Days privateermen. Prizes will be awarded to the best costumes.

ALL OF AVALON'S comfortable hostelries are already taking reservations for the Privateer Days, and the island's restaurants, quaint shops and famed tourist attractions, including the glass-bottomed boat cruises, speedboat tours, motor trips of the island, visits to the Bird Farm, will operate in high gear.

Every type of transportation will be available to Privateer Days visitors, including air travel via Channel Airlines and Avalon Air Transport, whose planes leave from Long Beach Municipal Airport; by sea aboard the Magic Isle, a spacious excursion ship whose berth is at Navy Landing in Long Beach Harbor, and by speedboats carrying the flag of the Island Boat Service, which docks at the foot of Avalon Blvd. in Wilmington.

Additionally, hundreds of voyagers to the three-day celebration are expected to converge on the island aboard privately-owned craft. Mooring facilities are ready and Avalon's lovely crescent bay is expected to be filled with vessels of every size and description.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH DELAPLANE

"What do we do with two boys (10 and 12) with four or five days in New York City?"

PICK UP these two paperbacks at your bookstore: "New York On The House," a Doubleday publication at $1.25. Gives you all the things you can do for free in New York. (There are college plays you can see for example.)

"New York, Places and Pleasures" by Kate Simon, published by Meridian Books ($1.95). Good offbeat on walks, rides, restaurants, shops.

"Where do you buy a woman's raincoat in England—a good one. Is there a tax? How much should I pay?"

AQUASCUTUM or Burberry's, both close to Piccadilly Circus, are well-known specialty for coats. There is a purchase tax — unless you leave the country. I like London Fog—for about the same. I haven't found English rainwear superior to ours.)

"What do you think of three months in Ajijic, Mexico? We have heard there is an American colony there. . ."

I HAVEN'T stayed in the town. Looked nice. Close to Guadalajara. On Lake Chapala. But the locals I saw had a kind of beard-and-beat look. And that's what I hear from people who have been there.

You could try it—it's pretty warm in summer. Then if you don't like it, try Morelia. This is a charming Mexican town about four bus hours south. Used to be the summer capital of the Spanish viceroys. The palace, Virrey de Mendoza, is now a hotel.

The town is pretty cool. Nice plaza. An American doctor runs one of the hospitals. There's no top restaurant that I found. But on summer nights, they rope off one street off the plaza. Town women come down and cook over charcoal fires and serve you at little tables set in the street. Charcoal broiled chicken, hot tortillas and a bottle of Mexican beer with the band playing in the plaza, is hard to beat.

"When it becomes possible to make reservations for the New York World's Fair, do I pay the travel agent who makes them (hotel and airline) or does the hotel and airline pay him?"

THE AGENT gets a commission on both of these. And unless he has to do something very unusual — such as making up itineraries for side trips—there should be no charge to you. (However, the agent can run his business according to his own ideas.)

Figures on Stewardess Figures

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

TO TAKE high fashion 39,000 feet into the sky, Oleg Cassini has designed new uniforms for the 345 stewardesses of National Airlines.

And to help him get an idea of what sort of shape the NAL gals are in, figures were compiled on their figures.

That survey of stewardess "form sheets" shows that the average stewardess is not quite as tall, perhaps, as Miss International Beauty, but she has the same kind of curves.

The average National Airlines stewardess measures 35-24-36, and stands 5-feet-five, and weighs 119.4 pounds.

That's the average. An exception is the green-eyed lovely, Joanne Humphrey, who came to Long Beach last week to show off one of the Cassini creations. Joanne says she weighs 125, shapes up 36-25-36, and is five-feet-seven.

Lovely Joanne Humphrey models National Airlines uniform.

THAT'S THE CEILING on height of the stewardesses hired by National—five-feet-seven! But there wasn't any doubt about Joanne when she was interviewed. When she looked at the interviewer with her green eyes, flashed her smile, and said she was from the South in her dainty drawl—she was in!

But to get back to the figures (interesting, aren't they?) complied for Cassini: dress size, 8; shoulders, 37 inches; ankle, 7.9 inches; thigh, 19 inches; calf, 13 inches; and shoe size, seven.

More than half (55 per cent) have brown hair—including brunette, brown, dark brown, brown frosted and light brown. A fourth—25 per cent—have blonde hair, including blonde, silver blonde, ash blonde and dark blonde. Eight per cent have black hair, 4 per cent are redheads, and 2 per cent have auburn tresses.

Or so they say.

NATIONAL, unlike some other airlines, encourages stewardesses to experiment in becoming changes of hair color.

Thirty-eight per cent of these dolls have brown eyes, 29 per cent, blue; 18 per cent, hazel; and 15 per cent are lucky ones with green eyes!

Only seven of the covey confess to the need of glasses, and four wear contact lenses. One wears glasses "for heavy duty only," and one "for diving only." (That's what she said for DIVING!)

Not that it has anything to do with the way they fill their uniforms, but the survey also turned up the fact that 28 per cent of these girls speak Spanish, many fluently. Ten per cent speak French. Six per cent are trilingual. One speaks Hungarian, German and Russian, and another speaks five languages—Hungarian, Latin, Italian and German in addition to English. One can read and write Greek.

All of which speaks pretty well for the new look of NAL, wouldn't you say?

WEEKEND WANDERERS' CLUB, a Southland travel-social group, is planning trips to San Simeon and Gilman Hot Springs in May, Catalina Island in June and San Francisco in July.

The Wanderers will go on a "mystery trip" April 26-28 "somewhere in California." Members will not know where they are going until they reach their destination.

The club has offices in San Francisco, Hollywood and Anaheim.

NOVA SCOTIA CLUB of Southern California is planning a bus tour to Nova Scotia starting June 26-27. Nova Scotians and others interested in details should write to George W. McGray, 1529 Appleton St., Long Beach.

Pets from the Wild

By Eleanor Avery Price

HAVE YOU ever wished you could get more out of your vacation? . . . really get beneath the pleasure of scenery to the actual aliveness of nature?

If so, here is a book for you, "Land Alive" by Ronald N. Rood (Stephen Greene Press, $4.50). Although the scene is rural Vermont, "Land Alive" can almost be duplicated in many western outdoor settings. The author's aim is to help you find a world you only half suspect. You may learn to hear a turtle whistle, a frog hum, or an ant squeak. Birds will mean much more to you, old tree stumps will come alive, you will be trying to snorgel-ize every stream you see looking for creatures that live there.

THE STATE of California is quite lenient about letting you take home wild animals for pets, although some are protected by law, and zoos don't want them after you tire of them. Birds should remain in their native habitats, although crows are fair game as pets, and I don't think anyone would object to you adopting a small owl. The Park Dept. would be delighted to have you take ALL porcupines, for the ambling pincushions are gnawing up our forests. Rats and mice they don't need, either. Never try to adopt a fawn. A permit is required if you take a burro from the desert.

To be on the safe side, all warm-blooded pets should come from pet shops. Wild ones may be infested with worms and parasites. If you do adopt a mouse, rabbit, racoon, or squirrel, take it to your veterinarian for a checkup. Of course, leave the porkies alone. Should your dog encounter one and be wounded, a few drops of acid vinegar should be poured on the quills every five minutes for four or five times. Then wait 15 minutes and pour any oil over the quills. The quills will almost back out by themselves. (Thanks to Popular Dogs Magazine.) If Fido meets a skunk, scrub him with a bucket of water to which one cup of ammonia has been added. Repeat until you can tolerate him.

IN CASE you adopt a baby owl, house it in a box or cage lined with leaves or soft material. Keep it out of drafts. Hold chopped mealworms (from your pet shop) over its head to get it to open its mouth, then drop them in. The owl needs two or three meals daily. Offer milk from a medicine dropper. As the owl grows, feed some raw meat.

The owl will want to sleep daytimes, but baby owls will awaken when hungry.

Give the adult owl an outdoor cage roomy enough for it to exercise. It won't fly far if you clip its wings. Wear gloves, as the mature bird's talons are strong.

SHOWS: Today, San Gabriel Valley Kennel Club, Recreational Park, Monrovia. Next Sunday, Santa Ana Valley Kennel Club, La Palma Park, Anaheim, and California Sierra Doberman Pinscher Club Specialty, Highway 66 and Citrus Ave., Fontana.

Even-tempered screech owls and barn owls can be adopted and adapted as pets. But handle them with gloves.

but not brought in."

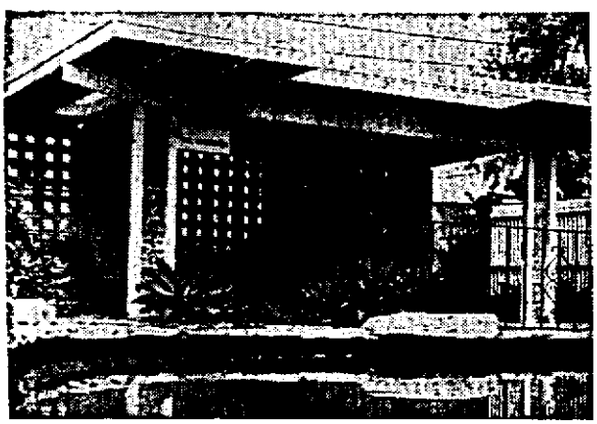

THOSE WHO are "brought in" may be held overnight in the juvenile tank, then released to their parents. Others may be freed that night, and a Juvenile Court petition filed later.

Lt. Natividad said loitering is not much of a problem in his area.

He said he and his men give many talks to parents' groups, explaining the law and enlisting support. Also, he added, school safety officers working from the Norwalk station speak to three to five classes of students daily.

The purpose is to make sure that everyone affected is aware of the applicable law, and its purposes. Authorities don't enjoy taking young people into custody, and educating them and their parents prevents misunderstandings and future trouble.

Sports Rough on Carpeting

On spring and summer weekends, when millions of indoor sportsmen anchor themselves in front of the television set to root for their favorite teams, a new threat to the life of rugs and carpets is brought about.

Television itself is not to blame as much as the inevitable refreshments and food. The drinks and food scraps which fall on the floor during the most exciting part of the games go unnoticed until it is too late.

Don't wait until the seventh inning stretch to take care of spills. They must be handled immediately.

For some of the usual spills such as alcohol, coffee, tea and soft drinks, we suggest the following remedy:

Sponge the area with lukewarm water, using clean white cloth or cleansing tissues. Repeat several times. Then mix a teaspoonful of soapless detergent with one pint of lukewarm water.

Apply the solution to the spot with an eyedropper and sponge with cloth or tissues. Blot up excess moisture. Then sponge with clean lukewarm water.

For fatty substances apply a safe dry cleaning fluid and sponge with a clean white cloth.

If the spill seems too large to handle.

Nile Lily Ready for Show

By Joe Littlefield

AGAPANTHUS, Lily of the Nile, begins bloom usually some time in May. The flower stalk topped by an umbrella-like cluster of funnel-shaped blue or white flowers, yields a striking show of blossoms in a sunny annual or perennial flower garden. The strap-like leaves add a massed green effect.

The plants respond to feeding. A cause of failure to bloom may be too much shade. In late June dig up the old clump, separate it, and set the young plants out in a sunny area. When clumps become too old the plants may not bloom.

IF YOU haven't been happy with your chrysanthemums because they always grow tall and leggy, almost like vines, then here's the secret to make them grow bushy: Cut back the "mum" you want to produce lots of flowers. Cut from a foot to around eight inches above the ground. Thereafter, don't use any pruning shears on mums until they blossom and you want to cut the flowers. You don't even have to cut the flower branches. Simply snap them off where you want to. The jagged branch tear allows quicker and better water absorption into the blossoms.

After the first cutting, pinch tips out of new growth when two sets of leaves appear. Continue to pinch in this manner to within a month or so of when flower buds normally would start to form.

You'll be amazed at how bushy those plants will grow. Actually you won't have to think of staking them till the buds begin to color. If you have to stake them before then, that means you've continually used a high nitrogen fertilizer which causes leggy, soft growth. Use a balanced plant food, with less nitrogen, but more phosphoric acid.

This same feeding principle holds true with roses.

ONE TOPNOTCH rosarian also recommends the pinching method for rose canes, in a more limited application. His plan: pinch tip growth out of succulent new canes when they are about 18 inches long, forcing new branches to sprout and bear more flowers with longer stems.

In cutting flowers from established roses, count above the previous cut to third or fourth leaf or bud and remove the flower just above this point, not close enough to damage the bud, but leaving no more than a scant quarter-inch above the bud. Should the fourth bud point the wrong way for forming the rose, drop down to No. 3 bud or No. 2 if necessary.

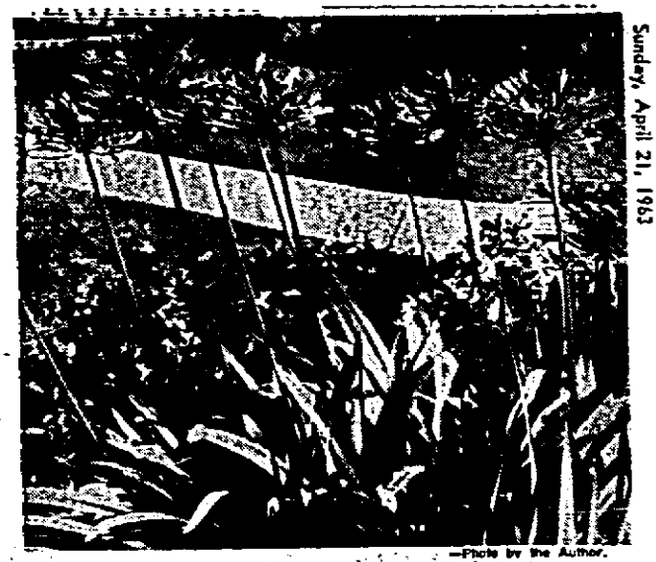

It's a good idea to dunk indoor house plants in a tub of water to assure thorough root soaking; more important, it washes out any accumulation of alkali salts from the previous waterings.

YOU'LL HELP young annuals or perennials to grow better by top dressing the soil with manure. This keeps soil from crusting and baking.

Do not wind vine branches through fence or wire openings. This causes extra work when pruning. Tie the vine canes to the wire or support.

Thin out deciduous young fruit to help remaining fruit grow larger and better quality. Space the fruit about four inches apart.

Cut delphinium flower stalks on a downward slant and split the remainder stub. This discourages rot. Also, you'll have a secondary crop of flowers by feeding plants before they send forth much new growth.

Planted in sun and properly fed, Lily of the Nile provides an outstanding May show of blue or white bloom.

Grow a Bit of Citrus

By John Ronson

MOST ANY Californian may grow and enjoy some of the world's finest citrus fruit right in his own back yard. And any Californian who cares about preserving a wonderful tradition should do just that, for who knows how long the big commercial orchards can withstand the threat of subdivision?

Before running out and ordering the first citrus that comes to mind, however, remember that some varieties are better adapted than others to certain areas. Southern Californians can grow most any citrus fruit they care to, if they live far enough from the coast.

The California Association of Nurserymen reminds us that edible fruit is not always the primary goal of home citrus gardening, for the trees with their crop (edible or not) have great ornamental value and are worth planting for that alone. One takes pleasure in the sight of a tubbed miniature grapefruit whether he can eat the fruit or not.

ACTUALLY the growing trend toward dwarf fruit trees in every variety has greatly extended the limits within which citrus can be grown with good chance of the fruit ripening. It is a simple matter to tuck dwarf trees in cozy pockets of warmth in the garden, where a maximum of heat is trapped to help mature the crop. You can grow a dwarf right up next to a sunny wall, for instance, where a full-size tree might well be in the way—or in a tub on the patio, where the full sized tree would be completely out of the question.

The citrus with the widest range of adaptability is the lemon, excellent crops of which can be had even in north coastal gardens. The varieties Eureka and Lisbon are standard lemons of commercial orchards and bear equally good crops in home gardens. Meyer lemon is widely adapted and bears exceptionally heavy crops—it is most commonly found in dwarf form—but it is quarantined in some counties and the gardener should always check with a local nurseryman before planting it.

LIMES ARE only slightly behind lemons in their distribution over the state. Bearss

Build a Landscape by a Plan

By Walter Finch

Beautiful roses are part of the planting of a garden, a plant that will yield interior beauty as cut flowers.

NO MAN would ever think of building a house without first having a set of plans. And by the same token, no gardener should ever consider "building" his landscape without knowing what he is doing. Yet there are gardeners by the carload who set out to do just that and the results, to say the least, are unsatisfactory.

There is the occasional natural landscaper who envisions his ultimate garden and achieves it in time without any plans. What he has done is to visualize his plan and put it down in his memory—a feat which most of us are totally incapable of doing. For better or for worse, we have to have our plan on paper.

Whether you are starting a new garden or remodeling an existing garden, take these words of caution from the California Association of Nurserymen: Plan before you plant. You'll save time, grief and money, to say nothing of gray hairs.

A plan is essential and a good plan is the best thing you can treat yourself to. The initial cost is somewhat more, but savings over thet years will more than make up for it, as noted above.

HOW DOES one go about getting the plan? Probably the best way is to seek advice from a local nurseryman about this. Some nurserymen are professional landscapers themselves and those who are not can steer you toward the right one. If you are knowledgeable in the ways of plant material and have access to some good landscape guides you can try your own hand, of course, and many suitable plans have come from such a tack.

Basically, the plan for a California garden should include the following:

First a suitable approach to the house. With new houses you can start from scratch, but with older homes you have to purge yourself of the idea that any part of the status quo must be preserved. Existing walks may seem permanent to you, but if they are poorly placed, bisecting the garden in the wrong place, then don't hesitate to rip them out and start over.

OUTDOOR living areas are the next essential, and while these are usually at the side or rear of a house, they need not be. Occasionally the outdoor living area is better placed in front and enclosed by a fence to take better advantage of exposure or shelter from prevailing wind.

Trees are an all-important factor and since they take years to reach good size, every effort should be made to preserve those already existing on the site. Occasionally, a tree is so poorly placed, however, that it blocks light or traffic and generally makes a nuisance of itself. In such cases there is nothing for it but to relegate it to the wood pile.

A good lawn is probably the most pleasurable part of a landscape, and site permitting, it should be carefully planned. Some sites slope too much to accommodate a lawn, but wherever possible, one should be included.

IN THE MATTER of plant material to fill in, around and under the patios, lawns and trees, you had best count heavily on a nurseryman's advice. Plant relationships are everything in the landscape and it is easy to place incompatible shrubs next to each other without realizing it until too late. At least, let a nurseryman check your plant selections before you start planting.

All this and more (including such niceties as garden pools, play areas for children, work areas for the amateur plantsman) should go on your plan. If you still feel competent to prepare it yourself, take pencil and paper in hand, draw your lot to scale, plot the house on it and start filling in the above essentials.

Landscaping?

One of the most handsome garden books published in many a moon—and one of the most useful—is Better Homes & Gardens "Lanscape Planning Book" (Meredith Press, $3.95).

Aimed directly at the expanding homeowner market, the new book will be in stores tomorrow to give down-to-earth assistance in creating an attractive, well-planned landscape. There are seven chapters by prominent landscape architects, and three special "Picture Portfolio" sections. Sixty-two of the 268 illustrations are in full color.

In addition, it contains regional planting lists, including the Far West, based on plant hardiness; a section giving special attention to the cultivation and care of lawns; and eight pages (16 sides) of "Pencil Cloth," a special architect's paper for use in preparing landscape plans.

Fuchsia Society

Ferns will be the topic of Alice Martin in a talk before members of North Long Beach branch, California National Fuchsia Society, at 8 p.m. Wednesday at Houghton Park Clubhouse, 6301 Myrtle Ave. Plant table and refreshments are planned. Visitors are welcome.

Tips on Gardening

Gardening tips for the week . . . Deep watering is essential for most garden plants. Certain shallow-rooted shrubs such as camellias and azaleas should not be soaked. Water more frequently, less deeply.

Spray gladiolus plants as they grow to ward off possible infestation of thrips.

Plant tuberous begonia seedlings this month. Transplant sprouted begonia tubers to pots and/or the garden when they have some three inches of top growth. Remember, the blooms face the same direction as leaves point.

Plant fuchsias this month. Pinch out the new growth to make plants bushy.

Feed your lawn once a month and it will be like the one "down the street" that you envy.

Talk on Ferns

Members of North Long Beach branch, American Begonia Society, will hear a talk on ferns by Alberta Logue at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Community Room, Community Saving and Loan Association building, 3901 Atlantic Ave. Refreshments will be served. Guests are welcome.

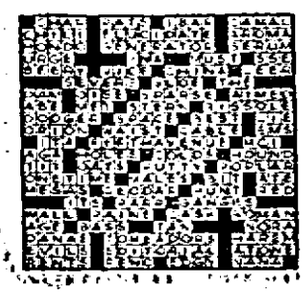

By Dorothy Jonson

April is a busy month in your garden. Many plants can be set out this month, and if you are planning on planting zinnias or tomatoes later, when we have warm nights as well as warm days, this is a good time to start preparing the soil for them.

When you buy plants in flats for transplanting remember that the more robust looking plants are not always the best ones. The smaller, weaker seedlings are often the ones capable of bearing large, double blossoms. Nature seems to purposely hold back the early growth of these plants because they are destined to produce the most bloom and color. So don't discard the smaller plants thinking they are weaklings.

Disinfecting the soil with a copper-ether material before you set out the plants will insure their safety for quite some time against soil insects and diseases. And if plants you have previously set out start to wilt and die, use this copper-ether material at once.

SOLUTION TO TODAY'S PUZZLE
(See Page 30)

Citrus

seedless lime has the widest adaptability, but many gardeners prefer the smaller Mexican limes and where frost is not an annual threat, they can be planted. In colder areas, stick to Bearss.

Of the oranges, Washington or Robertson Navels are the standard winter cropping varieties, while Valencia is the spring-summer favorites.

Grapefruit is for the hottest areas only, unless you want the trees for decoration. The best grapefruit comes from the Imperial and Coachella valley areas and some good fruit is grown in some other parts of Southern California, it is only in rare, protected gardens of the Central Valley that grapefruit is successfully grown. In coastal areas, it is for looks only. Marsh is the most popular variety.

Mandarins and Kumquats are exotic citrus types which grow well wherever oranges do well. Kumquats, in addition to their use when eaten fresh, also make wonderful preserves, the little oblong fruits being preserved whole and served with roasts and fowl. For this reason they need not be completely ripe, thus they may well be grown in areas where oranges are marginal. No harm trying them, anyway, since they are always good to look at on the tree.

"Now our dichondra lawn is beautiful and weedfree—thanks to BONUS"...

Similar success can be yours—just read these letters

Hangs up glove. "After fighting crabgrass for 12 years, spending a small fortune on killers, sprays, 'sure-fire' cures, endless hours of weed pulling—BONUS® FOR DICHONDRA has given me almost 100% control and made my lawn a velvety weedfree carpet of green." H.S. Northridge, Calif.

Well-dubbed. "My lawn was infested with a weed which, for want of a better name, I dubbed 'whisker weed'. Despaired of ever licking it. Applied BONUS in March, again in May as per directions. Happy to say weeds already 90% gone." MRS H.J.T.
(The more common name is annual bluegrass.)

Gripe. Disappointed. Put BONUS on three weeks ago. Oxalis every bit as evident—maybe even more so." H.J.S. San Diego
(Patience. As directions explain, complete control of mature weeds takes 5-6 weeks at least. If not satisfied then, money back.)

Revenge at last. "My dichondra lawn now looks so great I get misty-eyed just gazing at it! Revenge on crabgrass after all those years of bloody battle." P.O. Los Angeles

Receiving. "Just applied second application of BONUS FOR DICHONDRA. Now really getting compliments on our lawn." D.D. Long Beach

Darned disappointed. "Bought your BONUS to kill oxalis 'or money back.' Darned if we haven't got just as much." J.E.R. Sacramento
(Weed proved to be spotted spurge. No practical selective chemical method yet discovered—even by Scotts—for removing spurge or unwanted bermuda grass).

California's own magazine reports "We've seen product's effectiveness in home garden test plots in Arcadia, Pasadena, Sacramento. The manufacturer of new BONUS sought out dichondra lawns that appeared hopelessly gone to weeds and applied treatment. One or two years later, treated portions were almost 100% dichondra, where untreated portions look as bad as ever."

BONUS is easy to use

You've got so much in your favor now. BONUS not only can go right to work eliminating established weeds—oxalis, chickweed, annual bluegrass, clover—it can stop crabgrass before it starts.

While new BONUS is "weeding" your lawn, the fertilizer in it simultaneously feeds your dichondra. It greens, begins to thicken.

BONUS is odorless. Never attracts flies, fleas, gnats or vermin. Quickly, easily applied. Simply fill a Scotts Spreader with the clean granules and walk your lawn. The two-in-one job of weeding and feeding takes maybe half an hour for the typical dichondra lawn.

Actually you don't risk even a thin dime. For, as any Scotts dealer will tell you, YOU must be content with what BONUS FOR DICHONDRA does for you—or your money back.

Scotts.

Why that extra weight may not be fat!
Pre-menstrual "water logging" can add from 2 to 7 pounds to your weight. If every month your weight goes up, you feel stuffy and bloated, you are most likely suffering from pre-menstrual water bogging. Your body takes on extra water that puts pressure on delicate tissues causing headaches and nervous irritability. That's when the new medical discovery Pamprin helps your body to adjust to your period by gently relieving it of extra water and weight. It also relieves headaches and cramps during your period. Pamprin contains no hormones, narcotics or harmful sedatives. It is a combination of medically proved ingredients that have helped thousands of women get wonderfully effective relief. Get Pamprin at your druggist!

To every woman who uses vinegar for that certain "intimate" problem...
For the fastidious woman, science offers a special formula for personal feminine hygiene. Instead of vinegar (acetic acid) or harsh germicides, modern women suggest a new powder expressly for douching. It's called V.A. Powder—gentle, effective, pleasantly scented...and wonderful to use.
When mixed with water, each V.A. Packette makes exactly the right strength of a soothing, refreshing douche. It gently soothes, cleanses delicate tissues—can leave you poised, confident, sure.
Instead of old-fashioned vinegar or germicides, try new pleasantly-scented V.A. Powder. Available at all drug counters in convenient "packettes"—each one pre-measured to take the doubt out of feminine hygiene.

among the Indians and they are happy and prosperous. An Indian fiesta is held in honor of the christening of their baby girl.

ACT III opens with the invading Spanish, dispossessing them of their land and driving them from their home.

With the help of Aunt Ri, Ramona and Alessandro find peace and comfort again. But tragedy strikes swiftly as their child falls ill and dies. Grief over his child and fear for his wife's safety unhinge the mind of Alessandro, and he leads her away into the far recesses of the mountains.

Living in poverty, Ramona is constantly in dread that her husband will get into trouble with the white man. One day her fears come true, because he has taken another man's horse by mistake during a period of mental illness. Alessandro is shot down without warning.

Meanwhile, back at the rancho, the senora has died. Felipe and the entire household gather in front of the old home, ready to leave for Mexico. The young Spaniard, always secretly in love with Ramona, speaks sorrowfully of the tragedy which has befallen her. He then announces the good news that she has at last been persuaded to meet them on the trail and accompany them to their new home in Mexico, where everything will be done to bring her happiness.

IN THE FINAL scenes, Felipe leads his people away from the rancho, as they go they sing a song of farewell, and the aging Juan Canito, with a sad and heavy heart, looks for all time the great doors of the old ranch house.

For this 36th annual presentation, the Ramona Pageant Association has engaged lovely 19-year-old Marsha Moode, a straight "A" drama major student of USC, for the role of Ramona. This marks her first appearance in the play. Her leading man, Maurice Jara, is a veteran of 13 years in the role of Alessandro. The part of Juan Canito is played by Watson Gilmore Jr., a deputy sheriff of Riverside County. He has played this role for several years, and enjoys getting into the make-up of elderly Juan, playing a character part with a flair for comedy. The role of Senora Moreno is also played by a veteran of the production, Franchon Jennings. Felipe, this year, is played for the first time by Bill Rose.

ROSE BASS
Happy 8th Anniversary

WHEN JACK and Rose Bass celebrate an anniversary, they want everybody to join in the fun and good fellowship.

So that's why there'll be special treats for the diners this Wednesday evening at their superb restaurant, Jack's Corsican Room, 5430 E. Second St., Naples. Jack and Rose will mark their eighth anniversary as owners of the Corsican by including marvelous Emerald Dry wine with all dinners. The guests will also receive slices from a large anniversary cake topped with tall red candles.

Actually, every evening is a fun evening at Jack's. Rose, recently returned from a three-week visit with relatives in Baltimore, is a unique hostess with the knack of making everyone feel comfortable and appreciated. Jack is an equally personable host—but he's also much more. His knowledge of cooking is what really makes the Corsican Room hum, the guests praising his cuisine again and again as they return for more and more.

Serving dinners daily and Sunday from 4 p.m. on, the Corsican features extraordinary prime rib au jus, charcoal-broiled steaks, Australian lobster tails and numerous delectable continental dishes. All are served with superior soup, large salad, baked potato, beverage and dessert. The prime rib ($4) is so good that people constantly go out of their way to thank Jack and Rose for keeping its quality consistently high. The continental dishes (from $2.75) are magnificent originals, such as chicken cooked in wine, chicken cacciatore, stuffed cabbage rolls, beef goulash, beef burgundy, shrimp in cheddar sauce and veal scaloppine Marsala.

The Corsican Room is closed Mondays.

BERT'S EYE VIEW

TV Experiment Pays Off for Quizmaster

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

The heat from the TV lights was about 145 degrees and the small, baking room made Dennis James feel like the chicken centerpiece in a hot oven.

It was 1938 and television was in the experimental form. James was a $50-per-week part of that experiment.

"I spent more than that $50 lunching people who appeared on my variety show," he said.

"My friends said I was crazy.

"But looking back, I know it was the best $50 I ever got in my life."

His salary has changed somewhat from that period. James' annual income currently is in the six-figure column—and not far from the seventh.

He hosts the daily "Beat the Odds" show on KTLA (channel 5), is a panelist on NBC-TV's (channel 4) "Your First Impression" and makes several daily radio appearances.

Excepting a three-year stint in the Army, he hasn't been off the air for a week.

JAMES WAS a radio disc jockey in 1938 when he agreed to participate in Dr. Allen B. DuMont's first experimental TV station in New York.

About 300 people had TV receivers at that time.

As a result of that pioneer TV participation, James has almost 300 "firsts" to his credit. Among them:

First TV game-show host, quiz-show, variety show with guest stars, sportscaster, commercial announcer, director, producer, program packager, remote telecaster and first network television star.

In 1948, when he was competing with comedian Milton Berle for the honor, James won the first Critics Circle Award as the most outstanding personality.

One of the main reasons he was chosen was for his "outstanding" performance as a wrestling announcer.

"I WOULD call the whole match in poetry," said James. "For example:

"They're out of the ring.
"But they'll be back.
"And when they do,
"Two heads will crack."

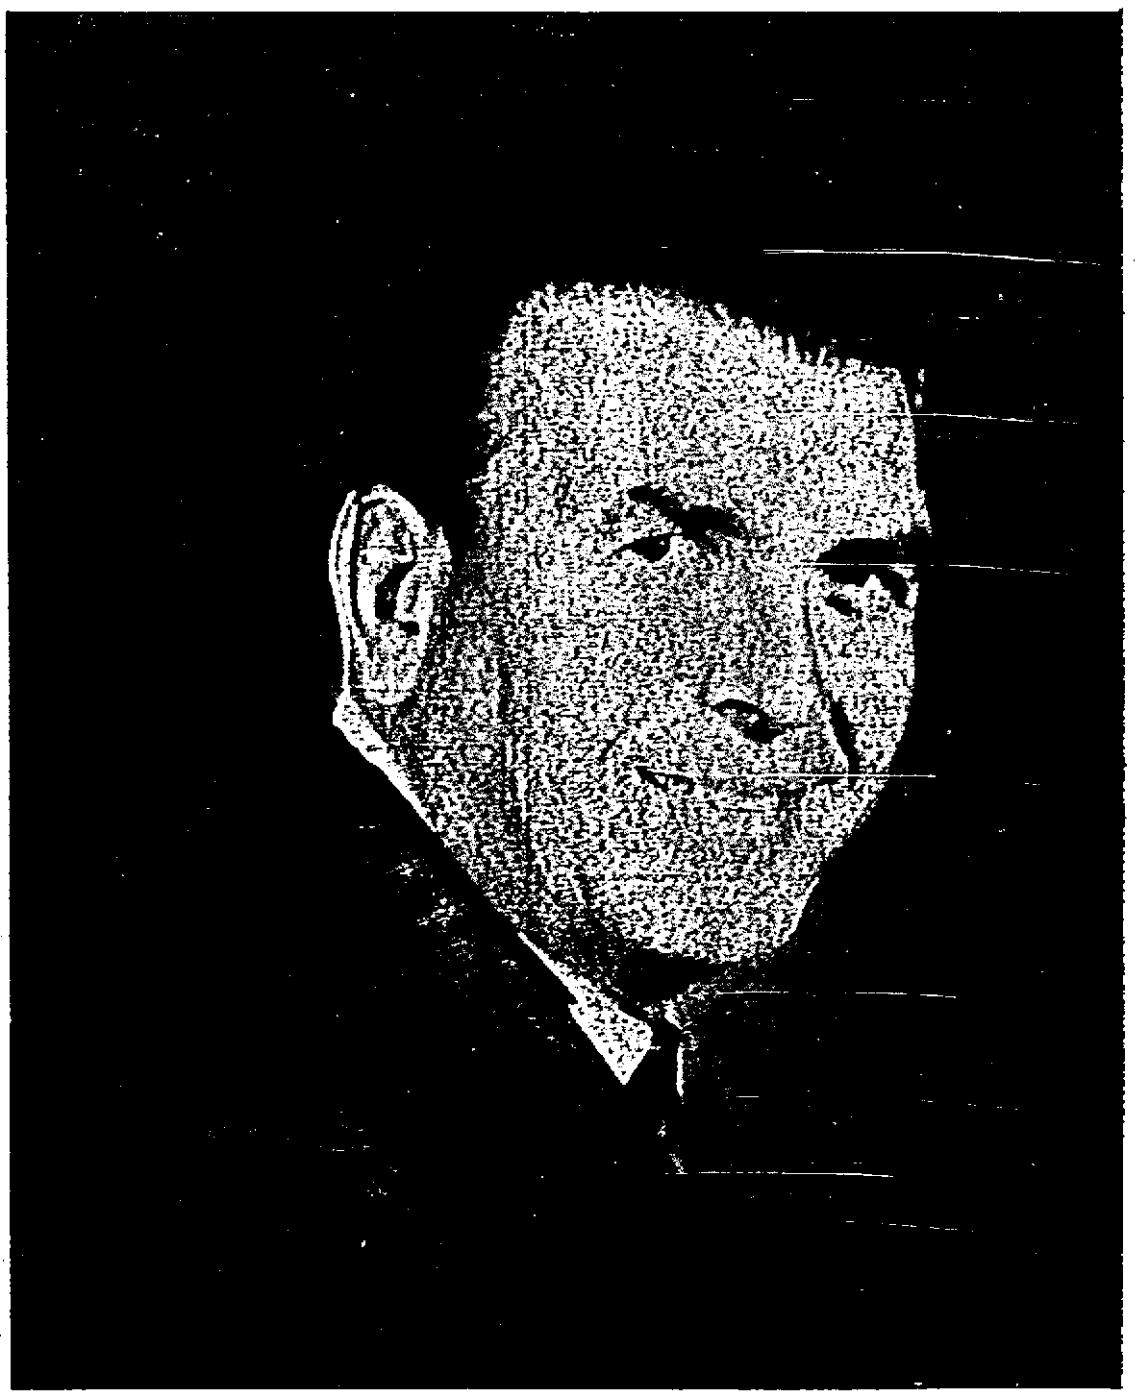

Game shows—not wrestling—are still James' first TV love.

"Financially, they've put him in a position where he makes much more than a dramatic star "unless I was a Cary Grant." It has enabled him to take dramatic roles "for kicks."

James enjoys the "spontaneity" of being on a quiz show.

He gets a "great measure of satisfaction" when a contestant loosens up

Repeats $, Repeats $, Repeats $

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

R-E-S-I-D-U-A-L-S spell M-O-N-E-Y.

To repeat it another way, reruns mean re-payments for any television actor who might merely exclaim "Ow!" during the course of a gang-busting video shoot-out.

If it took five days to get that "ow" down on tape, the actor with the one-word speaking role has received a minimum of $350 for his monosyllablic verbal pain.

And it is an "ow" that can possibly turn into wow, wow, wow, wow, wow."

The one-worded actor, after the original "ow" has aired, is eligible for percentage payments—residuals—five more times.

The percentage, starting with 35 per cent of his original salary for the first repeat, can add up to 140 per cent. And 140 per cent of "ow" is $490.

Supposing the actor has more than one word in his vocabulary. Supposing he's the third lead in a 29-sequence series and earns a minimum salary of $500 per five-day week.

Mr. Third lead has the same 140 per cent residual eligibility and for each repeat of all of the 29 sequences.

• • • •

SOUND lucrative?

Maybe, but it's just pennies compared to the dollars up for grab in making TV commercials.

The TV entertainment actor's residuals end when a program has been aired six times—and very few hit the tube that often.

The actor in a TV commercial, even if he's only an off-stage voice, gets a percentage payment every time the blurb is aired ad infinitum ad nauseum.

To illustrate, a relatively unknown model about a year back filmed a couple of brief shampoo commercials.

The model is still relatively unknown—but not to her banker. So far she has deposited $30,000.

The amount of payment for repeating a commercial varies with whether it's done on a program basis or a spot announcement or done nationally or regionally.

But no matter how it's done or where it's done, for every single time it hits the air, there is a residual payment made to the participating actor—or shampooer.

• • • •

IN ADDITION there is a great demand for "special" or "trick" voices in the making of commercials. The possessor of one of these voices can negotiate for a higher initial fee and subsequently higher returns.

"Special" voices can bring fees ranging from $30,000 to $200,000.

Herschel Bernardi, who formerly played the detective lieutenant in the "Peter Gunn" series, is an example of a special voice.

Maybe there's no outward resemblance to "Charley the Tuna," but Herschel and Charley are one and the same.

MARY MARTIN
$25,000 a Re-Run

DENNIS WEAVER
Worth a Million

"That Little Old Winemaker" is the voice of Jim Backus who also is Mr. Magoo and played the husband in the "I Married Joan" series.

Both probably could spend all their acting time making TV commercials. There's no doubt they would earn more money.

But both prefer entertainment acting to the "more money" and they're typical, in that respect, to most video actors.

Most entertainment video actors, if they had the choice, would prefer higher salaries without residuals.

• • • •

FOR WHILE residuals may spell "money," it's only sometimes. Residual rights are worthless if a program is never repeated.

Bigger-name actors sometimes have the choice.

Earl Holliman, for example, currently is starring in "Wide Country." He has no residual rights, but he does receive a salary of approximately $5,000 a week.

He earned considerably less than half that sum when he starred in the defunct "Cafe de Paris" series. The series flopped and there was no great demand to repeat it—and subsequently, few residual payments.

With the "Paris" flop experience in mind, Holliman nixed residual rights and contracted for the larger outright salary, instead.

It's an industry fact that there is an 80 per cent "death rate" for TV series in their first year.

And you can't pay the milkman with residual rights when they don't spell repeat money.

• • • •

SHIRLEY "Hazel" Booth gave up her residual rights. Instead, she took a 25 per cent partnership interest with Screen Gems in her highly rated show.

Mary Martin has a deal where she gets $25,000 every time "Peter Pan" is annually repeated.

To pacify Dennis "Chester" Weaver of "Gunsmoke," his residual rights to the half-hour segments were purchased at an estimated million dollars, payments to be spread over a 10-year period.

He doesn't anticipate any difficulty paying his milkman.

Sports Today

BASEBALL, 9:45 a.m., ch. 8 (San Diego), as the Cardinals and Phillies meet again at Connie Mack Stadium.

BASEBALL, 11 a.m., ch. 10 (San Diego), with the Redlegs and Pirates at Pittsburgh's Forbes Field.

NBA FINALS, 5 p.m., ch. 9, as the Lakers meet the Celtics in their fifth game in best-of-7 series, at Boston Gardens.

LIZA MINNELLI, Judy Garland's daughter, guests on "The Ed Sullivan Show" at 8 p.m. Sunday, channel 2.

Lakewood Parade

Lakewood's 17th annual Pan American Festival Parade will be aired for 90 minutes today (Sunday) on channel 11 starting at 6 p.m. The four-division parade, including 17 bands, was scheduled to be taped earlier this afternoon for the evening telecast.

SPECIAL

THE VATICAN—Last week's color tour of the Holy See and the people who make it work, from choir boy, firemen and postman to His Holiness Pope John XXIII, is repeated at 12:30 p.m., ch. 7, as West Coast viewers get make-up for last week's interruption by phone company switching error.

FOR WHICH WE STAND—The 2-part presentation of the 6,000-mi. field trip of 12 L.A. 6th graders to Washington last April, which won for KNXT the 1962 Freedoms Foundation award, is rebroadcast at 3 p.m., today and next Sunday, on ch. 2. Art Linkletter is host-narrator, with Tex Ritter reciting the American Creed and the Pledge of Allegiance during opening and closing credits. The youngsters visit historic landmarks, talk with Vice President Johnson and Congressional leaders.

PAN-AMERICAN PARADE—The 5-division parade climaxing Lakewood's 17th annual festival festivities gets a 90-min. screening at 6 p.m., ch. 11. Bill Welsh will describe the bands, drill teams, floats, equestrian units, military units and Latin-American dignitaries taking part.

AMERICAN LANDMARK: Lexington-Concord—Fredric March is off-camera narrator for a color chronicle of a routine garrison mission by British troops that touched off the American Revolution. Original musical score by Jacques Belasco symbolizes the action as no living person appears, but the camera seems to participate in the events at the Old North Church, Boston Common, Ephrian Hartwell's Tavern and other historical sites, during the 8:30 p.m., ch. 4, special.

SHOW OF WEEK—Intimate documentary, filmed in the Boston area, tells the dramatic, real-life story of the intense personal relationship between a parole officer and a young paroled convict, at 10 p.m., ch. 4. Filmed as it actually happened, Joseph McCormick, field parole officer for the Massachusetts Parole Board, tries to convince one of the 85 parolees in his jurisdiction to trust another person, and get help from this source. Actor Walter Matthau is narrator.

Television Movie Tips

SUNDAY

THE SNAKE PIT—9 a.m., ch. 11. Olivia DeHavilland, Celeste Holm, Mark Stevens (1949). Brutal adaptation of the best selling book about life in an overcrowded mental hospital.

best selling book about life in an overcrowded mental hospital.

A WOMAN'S VENGEANCE 11 a.m., ch. 4. Charles Boyer, Ann Blythe, Jessica Tandy (1948). Absorbing drama by Aldous Huxley of married man having an affair with a younger woman who is placed on trial when his wife is found to have been poisoned.

ARMORED COMMAND — 7:30 p.m., ch. 9. Howard Keel, Tina Louise, Jack Carson, Keenan Wynn, Earl Holliman, Marty Ingels (1961). First run. Seemingly shy and innocent German girl is left wounded by the Nazis to infiltrate the American lines and gain Allied friendship.

THE HOODLUM PRIEST—8 p.m., ch. 7. Don Murray, Larry Gates, Keir Dullea (1961). Jesuit priest devotes his life to the rehabilitation of ex-convicts. With this film, ABC movies begin summer-long repeats.

MONDAY

BARBARIAN & THE GEISHA—7:30 p.m., in color, ch. 4. John Wayne, Eiko Ando, So Yamamura, Sam Jaffe (1958). First run. First accredited U.S. diplomatic representative to Japan arrives in the port city of Shimoda (1856), but is ordered to leave by the local governor. John Huston directed

JANET LEIGH witnesses a murder during the 1954 movie "Rogue Cop" on channel 11 at 8 p.m. Friday.

MR. DEEDS GOES TO TOWN—11:30 p.m., ch. 2. Gary Cooper, Jean Arthur (1936). Frank Capra's comedy masterpiece about a country boy who inherits $20,000,000 and runs up against some New York con artists.

SATURDAY

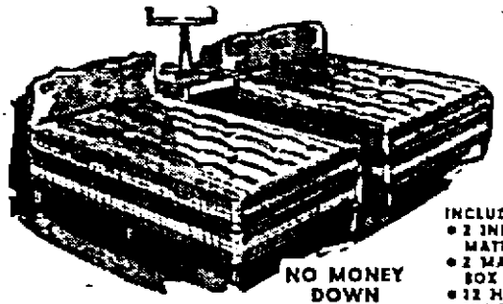

THREE COINS IN THE FOUNTAIN—9 p.m., in color, ch. 4. Clifton Webb, Dorothy McGuire, Louis Jourdan, Jean Peters, Rossano Brazzi, Maggie McNamara (1954). Two-Oscar-winning film about three young American secretaries who lose their hearts while working in Rome.

EARL OF CHICAGO — 10 p.m., ch. 11. Robert Montgomery, Edward Arnold (1939). Plenty of fun in this story of a Chicago beer baron who becomes an English lord

COME FILL THE CUP — 11:10 a.m., ch. 9. James Cagney, Raymond Massey, Phyllis Thaxter, James Gleason, Gig Young, Sheldon Leonard (1951). Cagney is excellent as an alcoholic ex-newspaper reporter

SPECIAL

DAVID BRINKLEY—A visit to Brighton, Great Britain's counterpart of Atlantic City, and a feature on foreign television commercials are topics for the color "Journal," at 10 p.m., ch. 4. Latter include commercials for Italian motor scooters (with all sounds made by a man who does sound effects with his mouth), British gasoline and French girdles. Brinkley says the controlling undergarment is treated with neither "circumspection" nor "hesitancy."

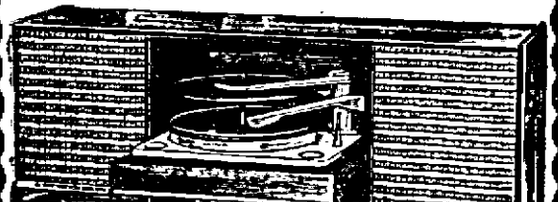

GREAT CONVERSATIONS—Host Robert M. Hutchins discusses "education in a democracy" with guest Franklin Murphy, chancellor of UCLA, at 10:30 p.m., in color, ch. 4. The two discuss controls and equality of opportunity.

Sports Today

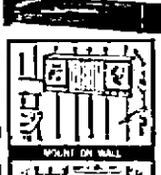

BOXING from Hollywood, 8:30 p.m., ch. 13, with bantamweights Eddie Santos vs. Manny Liston.

Instruct Quiz Show Contestants

"and comes to life" on one of his programs.

James admits that some "loosening up" efforts are made with contestants before the show airs.

"Even the Barrymores had directors," he said. "So why not give a contestant some instructions so he won't be flat.

"There is no harm in telling a person to show animation."

* * * *

THE INSTRUCTIONS do not include answers to a quiz.

However, prospective contestants are tested in advance of being accepted.

"Who in the world knows the answer to everything?" rhetorically asked James. "A certain man is an expert in a certain field. We must find out where the knowledge of our contestant is above average.

"If not, you could ask five people a two-letter word beginning with 'a' and ending with 't' and four would fail to answer."

SUZANNE STORRS falls in love with "Maverick" at 9 p.m. today (Sunday) on channel 9.

It's a real honor for an automobile man to be on the staff of Glenn E. Thomas Co. The highest standards must be met by any salesman selected to represent this firm, with its 55-year history of integrity and fair dealings. And this year Thomas has increased its margin of leadership . . . thanks partly to the tremendous sales success of the 1963 Dodge/Dart, priced at Thomas as low as $2105 . . . and carrying the industry's first 5-Year/50,000 Mile Warranty! I look forward to demonstrating this great car for you soon.

OZZIE & HARRIET—Rick is best man at his friend's wedding and learns that matrimony can be catching, at 7:30 p.m., ch. 7. Repeat segment was set to coincide with Rick's real-life Bahama honeymoon following his marriage last Saturday to Kristin Harmon. And Pamela Austin, who plays an unnamed "pretty girl" in this segment, now is engaged to Rams back Charley Britt, also featured in this repeat.

ALCOA PREMIERE—Dana Andrews stars as a former co-owner of an island town's prosperous fishing cannery, closed by an old strike, who returns after seven years to find a ghost town, with the remaining residents blaming him. A new industry, with a sinister purpose, is proposed during the 10 p.m., ch. 7, hour, and he must decide whether to ruin what's left of the town—or leave it to die.

SPECIAL

TODAY — Buster Keaton, now 68, is special guest as the entire two-hour 7 a.m., ch. 4, show is devoted to his career. "Today" regulars will be dressed in typical Hollywood outfits of early movie days, and a special outdoor set will boast movie cameras, open cars and other props of 1911. Keaton will tell how his "little man" differed from Chaplin's "little tramp," and join in viewing some of his silent films, including the first one he made, "The Butcher Boy" (1917), with Fatty Arbuckle.

LAS FLORISTAS — The annual Floral Headdress Ball, observing its silver anniversary, gets its first local colorcast (other years have been B&W) when it is shown at 8:30 p.m., ch. 4, live from the International Ballroom of the BevHilton. Tom Frandsen and Mona Freeman will describe the gowns and floral headdresses worn by the 12 mannequins. Proceeds from the charity ball go to a pre-school clinic on the campus of USC.

Pan and Fan Mail

I am writing in defense of TV ratings—to at least some extent.

The ratings have knocked out "Combat" and, after viewing a recent program, I concur.

Imagine writing a script in which a battle-line American sergeant dances with a French girl, who is mentally unbalanced, in the middle of a German mortar barrage.

To picture our fighting men as being that disgustingly stupid prompted me to protest also to the American Legion.

John C. Bladen, Long Beach

Perhaps the sergeant only excelled at dancing and was afraid of being mortarfied elsewhere.

I am very unhappy about the TV timing of the Wednesday night shows.

The three best shows of the entire week come on at 10 p. m., "The 11th Hour," "The U. S. Steel Hour" and "Naked City."

I hate to miss any of them and I can only see one.

Please, can't the timing be changed?

Mrs. Mary L. Edwards, Lakewood

You'll have no problem next season, Mrs. Edwards. "Naked City" and "U.S. Steel Hour" won't be back.

Q. I would like to know if the present Pope, John XXIII, was ever accused by the Vatican of holding heretical views. If so, when?—K.T., Scranton, Pa.

A. The Pope was never accused. Back at the turn of the century when he was Mgr. Angelo Roncalli, secretary to the Bishop of Bergamo, a radical friend of his and fellow priest, Ernesto Buonaiuti, was defrocked by the Holy Office. It was then thought that Mgr. Roncalli might have been "contaminated" by his friend, and the Bishop of Bergamo was asked to keep an eye on him. The Pope is fond of telling this story, frequently in a humorous vein, to groups of visiting young priests.

Q. Is it true that Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain has the world's greatest art collection?—H. Knudsen, Ann Arbor, Mich.

A. Certainly one of the greatest, much of which will be reproduced in a book to be published shortly, The Queen and the Arts.

Q. What is Edmund Purdom doing now that Linda Christian is playing the field?—Judy Knowles, Ft. Worth, Texas.

A. Purdom has been dating Sara Leighton, 26, a portrait painter in London.

Q. How tall is Bobby Kennedy? I understand he wears lifts in his shoes so that he can be taller than she?—J.T., Salem, Mass.

A. Robert Kennedy is 5 feet 10, does not wear lifts in his shoes.

Q. Is it true that Nasser's United Arab Republic stands ready to finance all anti-Semitic organizations? — R.T.P., St. Paul, Minn.

A. No, although many such organizations do contact the UAR for financial help. For example, John Tyndall, leader of the British Nazi movement, asked the UAR for $45,000, but Nasser refused to have anything to do with him.

Q. I've been told frequently that English knighthoods and peerages are for sale. Please comment.—G.L., Durham, N.C.

A. Formerly, but no longer. During the reign of King George V and the premiership of Lloyd George, a knighthood cost $50,000, a baronetcy $150,000, a peerage $250,000 and up.

Q. Who performed the plastic surgery on Ingrid Bergman? — Jane Smart, Seattle, Wash.

A. Miss Bergman has never had plastic surgery performed.

Q. For 30 years Jack Benny has used two jokes: his age, supposedly 39, and his stinginess. When will he take a new tack?—Charles David, Newark, N.J.

A. Benny, 69, believes in leaving well enough alone.

Q. Are Louella Parsons and Jimmy McHugh married? Also, which McHugh was married to Eddie Cantor's daughter?—Dorothy Bishop, Boston, Mass.

A. Songwriter Jimmy McHugh and columnist Louella Parsons are not married. It was Mr. McHugh's son who was once married to Eddie Cantor's daughter.

Q. Is it true that Garry Moore earns $45,000 per week?—T. Young, Rye, N.Y.

A. Yes, Moore is the highest-paid performer on TV and radio.

Q. Will Defense Secretary McNamara reveal how many servicemen we have in Vietnam and how much it is costing us there?—Frank Haggen, Las Vegas, Nev.

A. We have 12,000 servicemen in Vietnam. It costs us $200,000,000 to support them. In addition we are spending $400,000,000 a year to support the bankrupt Ngo Dinh Diem government.

Q. I have read that a campaign is under way in Greece to discredit the monarchy. Is this correct?—Fred Sikouris, Los Angeles, Calif.

A. King Paul and Queen Frederika have become quite unpopular in Athens for several reasons: (1) the Queen is considered the power behind the Greek throne; (2) she is German-born; (3) she is accused of meddling in politics; (4) it was she who insisted on payment from public funds of a $300,000 dowry to Don Juan Carlos of Spain when he married her daughter, Princess Sophia; (5) the Queen is estranged from her mother, who continues publicly to criticize her.

Q. Princess Soraya has been signed to a film contract in Italy. Can she act? Does she have any acting experience? —Robert Neville, Tulsa, Okla.

A. Soraya has had no professional acting experience, but such experience is no prerequisite for film work.

Q. Did President Kennedy and Adlai Stevenson attend the same school?—F.P., Pelham, N.Y.

A. At different times each attended Choate, a preparatory school in Wallingford, Conn.

TEENAGERS: WHY THEY DRIVE THAT WAY

by LLOYD SHEARER

THE MOST DANGEROUS PEOPLE in America today are male teenagers.

Here are some figures released by the FBI which are guaranteed to curl your hair and shatter the most sophisticated composure:

Teenagers in the 15-19 age bracket comprise 7.4 per cent of the U.S. population. Yet in 1961 the group under the age of 18 was involved in 59 per cent of the auto thefts, 48 per cent of the larcenies, 17 per cent of the forcible rapes, 12 per cent of the aggravated assaults and 8 per cent of the murders. Nice kids!

The year 1962 closed with a 7 per cent national increase in serious crime and an almost correlative increase in teenage involvement. The FBI estimates, for example, that last year our teenagers committed 65 per cent of the nation's 348,000 auto thefts.

Teenagers are most dangerous to themselves and to the public as automobile drivers.

Approximately 38,000 persons in this country are killed annually in car accidents. Insurance companies point out that the under-20 driver, totaling less than 8 per cent of all drivers, is involved in more than 11 per cent of these fatalities and 14 per cent of all motor vehicle smashups.

The teenage driver has an accident involvement rate 2½ times the average rate of adult drivers. Two out of every five teenagers are involved in traffic accidents, and each year it's a different two out of five. Collision and liability insurance premiums for male teenagers cost two to three times more than what their parents pay.

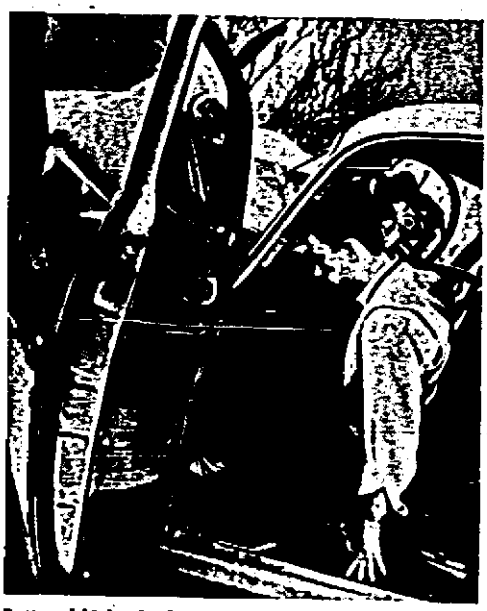

Behind the Wheel

What happens to the average teenager when he enters an automobile and gets behind the wheel? Does he suddenly become power-drunk? Does he lose his sense of reality? Does he regard the auto as an escape mechanism, a sublimation device designed to release him from care, worry, duty and responsibility?

Take three recent cases from the files of insurance companies. In Los Angeles an 18-year-old driver, a senior in high school with good grades, a boy from a respectable family, ran a red light, hit an elderly man and his wife in a pedestrian crosswalk. He killed the man, sent the wife to the hospital with irreparable brain damage.

When asked why he was speeding and hadn't swerved to avoid the couple, the 18-year-old said: "I just don't know. I was so damn mad at my girl friend for dating someone else... I got into my car that night and felt I just had to take it out on someone."

In Kentucky one dark night last year a tan convertible sped along the highway west from Lexington. It careened madly around curves, raced along at 80 miles an hour. Trying to pass a slow-moving truck uphill, it sideswiped one car, forced another coming

Battered high school senior waits to be removed from car after accident in which 3 were killed, 6 others injured.

in the opposite direction off the road. Caught by police, the 17-year-old driver was asked to explain his speeding. "To tell you the truth," he confessed, "I had just washed my car down and wanted to dry it off in the night air."

In Plattsburg, N.Y., a few weeks ago, two teenagers, Ed Fontaine, 18, of Laconia, N.H., and Joe MacKay, 17, of New York City, killed an auto salesman so they could joyride in a white convertible he was selling.

Parents comfort themselves by thinking that the foregoing cases are not typical, that only a relative handful of hot-rodders get involved in serious accidents. It's not true. Each year 3,000,000 teenagers reach driving age—we now have 13,000,000 of such age in this country—and each year their record gets worse. J. Edgar Hoover says that if something isn't done to prevent teenagers from stealing cars, "some 96,000 youths will be arrested for auto thefts in 1970." Auto insurers say that if teenagers don't drive more carefully, the insurance rates on them will eventually become so astronomical as to price them out of driving until they reach age 25.

Highway commissions, insurance companies, police departments can provide the traffic researcher with the most detailed casualty data: (1) Saturday is the most dangerous driving day; (2) most car accidents occur between the hours of 4 and 8 P.M.; (3) almost 85 per cent of accidents causing death and injury result from excessive speed, driving on the wrong side of the road and failure to yield the right of way; (4) the majority of vehicles involved in accidents are in good condition.

But what these sources cannot detail is the psychology of the driver, particularly the teenage driver, who apparently has more psychological problems, more faulty personality traits, more incorrect attitudes than people in any other age bracket.

The crux of the matter is that to the average teenager a car is more than a means of transportation. It is a status symbol, a love nest, a bar, a meeting place, a device through which he can project hostility and aggression.

Period of Adjustment

Adolescence is a period of insecurity, inferiority, awkwardness, doubt, uncertainty and social adjustment—all of which are challenging and disturbing.

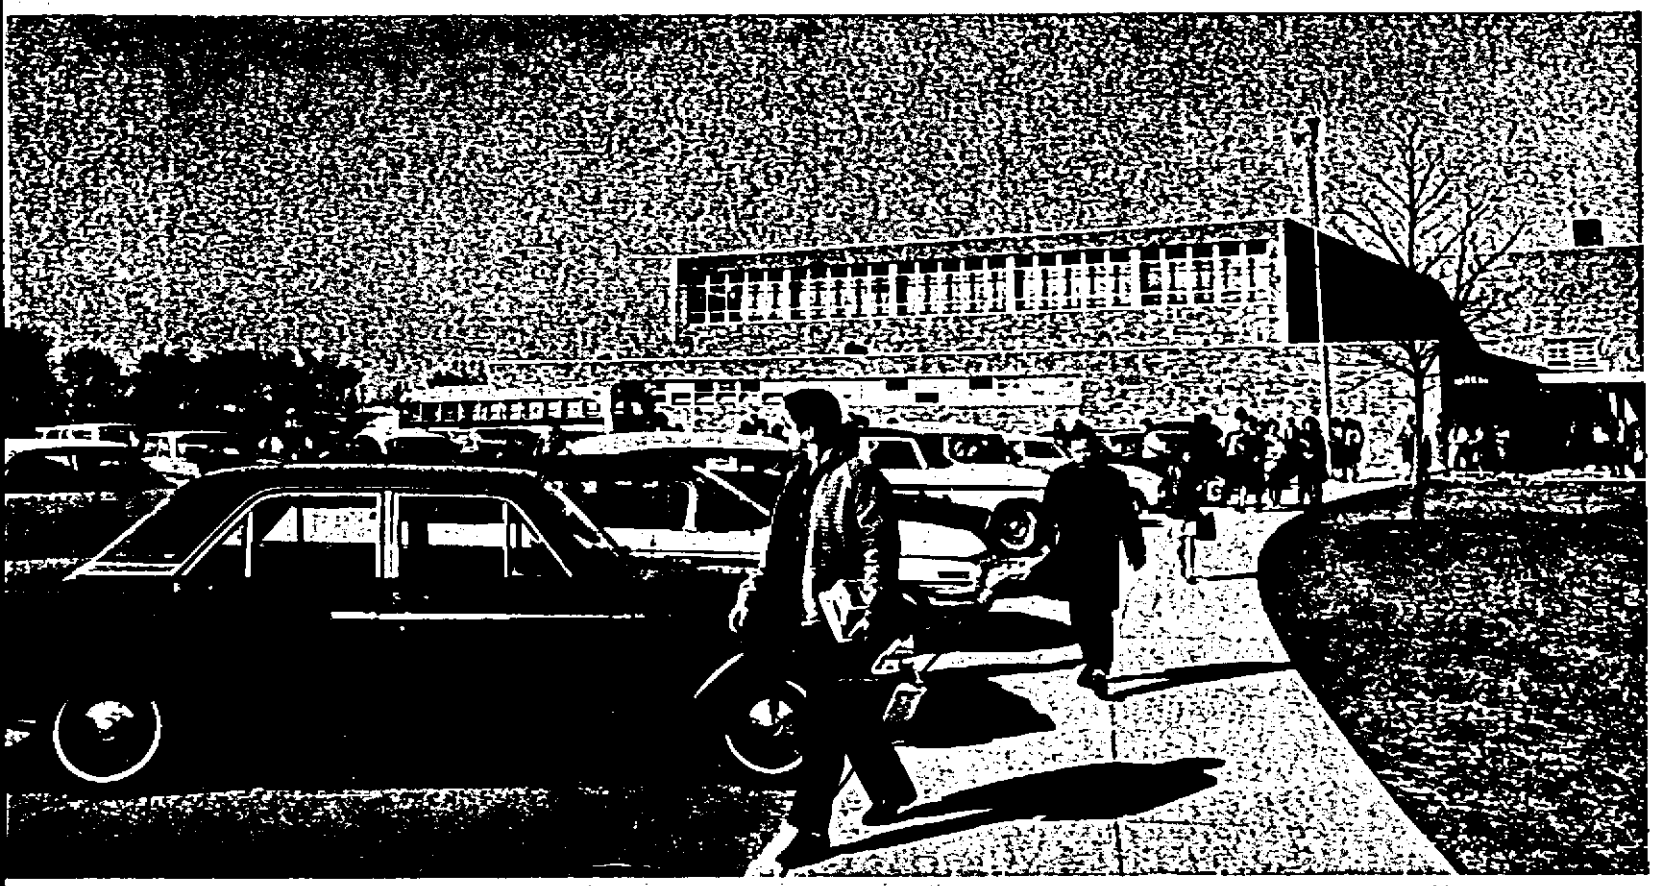

To the insecure teenager the practice of showing off to impress people is psychologically important. One device he prefers is the automobile.

A 16-year-old who killed his girl friend in an auto crash told the following story to an insurance adjuster: "I asked Ellen to go to the show with me on Saturday night. One of those foreign French pictures was playing, something about a piano player. The fellas who'd seen it said it was tough. Ellen said the movie was 'for adults only' and not to mention the name of the picture to her folks, and besides, she was sure they wouldn't let us in.

"I told her to leave it to me. I honestly thought I could talk our way in. I look older than I am, I'm more than 6-feet-1, and she's 15, but she looks older, too. And I've talked my way in before, so I told her not to worry.

"Anyway, I picked her up at her house and we drove over to the show, and the cashier wouldn't sell me any tickets. She asked to see my driver's license or some other proof of age. And I told her I didn't have any proof, and she said I'd have to talk to the manager. And all the time Ellen was pulling on my sleeve, saying, 'Let's go, Tom. Let's go. We'll see some other show.' But I wouldn't give up, and I tried to bluff it through with the manager. But no soap. So we got back into the car. And I was feeling awful. I mean awful. And then Ellen said something about not being able to fool all the people all the time, and it just got me so goddam mad.

"I mean she made me feel so small that I started to take the corners on two wheels. It frightened her, and I don't honestly know whether I was doing it to punish her or to compensate or to show off. I guess it was a combination of all three. But I was getting madder all the time, and out at Manchester I just yanked the wheel and took the corner on one wheel.

After classes many students at this Nassau County [N.Y.] high school pick up cars at school lot. Despite strict education and control methods, U.S. teenage accident rate soars.

The car plowed off, and I could see that pole—and then I heard her scream. After that I woke up here in the hospital."

The boy to whom this happened was supposedly a level-headed honor student. He had completed his driver education course in a California junior high with a top rating. In the eight months he'd had his driver's license, he had received no tickets. He knows a good deal about the mechanics of a car. His reflexes and reaction time are excellent. Wherein did he fail, and wherein did society fail him?

"You know," he now sadly says, "they taught me everything in school about driving except the most important thing—never drive when you're angry."

Dr. Paul Landis, sociology professor at Washington State and the author of many books on young people, has collected more than a thousand autobiographies of teenagers. According to these youngsters their number-one problem is "inferiority feelings" and the various ways in which they try to compensate for these feelings.

A Car of His Own

What the typical 16-year-old boy in this country wants most is a car of his own. To him this represents, among other things, the status of independence. Given a car of his own, he feels he no longer has to depend on his parents. He is truly on the road to manhood. Behind the wheel, he occupies a position of true equality. He is just as good as his parents, his teachers, all his elders.

Listen to this 16-year-old Texan who ran down a little Mexican girl and crippled her for life:

"My folks are separated, and my mom works and so do I, so I don't see her very much. When I do, we don't get along so well. She says I spend everything I make riding around in my old jalopy. I don't get on too well in school, either. The teachers are always bawlin' me out 'cause I don't do my homework. But I don't have the time. I'm also shy, and I don't talk so well. I guess I've got a vocabulary problem. Just can't seem to find the right words.

"That's why I don't get on so well with the girls. I just can't shoot 'em a line the way other guys do. But I'll tell you one thing, man. When I'm in that souped-up jalopy of mine, I'm just as good as my mom. I'm just as good as those teachers. And those girls, when I scoot up and burn rubber, they stop and stare. I get some attention with my jalopy. About that Gonzales kid—it wasn't my fault. She came running out after her doll. Her kid brother threw it in the street. I jammed my brakes, but that rubber wouldn't hold."

'They Thought I Was Chicken'

A teenager in Westchester County, N.Y., tried to explain to his parents why he'd been racing at 85 miles an hour on the Merritt Parkway when the state troopers caught up with him.

"I didn't want to go that fast," he declared. "But Larry and Frank were with me, and they asked what was the fastest I'd ever gone. I was only doing 50 at the time, and I could just feel that they thought I was chicken. They never said anything, but I could sense it. And then when I hit 60 and 70 they were all smiling, and I felt admired and exhilarated, so I just pressed down on the accelerator and got it up to 80, then 85. Then it started to quiver, I mean the whole engine, and I ran off the soft shoulder."

Today's American teenager feels he must have a car, or else, as he pithily puts it, "I just don't belong." As the new symbol of conformity, the automobile has affected the teenager's scholastic ability: the high school student who uses his car the most usually ends up with the worst grades. It has affected his sex life and his drinking habits. "Today," says Juvenile Officer Robert Burke, "teenagers drink more alcohol than ever before because they've got more money and more cars." But these problems are subsidiary to the major one of preserving life and limb.

How do we go about turning our teenagers into better drivers? Tougher law enforcement, stricter parental control, padded instrument panels, speed governors, seat belts, stricter licensing requirements, stiffer penalities for violation, drag strips for racers—"so they can get the speed out of their system"—required courses in driver education—all of these remedies have been recommended and many tried. But still the accident rate among youthful drivers is more than twice as high as the average adult rate, and still the severity of their accidents is much greater, and still, according to a poll conducted by Allstate Insurance with 30 high schools in the U.S. and Canada "most of the youngsters—not just a few—are involved in accidents."

Is there any answer, any solution? Possibly this: every teenager should be taught that behind 80 to 90 per cent of all car accidents lies a fault in the driver's personality traits or attitude. Teenagers must be taught about themselves, so that they will understand their strengths and weaknesses, their problems and predicaments.

Not a Crutch

Driver education must go far beyond teaching the mere mechanical operation of a car. Teachers who give such courses, and these courses should be mandatory in all 50 states, must be qualified to explain the teenager to himself so that he does not use his car as a psychological crutch. To conquer his bad driving record, the teenager must first learn what he has to control and conquer in himself. Inferiority feelings, daydreaming, sex problems, independence, understanding parents—these are all parts of driver education which have been neglected by parents and educators.

The result: death and disaster on the highways. Unless these decrease, there may be no alternative but to raise the basic licensing age from 16 to 18—perhaps even to 21. ■

POWER-KNIT®

Only Jockey® T-shirts are Power-Knit... keep their fit

The Jockey Power-Knit T-shirt is man-tailored, from its exclusive, nylon-reinforced Seamfree* collar that smoothly hugs the neck to its extra-long tail that stays tucked in. It's built to take the roughest, toughest wear. It won't bag or sag. Weekly bouts with the laundry won't faze it.

Why? Because this new Jockey Power-Knit T-shirt is made with extra yarn for more strength (more absorbency, more comfort, too). And its special Pak-nit* combed-cotton fabric helps prevent length shrinkage. Only the Jockey Power-Knit T-shirt is made like this to keep its fit. The extra-value is knit right in.

Pierre Salinger

The cigar-smoking press secretary has the second-toughest job in the White House

by JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON, D.C.

PRESIDENTIAL PRESS SECRETARY Pierre Salinger, a roly-poly fellow with a quick grin and pointed ears, appears like a misplaced, slightly mischievous pixy among the intense young men of the New Frontier. He is as easygoing as they are hard-driving. He has a haphazard disdain for the details they cram in their heads. He not only bubbles with good humor, but allows himself to be the butt of much of it.

Hitchcock Silhouette

A true member of the Kennedy cult is lean and athletic. But poor Pierre has an Alfred Hitchcock silhouette, often seems short of breath. He puffs constantly on a cigar, enveloping the prophets of physical fitness in clouds of smoke. Chosen to lead the White House 50-mile hike, he grinningly called the whole thing off after a 6-mile preliminary sent him to the dispensary with aches and blisters.

Salinger has also transformed Jim Hagerty's former taut office into a whirlpool of people, papers and palaver. As President Eisenhower's spokesman, Hagerty controlled every word that went out of the White House, conducted his press conferences like military briefings, and participated in shaping the policies he pronounced. Salinger makes no attempt to police the White House correspondents, and his ill-scheduled confrontations with them are more like coffee breaks. He also has nothing to do with policy-making, indeed is sometimes unaware what the latest policies are.

Newsmen often express dissatisfaction with Salinger and affection for him in the same breath. They grumble about his slipshod schedule, his cavalier attitude toward their queries, the errors which crop up in his press releases. But they always end up forgiving the likeable guy with the pear-shaped shadow whose job has been called the second toughest in the country.

For Salinger is on the firing line every day, sparring with some of the sharpest minds in the press corps. Hagerty had warned him that his toughest problem would be separating what can and can't be told to the press. Pierre now agrees Hagerty was right, finds the mental gymnastics sometimes trying.

"Much highly secret information crosses my desk," he explained to PARADE. "In my mind, I've got to sort out the classified from the unclassified as I ad-lib answers to questions." His worst gaffe: he announced the assassination of Dominican Dictator Rafael Trujillo before it was officially confirmed, having seen a preliminary classified report.

For all the strain, Pierre's daily bouts with the press produce some of the best repartee in town. Indeed, the transcripts of his press conferences are read for entertainment by other White House aides. Here are some typical excerpts:

On the Nassau meeting between President Kennedy and Prime Minister Macmillan...

SALINGER: The statement will be read by both the President and the Prime Minister personally.

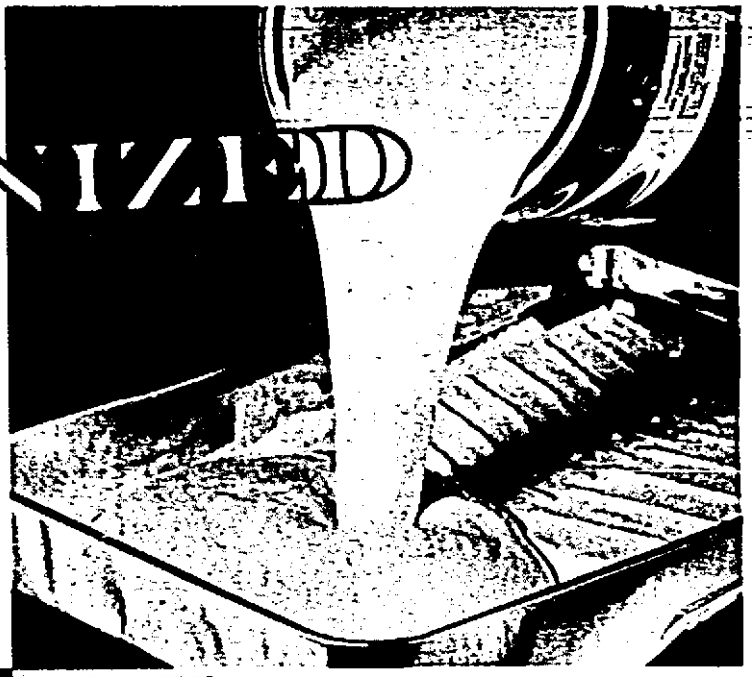

Q.: Both of them will read the same statement?

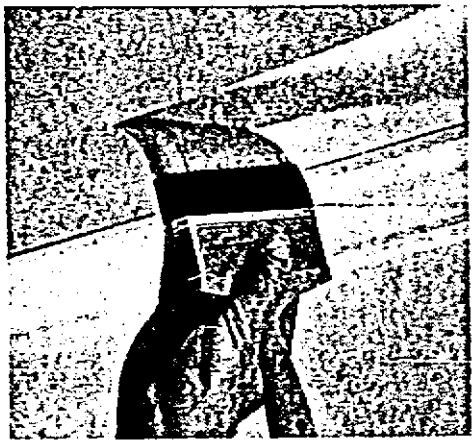

S.: They will both be together. They are not going to sing a capella.

On Zsa Zsa, a talented rabbit, donated to the White House by a Pittsburgh magician.

S.: It's supposed to be able to play the first five bars of the Star-Spangled Banner on a toy golden trumpet.
Q.: Was the rabbit playing the trumpet when it came in?
S.: No, the trumpet came separately.
Q.: Do you have to finger the trumpet for the first five bars?
S.: The trumpet that came didn't have any fingers.
Q.: Do you know that this rabbit is a lush? The rabbit has been drinking beer for quite some time now. What are you doing about feeding him?
S.: Roll out the barrel.

On Flag Day, June 14, which also happens to be Salinger's birthday...

S.: I went for years thinking those flags were out there for me.

Salinger's only serious brush with the press came in his role of managing the news during the Cuban crisis. Throughout those tense days, the White House kept a tight rein on every word released to the press. A special phone system linked the desks of Salinger, Pentagon press chief Arthur Sylvester and State Department press chief Robert Manning. When one picked up the phone, the other two phones rang, and every announcement was discussed over the hookup before being released by Sylvester.

They put out flat lies about the missile build-up in Cuba, troop dispositions, the interception of Cuba-bound ships. For this, Salinger took it on the chin from his news chums. His justification: Sometimes it is necessary to mislead the people in order to mislead the enemy.

When Pierre decides to pout about his poor publicity, he gets little sympathy from his boss. Once the President pointed out to him that, as Chief Executive, he "gets the business" from half a dozen papers every day. "One guy takes you on and you cry," Kennedy chuckled.

From the President on down, the New Frontiersmen love to rib Pierre. They tease him about his weight, his cigars, the teletype machines in his White House bathroom. When presidential aide Lee White asked the White House switchboard to connect him with "the frantic Frenchman," he was put through to Salinger without hesitation.

One time when Salinger tried to perform a public service he got only a good-natured presidential barb for his trouble. Hoping to do his bit to stem the decline in milk consumption, he drank a glass of the stuff in full view of the TV cameras. Next morning at breakfast, Kennedy remarked over the toast: "I saw you on TV yesterday. You gave milk consumption the worst setback in years." He explained drily that worry about overweight was one of the factors causing milk's decline.

Salinger first crossed paths with the Kennedys when, as a news sleuth investigating the Teamsters Union for Collier's magazine, he interviewed Robert Kennedy, then a Senate racket buster. After Collier's folded in 1956, Salinger received two job offers within 48 hours. One came from the Teamsters offering him a public relations spot, the other from the younger Kennedy inviting him to join the committee staff and bring along his Teamsters research. Pierre said yes to Kennedy. His first assignment: the ironic chore of serving a subpoena on the same Teamsters vice-president who had offered him a job.

Press conference with Pierre: Serious give-and-take sessions also produce many witty exchanges.

Later, Salinger got a chance to become press spokesman for the Democratic Advisory Committee, which included the biggest-name Democrats in the country. But Robert's brother, Sen. John F. Kennedy, asked Pierre to turn it down and work for him instead. He became Kennedy's press secretary during the 1960 presidential campaign and wound up with the appointment to his present post after the election.

The youngest presidential press secretary in history, Salinger regards himself as a "reporter for the rest of the press." Reporters are inclined to look upon him as an Administration official, helping to spread its official viewpoint. Yet as a former reporter and editor for the San Francisco Chronicle, he knows a newsman's needs. He also has made news on his own, as witness his trip to Russia last year. He not only captured the record (13 hours) for the most time spent with the Soviet Premier by a visiting American, but also became the first American ever to sleep in a Soviet Premier's bed (at Khrushchev's riverside "dacha" 20 miles from Moscow).

Beginning to Wear

Despite the hours and the pressures, Pierre's grin is waning only slightly. He told PARADE that he enjoys his job but admitted it is beginning to wear on him. After a Sunday's relaxation with his wife, Nancy Joy, and three children from an earlier marriage, he finds it increasingly difficult to bounce back.

Last year, as his Christmas present to the President, Salinger had a Thomas Jefferson letter criticizing the press of his day copied from the original and handsomely framed. Then he attached a note, saying: "To the President. Any time you feel mad at the press, just remember Jefferson got madder."

Salinger, by winning the affections of newsmen, has helped keep the President and the press on good terms. Perhaps this contagious combination of fondness and frivolity is best illustrated by the correspondents' reply to Salinger's "Good morning" at a recent press conference. In unison, they rose and shouted: "Good morning, teacher!" ■

and now... "INSTANT EXERCISE!"

Get the slimmer, stronger body you want with a fabulous new minute-a-day short-cut developed and proved out by a leading coach

GEORGIA BEAUTY

Cecilia Upton recently trimmed down her thighs in just 17 days with Dr. Salls' almost effortless minute-a-day exercises.

IMAGINE a 6-second exercise that helps keep you fit better than 24 push-ups! Or, another that's capable of doubling muscular strength in 3 weeks!

Both these "quickie" exercises are part of a fantastically simple body-building method developed by Alabama Doctor of Education, fitness expert and coach, Donald J. Salls. His own trim physique, his family's vigorous health and the nail-hard brawn of his teams are dramatic proof of the results he gets — not to mention the steady stream of reports from housewives, athletes, even school children who have discovered Dr. Salls' remarkable exercises.

Most Americans find exercise a tedious chore. Yet we all recognize the urgent personal and social needs for keeping our bodies strong, shapely and healthy. What man wouldn't take secret pride in displaying a more muscular figure? What woman doesn't long to trade in those flabby spots for a slimmer, more attractive figure?

The endless time and trouble required to get such results has been a major, if not impossible, hurdle for so many of us. But now doctors, trainers and physical educators are beginning to recommend the easy new approach to body fitness and contour control that Dr. Salls has distilled down to his wonderfully simple set of 10 exercises.

Each of Dr. Salls' exercises take only 6 seconds. All total just 1 minute per day. And you can do most of these "static exercises" almost anywhere—at work, waiting for a bus, while shaving in the morning. No special equipment is required. There's no special exertion, not even heavy breathing!

"Research shows that the right kind of exercise is much more important than how much you take," points out Dr. Salls. And there's overwhelming evidence that his kind of exercise is the right kind. The revolutionary principle he's applying has the impressive support of such institutions as New York University as well as leading physiologists, physical educators, Olympic stars, fashion models and scores of professional athletes.

Time Magazine, Reader's Digest, newspapers and scientific journals have started to call nationwide attention to the exciting concept behind Dr. Salls' minute-a-day "static exercises." One leading university recently published a bulletin stating: "This new method brings together all the known scientific facts of strength development and body mechanics. It is scientifically proven and a very rapid way of developing super strength."

It all started when a European scientist tied down one leg of a frog in a laboratory experiment. Later inspection revealed that the tied leg grew stronger than the free leg — because of what physiologists call isometric tension. The same principle then was applied to the human body. Within days, specialized tension exercises of a few seconds duration each were found to greatly increase muscular strength, firm up flabby areas, even improve general posture. It was later established that a slimmer figure can result from tight, strong muscles as well as from weight reduction.

Then Dr. Salls perfected his set of "10 static exercises in 1 minute" — his XSXIM Program — built on this quick, almost effortless approach.

Results have been surprising. For example:

Mrs. Arland Carter, Ft. Payne housewife, reports that in 14 days Dr. Salls' exercises took ¾ of an inch off her calves, 1 inch off her thighs, 2 inches off her waist.

E. V. Newman, a supervisor of physical education in Alabama, writes that "after 3 weeks of isometric exercises one of my students increased his ability to press (lift) from 160 pounds to 240 pounds."

J. B. Hammett, a Jacksonville service station operator, states that Dr. Salls' "static exercises" have allowed him to take 3½ inches off his waistline, trim down to a youthful 30½ inch girth in less than 10 weeks.

In short, Dr. Salls offers followers of his "10 static exercises in 1 minute":

stronger, firmer muscles • slimmed down waist, thighs, calves, forearms and neck by toning and tightening muscles • better muscular coordination and endurance • stronger back • improved posture.

Results are controlled primarily by the individual's own ideas of how far he or she desires to carry body building. If a man wants to have bulging weight-lifter's arms and shoulders, he simply concentrates more on certain of Dr. Salls' exercises. If a housewife seeks a more shapely midriff, a few weeks with several of the 6-second workouts usually will bring the desired results.

Now you — and your children, too — can have stronger, slimmer, healthier bodies without either the strain or boredom of old-fashioned exercises. Dr. Salls will send a full set of his instructions, complete with illustrations, to interested readers who use the coupon on this page. Remember! These exercises are different: they take you just 6 seconds each!

MORNING STRETCH

for Dr. Salls, former Alabama football star, and his family is limited to his ten 6-second exercises. Yet this remarkably easy new routine keeps them in better condition than the tedious, old-fashioned "daily dozen."

A drunk was stumbling along the street with one foot on the sidewalk and the other in the gutter. A friend of his walked up and asked him what he was doing walking that way, and the drunk replied: "Ish that what I'm doin'? Thank God—I thought I was crippled!"

The captain of a cruiser made a decidedly bad job of docking his ship. Knowingly, he waited for the admiral's reprimand. Sure enough, within a few minutes a message was delivered to him. It stated simply, "Good."

Perplexed but relieved, the captain poured himself a drink. He was just beginning to relax when a second messenger arrived with another message: "God!"

An English lady, self-appointed supervisor of village morals, accused a workman of having reverted to drink because "with my own eyes" she had seen his wheelbarrow outside a saloon.

The man offered no defense, but that evening he placed his wheelbarrow outside her door and left it there all night.

A sedate and polished gentleman who liked to dine in an atmosphere of peace and quiet was disturbed when a loud and uncouth man sat near his table in a restaurant. Finally, after causing a great deal of commotion, the man said: "What do I have to do to get a glass of water in this dump?" To which the gentleman quietly replied, "Why don't you try setting yourself on fire?"

When O Mistress Mine was playing on Broadway, a man in Philadelphia wired a friend in New York to get him a pair of tickets for the following Saturday night. The friend did and wired: "Mistress okay for Saturday night."

The Philadelphia man read the wire and howled—for below the message were the words: "Western Union prefers not to send this type of message."

A dignified-looking, middle-aged gentleman decided to take advantage of a special sale and buy his wife a pair of nylons. After waiting about an hour on the fringe of a screaming, pushing mob of women, he plunged towards the counter with both arms flying. Suddenly a shrill voice hollered out, "Can't you act like a gentleman?"

"I've been acting like a gentleman for over an hour and it got me nowhere," he replied, still plowing toward the counter. "Now I'm going to act like a lady!"

A doctor asked his new patient if she had been to any other doctor about her complaint before coming to see him.

"No," she replied, and then added, "but I did go to see my druggist."

"Well, that shows just how much sense some people have!" he exclaimed. "And what sort of idiotic advice did your druggist give you?"

"Oh," she answered sweetly, "he told me to see you."

Plain Talk about pain relievers

An advertisement well worth reading

1. Medical research has shown that pain relievers which have claimed to be gentler to the stomach than aspirin are not gentler than Bayer® Aspirin. Bayer Aspirin, in fact, is as gentle to the stomach as the gentlest, and that includes the buffered product.

2. Medical research has also shown that pain relievers which have claimed to be stronger than aspirin are not more effective than Bayer Aspirin. Bayer is as strong as the strongest.

3. Medical research has shown further that the pain reliever which has claimed to work faster than aspirin is not faster than Bayer Aspirin. Bayer is as fast as the fastest.

THUS, on all three points—gentleness, strength and speed—Bayer Aspirin meets all those other products for which you pay up to 75% more.

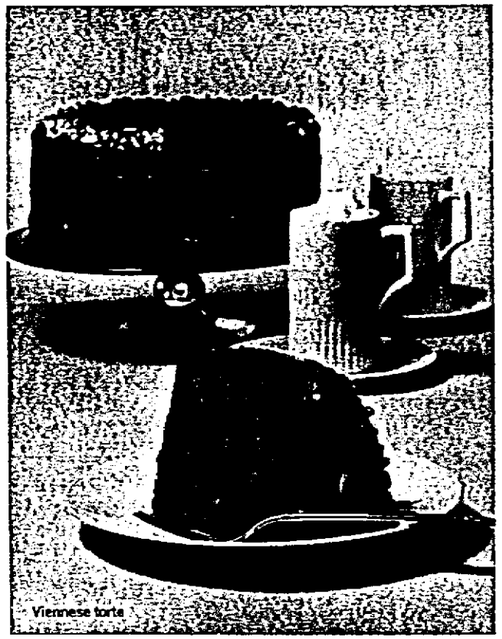

And remember, aspirin is what doctors consistently recommend and what doctors themselves take. When the makers of Bayer Aspirin asked over four thousand doctors if they took aspirin, better than nine out of ten said, "Yes."

Is it any wonder, then, that Bayer Aspirin is used by millions more people than any other brand of pain reliever? For relief of headaches, muscular aches and pains, the pains and fever of a cold or flu...take Bayer Aspirin, the best pain reliever the world has ever known.

TWO DESSERTS FOR SPRING

Viennese torte

We offer you a choice of two wonderful desserts for special spring dining. One is a version of a Viennese torte made with four layers of chocolate cake, filled with apricot jam, frosted with chocolate icing and topped with a wreath of chopped almonds and pistachio nuts. Simply delicious, if you want to stop there—but don't, because equally good and very different are the pastel pink meringue shells, filled with tart lemon cream and accented with scarlet strawberry slices. You'll want to make both.

by BETH MERRIMAN Parade food editor

VIENNESE TORTE

1 pkg. chocolate cake mix
¾ cup apricot preserves
3 tablespoons boiling water
1 pkg. (6 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
1 tablespoon shortening
3 tablespoons light corn syrup
2 tablespoons milk
almonds or pistachio nuts

Prepare and bake cake mix as directed on package for two 8-inch layers. Cool. Cut each layer in half crosswise to make 4 thin layers in all. Break up preserves with fork; add water; beat smooth. Spread between layers, on sides and top. Chill thoroughly. Melt chocolate and shortening over hot (not boiling) water. Remove from heat; blend in corn syrup and milk. Pour warm frosting over chilled torte; smooth with spatula. Garnish with chopped nuts. Serve with cream-topped coffee, Viennese fashion.

Pastel meringues

PHOTOS BY MEDORI

PASTEL MERINGUES

3 eggs, separated
⅛ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
¾ cup sugar, divided
½ cup quick strawberry-flavored mix
4 tablespoons lemon juice
1½ teaspoons grated lemon peel
1 cup heavy cream, whipped

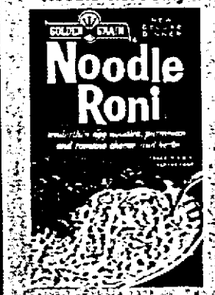

In small bowl of electric mixer, beat egg whites on high speed with salt and cream of tartar until stiff peaks form. Combine ½ cup of the sugar and quick strawberry-flavored mix. Add 2 tablespoons at a time, beating well after each addition. Beat until very stiff. Put meringue mixture through star tube in pastry bag* to make 6 shells on foil-lined baking sheet. Bake at 250° for 1½ hours. When shells are cool, remove from foil. For the filling, beat the egg yolks in top of double boiler. Stir in remaining ¾ cup sugar, lemon juice and peel. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until thickened. Remove from heat; chill. Fold in whipped cream. Fill meringue shells. Chill 6 to 12 hours. Garnish with fresh strawberry slices, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

*Or heap into 6 rounds about 3 inches in diameter, making a 2-inch depression in the center of each.

"I Was Marked With The SIGN OF THE CROSS"

"I knelt with others in a half-circle about the altar.

"My hands were anointed with holy oil by the Bishop and wrapped carefully in new linen.

"The ancient prayers of the Church were being recited over me. The hands of the Bishop were laid upon me just as the hands of St. Peter and St. James and St. Paul were laid upon the young disciples they sent forth to labor, to teach, and to die.

"The chalice with wine and water and a small dish holding the unconsecrated bread were entrusted to me. The priestly vestments were placed upon my shoulders.

"I was being consecrated to God and to the service of souls. I was being marked with the sign of the Cross.

"I was receiving the Sacrament of the Catholic priesthood, usually referred to as Holy Orders... instituted by Christ, conferred by the Apostles, and continuing in unbroken succession nearly 2,000 years since the time of Our Lord."

Some may scoff at the solemn ceremonies that attend the Ordination of a Catholic priest, and question the good sense of a man who surrenders many of life's material pleasures for such a calling. Others may doubt that the Catholic priest possesses any Christ-given office or powers which other men do not possess.

Perhaps you have heard someone challenge the authority of the priest to forgive sins, and his power to consecrate the Body and Blood of Christ in the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass. You may have been told that you can deal directly with God and don't need a priest or any mediator other than Jesus Christ.

It is a fact that many do hold these beliefs. But can you be sure, deep down in your heart, that they are right?

Holy Scripture tells us plainly that Christ did establish a priesthood to represent Him... that He did command His Apostles to "go forth and teach all nations"... that He did say: "Whose sins you shall forgive they are forgiven them"... that at the Last Supper He set the example for an unbloody sacrifice, and said: "Do this in remembrance of Me."

God is, certainly, the ultimate source of everything. But He works through many "deputies." He uses the farmer to supply us with food... our parents, teachers, and scholars to educate us... physicians to treat our physical ills. Even in the creation of our life itself, He manifests His power through our parents. And in matters concerning the salvation of our souls, He tells us: "Hear the Church."

An interesting pamphlet, which explains the significance of the Sacrament received by all Catholic priests... explaining the priests' ideals, powers, and responsibilities ...and giving a glimpse into the life of an average Catholic priest, will be sent immediately. And nobody will call on you. Write for Pamphlet No. PS-37.

Gianna d'Angelo, soprano from Hartford, Conn., makes a pert Rosina in Barber of Seville at the Met. With her as Figaro is Frank Guarrera, veteran baritone from Philadelphia, who won Met auditions in 1948 and has been with the company ever since.

YOU CAN SING AT THE MET

by HERBERT KUPFERBERG

A 23-YEAR-OLD GIRL from Sacramento, Calif., walked out onto the stage of the Metropolitan Opera in a performance of Verdi's La Traviata one night last December. She took a deep breath, sang one line and promptly disappeared into a crowd of choristers.

It was not one of the great events in the annals of opera, and the critics took scant notice of her in their reviews next morning. But to young Janis Martin, this brief appearance in a small role was one of the milestones of a lifetime—her debut at the world-famous Metropolitan Opera House.

Miss Martin got her chance to sing at the Met by winning the top prize in the nationwide system of auditions run by the company's National Council. These auditions represent one of the main avenues that can lead a young American singer to the Met. Others include singing in European opera houses, appearing in Broadway shows, working in community and college opera productions. More young Americans than ever before are seeking careers for themselves in opera, once regarded as an exclusively European province.

Even the opera houses of Europe are staffing themselves heavily with young Americans these days. Typical of the newest crop of American stars who got to the Met by way of a sojourn abroad is a tall, slender coloratura soprano named Gianna d'Angelo. She is a native of Hartford, Conn., and her real name is Jane Angelovich.

Miss d'Angelo spent 10 years in Italy, singing in various opera houses, always hoping for a shot at the Met. She got it in 1961 when she was invited to sing the part of Gilda in Rigoletto. She won an audience ovation and unanimous critical approval.

Jess Thomas, a 6-foot-3 tenor from Rapid City, S.D., has a similar story. He got his early musical training at the University of Nebraska and at Stanford University in California, and sang briefly with the San Francisco Opera. Then in 1958 he and his wife Bettye sold their family belongings and departed for Germany.

Spectator to Soloist

The night before the Thomases left the U.S. they sat in the audience at the Met—the first time for either of them. On their next visit, the night of Dec. 11, 1962, Jess was on stage, making his triumphal debut as Walther in Wagner's Die Meistersinger.

Although many young singers believe that European experience is the surest path to prominence at the Met, there are those who have managed to make a successful career within the confines of the house. George Shirley, a 28-year-old tenor born in Indianapolis and raised in Detroit, was the winner of the Met's national auditions in 1961.

"I entered my first singing contest when I was 3 years old," says Shirley. "It was run by Block's department store in Indianapolis, and I came in second with A Gold Mine in the Sky. A little girl won it singing and dancing One, Two, Button My Shoe."

Shirley got his big break soon after joining the company when, on the second night of the 1961-62 season, another tenor became ill and was unable to go on in Mozart's Cosi Fan Tutte.

Serving as a "stand-by" or "cover" for leading artists is one of the most important functions of young performers at the Met. It can be the path to fame or frustration. Roberta Peters, who had never appeared on the Met stage, was called upon to sing the role of Zerlina in Don Giovanni on a few hours' notice—and became famous on the spot. On the other hand, there is a young Met tenor from the Midwest who has been "covering" for other, more renowned singers for five years, waiting for a break that hasn't come yet and never may. "It's like waiting for someone to die," he says. "Not that you wish anybody any hard luck, of course, but still..."

Another singer who is determined to work his way up through the company without a European trip is William Walker, a handsome young baritone from Fort Worth, Tex., who thus far has sung only small roles.

"I'm aware there's a danger of becoming stuck in minor parts," Walker acknowledges. "But careers have been made in this house, and my wife and I think I have as good a chance as any. In the past I've sung on Broadway, in summer stock and in resort hotels. But opera has always been my goal, and I'm glad to be here."

Singers like Walker, Shirley and Miss Martin might never have made it to the Met were it not for the elaborate auditioning system which has been set up to sift native talent.

Contract Plus Scholarship

Aspiring singers begin with preliminary auditions and then compete in the regional finals. Regional winners are sent to New York, where they compete for the grand prize—a Met contract plus a $2,000 scholarship. Auditions are open to singers aged 19 to 35. They must be sponsored by a school, college, music club or voice teacher, but no professional experience or finished training is required, and there is no entrance fee. Last year more than 1,500 singers were heard.

Under the direction of Howard J. Hook, Jr., the Met's National Council has established 15 regional audition centers throughout the country. This year Honolulu was included for the first time. Other regional centers are Los Angeles, Seattle, Cleveland, Boston, Denver, Minneapolis, Washington, Kansas City, Chicago, San Antonio, Memphis, New Orleans, Atlanta and New York.

Although to the singers who win, these Metropolitan tournaments of song represent the path to success and to fame, the Met feels that the auditions also have value to those who don't win.

"This country," says John Gutman, assistant general manager, "has a great reservoir of talent we must tap to find the next Leontyne Prices and Richard Tuckers. But just as important, we think, is our duty to help the thousands of fine American singers who may never sing at the Met. We feel that as the leading opera company in America we can do a service to young American singers by giving them encouragement, opportunity, advice and the chance to be heard."

BRINGING UP BABY, HINTS COLLECTED  BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF FIVE

Full of GOOD things!

Yes, life is full of good things when there's a baby in the house. Smiles are unlocked more often. Dreams take on new dimensions. Hearts are enriched, horizons expanded. Like a shaft of sunlight, a baby brings brightness, warmth and beauty to a home. What better reason for dedicating a week to all beautiful babies.

Baby Week (April 27-May 4) is full of good things for your baby. This week and every week your grocer provides countless quality baby products. Why not check your favorite store and see how many wonderful baby week values are waiting for you!

Three-time winners. Gerber Strained and Junior Foods are full of good things, too. Nourishment at its best! Variety galore! Convenience for you! Each food is individually processed to preserve the utmost in nutritive values. All are notable for digestibility, so baby can get full nutritional benefits from them. Over 100 delectable choices, with the Gerber flair for flavor-finesse. For your convenience, Gerber Baby Foods are packed in Wide-Top® jars with Quick-Twist® caps and Shop-Easy labels.

Secrets of mealtime success. There's nothing quite so rewarding to mother as a baby who eats well and enjoys his food. Ways to sweeten eatin' time:

- Service with a smile makes every spoonful taste better. Rotating colors and kinds of food encourages babies to beckon for seconds.
- If baby occasionally frowns on a food, a substitute with similar food values is the answer.

Nourishment par excellence... that's the good word on Gerber Cereals. First, they're enriched with a special kind of iron, easily absorbed by babies. (Seven tablespoons will provide 100% of the recommended daily dietary allowance for iron.) Second, calcium and important B-vitamins are added for further nutritional benefits. Finally, they're rich in the calories babies need for energy. Five varieties to titillate an appetite.

Refreshment unlimited. Now, Gerber offers 9 juice delights, including the new Mixed Fruit Juice, a delicately exotic blend of 5 fruit juices. All are rich in vitamin C, needed for sound gums and body tissues.

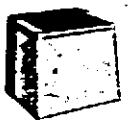

Nourishment!
Variety!
Convenience!

Babies are our business...our only business!® Gerber® Baby Foods

I LIVE IN A HAUNTED HOUSE

BY NICK ROPER

WASHINGTON, D.C.

IF YOU HAD ASKED ME six months ago whether I believed in ghosts, I would have laughed at the idea. But that was before the Roper family moved into Halcyon House. Today, though I have yet to see a specter and am dubious of the supernatural, my answer would be a good deal less emphatic.

As for Mom, when she heard I was going to write this article, she warned: "Do be careful what you say. So far, our ghosts have been friendly. We wouldn't want to make them angry."

Dad remains staunchly skeptical. But try as he will, even he can't explain the footsteps that tread the attics and run up and down the stairs, the lights that switch on and off without human hands, doors that open and shut themselves, ash trays that mysteriously fill with water, the Riddle of the Basement, and the Strange Affair of the Fallen Mirror—not to mention the Voice in the Garden.

My 21-year-old sister Anne and the three girls who share Apartment 1214 will admit they've heard strange things, too. The girls report that every Thursday between 1 and 2 in the morning they hear measured pacing in the attic overhead. The "ghost" is always on schedule.

Our dog, big, kindly old Andy, can't express an opinion, but lately he's shown signs of nerves.

It was late last fall that my parents rented Halcyon House, a huge mansion of George Washington's day, in the old Georgetown section here. Of mellow Georgian brick, it was built in 1783 by Benjamin Stoddert, the first Secretary of the Navy. It boasts 47 rooms, 16 baths, a secret passage once reputedly used for smuggling, as well as nooks, passages, attics and a crypt. If the crypt ever contained bodies, it is empty now. But often I find Andy crouched at the door wailing.

A Voice in the Night

The terraced garden, with its ancient boxwood and majestic ivy-covered oaks, is symbolic of the age of gracious living. From this garden, at 3 A.M., my father swears that he has heard me whistling and calling, "Andy, Andy, come here!" Yet I was in my room at the time, and Andy was securely locked inside.

When we took over Halcyon House (we don't occupy all of it; the wings have become apartments), we were warned by neighbors that it was "slightly haunted." Indeed, a local newspaper reported: "Perhaps the ghost of Benjamin Stoddert is responsible for the occasional mysterious opening and shutting of doors, and one likes to think it is the ghost of a 20th-century owner, Albert Clemmons, which sometimes makes a clatter in the upper stories."

But we pooh-poohed politely.

The Ropers regard themselves as a sophisticated family. My father, George Roper, was a foreign service officer until 1953, now manages investment properties for Georgetown University. My mother Mary, my sister Anne and myself are well educated and traveled. We didn't believe in spooks, and we weren't going to be spooked.

But we may have reckoned without Ben and Bert—long since dead if not gone—and perhaps some of their other friends from among the shades.

For instance, Mom on two or three occasions, while brewing coffee in the kitchen, has heard someone running down the stairs. Convinced it was me, she poured a cup and waited. When I didn't show up, she came upstairs calling me. I was still in my room and hadn't left it.

Night after night, I have heard footsteps in the attic over my room, sometimes on the fire escape outside my French window. They pace steadily, then stop abruptly. The first time this happened, thinking it might be a prowler, I sneaked up into the attic to check. The light was on, but no one was there. The only way out of the attic was through my bedroom. I shrugged off the burning light as an electrical quirk (though the switch worked perfectly) and the footsteps as the normal creakings of an old house. But there were other experiences to come, experiences that leave me baffled.

One night, I descended down the steep basement stairs, flashlight in hand, to check on one of our three furnaces. The basement consists of three rooms, with a light bulb in each, but otherwise resembles an ancient dungeon. At the bottom of the stairs, I turned on the first light by screwing in the bulb. Then I saw light through the door of the third room.

I thought someone had carelessly forgotten to turn off the light. But when I was about a yard from the door of the lighted room, I was suddenly filled with a blood-chilling dread and stopped in my tracks. A weird, apprehensive conviction came over me that someone was in the room, and I couldn't bring myself to take another step. Rather hoarsely I called, "Who's there?"—and at once the light went out. That was enough for me. If a voice had answered "Nobody!" I couldn't have been more convinced.

Grabbing up a stick as a weapon, I beat a hasty retreat to the stairs and yelled up for help. Dad called the police, and within a miraculous three minutes they were pounding down to the rescue. They found nobody in the far room. The light bulb and wall switch both worked perfectly. There was no way out of the room except past me. Yet no one had passed me; the light had been on; and it switched off at my shout—so help me.

Floating on Air

More hair-raising still was the night I found myself floating in mid-air. It was a Thursday night—the night on which our "ghosts" seem most active—and I had gone to bed to read. Suddenly I heard footsteps approaching down the hall. They stopped outside my door, and I waited for one of the family to enter. When nothing happened, I got up and opened the door. No one was there.

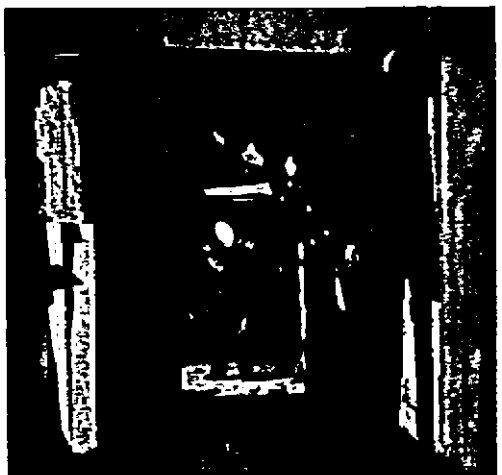

By now, I was fairly accustomed to mysterious footsteps—echoes from the apartments, I kept telling myself, though some of our walls are 30 inches thick. I went back to bed, put out the light. Then the footsteps started again, this time overhead in the attic. As usual, they stopped after a few minutes, and I dozed.

Suddenly I was awakened again by a loud clapping sound only inches from my ear. I shot bolt upright, fumbled frantically for the light switch and turned it on. The room was empty and silent, except for the pounding of my heart. It took me an hour to get to sleep again. Around 3 A.M. I was awakened again, this time by sheer terror. At least I thought I was awake; the feeling was vivid enough.

I was bitterly cold, and to my amazement I couldn't feel the bed under me! With my eyes tightly shut, and breathing heavily, I reached down and felt around. There was nothing beneath me. Then I felt myself gently lowered, and I was on the bed again.

I grabbed for the light and switched it on. The room was still and empty; my covers were stripped completely off; and my window, which had been shut when I went to bed, was wide open. I am convinced it was a nightmare. The bitter cold is easy to account for. But who opened the window? No one else in the family had been in my room, they assured me next morning.

At breakfast, Dad was pretty peeved. He said I had kept him awake until 3 A.M. playing with the dog in the garden. I told him he must have been dreaming. I knew darned well that I had been in my bed—or at least above it—at that time. Mom poured our coffee with a trembling hand. She said she had been kept awake by strange noises. Andy, who sleeps in a room off the kitchen, was still there, not outside in the garden.

Perhaps we were all dreaming.

But the Mystery of the Mirror can't be explained so easily. One evening Dad and I mounted the mirror, a beautiful old-fashioned piece, over a huge stone fireplace in one of the apartments. The apartment has only one door; all the windows are barred by grillwork; and we had the only key to the door. When we left the apartment, locking it after us, the mirror was securely hung from a strong iron spike in the wall.

Next morning, when Dad and I went to have another look at our handiwork, the mirror had apparently fallen and splintered the mantle shelf. Nothing so strange about that? But how come that the mirror, the broken mantle and the iron spike were all stacked neatly in a corner, 10 feet away? Explain that if you can.

The Mysterious 'X'

And also explain why in the center of the mirror, which was quite undamaged, was an "X" mark seemingly drawn by a black crayon. The mark had not been there the previous night. Of that I am positive, because I would have noticed it, and I remember remarking on the mirror's perfect silvery surface. I have tried to remove the mysterious "X" with all kinds of detergents, but it won't go away.

Ash trays that fill with water overnight, as ours sometimes do, could be attributed to Washington's high humidity, though I have never heard anybody else complain of this phenomenon. But the Mystery of the Mirror isn't that easily solved. Nobody—at least no body—could have entered that room after Dad and I left it.

I still won't go so far as to say there are ghosts in Halcyon House. But I will say there are some mighty queer things going on. I am reminded of the old Devonshire prayer:

From ghoulies and ghosties
And long-legged beasties,
And things that go bump in the night,
Good Lord, deliver us.

If we do have ghosts, they're friendly, playful ones. If Ben and Bert have fun romping up and down stairs, clapping hands and switching lights off and on, they haven't hurt us. And having a "haunted house" is something of a status symbol, you must admit. ■

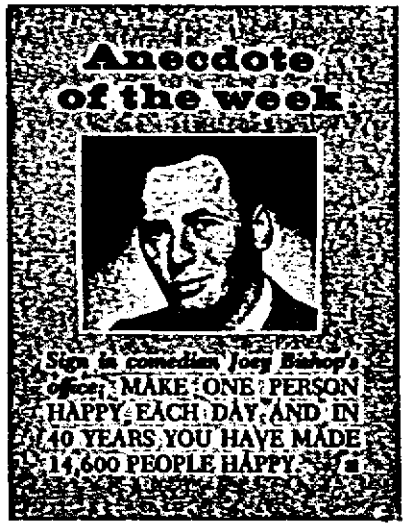

Anne Roper often hears strange footsteps cross ceiling of apartment she and roommates share in "haunted house."

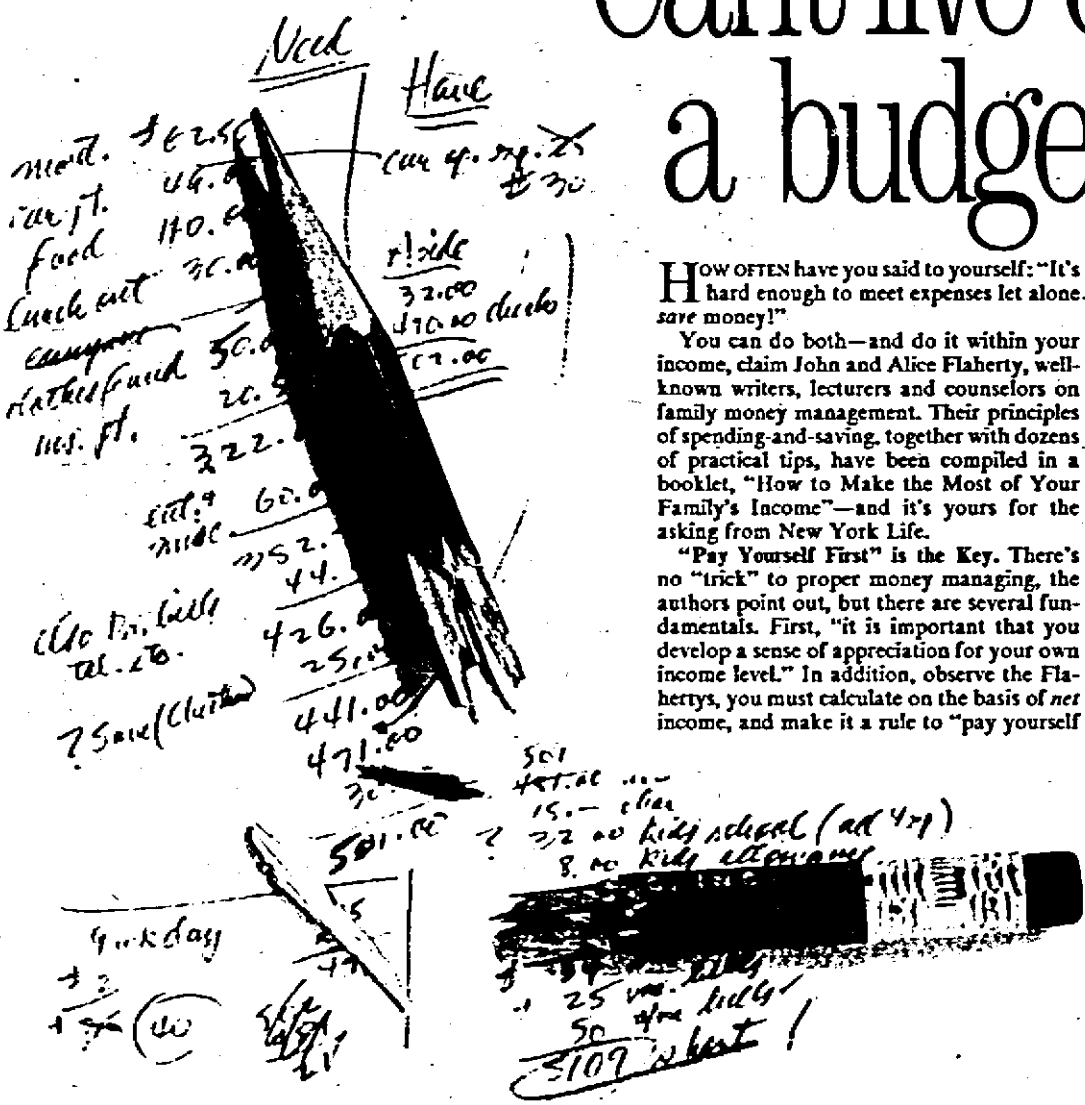

Power of suggestion

by FRITZ COTA

Can't live on a budget?

HOW OFTEN have you said to yourself: "It's hard enough to meet expenses let alone. save money!"

You can do both—and do it within your income, claim John and Alice Flaherty, well-known writers, lecturers and counselors on family money management. Their principles of spending-and-saving, together with dozens of practical tips, have been compiled in a booklet, "How to Make the Most of Your Family's Income"—and it's yours for the asking from New York Life.

"Pay Yourself First" is the Key. There's no "trick" to proper money managing, the authors point out, but there are several fundamentals. First, "it is important that you develop a sense of appreciation for your own income level." In addition, observe the Flahertys, you must calculate on the basis of net income, and make it a rule to "pay yourself first"; that is, include a specified amount of savings, no matter how small, among your regular expenses.

It Takes Planning, Not Depriving. To help you get started, the authors offer a guide, involving only simple arithmetic, that shows you how to "calendarize" expenses systematically, regardless of your income range. However, the Flaherty plan is not a "tighten your belt" system, but flexible enough to include such items as entertainment, gifts, vacations, as well as necessities.

It is not the authors' intention to lead you into a rigid system of budgeting. Instead, their booklet helps you double-check where your money has been going and should enable you to plan better for the future. Their experience and advice should prove most valuable to your family.

Helpful Advice—Yours Free. "How to Make the Most of Your Family's Income" is yours for the asking. Call any New York Life Agent or send in the coupon for your free copy of this interesting and helpful booklet. The New York Life Agent in Your Community is a Good Man to Know.

SUMMER MANEUVERS. The biggest peacetime military maneuvers in the U.S. are scheduled to take place in the Carolinas and Georgia this summer. Approximately 1,000,000 soldiers and airmen will maneuver on 6,000,000 acres in 21 counties from July 21 to August 16.

RECORD SEQUEL. Vaughn Meader, whose First Family record album (a spoof on the Kennedys) sold 4,500,000 copies, is doing a sequel. A poll taken in Minnesota found that 53% of the people polled feel that comedy imitations of the President and his family "are in poor taste," indicating that the sequel may not do as well as the original.

BACHELORS GALORE. Great Britain has a surplus of single men, ages 15 to 45. There are 3,652,000 of these, while single girls in the same age bracket number 2,677,000. Over-all men-women figures show 23,821,000 British women as opposed to 22,448,000 men.

FASTEST RISING. Chronic lung disease is the fastest increasing cause of total disability in the U.S. at the moment. Disability payments for lung disease are now surpassed only by payments for heart disease caused by hardening of the arteries. A decade ago 23.5 deaths per 100,000 were caused by lung cancer, emphysema, bronchitis and pneumonia. Today the death rate from these diseases has leaped up to 44 per 100,000. In Massachusetts, according to Dr. Edward Gaensler at Boston University Medical Center, two out of every three persons applying for lifetime disability benefits claim "shortness of breath" as the reason for their incapacity.

TV PLOT. The TV stations throughout the country are waiting for 20th Century-Fox to launch its advertising campaign on Cleopatra, starring Elizabeth Taylor. As soon as the campaign opens, TV stations will start showing old Elizabeth Taylor movies. NBC already has several lined up for Saturday and Monday nights, when it shows old pictures.

DIAMONDS UP. De Beers Ltd., which handles approximately 80% of the world's diamond sales, has just raised the price for gem diamonds by 5%. The U.S. is the largest market for such diamonds, and the De Beers' economists have notified headquarters that the U.S. traffic can stand the price increase.

KILLERS ON THE LOOSE. Chicago has had 977 gang killings since 1929, virtually all unsolved. Crime syndicate is now reportedly bossed by Momo Salvatore Giancana.

SOVIET VISITORS. In 1962 Russia had 800,000 visitors — 20,000 Frenchmen, 19,000 Britons, 17,000 Americans.

SLOT MACHINES. Tourists who embark at the airport in Las Vegas, Nev., where gambling is legal, may wonder to whom the airport slot machines belong. Originally they were installed by Western Airlines, which discovered that the revenue from the slot machines exceeded the revenue from passenger travel. That was more than a decade ago. The new one-armed bandits account for $190,000 a year, which goes to the county airport — $63,000 more than what the airport collects annually in landing fees.

Milk of Magnesia is the laxative doctors recommend and...

MINT-FLAVORED PHILLIPS' TASTES GREAT

Lots of people think the tangy mint flavor in Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is the best thing that's happened to laxatives in a long time. It makes the world's best laxative the best tasting, too.

Even more important, doctors recommend milk of magnesia. We asked thousands of doctors, "Do you ever recommend milk of magnesia?" The overwhelming majority said, "Yes!"

Like regular Phillips', Mint-Flavored Phillips' is both a laxative and an antacid. It relieves both irregularity and acid indigestion, so gently it's ideal for all ages.

So get Mint-Flavored Phillips' Milk of Magnesia and prove to yourself, the world's best laxative is best tasting, too!
